Re: Childrens' T. V. Programming Ideas

Not all childrens programs need the thorough school-type themes, i.e. achedemia. However, this would be our first choice each and every day over the ridiculous cartoons and shows which depict violence, hatred and outer space fiction junk that litters nearly every station. How about the classics: Little House on the Prairie, Lassie, and other upright movies and programs which promote values, thinking, lessons, etc. If so many parents are screaming for decent family TV programming, why and who insists on making the filth that is put on TV?! Who writes letters supporting the junk currently on T.V.?!! I suspect violence-loving adults once nurtured by silly "harmless" cartoons. This is a generation which cares about their children, as evidenced by ecological awareness, diet consciousness, and entertainment approval. I am urging you to place limitations on the violence shown on television. We all do not gain anything from it! Rather, we are harmed in our minds and perceptions. We must believe in truth and teach our children to do the same.

Please, Stop the Violence on Television!
