Dear Pete,

I think you are very right about the effects of regulation. I do not expect help to come from the FCC, which after all represents the whole constellation of interests which many of us are in broadcasting to combat. And once legalized, our stations will come under the delightful purview of the US congress and executive branches, whose main interest is maintaining their version of law and order, otherwise known as wage slavery at home and militarism abroad. This will have a chilling effect on "law abiding citizens." (Good thing we're not, huh:)

Nevertheless, as you say, we have to go through the stupid ass routine.
