Deborah	Brady	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT CHARLOTTE	FL	33954
Ian	Nadeau	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIDDEFORD	ME	4005
Belinda	Colley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AZALEA	OR	97410

dean	perdue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98502
cathy	webster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAYRE	PA	18840
Ricky	Dillon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITMAN	WV	25652

cathy	haulton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAYRE	PA	18840
Bill	Bash	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOBLESVILLE	IN	46060
Janice	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTMINSTER	CO	80031

kim	sawyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEMENTON	NJ	8021
Ron	Tim	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUCHANAN	NY	10511
Marti	Bowling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELIZABETHTON	TN	37643

Marilyn	Brouwer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49507
Jordan	Peeples	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERRITT ISLAND	FL	32953
alice	waggle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRONT ROYAL	VA	22630

JoAnna	Elliott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MALIBU	CA	90265
priscilla	kinziger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WISCONSIN RAPID	WI	54495
Joyce	Adair	pport efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POTSDAM	NY	13676

Bryan	Pesce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATESBURG	SC	29006
shelley	larvie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68104
Michael	Berryman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXA	AR	72355

Collean	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35209
Jerry	Pudvan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY CITY	MI	48708
Paul	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	29486

Roxy	Roy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402
Thomas	Endicott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAYETTEVILLE	NC	28314
Dianne	Pinkerton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68502

Jamie	Rosenbaum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMISBURG	OH	45342
Denise	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97301
Paula	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RUPERT	ID	83350

Sarah	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNN	MA	1901
Juliana	Liebke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA MESA	CA	91941
JENNIE	SANCHEZ	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLOVIS	CA	93611

Anthony	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELBOURNE	FL	32904
Joe	Potrawski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORKVILLE	IL	60560
Ruby	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43608

Janice	Proctor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	TN	37846
Kim	Land	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRIFFITH	IN	46319
Donald	DeLorme	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLIDAY	FL	34691

Renea	Parrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KIRKLAND	WA	98034
Janet	mack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMITHFIELD	VA	23430
Lloyd	Jenkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WYANDANCH	NY	11798

dino	brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	GA	30032
Brenda	Giampietro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROVIDENCE	RI	2909
Nicole	Ackerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELRAY BEACH	FL	33444

Amanda	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEPORT	CT	6606
JoAnn	cox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTLAND	MI	48186
Erika	Gardner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAPLE SHADE	NJ	8052

Victoria	Tuggey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CULLMAN	AL	35055
Debbie	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUTZ	FL	33549
Emmalee	Jantzi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRANDENBURG	KY	40108

Rebecca	Collins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAURINBURG	NC	28352
Teresa	May	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLATTEKILL	NY	12568
Maggie	Kettlewood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	DE	19709

Laura	Cranford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IRVING	TX	75038
John	Griffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALL RIVER	MA	2721
Mary	Gates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE OSWEGO	OR	97035

Bryan	Schraven	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53209
Michael	Houser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89122
Erika	Para	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	CA	95603

Angelica	Mcadoo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90004
Leticia T	Sepulveda	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLOVIS	CA	93619
Rebecca	Bresland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEASIDE	OR	97138

laurie	schreiber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOYNTON BEACH	FL	33426
Kevin	Cates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVENPORT	IA	52802
Steve	Costa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87120

GREGORY	VACHON	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TITUSVILLE	FL	32796
Karen	Levin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE FOREST	IL	60045
Lu Ann	Jacobsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA FE	TX	77510

Catherine	Colburn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. . Cable companies already charge a high rate to get service	MILLBROOK	AL	36054
Aggie	Keiser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUAKERTOWN	PA	18951
Tony	Briggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	98514

Joseph	Aparicio-Helmberge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLEN ALLEN	VA	23060
Cheryl	Batoon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMERICAN CANYO	CA	94503
Jessica	Ghiglieri	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97219

Sue	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA MIRADA	CA	90638
BRENDA	LEBLANC	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70131
Linda	Neering	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR LAKE	IN	46303

Lisa	Puryear	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH BOSTON	VA	24592
April	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OZARK	AL	36360
adan	soque	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SECAUCUS	NJ	7094

Robert	Haller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79934
joe	may	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34109
Amanda	Perdue	I write to voice my support of efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation, makes it more difficult for Americans to watch they want, and is forcing unnecessary expense upon every cable consumer. Cable companies should not be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60652

Rene	Granado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90063
Shawn	Walton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROANOKE	VA	24017
joseph	colella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KITTERY	ME	3904

Alex	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH LITTLE ROC	AR	72116
Cathy	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYCROSS	GA	31501
Tonia	Lloyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. Monopolies are illegal and unhealthy! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year, some per month, to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23505

Kevin	mulloy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AJO	AZ	85321
Robyn	Bawiec	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH FORK	PA	15956
Juliet	Steitzer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and AND THIS IS ALSO TRUE FOR PHONE COMPANIES THAT OFFER INTERNET SERVICE, FORCING USERS TO RENT MODEMS/ROUTERS. The product we are forced to rent is outdated and doesn\'t contain the filtering/parental controls that we want. No innovation in these products because if the monopoly	OCONOMOWOC	WI	53066

CHERYL	BONDS	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11212
Carol	Bickerstaff	Exposure to better programming and more communication through this medium should not be so restricted by income. As the vastness of the Internet begins to supplant television our nation will have fewer of the programs which have united us for so many years at yhe water cooler or the lunch table. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOXAHATCHEE	FL	33470

Miriam	Mesa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33709
Karey	Logsdon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLEN BURNIE	MD	21060
Christopher	Larsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33185

Theresa	Gorton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ERIE	PA	16510
JANEMARY	VONGDARA	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	CA	92501
Karen	Conklin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOLDEN	CO	80401

Shelly	Zaragoza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURNSVILLE	MN	55306
Ramona	Becker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67220
Craig	Perry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84116

Teresa	Wieber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	98682
anna	kania	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOFFMAN ESTATES	IL	60169
Steve	McClintic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUARTE	CA	91010

Ava	COLEMAN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14622
Frank	Auge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NICHOLS	NY	13812
Jeanine	Demaria	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKY POINT	NY	11778

Annette	Morino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTELOPE	CA	95843
Linda	Griffith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	MI	49236
Mark	Ingham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95350

Henry	Laureano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10036
Deena	Larks	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL CAJON	CA	92020
brian	adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELOIT	WI	53511

Michelle	Zomper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRESTLINE	OH	44827
Linda	Cooper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23237
Erin	Downey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67206

Kim	Kritzman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLINT	MI	48506
Lynn	Austin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	CA	92506
Robert	Pitchford	End this greedy process NOW!!!#UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55421

Kathy	Schneider	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUSSEX	WI	53089
Tuesday	Passmore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST DECATUR	PA	16878
Carrie	Grimmett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOCKTON	CA	95205

Dr. Daniel V.	Eck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OHIO CITY	OH	45874
Dawn	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84120
Michael	Staine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60614

Irene	Vail	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44134
Cheryl	Parker	I am a Senior citizen living aloneI. I am in a wheelchair and can not get out much. My C support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERNON ROCKVILL	CT	6066
drjoyce	stroud	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45229

Terri	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITESBORO	TX	76273
Cheryl	Parker	I am a Senior citizen living aloneI. I am in a wheelchair and can not get out much. My Cable bill is so I I am going to cancel it. Forced to pay for a bundle with most chanels I doon\'t watch. Can\'t I just pay for what I watch? cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERNON ROCKVILL	CT	6066

Patricia	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONSON	MA	1057
Michael	Chapa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EULESS	TX	76039
Blese Andre	Ditto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10002

Paulette	Copperstone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97206
Cynthia	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN	IN	46131
Teena	Austin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCHENRY	IL	60051

John	Gaddis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR CREEK	TX	78612
Paula	Barrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN	OH	45005
Nancy	Tabbert	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLINT	MI	48506

R	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOBILE	AL	36606
Angela	Santiago	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11224
Paula	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALVIN	TX	77511

Kelly	Watson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLEN ROSE	TX	76043
Peggy	Rose	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKHART	IN	46516
Vicki	High	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO HEIGHTS	IL	60411

Yvonne	Tota	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I WOULD ALSO LIKE EACH AREA TO BE ABLE TO CHOOSE FROM MULTIPLE CABLE PROVIDERS, just as we now can choose amongst phone companies. This will encourage REAL competition amongst cable providers to provide innovative services at reasonable costs. Sincerely, Yvonne Tota East Longmeadow MA 413-433-9866	EAST LONGMEADC	MA	1028
Janelle	Lucero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMESTOWN	CA	95327

mike	gjerde	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEMOUNT	MN	55068
Benny	Kelly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENWICH	CT	6830
Deborah	Replogle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43204

Beth	Peal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77083
Bob	Klinkerfuss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRYAN	TX	77801
Rachel	Palmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCADOO	PA	18237

Ron	Ball	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADAMSVILLE	AL	35005
NORA	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SELMA	AL	36703
Beatriz	Romo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	CA	95461

Sandra	Krause	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85710
Dorothy	Agoro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RACINE	WI	53403
Dorothy	Agoro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RACINE	WI	53403

Dorothy	Agoro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RACINE	WI	53403
Lisa	Burris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENFIELD	CT	6082
Gregory	Tewksbury	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45208

Angela	Danner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KIRKLAND	WA	98033
alberto	bocanegra	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60632
Henry	Goudreault	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DESERT HOT SPRIN	CA	92240

Todd	Mccance	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DESERT HOT SPRIN	CA	92240
Marlo	Henderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTHAMPTON	MA	1060
Judith	Ohare	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRESHAM	OR	97080

Patti	Zackular	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	MA	2155
Amy	Biolo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34105
Amber	Woolsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. Not only that, but every single TV you have must have a separate box. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAMPAIGN	IL	61821

Cindy	Ferver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAU CLAIRE	WI	54703
Crystal	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	OR	97501
bonni	miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUPACA	WI	54981

Julius	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIGHLAND PARK	NJ	8904
Dorothy	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELBOURNE BEAC	FL	32951
Josh	Wolfaardt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN	CO	80905

Paulette	Strayham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BILOXI	MS	39532
Darlene	Waldrop	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHLEHEM	PA	18017
Adrian	Miles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23504

Joni	Queen	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34106
Marjorie	Nye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALMYRA	VA	22963
Patricia	Larson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	WA	98002

Kevin	Curler-panter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADA	MI	49301
Bonnie	Egger	I like this. If commercials are paying for content and selling me crap on the tube why am I paying for this, back to when tv was free. I want to chuck the box. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAYSIDE	NY	11361

Darrin	Daniels	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENNSAUKEN	NJ	8110
jon	lindley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARWICK	RI	2886
Katrina	Buskirk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KLAMATH FALLS	OR	97603

Kurt	Kesler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REYNOLDSBURG	OH	43068
Michael	Pedersen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98444
Peter	Diaz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KISSIMMEE	FL	34758

cindy	houde	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKTON	ME	4413
Lynne	Salinas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77089
Cary	Kimberly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84111

Elaine	Tomkinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80906
Sarah	Ellers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85716
Dominic	Damonte	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	9540o

Brendon	Syndennis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE FOREST	CA	92630
Jayne	Mendez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANCHO CUCAMO	CA	91729
Scott	Dunn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CERES	CA	95307

peter	galindo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90033
Stsven	Norman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	OH	45044 shari	Ciolli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80915

Christa	Bates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94103
Kathy	Schwartz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98116
Diane	Lavoie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTHFIELD	CT	6778

Laurie	Hopkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	OR	97504
Brittney	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98665
Teresa	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	KY	42021

Jeff	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOWARD	OH	43028
Rubina	Kazi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89108
Marina	Garrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98103

Ramona	de la Torre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. I pay $119 per month. Ridiculous! This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELL	CA	90202

Patrick	Yockey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. Our cable bill every month is over $200 and we would like to get some or most of it back. We have 2 DVR boxes. 1 box has stuff on it and I don\'t want to get rid of it. The other is an X1 DVR box that allows me to record lots of shows at 1 time. We do have 2 other boxes but they are not DVR boxes. I am also using my cousin\'s Netflix and Hulu accounts to save money. I also take surveys to make money and buy clearance items at the store to save money. Please help all of us get our money back from Comcast because they are overcharging people and I hate when services go out and don\'t refund a lot of money back for this happening. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW KENSINGTON	PA	15068
Richard	Hodapp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KEELER	CA	93530

Catherine	Hoskey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA CLARA	CA	95051
Anita	Storey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33305
Jeffrey	Colling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NIAGARA FALLS	NY	14301

Stacey	Summers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENWELL SPRIN	LA	70739
Cathy	Cravens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	NV	89015
Laureen	Katana	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKINS PARK	PA	19027

Kathy	Cairns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AULTMAN	PA	15713
lynn	colburn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCKLAWAHA	FL	32179
Charles	Kolton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GAINESVILLE	GA	30507

Loretta	Brady	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIBERTY	MO	64068
marilyn	johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46222
Thomas	Griffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKEMOS	MI	48864

zade	darwish	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32805
Sean	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENTON	TX	76201
Jonna	Brewer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70114

Mimi	Bauer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STILWELL	KS	66085
CHRIS M.	HANSEN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDFIELD	SD	57469
Anne	Clarke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	84601

William	Bonhage	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SWEDESBORO	NJ	8085
Vicki	Beck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORONA	CA	92882
Madeleine	Roggenkamp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GEORGETOWN	KY	40324

Henry	Valentine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	36241
Sebby	Abbate	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERTOWN	NY	13601
Corry	Andrews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREEN BAY	WI	54304

Michael	May	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALOS VERDES PEN	CA	90274
Karla	Mackey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEND	OR	97701
Robert	Bianchi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMHURST	NY	11373

Brent	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90066
Thomas	Harju	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46201
Brenda	Nieves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10454

Albert	Blount	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48234
Marcus	Hunter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60619
Joe	Aird	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19134

Dana	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BONNEY LAKE	WA	98391
Samantha	Gent	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	WA	98233
ruby	fuhlrodt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95817

Yina	Lacayo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. This is supposed to be a capitalist economy but with monopolies such as these it\'s just oligarchy. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box .	MIAMI	FL	33182
April	Almeida	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95127
Kathleen	McIntyre-Mullis	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALMA	GA	31510

Javier	Fontanez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILFORD	CT	6460
Saundra	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ISSAQUAH	WA	98027
David	Rain	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARTLESVILLE	OK	74006

Terri	DePrince	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	8028
betty	vallandingham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORENCE	KY	41042
Cody	Chamberlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE	MI	48632

Christina	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLEANS	MA	2653
Rebecca	Provenzano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENWOOD	WV	26031
Nancy	Faber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SWANTON	OH	43558

Cecilia	Engelman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHILLER PARK	IL	60176
Jeannette	Fridley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33714
Janet	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78757

John	Grocut	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WORCESTER	MA	1606
Vance	Baldwin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TYLER	TX	75703
Bonita	Green	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NC	27704

Kathleen	Gearhart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEAVENWORTH	KS	66048
peggy	werner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANNON	WI	53046
Daisy	Jenkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSPORT	TN	37664

Cindy	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONCKS CORNER	SC	29461
Victoria	Pierce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSBURG	IN	46112
Star	Salazar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSKEGON	MI	49442

James	Beshires	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIO RANCHO	NM	87124
randy	mc garry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONMOUTH	OR	97361
Brian	Whitney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHERRY VALLEY	MA	1611

Francine	Dennie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWARK	NY	14513
Oscar	Rangel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMARILLO	TX	79109
Michael	Ruckert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73118

Molly	Dewald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING LAKE	MI	49456
Walter	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STROUDSBURG	PA	18360
cinka	andrassy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93726

April	Hedrick	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FISHERSVILLE	VA	22939
Nancy	Diaferio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER CEN	VT	5255
Frances	Beal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTVILLE	NJ	8093

Michael	Deventet	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROGERS	AR	72758
Debbie	Marrs	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGANTOWN	KY	42261
Ed	Farrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33351

Mark	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST HAVEN	CT	6516
bryan	leakey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40229
Amy	Alexander	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLDEN	NY	14033

Katra	Briel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUMBERTON	NJ	8048
Jennifer	matuz	Please help so the cost would go down!!!!	PUYALLUP	WA	98373
Barbara	Peck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH KINGSTOW	RI	2852
Meg	Jenkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GILFORD	NH	3249

Donald	Montgomery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEVILLE	MI	48066
Sharon	Freeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VINELAND	NJ	8361
Al	De Falco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOTSYLVANIA	VA	22553

		American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.
Vikki	Rehak	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORAM	NY	11727
Danny	Rochel	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELGIN	IL	60123
Danny	Rochel	We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELGIN	IL	60123

Paula	Sobczak	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEVILLE	MI	48066
rick	taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	VA	24153
Arlene	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AVON	MA	2322

Gary	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST MOLINE	IL	61244
Mark	Jacobs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHAPLEIGH	ME	4076
john	smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOTTINGHAM	MD	21236

Alison	Lamastus	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGANTOWN	KY	42261
Joseph	Sedano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMS RIVER	NJ	8755
Tamara	Boring	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	IL	60506

Cindi	Kusk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DIXON	IL	61021
Patricia	santos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST PALM BEACH	FL	33415
Sonya	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLEN PARK	MI	48101

Andy	Rasmussen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHEAT RIDGE	CO	80033
Millard	Bond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDENTON	NC	27932
Teresa	Bond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDENTON	NC	27932

Sally	Shank	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBORO	NC	27409 linda	Wood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21212
Michelr	Feser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLMES	NY	12531

MARILYN	WAYTE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA FALLS	TX	76301
Barbara	Wynn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROMULUS	MI	48174
Tami	Lentz	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING HILL	FL	34609

Sarah	Charton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. New Yorkers pay an average of $100 per MONTH to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11205
Nichole	Bowlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PELL CITY	AL	35125
nathan	gambee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHELBYVILLE	MI	49344

Ann	Brodek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RACINE	WI	53403
Samantha	Coole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23507
Linda	Cullen Fry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARWICK	RI	2889

Andrea	Snyder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HICKORY	NC	28602
Annemarie	Klumb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER GARDEN	FL	34787
Bernice	Hendricks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78245

Mark	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PERU	IN	46970
Patti	Harvey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70123
Erik	Buckley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	NY	10941

Cheryl	Gebeau	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MENTOR	OH	44060
Donna	Cox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAVANNAH	GA	31419
Debra	Cotter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	ME	4055

Cathy	Sibley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLUEFIELD	WV	24701
Linda	Gangai	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARLISLE	PA	17015
Peggy	Burkey	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERSAILLES	IN	47042

Paul	Tooker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANBURY	CT	6811
Jeffrey	Fancher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERS	CT	6071
Terry	Utter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLOUD	MN	56304

Bill	Stever	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINDENHURST	NY	11757
JoAnne	Paulo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SWANSEA	MA	2777
Tereasa	Schnetter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE STEVENS	WA	98258

Denise	Goodson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GWYNN OAK	MD	21207
Richard	Baran	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LARGO	FL	33773
robin	redden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	MI	48329

Whitney	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER PARK	FL	32792
daniel	slaughter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MATTESON	IL	60443
Alice	Burrows	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NARRAGANSETT	RI	2882

Leah	Moss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTSVILLE	AL	35811
Lisa	Cubeiro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANAHAWKIN	NJ	8050
Martha	Coby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDISON	NJ	8817

Omar	Charo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROBSTOWN	TX	78380
Doreen	Buck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAVARRE	FL	32566
ludia	dejesus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34116

karen	HETU	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. WAY OVERDUE	NEW BEDFORD	MA	2740
Rosemarie	BaragaÃ±a	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORNELIUS	NC	28031
Kathy	Felt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST SANDWICH	MA	2537

GREGORY	HARRISON	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	22551
Mike	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUFFERN	NY	10901
Janine	DeCook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH CHILI	NY	14514 mark	moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT SMITH	AR	72901

Scott	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MURRELLS INLET	SC	29576
Robert	Serrano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19125

Talwin	Brunson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27107
Cindy	Mostes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT CLEMENS	MI	48043
Lisa	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT	MI	48166

Cathy	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEESBURG	FL	34748
Lester	Sykes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ZION	IL	60099
Patricia	Bush	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33073

lilach	man	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNDHURST	NJ	7071
Jennifer	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUINCY	MA	2170
James	Pritchard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98512

William	Fitzpatrick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEWOOD	CA	90713
Diane	Molinari	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWEGO	NY	13827
Michael	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89148

Guy	Vardeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89148
Judith	Ferris	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOMFIELD	CO	80021
Debi	Mass	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33319

Tyler	Price	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVIS	CA	95616
John	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERVILLE	NJ	8876
James	Barrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRESHAM	OR	97080

Susan	Maphis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH EAST	MD	21901
Mary	Ferrier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75212
Anthony	Symonette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33150

Armida	Ruth	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AVALON	CA	90704
Leslye	Sneider	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87107
Andrew	DeLong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VILLAS	NJ	8251

Crystal	Ortiz	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78757
Martin	Schmalenbach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARICOPA	AZ	85138
Mike	Schuster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOXBORO	MA	2035

Michael	Barnes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEARL CITY	IL	61062
dan	corcoran	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAPLE LAKE	MN	55358
Dena	Mccune	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40229

Rich	Ottenstroer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNION	NJ	7083
MARY	KNOUS	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	IN	46733
Amber	Yates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KATY	TX	77449

Evelyn	Woods	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94122
mary jo	burger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HEPHZIBAH	GA	30815
Arturo	Oliva	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	33412

alina	yllanes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33312
jason	duehr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63116
DEE	FRYE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	WV	26181

Naomi	Suhl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUEENS VILLAGE	NY	11427
Abbigail	Elliott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTVILLE	IN	46391
Ralph	Church	Cable is overpriced they are price gouging. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97266

David	Gualtieri	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I agree they need to stop all tbs today are cable ready plus manor networks should be grew we shouldn\'t have to pay for those channels.	FEASTERVILLE TRE\	PA	19053
Mary	Cadigan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMS RIVER	NJ	8753
Dana	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ERIE	PA	16508

Pam	Giardino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSTOWN	NY	12095
Brian	Greenfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH JUDSON	IN	46366
Connie	Balderas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEER PARK	TX	77536

Jennifer	Cassidy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLEVOIX	MI	49720
Fidel	Patino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON HEIGHTS	NY	11372
Adrianne	Rosanova	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OTTAWA	IL	61350

Eric	Browning	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77082
Tammy	Emswiler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SELLERSVILLE	PA	18960
sherri	mercer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23452

Kevin	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW LONDON	CT	6320
Joan	Reyes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVONIA	MI	48152
Penelope	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR CREEK	TX	78612

Chelsea	Fuentes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ODESSA	TX	79763
Valley	Pickren	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23236
Katrinka	Bryant	American consumers pay an average of $1248.00 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHURCH HILL	TN	37642

Cindy	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93790
Jill	Thibdeau	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PAWCATUCK	CT	6379 mary	boyle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLD SPRING	NY	10516

Robert	kitchen	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98042
Katrinka	Bryant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $1860.00 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHURCH HILL	TN	37642
Brittany	Poling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13212

Devin	Willison	cable bills have become a nightmare...we used to channels 2-13 and commercials were on to pay the way to the airways, now we pay through the nose for cable and half of it is commercials... I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OTIS ORCHARDS	WA	99027
Brian	Greenfield	he stole everything i had payed for in the beginning and Now there charging the shit out of me plus they want there box back with everything i payed for and the movies i set in the dvr i payed for them its theft ,period American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH JUDSON	IN	46366

John	Bodri	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMBLER	PA	19002
Devon	Osborne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HURST	TX	76053
Ken	Simons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVERTON	OR	97078

Deborah	Harrison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFORD	GA	30518
Jasmine	Maria	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBRIDGE	NJ	7095
Kenneth	Ruffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINDEN	NC	28356

John	Kveraga	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEVERLY	MA	1915
Cheranna	Yelle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURKBURNETT	TX	76354
Brett	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WYNANTSKILL	NY	12198

Latasha	Perkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60619
Bryan	Dwyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAYLING	MI	49738
Teresa	Boone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARAGOULD	AR	72450

dianne	broman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEVILLE	MN	55044
Michael	Womack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32809
Cynthia	Moyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENVILLE	PA	16125

Theresa	Marino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CULVER CITY	CA	90230
Robert	VanWagner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKHURST	NJ	7755
Jamhar	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SICKLERVILLE	NJ	8081

Myra	Webb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COPPERHILL	TN	37317
Dan	Sullivan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEVERLY	MA	1915
Ronda	Kisner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55448

patricia	prince	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLAHASSEE	FL	32303
Elin	Derfler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOYNTON BEACH	FL	33435
Charles	Guthrie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON TOWNSH	MI	48038

Gerard	McFarland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL SOBRANTE	CA	94803
Lisa	Chappel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SNOVER	MI	48472
Natalie	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	WA	98092

James	Irving	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CALAIS	ME	4619
robin	brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLESON	TX	76028
Lauren	Byrne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	80203

Tina	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT SMITH	AR	72901
Kevin	Dunham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST NEW YORK	NJ	7093
Fran	Lynch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUNENBURG	MA	1462

Rena	Canary	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWENSBORO	KY	42301
David	Gibson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLOMA	MI	49038
Barb	Butterworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	CO	80027

Deborah	Walk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84123
Indira	Brommer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37931
Terri	Waterman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AZLE	TX	76020

John	Lorek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK LAWN	IL	60453
Claire	LaValley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERRILL	WI	54452
ELIZABETH	PHELAN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLLEGEVILLE	PA	19426

Fran	Nease	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	CA	94519
Bradley	Dempsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WENATCHEE	WA	98801
Carla	Kennedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MC CALLA	AL	35111

Serpil	CelikRamsay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TITUSVILLE	FL	32780
Peter	Swanson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRIVITZ	WI	54114
Diane	Blackwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	3764

JoAnna	Bosford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENS FALLS	NY	12801
Eboni	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTIC BEACH	FL	32233
Cindy	McNamara	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHEBOYGAN	WI	53081

Charles	D\'Elia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95926
kathy	wierzbinski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK LAWN	IL	60453
Jim	Hassett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32821

Misty	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ACWORTH	GA	30101
Johany	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARTOW	FL	33830
Donna	Baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTRALIA	MO	65240

Jackie	Mesarick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73101
Denise	Schrieber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KIRKLAND	IL	60146
Jane	MacRae	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARASOTA	FL	34231

Jared	Hunter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNCHBURG	VA	24502
Tim	Misiewicz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PADUCAH	KY	42003
Susan	Kessler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERO BEACH	FL	32962

Vicki	Rigsby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14622
Mark	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STAFFORD SPRING	CT	6076
Jake	Wyatt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESA	AZ	85210

Beth	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. In addition boxes cost electricity and that is a waste of our environmental resources Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGTON	MN	55024
Kristine	Walkley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68104
Thomas	Wilkinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49505

Lesley	Woodward	I no longer subscribe to cable. It\'s just paying for trash! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKY RIVER	OH	44116
Larinda	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTREVILLE	VA	20120
Joanne	Alvergue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLEASANTON	CA	94566

Charles	Goings	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11215
Patrie	Larsen	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST HARTFORD	CT	6110
David	Means	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	98126

cheryl	clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98106
James	Bannerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. I would prefer to be able to stream on my computer or other device and not need a box. Additionally, there should be another way to stream content than just using a "cable" provider. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMBLER	PA	19002
Virginia	Anziani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	NC	28027

Bonnie	Phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YUCCA VALLEY	CA	92284
Edeltress	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSKEGON	MI	49442
Rebecca	Willeford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64138

Jane	Reading	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85050
Rogerio	Da Silva	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30350
Tina	West	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MC DONALD	OH	44437

Richard	Sklar	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95355
Sarai	Arenas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA FE	NM	87507
Cathy	Hennessy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREVARD	NC	28712

George	Cassidy	I for one, am tired of my cable company (Comcast) constantly raising prices then give you the big company attitude when you call and have to lose more channels to bring price back down. I am disabled living on fixed income. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37924
Judith	Scherff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOPEKA	KS	66601

Sharon	Sullivan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSION	KS	66205
Janet	Kippenbrock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT VERNON	IN	47620
Karen	Richard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING	TX	77389

Rhonda	Rayman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST PEORIA	IL	61611
Nydia	Rivera-Rivera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	33801
Arrielle	Brown	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LADSON	SC	29456

Alex	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23451
lori	woods	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRESTVIEW	FL	32539
Jason	Medalis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLAND PARK	IL	60462

Brad	Avis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDEN CITY	MI	48135
Tara	Sweeney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEEHAWKEN	NJ	7086
Abbie	Lane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30360

ME	Benedict	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15224
Sandy	Santos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLETON	CO	80128
Guyton	Thorne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER	MA	1944

Robert	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10462
Kathy	Bey	I support efforts the #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHLAND	VA	23005
James	Brinks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49505

Maeryn	Boo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODLAND	CA	95695
Brenda	Montgomery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRESTVIEW	FL	32539
Bill	Atkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARASOTA	FL	34239

Suzanne	Frisbee	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14626
Brandi	Rasmussen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55102
Christine	Gleeson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LADY LAKE	FL	32159

Jonathan	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CHARLES	MO	63301
michelle	ridgers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLYMOUTH	NH	3264
Tom	Haas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73112

mike	davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSBORO	OR	97123
Patricia	Hunt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	IL	62704
liz	nef	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90802

donna	lopatka	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	48147
Cayce	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVIS	CA	95616
Linda	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOVI	MI	48377

Dorothy	Bassett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH CHATHAM	MA	2659
Lauren	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SILVERDALE	WA	98383
Veronica	Macdonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. My 87-year old mother has no other entertainment during the day. She looks forward to watching tv, yet struggles to pay for the privilege which used to be "free." American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30350

Annette	Gonzales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80525
Cynthia	Watson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APEX	NC	27539
Tammy	Peters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELDORADO	WI	54932

Christine	Curry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOLIET	IL	60431
Amanda	Chapman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97229
Alexis	LaMere	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELON	NC	27244

Erin	Underwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARVEY	LA	70058
Ryan	Sherman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FISH CREEK	WI	54212
Samantha	Kushner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90046

Jean	Olavarria	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33334
Leland	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHEVILLE	NC	28801
john	roberson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	MN	55327

b	little	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAFTON	PA	18464
Robert	Treacy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10457
Sean	Green	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANBURY	TX	76049

Vicki	De Vore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94619
Christie	DeCanio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOMOSASSA	FL	34446
Janet	Llerena	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT MYERS	FL	33908

Stuart	Pitman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCMINNVILLE	OR	97128
Julian	Abrego	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOPKINS	MN	55343
Mike	Aronson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIGHTON	MA	2135

carla	fitch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	PA	17057
Patrick	Bauer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLATHE	KS	66062
Chris	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98225

Barbara	Alden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOLIVAR	MO	65613
Holly	OBrien	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLBROOK	NY	11741
Tabitha	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLAREMORE	OK	74017

Kristy	Crawford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. I can no longer afford to watch most tv programs! Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICK	MD	21704
Joseph	Kuehl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM BAY	FL	32909
Melissa	Ketelsen	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89144

Beth	Porter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNTAIN HOME	AR	72653
Tina	Prophet	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	OH	44704
Maria	Cortti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN LORENZO	CA	94580

Irene	Ensley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KILLEEN	TX	76541
Donna	Vitagliano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUINCY	MA	2169
Stephen	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KATY	TX	77450

Yaah	Abichandani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	NY	12203
GARY	RUBIN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELIZABETH	NJ	7208
Buddy	Hebert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT NECHES	TX	77651

Mariann	Brough	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	18074
Christine	Kamalic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLBROOK	NY	11741
Deanna	DeLoach	Cable companies right now in effect have a monopoly. I literally have only one option if I want legal TV access at my home. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60640

Nancy	OLeary	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92122
Lisa	Dash	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICHESTER	NY	12416
Diana	Rivera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALACHUA	FL	32615

Sara	Wottawa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGVILLE	NY	11738
Jarrod	Clausel	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHOREWOOD	IL	60404
Michelle	Cecil	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HODGEN	OK	74939

Jon	Coffey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78250
Dianna	Tomlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THOMPSONS STAT	TN	37179
Erin	Holbert	Comcast charges $10 for each box in my house that is $30 a month ridiculousI support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	IN	47374

Joy	Vance	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALINAS	CA	93907
David	Pluska	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINCHESTER	VA	22601
Samantha	Simpson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDWARDSVILLE	IL	62025

Donald	Simpson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDWARDSVILLE	IL	62025
Philip	Morton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AGOURA HILLS	CA	91301
Aaron	Daviau	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BILLINGS	MT	59101

Jorge	Gomez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.We pay too much money just to watch tv at the end of the year because we dont have any other choice, THAT IS TO MUCH MONEY FROM OUR POCKETS , WE NEED OTHER OPTIONS NOW.cable companyies Have a MONOPOLY AND WE COULDNT CHOICE SOMETHING DIFFERENT BECAUSE THE EXISTENT LAWS DONT ALOW US TO TAKE OTHER CHOICES AND WE SPEND SO MUCH MONEY TO GET CABLE AND INTERNET BECAUSE THEY OWN IT.THAT KILLS OUR FAMILIAR ECONOMY	MIAMI	FL	33125
Brittany	Riccio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RONKONKOMA	NY	11779

Darla	Truitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVERTON	OR	97078
David	Durham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHARPTOWN	MD	21861
Ana	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST HARTFORD	CT	6117

Andrew	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DERWOOD	MD	20855
Kathy	Clayton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLATWOODS	KY	41139
Douglas R.	Greely	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	94404

Betty	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELLENTON	FL	34222
Debra	Curry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUSTIN	CA	92780
Erin	Handy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE BEA	FL	32250

Michael	Berry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLYTHEVILLE	AR	72315
neil	Shields	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERLIN	MD	21811
Anne-Barrie	Hunter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	CO	80027

JERRED	COOK	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLAREMORE	OK	74017
Amanda	Dabbous	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING HILL	FL	34606
Arron	Powell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PADUCAH	KY	42003

kathy	peugh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMILTON	MI	49419
Cameron	Corley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYNESVILLE	NC	28786
Everett	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STERLING HEIGHTS	MI	48313

Jacqueline	Bailey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKSVILLE	FL	34602
Lori	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63104
Jeffrey	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI BEACH	FL	33141

Joseph	Strandberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAYLOR	MI	48180
Sandra	taft	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKHART	IN	46517
Sadie	McFarlane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94112

Melanie	Peterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84120
Heather	Hudzik	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVILLE	IL	62220
Joanne	McCardle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATON ROUGE	LA	70806

Sylvia	Meyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33020
George E	Grant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANORVILLE	NY	11949
Tim	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98101

Alfonso	Estrada	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75244
Susan	Ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSON	MD	21755
Brandon	Ruse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMBRIDGE	MA	2140

Yvonne	Jensen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CUMMING	GA	30040
Jackie	Mokres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GILROY	CA	95020
patrick	la rose	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORWOOD	NY	13668

Theresa	Brewer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH MIAMI BEA	FL	33160
Deborah	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97301
steve	cillian	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEWOOD	WA	98499

Mike	Blackwell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEDRO WOOLLEY	WA	98284
Kally	Goschke	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	MN	56044
Karen	Svonkin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SELDEN	NY	11784

Janiclaire	Comstock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH PALM BEA(	FL	33408
William	White Sr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIETTA	OH	45750
Rickey	Calvert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREAT BEND	KS	67530

jorge	vilaro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD GARD	NY	11413
Jeanne	Mursch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGAME	CA	94010
KAREN	HARLAN	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	9.1E+08

Melody	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARLEM	MT	59526
John	Stine	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	NY	13021
Jay	Kondrk	Stop the monopoly. It\'s UNAMERICAN I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOMOSASSA	FL	34446

brenda	thrush	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	NC	27215
Alan	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90808
Clarence	Bell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40211

mike	zunner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST AMHERST	NY	14051
Morgan	Kirkham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMINGTON	IL	61704
Misty	Maklad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HANNIBAL	MO	63401

Marwa	Hamze	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32819
shelly	parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HELENA	MT	59602
Catherine	Sloan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENDALE	WI	53129

Heather	Gladle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UTICA	NY	13502
Denise	Black	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA MARIA	CA	93454
Matthew	Rubinoff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PIERMONT	NY	10968

Diane	Winkler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLOVER	WI	54467
Annette	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AVONDALE	AZ	85392
frank	gentile	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	NH	3079

Terri	Yancy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLTON	CA	92324
Curtis	Trahan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33487
Jay	Rechek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIPON	WI	54971

Edwin	Ashurst	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUWANEE	GA	30024
Barbara	Rosoff	I no longer watch television because I do not wish to pay to watch such awful shows. The radio provides entertainment and news and thus far, it is free to the consumer. The advertisers pay as they should. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. To	ELVERSON	PA	19520

Michael	Greenberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST BARNSTABLE	MA	2668
Kim	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99207
eva	hubbard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVILLE	MI	48111

Tracy	Arthur	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROXBURY	MA	2119
Nicholas	Beeman	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DULUTH	MN	55803
Wendy	Chance	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAND SPRINGS	OK	74063

Andrew	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	80303
patricia	rodrigues	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BERN	NC	28562
carmen	montufar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURG	CA	94565

Dustin	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WELLSVILLE	KS	66092
Cissy	Otis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLOQUET	MN	55720
Beverly	Hart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALEXANDRIA	VA	22315

Gretchen	Hoffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUCKEYE	AZ	85326
Tonia	Ollerton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UVALDE	TX	78801
Frances	Dennis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOLDSBORO	NC	27534

sabra	schnur	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN LEANDRO	CA	94577
Darrel	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OH	45506
Stacy	Niemann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATTLE CREEK	MI	49017

Linda	Basham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OR	97478
Lois	McConnell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PAINTED POST	NY	14870
Debora	Cox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97219

Celeste	Parks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANNAPOLIS	NC	28083
sandra	ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURAND	MI	48429
C L	Wagner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROMULUS	MI	48174

Angela	Keller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46221
Teresa	Sparrow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMER	AL	36587
Hillary	Holdsworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRAVERSE CITY	MI	49684

A	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33029
Barry	FAgan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95350
melanie	Rincon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ROSA	CA	95401

Melanie	Mongillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKEECHOBEE	FL	34974
Jeffrey	Haywood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76103
Cheryl	Tieso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	IA	52732

Mike	Weaver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUSCALOOSA	AL	35404
Kathryn	Elsayed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	8404

Patricia	Correia	Cable TV is outrageously expensive and paying a fee FOREVER to "rent" a box is another ridiculous "feature." TOTAL RIP OFF!!! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SWAMPSCOTT	MA	1907
Michelle	Wahl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOULDER CREEK	CA	95006
mary	svoboda	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRAINERD	MN	56401

Tim	Brents	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAYETTEVILLE	AR	72701
Jaime	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSVILLE	TX	78526
Jeanette	Stigen-Larsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUTTE	MT	59701

Jamie	pogue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MABANK	TX	75147
George	Albright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPANAWAY	WA	98387
Ivy	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23462

Anderson	Hawkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60643
Sharon	Fearn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTON	IL	62002
Marcia	Hardin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43623

Anita	Hobley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARALAND	AL	36571
Samantha	Shank	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPE	AZ	85283
Ann	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEJO	CA	94590

Luz	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10455
Heather	Mack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAINES	OR	97833
Curtis	Pettyjohn	The "greatest" country in the world has created the worst system. Fix it! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERWYN	IL	60402

Melissa	Koth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELGIN	IL	60120
Barbara	Arnold	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGVILLE	NY	11738
terry	snook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOPEKA	KS	66609

Kirk	Larsen	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97213
Ryan	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLIFTON PARK	NY	12065
Jose	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33647

Christine	Leland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH SAN FRANC	CA	94080
Tim	Stapleton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEKIN	IL	61554
Amy	Leitzen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSCOE	IL	61073

Ryan	Canales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78260
g anthony	cervantes	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	84104
JOSE	DELEON	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19149

George	Waskas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKAWAY	NJ	7866
Linda	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GAS CITY	IN	46933
Cindy	Kantor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TARBORO	NC	27886

Rebecca	Lasarge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85710
Barbara	McElroy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RUMNEY	NH	3266
Jan	Guilliams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK RIDGE	TN	37830

David	Nielsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVERTON	OR	97008
Gena	Froster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THREE RIVERS	MI	49093
joseph	long	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEWOOD	WA	98498

Marion	Hamilton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWTON	OK	73505
beverly	haulmark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33702
Donald	Bloom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKSVILLE	FL	34613

Jonathan	Brackett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MECHANICSVILLE	VA	23111
Jill	Igl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OREGON	WI	53575
Keith	Rose	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55129

Matthew	Levine	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON	NY	11743
dean	rouch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEVILLE	IN	46536
Ronna	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELK GROVE VILLAG	IL	60007

vanessa	makieh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUNCIE	IN	47303
MICHELE	GALPIN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMIRA	NY	14904
Cesar	Colindres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLIDAY	FL	34691

Maureen	French	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10025
jackie	Pandey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEARWATER BEA(	FL	33767
Andrew	Seeger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	WI	53525

Corey	Camobell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COULTER	IA	50431
Richard	Perreault	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERBURY	CT	6704
Robert	Zawrotny	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE	CA	92869

T	Cam	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENNEDALE	TX	76060
Nilda	Esteban	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANCHO PALOS VE	CA	90275
Tim	Knights	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BYRON	MI	48418

Sheri	Thomson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALMER	AK	99645
August	Ricciardi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST ORANGE	NJ	7052
Pamela	coleman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	CT	6385

Jennifer	Sanjurjo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37920
Elizabeth	Wingfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27609
Tene	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22407

rodney	weller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISON	MI	48625
Leslie	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHAUMBURG	IL	60194
Kate	Rundle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55437

Joshua	Appleton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASCO	ME	4015
suzanne	mullany	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PISCATAWAY	NJ	8854
Sam	Schiller	I support ALL efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want, especially with the Cox Corporation in AZ! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year, if not more, to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEORIA	AZ	85345

Donald D	Johnson Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33324
YVONNE	BONNER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CATONSVILLE	MD	21228
Mark	Wodarczyk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLAND PARK	IL	60462

Kelly	Edmonds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHEPHERDSTOWN	WV	25443
April	Sutis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95350
William	Binion	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78723

Jason	Grabill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTINSBURG	WV	25403
Michael	Wyese	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YPSILANTI	MI	48198
Stevi	McGinnis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGMAN	KS	67068

Linda	Bendet	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10003
Andrea	Howard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95821
Steve	Holmberg	consumer choice, and lifts up consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80207

Mandy	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAYMORE	MO	64083
Fred	Leyland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14225
Tracy	Czysz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLOW SPRING	NC	27592

James	Holmes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAIN CITY	OH	43064
Brian	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERVILLE	NJ	8876
Vicky	Jesse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERRITT ISLAND	FL	32952

Maggie	Collin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIGNAL HILL	CA	90755
Fred	Green	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYLAND	MI	49348
Raquel	Silva	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH FORT MYEI	FL	33903

Ed	Dye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATHENS	GA	30606
Kim	Kolbe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARE	MI	48617
Adam	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARCHBALD	PA	18403

Eric	Edelman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	10128
Frances	DeLuca	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13212
Lelan	Carpenter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10037

Cheryl	Nethery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EMPIRE	CO	80438
Eunice	Gamez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ESCONDIDO	CA	92025
Cindy	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	15602

Amanda	Romero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80221
Deena	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMBRIDGE	MA	2238
BECKY	REGNIER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHARON	TN	38255

Lisa	Chester	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSKEGON	MI	49441
Barbara	Compton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMARILLO	TX	79118
Maria	Flengas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHESAPEAKE	VA	23320

Lynn	Hayes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLEBORO	MA	2346
Yvette	miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENUMCLAW	WA	98022
PIER	BLANDON	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	CA	94804

Christine	Brush	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87109
Joshua	Lambright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILAN	MI	48160
Alice	Timmons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENFIELD	MA	1301

Susan	Gallagher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55105
Jeffrey	Matucha	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERKELEY	CA	94707
Sharon	Bulger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HERSEY	MI	49639

Laurel	Stephens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I am sick and tired sending these people $225 a month every month for 30 years... $50 of that is box rent... I\'ve had the 2 boxes for 2 years... I\'ve paid $1200 for $500 worth of boxes... Please make this stop. Mediacom is the only one with a big enough, reliable Internet service, so no other service choices...	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52402
Dee	Clifton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	92335

James	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KULPMONT	PA	17834
David	Price	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAGINAW	MI	48603
Joni	Dolniak	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CABOT	PA	16023

Amy	Hemming	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGANVILLE	NJ	7751
Adrian	Turner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREMONT	CA	94538
Matthew	Lacoss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	CT	6385

Joseph	Connor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWBURY	MA	1951
Dabney	Pennybacker	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHATTANOOGA	TN	37415
Patricia	Najafabafi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15205

Roderic	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLAIR SHOR	MI	48080
kim	ferguson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSPORT	TN	37664
Jennifer	Martinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55118

William	Munson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POCATELLO	ID	83204
Corinne	Maloney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAUNTON	MA	2780
Clint	Dukes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76148

Vance	Ayres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KING GEORGE	VA	22485
Lisa	Williams	Families on limited budgets shouldn\'t be nickled and dimed by cable service providers. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	MD	21046
Loren	Mosley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44306

David	Pearson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTON	IL	62002
Bruce	Eickholdt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITMORE LAKE	MI	48189
Angel	Sosa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROVIDENCE	RI	2909

Nathan	Ewing	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Charter (Spectrum) Services has forced its customers to pay for a cable box or go without adequate televisions services. In my area the mountains and hills make using antennas ineffective unless they are massive. Their boxes also seems to prevent any recording of shows using a VHS or DVD-R device, whereas Charter offers their own DVR services for additional monthly charges.	ROGERSVILLE	TN	37857
Ryan	Bane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNDONVILLE	NY	14098

Sharon	Kessler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	PA	15074
John	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LACEY	WA	98503
cynthia	jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT VERNON	WA	98273

Cha	Xiong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55117
Max	Mayorga	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90020
Tom	Birnbaum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	CT	6385

mark	canant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OVERLAND PARK	KS	66210
Wesley	McCormick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODLAND HILLS	CA	91364
Delores	Tollas	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENDALE HEIGHT	IL	60139

dana	berkley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	NY	12206
Allison	Groves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMBRIA	CA	93428
Norman	Cormier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	ME	4963

Maria	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUNDALK	MD	21222
JAMES	DROUNETTE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98225
MICHAEL	WOOMERT	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	READING	PA	19604

Faith	Freedom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT PLEASANT	MI	48858
Ainsley	Hauser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOLIET	IL	60436
Cynthia	Hampton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GALAX	VA	24333

Jeff	Hicks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90032
Gabriel	Rozon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10463
James	Bradshaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELRAY BEACH	FL	33484

Tamika	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASBURY PARK	NJ	7712
Jennifer	Wells	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIGHTON	MA	2135
Chris	Barragan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90032

Marianne	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76114
Sheila	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLEN BURNIE	MD	21061
elton	holt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MICHIGAN CITY	IN	46360

Rick	DeSoto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLEY	CA	94561
Shawn	Broderick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMESBURY	MA	1913
Linda	Pinsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98115

Thomas	Learnihan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89113
Mark	Benford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. This was a primary driver in me ending my subscription to cable. This is a common thread in my conversations with other people who have unplugged. Cable companies should support this innovation as it will provide an avenue for them to stay relevant beyond being broadband (and I use that term loosely) providers.	AURORA	CO	80013

Mark	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOPKINS	MN	55305
Katrina	Ben Nacer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARVARD	IL	60033
Laura	Stoiber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INTERNATIONAL F/	MN	56649

bernard	elias	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDONDO BEACH	CA	90278
Phillip	Murray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT MYERS	FL	33913
Gwenlyn	Lamb	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALATKA	FL	32177

David	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANANDAIGUA	NY	14424
David	Somers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORK	PA	17403
Karen	Christofi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEWATER	MA	2324

Laurel	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32810
Demetria	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77026
Tina	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEASIDE	OR	97138

Patricia	Carr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARLAND	TX	75040
JoAnn	Porter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELIZABETHTOWN	KY	42701
Donald	Hanes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68106

Jennifer	Haney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANVILLE	VA	24540
Arthur	Beaulieu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LARGO	FL	33771
T	Henderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Long over due!	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87107

Maria	Riley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60634
Myrna	Willerton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ZEELAND	MI	49464
STANLEY	AMDITIS	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27612

Kelly	Gutowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELYRIA	OH	44035
Craig	Perkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98155
Clifton	Swift	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANVILLE	VA	24541

Susan	Lauderback	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PARIS	OH	43072
Joel	Easton	Americans are suffering from unfair monopolies in their neighborhoods where there is no competition between providers of cable. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	CA	91104

Aaron	Snyder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARDMORE	OK	73401
P Edward	Murray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POTTSTOWN	PA	19464
JAMES	MATTINGLY	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	KY	40509

Leslie	Day	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SURGOINSVILLE	TN	37873
Cathy	Szewc	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALLINGTON	NJ	7057
karen	o\'malley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INTERLACHEN	FL	32148

Tanika P	Meeks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	6.1E+08
sande	carr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87122
M	Albaghdadi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IOWA CITY	IA	52245

Marion	Gallagher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW CASTLE	DE	19720
Sharon	Little	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	METUCHEN	NJ	8840
Kurt	Wertz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSPORT	PA	17702

James	Holland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAPLE SHADE	NJ	8052
Michele	Prohigh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEY STREAM	NY	11581
linda	lawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT RICHEY	FL	34668

Stephanie	Richie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75234
Thomas	O\'toole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	NY	13021
Rafael	Tejada	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESLEY CHAPEL	FL	33545

Chris	Enloe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STEELVILLE	MO	65565
Joah	Garrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HATFIELD	PA	19440
Pamela	Norton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29210

Deborah	Nichols	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HELENA	AL	35080
Kevin	Tharp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ROSA	CA	95404
bruce	fleet	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98229

Rebecca	Willis-Coffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAYMOND	ME	4071
Dave	Maher	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEWATER	MA	2324
Shannon	Mangan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55127

Stephanie	Rabon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOISE	ID	83704
G	Kaelin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40217
Christine	Petellat	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TARPON SPRINGS	FL	34689

Eric	Bowers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN PARK	MI	48146
Kathleen	Chambers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEWISVILLE	TX	75077
Spencer	Dunstan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33130

Jennifer	Purkey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAUGERTIES	NY	12477
Darleen	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85746
Barbara	Dunkley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHESDA	MD	20816

David	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST STROUDSBUF	PA	18302 carry	whalen	Sad thing is i pay for 4 boxes in my house.. over 231$ a month ...I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATHENS	TN	37303
Susan	Lowery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMHERST	MA	1002

Troy	Boudreaux	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	METAIRIE	LA	70002
Sabrina	Brinkley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63111
Jonathan	Meckler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11230

Bart	Wilder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YONKERS	NY	10701
Gregory	Carpenter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMANO ISLAND	WA	98282
scott	hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68124

Gina	Lambert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CREST HILL	IL	60403
Susan	Soncrant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43623
Edreena	Ames	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	3584

Thomas	Lowe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHESAPEAKE	VA	23321
John	Cromonic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHLEHEM	PA	18017 jose	martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHLEHEM	PA	18015

cynthia	carmelitano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POUGHKEEPSIE	NY	12601
Cheryl	Jolley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84119

Shayna	Ruckdeschel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Where we live, the only CABLE company is Time Warner and they are criminals.	ROCHESTER	NY	14624
Clinton	Hughes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANFORD	FL	32771

Rhonda	Leath	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VICTORVILLE	CA	92392
Martin	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELGIN	IL	60123
Bennie	Reid	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORMAN	OK	73069

Judi	Stevenson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLOWERY BRANCH	GA	30542
Melinda	Sebring	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEFIANCE	OH	43512
Greg	Townsend	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LODI	CA	95240

Melissa	Hastings	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORENCE	OR	97439
Rachel	Wicker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEANDER	TX	78641
Cindra	Wease	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCEVILLE	IL	62439

Valerie	Cohen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES MOINES	IA	50312
Bonnie	Benjamin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON BEA	CA	92647
shannan	hulbert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDON	OH	43518

Laura	Africa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ODENTON	MD	21113
Andrea	Mcclain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLINT	MI	48506
Monica	Ortiz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLINE	MA	2446

Rose	Hutchins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORWALK	OH	44857
Losa	Marks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLISTER	CA	95023
Rebecca	Auria	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95125

Becky	Espy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIBERA	NM	87560
Rose	Francis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20002
George	Wall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23452

Kim	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43223
Thomas	Gerhart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	MN	55912
Danielle	Ingrassia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VACAVILLE	CA	95687

Kimberlia	Austin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNDHURST	NJ	7071
Camery	Odell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SESSER	IL	62884
Km	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52404

Kathy	Hendricks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	IN	47374
Gordon	Stanley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37205
Albert	Garcia-Romeu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21224

Edwin	Blados	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERO BEACH	FL	32964
Jessica	Kroger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OZARK	AL	36360
Stacey	Hammons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLESON	TX	76028

Sabrina	Sires	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98225
Lisa	Borghi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOYLESTOWN	PA	18901
Ampara	shells	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GUERNEVILLE	CA	95446

David	Lockman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98682
Debbie	Bridygham	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	19057
Desiree	Jenkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	TX	76017

Lauren	Foster Smart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDLAND	MI	48640
Jackie	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROME	OH	44085
Nicole	Johnston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEAFORD	NY	11783

Pamela	Hedgecock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROUND ROCK	TX	78664
Pentha	Lord	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANIBEL	FL	33957
Kara	Riley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52402

Patricia	Ramsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHATSWORTH	GA	30705
Andy	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KILGORE	TX	75663
Steven	Nathan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCRANTON	PA	18510

Walter	Greenr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	35910
Thomas	Killeen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80922
Kristin	Janisch Hamm	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSKOGEE	OK	74401

Raytha	Maiatico	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENRICO	VA	23238
Elizabeth	Mann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	NY	14086
Mindy	Russell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTOVER	MD	21871

robert	newlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40222
Theresa	Hughes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARASOTA	FL	34234
Lorrence	Mahaffy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLETON	CO	80130

Nancy	Swanson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUAKERTOWN	PA	18951
Matthew	Hughes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	MS	39350
William	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASTLE ROCK	CO	80104

Amber	jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TORRINGTON	CT	6790
Lakiya	Brinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89110
Cecilia	Lancia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARY	NC	27518

Kathi	Stubbs	Cable companies are crooks. For what they charge. Half of the channels you dont watch because they are in another language, sports, music or news but yet they dont or wont remove those from your line up.it can go out for hours and they dont credit you. I live in the USA but if i call because of a problem i am connected to someone in another country and they cant help with our problem. They hold you to a contract but yet they can do what ever they want in changing things during that contract time and when you call and say why did my bill go up and told yes you are in a contract but its not a locked contract you have to specify locked contract and if you want to cancel because you cant afford tge charges going up they say for breaking the contract they will charge $225.00, i say but its not a contract if you are raising the charges mid stream im told tgey are able to do that because its not a locked contract I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEHIGH ACRES	FL	33936

Greg	Randles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89147
Donna L	Huot	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCARBOROUGH	ME	4074
Thomas	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38115

Jim	House	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENTON	WA	98057
Robin	Last	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTIN	TN	38237
bryan	grant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BONNEY LAKE	WA	98391

Becky	Olerich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARROLL	IA	51401
Mary	McGee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANONSBURG	PA	15317
Tammy	Christ	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLIFTON FORGE	VA	24422

Sheryl	Weathers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	SC	29414
Nicoline	Smits	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELLICOTT CITY	MD	21043
Jason	Kasson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KING	NC	27021

Maya	Drummond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH LONDONDE	VT	5155
Joyce	Manz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44102
Charles	Freeland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30305

Rob	Norberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSLINDALE	MA	2131
Patricia	Rowe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOBILE	AL	36605
Kenny	Von Folmar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENDALE	AZ	85302

Ellen	Tierney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEERFIELD BEACH	FL	33441
Karin	Bennett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40205
Theresa	Jester	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEJO	CA	94591

Karen	Ramsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAHWAH	NJ	7430
Rena	Pullman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMER	NJ	8318
Caryn	Crowston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT JULIET	TN	37122

Edward	Howard Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOVER	DE	19901
Heidi	Andersen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRISCO	TX	75035
ED	Smead	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89123

Jean	Steele	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23505
Catherine V.	Stoudt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	19405
Tracy	Gibson-Lake	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOLEY	AL	36535

Kenneth	Calhoun	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALTON	GA	30721
Kevun	Houke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64114
Krysta	Gwin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GULFPORT	MS	39503

Brian	Flythe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20010
karem	horne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GULFPORT	MS	39507
Robert	Wall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASCOAG	RI	2859

Melissa	Rosas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUCYRUS	OH	44820
Robert	Gardner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IRVING	TX	75061
Cheryl	Basenback	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32254

Ivonne	Ortiz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OXFORD	OH	45056
Amy	DeForge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13215
ELIAS	MADRID	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95113

Carmen	Velez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAYONNE	NJ	7002
Tommy	Gurrola	I support efforts to UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRASHER FALLS	NY	13613
Erzsibet	Yurekli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55109

Seth	Raymond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIO RANCHO	NM	87124
Jack	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAGERSTOWN	MD	21742
Billie	Braun	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROUND LAKE	IL	60073

Chasity	Ray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LACOMBE	LA	70445
Donna	Baron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAUREL	MD	20724
Scott	Orsi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CALUMET CITY	IL	60409

Andrew	Juris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ETTERS	PA	17319
Randy	Sheppard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRDALE	KY	40118
Sherril	Palmerton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HALL	MT	59837

Bambi	Perry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARWELL	MI	48622
Michael	Mix	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERWYN	IL	60402
Robin	Posavetz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60660

susan	mckee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEDROW	NY	13120
Cindy	Brewer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENNIS	TX	75119
Gwen	Nelson	What we have now is a series of overpriced monopolies with appallingly bad customer service and poor service in general. That\'s what we got when y\'all decided to make us PAY for TV reception. What contempt the \'Third Way\' and the entire Republican party have for their fellow American citizens.	SEATTLE	WA	98126

Christopher	LaMothe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINOOSKI	VT	5404
David	Hitechew	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEEDS	AL	35094
Beverly	Nichols	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSON CITY	TN	37601

Diane	Casella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ORANGE	FL	32129
Heather	Erwin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEROY	MI	49655
wayne	mcmath	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55429

Ronald	Wolf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89101
Carlos	Rojas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JERSEY CITY	NJ	7305
Michael	Parks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97266

Agnes	Elkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INTERLACHEN	FL	32148
Nicole	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTINSBURG	WV	25405
Josh	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	MO	64067

Gina	mazza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10314
Michele	Coley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20010
Kathy	Hlucky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTLAKE	OH	44145

Karen	Ball	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23226
CJ	Pierce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45215
Jill	Sigman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	54220

Garry	Todd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37211
gerald	roy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAPEER	MI	48446
Cheryl	McGregor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85007

Maria	Arroyos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ANA	CA	92706
Steven	Menius	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANNAPOLIS	NC	28081
Annabell	Raulerson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEARWATER	FL	33756

Colby	Holmes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46220
Eileen	Loughney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOSES LAKE	WA	98837
Danielle	Garris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSTON	NY	12401

Diane	Bonham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67210
Mike	Heft	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80232
Joshua	Marshall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHELMSFORD	MA	1824

Cheryl	Rose	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT JOY	PA	17552
Kenneth	Strzepka	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM BEACH GARI	FL	33410
Mike	Sperling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIAN TRAIL	NC	28079

Alisha	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	NV	89015
Susan	Taplin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA FE	NM	87508
Martin	Sexton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HASTINGS ON HUD	NY	10706

Elizabeth	Cox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85027
Heather	Larkin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIMPSONVILLE	SC	29681
loyd	sullivan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASCAGOULA	MS	39581

Mark	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALKERTON	IN	46574
Sandra	Phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28210
Laurise	Strittmatter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44319

Shaun	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST MEMPHIS	AR	72301
Ginny	Lindsay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14609
Storm	Morales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLPORT	NY	11713

Nicholas	Fletcher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	46037
Cynthia	Rose	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GIG HARBOR	WA	98329
Stacy	Weills	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRESHAM	OR	97080

Linda	Martin-Seng	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSTON	MI	48348
Ariel	Gomez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53212
Belinda	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDLAND	TX	79701

Jan	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONGWOOD	FL	32750
Tanja	Lane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97223
Lourdes	Ortega	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVE OAK	FL	32064

Naomi	Suhl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUEENS VILLAGE	NY	11427
Mary	Zoli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LARGO	FL	33770
Samuel	lees	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33707

Frances	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97218
Barbara	Gibbs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	93257
Valerie	Holman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JONESBORO	AR	72401

Tony	Ursillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MASSENA	NY	13662
Jimi	Witt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97404
Petrina	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95350

Darlene	Ayars-Feazell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTESVILLE	VA	22903
Laura	Abbott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10003
Kathleen	Grant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90803

Kelly	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA FALLS	MT	59912
marie	hansen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRISTOWN	TN	37813
Deanna	Luster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JONESBORO	AR	72401

rick	cortez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for us Americans to watch what we want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOCKTON	CA	95210
Greg	Ziemann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	MO	63379
Nicolina	Sposaro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NATIONAL CITY	CA	91950

Cheryl	Binns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43224
Alissa	Hoffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARRENVILLE	IL	60555
Joe	Glavasich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEPTUNE	NJ	7753

Carolyn	Schepers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	CO	80026
John	Berchielli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH HIGHLAND	CA	95660
Cal	Turner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBRIDGE	VA	22192

Greg	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55404
robin	redden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	MI	48329
brenda	wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTIN	TN	38237

Marlene	McEwen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSTON	GA	30021
Webster	Fitzgerald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90046
Timothy	Gunter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT SMITH	AR	72901

Jane	Fleming	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT BYRON	IL	61275
Betty	Keena	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GAINESVILLE	FL	32605
Joe	Russo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10075

karan	lockerby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68114
Shawn	Franklin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIENNA	WV	26105
Mike	Belcher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUINWOOD	WV	25981

Tim	Daigneault	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERTOWN	MA	2472
Matthew	Choma	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85018
Beth	Kopelowitz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11223

Pamela	Love	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHERWOOD	OR	97140
Dustin	Baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTHAMPTON	NY	11977
Kimberly	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98178

s	kent	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTGOMERY	TX	77316
Penni	Edwardsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80234
Amy	Darnell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOVI	MI	48375

Pedro	Delgado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10463
Debra	Villa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGS PARK	NY	11754
Frederick	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTONA BEACH	FL	32118

Jose	Bordetas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	MI	48188
barry	brendel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENDALL PARK	NJ	8824
Cathy	Chambers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COCOA	FL	32926

Kevin	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JACINTO	CA	92583
Billy	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PAPILLION	NE	68046
Lorinda	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	MO	65802

Ann	Koeffler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH HOLLYWO(	CA	91602
Bernadette	Medige	Cable companies are contributing to their own obsolescence. I am ready to dump cable and go strictly to streaming. My bill is ridiculous for a boatload of cheap and sleazy programming. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14222

Regina	Al-Siyouhi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64138
Sheila	Abbott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80260
Renita	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89115

Chris	Hertzman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33177
Chris	Hertzman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33177
daniel	almeida	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBURY	CT	6798

Kathleen	Mathis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32210
Susan	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98512
Kathleen	Teixeira	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEABODY	MA	1960

Paula	bachner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARBLEHEAD	MA	1945
Robin	Wayman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNN	MA	1905
Gina	Shaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARTSVILLE	SC	29550

Cathy	Knese	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMISBURG	OH	45342
Robert	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EASTHAMPTON	MA	1027
Martine	Jaffe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYNE	NJ	7470

Yvonne	Wingard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43228
Lisa	Herzog	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSFIELD	ME	4967
Sandra	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PADUCAH	KY	42003

Cecil	Becker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	NV	89015
Anna	Phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN PARK	IL	60131
David	Pope	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENVILLE	RI	2828

Kathleen	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97267
nelson	cantillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33135
Laura	Bagwell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. p.s. I demand a la carte cable, too.	AIKEN	SC	29801

Kelly	Noble	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. It used to be that we could at least pick up our local stations and see something on there even if the picture was fuzzy. Now we can\'t even do that. These companies make it to where you have to subscribe to packages where half the stationsize you don\'t even watch not to mention all the infomercials that are on almost every channel at night. Maybe someone wants TV late at night. Your paying for it. But I find it very stupid to have kiss programing as one of the stations that play all night besides religious stations etc. Please do something as these companies are charging way too much and are dictating what everyone is watching due to what they pay. ACT NOW. Thank you. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKLIN	CA	95677

Becky	Shipton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORISSANT	MO	63033
Salvador	Lozano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79905
Barbie	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEY GROVE	WV	26060

Deborah	Palmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MALAGA	NJ	8328
Anita	Tillett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOYOCK	NC	27958
Louis	Stamas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEPPERELL	MA	1463

William	Gaeth-Barlow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORMOND BEACH	FL	32176
karen	robb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97215
William	Gaeth-Barlow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORMOND BEACH	FL	32176

Mariano	Vazquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LARGO	FL	33771
Stephanie	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIONVILLE	MO	65705
Wallace	stjohn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COHASSET	MA	2025

Timothy	Frock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW OXFORD	PA	17350
Laura	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55401
Mary	Johnsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAPE CORAL	FL	33914

Jennifer	Lundquist	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACHSE	TX	75048
Penny	Martinek-Frese	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	IL	60002
Adina	Mardenborough	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ROCHELLE	NY	10801

Mary Jane	Stearns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	MN	55901
Teri	Calhoun	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98502
Vicki	PRUNTY	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORRVILLE	OH	44667

Douglas	Cumbie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27127
deneice	hollis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THEODORE	AL	36582
Celia	Myres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAITLAND	FL	32751

Dudley	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32222
Christopher	DeLira	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11212
Isknder	Eyob	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20011

Stuart	Hoffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43230
Eva	Siegel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEBAY	WA	98349
Judith	Schneider	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	63126

Elaine	Larsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCOEE	FL	34761
Renee	Lawrence	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BANGOR	ME	4401
Cherie	Hobbs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOMER	MI	49245

Teresa	Van Doren	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS OSOS	CA	93402
tina	HACKLEY	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WRIGHTSTOWN	NJ	8562
George	Bogosian	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSFIELD	NH	3263

Melissa	Bromfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28217
M	Munson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	98270
Jeff	Vaughan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	IL	61107

Alysha	Riehl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APPLETON	WI	54914
Frank	Levine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	NJ	7059
Deborah	Hunter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19125

John	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANN ARBOR	MI	48108
Pamela	Hurley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE ELSINORE	CA	92530
jane	bordonaro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTIC HIGHLAN	NJ	7716

Melinda	Bryant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76114
Cynthia	Witt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETTENDORF	IA	52722
Elaine	Cecchinelli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNN	MA	1902

Sharon	Cribbs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWARK	DE	19702
Beth	Tarbell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78736
Teri E.	Hewitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERNON ROCKVILL	CT	6066

Tina	Huff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33609
Blythe	Suarez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEANECK	NJ	7666
valerie	ElGhaouti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85730

Neal	Shea Peters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	1301
Linda	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55418
Pam	Meeker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH HILLS	CA	91343

terri	roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKLAND	ME	4841
Karen	Windsor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	TN	37013
Melissa	Laste	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	NC	28027

Karolyn	Teal	Stop the cable racket!!! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STERLING	IL	61081
donna	spellman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLD LYME	CT	6371
Lindakay	Rendina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	CA	91107

Loyd	Newman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CATHEDRAL CITY	CA	92234
Vicki	Gordon	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAUREL	MS	39443
sherria	dg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEWELL	NJ	8080

Trisha	Burkhardt	at this point I can\'t even see the shows that I pay for without having a problem with service.. I\'d rather just watch my movies for free when I\'m home.. cable comp. can kiss my ass in a couple of months when I rip all their shit out of my house..and get a digital antenna on my roof..lol I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM COAST	FL	32137
Christina	Sheppard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TURNERS FALLS	MA	1376

Jenney	Bumpas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEABECK	WA	98380
Kathryn	Jozwiak Henrie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARION	NY	14505
Ludmilla	Oliver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW MARKET	MD	21774

Charles	Holt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLDEN	MO	64040
Susan	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONEONTA	NY	13820
Bev	Signoretti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARLAND	TX	75040

Marion	Duignan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90032
N.	Fontaine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAPEL HILL	NC	27516
Jacqui	Foster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVILLE	IL	62220

Lisa	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEHACHAPI	CA	93561
John	Kearney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ACWORTH	GA	30101
Brandy	L	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52408

kent	Fortner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMITHFIELD	VA	23430
William	Bledsoe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESQUITE	NV	89027
Elatia	Grimshaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROYAL OAK	MI	48073

Kirsten	Sage	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10065
Michelle	Michaels	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MYRTLE BEACH	SC	29579
Michael	Mawby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19125

Cheryl	Edgerson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAYETTEVILLE	NC	28314
Steven	Boyce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAVANNAH	GA	31405
sherrye	hawkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH BRUNSWIC	NJ	8902

Joe	Brozzetti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARLTON	NJ	8053
Carol	MacDonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15220
Catherine	Hilton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAYLORS	SC	29687

Monica	White	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOISE	ID	83704
Pamela.	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHESDA	MD	20817
Barbara	Kennedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLLINSVILLE	OK	74021

Jamie	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TARPON SPRINGS	FL	34689
Lisa	Ingram	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCKINNEY	TX	75070
Mark	Linker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HEMET	CA	92544

Donna	Byrnes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STUART	FL	34997
Karen	Woiwode	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEKIN	IL	61554
Fred	W	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PONTIAC	MI	48342

Lee	McNaulty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRISVILLE	VT	5661
Dianne	Alpern	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELDORADO SPRINC	CO	80025
Cliff	Gardner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OVERLAND PARK	KS	66210

Emily	Kutzler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98119
Sharon	Dye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNETONKA	MN	55345
Terressa	Delisle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIMERICK	ME	4048

Sharon	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT RICHEY	FL	34668
Don	Avera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77008
Josie	Camp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLIARD	OH	43026

Lisa	Curtin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28215
Kelly	Peachock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINERAL RIDGE	OH	44440
Deborah	Nordin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROCKTON	MA	2301

Cindy	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	DE	19802
David	Batley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGVILLE	NY	11738
Jeanne	Chick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRADLEY	IL	60915

Brian	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	19145
Lynette	Serembe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98501
Terrence	Ryan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COATESVILLE	PA	19320

Janet	Smedile	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEDHAM	MA	2026
Yasmin	Nieves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10460
Laura	Wachler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND JUNCTION	CO	81507

Shirley	Massey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SWANNANOA	NC	28778
Patty	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOODYEAR	AZ	85338
Joe	Reetz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE KATRINE	NY	12449

Joy	Barkley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLEN BURNIE	MD	21061
Keith	Mcgurk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKVILLE	PA	15825
Becky	Shipton	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORISSANT	MO	63033

Addina	Henry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98155
chris	young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTRALIA	IL	62801
gail	ruge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEPORT	CT	6610

Stephanie	Hart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	GA	31907
Jeffrey	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSWEGO	NY	13126
Marciano	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	637

Gerald	Crawford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITHONIA	GA	30038
KellyMarie	Conlon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CUMMING	GA	30028
Thomas	Novak	This will pave the way for the 21st century in media. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	46324

Sunny	Sanders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDEPENDENCE	MO	64055
Gina	Morgan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH LIBERTY	IA	52317
ken	johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERVIEW	MI	48193

Olin	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALMDALE	CA	93550
Farrar	Folmar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85021
Matthew	Williamson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28278

Karen	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TYLER	TX	75709
Thomas	Malcore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREEN BAY	WI	54303
Lynn	Otto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENOSHA	WI	53142

Kim	Reilly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHOREWOOD	IL	60404
Pamela	boulais	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH KINGSTOW	RI	2852
A. Dionne	Stallworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19107

jamese	davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33169
MarÃ-a	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KATY	TX	77449
Pam	Nolan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33311

Barbara	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	11104
Diana	Morgan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IOWA CITY	IA	52240
Joey	Hulsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASTLEWOOD	VA	24224

Tammy	Elliott	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BESSEMER	AL	35022
Kevin	Traverso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32277
Danielle	Chiaraluce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	CT	6413

Willis	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30349
Barbara	Bolding	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENVILLE	SC	29617
Tommi	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CALDWELL	ID	83605

Carmen	Marrero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KISSIMMEE	FL	34743
Brandy	Laukaitis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLOWBROOK	IL	60527
Julie	B	Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Where I live (Burbank, CA) I cannot pick up even one channel on my HDTV with a $120 antennae. I shouldn\'t have to pay a cable company to get access to news and programs that are supposed to be free over the air.	BURBANK	CA	91501

M	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRISON	IL	61270
Cheryl	Frederick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68507
Kim	Hanke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOTHELL	WA	98012

Yvonne	Baab	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTPELIER	VT	5602
Wesley	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHIPPENSBURG	PA	17257
Chere	McGrath	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENFIELD	CT	6082

Pat	Watts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32222
Dianna	Ingram	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW LENOX	IL	60451
Fabiano	Da Silva	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAIPAHU	HI	96797

Karen	Locke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVENTRY	CT	6238
Devin	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRASS VALLEY	CA	95949
Scott	Kaplan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89103

Kim	Clune	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST NASSAU	NY	12062
Scott	Turan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	O FALLON	MO	63366
Leng	Tan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STAMFORD	CT	6906

Nancy	PeBenito	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97225
Janet	Richardson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NH	3868
Rachael	Rash	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21211

Sandra	Nichols	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARK RAPIDS	MN	56470
Adrienne	Galt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLLEGEVILLE	PA	19426
chuck	key	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PANAMA CITY BEA	FL	32413

Lena	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHTABULA	OH	44004
Diana	Winstead	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	OH	44721
renee	durand	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM BAY	FL	32909

leslie	asher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRISCO	TX	75034
Chris	Noriega	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75204
valerie	ramos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94601

Steven	Morrison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON STA˙	NY	11746
Michael	Berryman	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXA	AR	72355
susan	de nolf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER SPRINGS	FL	32708

Angela	Belpedio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM BEACH GARI	FL	33418
Steven	Lipsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10003
Susan	Calkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90028

Hannah	Goebig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STERLING	IL	61081
chris	wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40214
Danixa	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRENTWOOD	TN	37027

Robin	O\'HALLERAN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WONDER LAKE	IL	60097
jennifer	walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CALDWELL	ID	83605
Mark	Wrobel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JUSTICE	IL	60458

Tonya	McDuell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30344
Elisa	aronoff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REVERE	MA	2151
Tom	Maguire	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	IN	47138

Bernadette	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60645
Mark	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75243
susie	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLINGTON	TN	38053

Linda	Wirshup	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97213
Scot	Eastwold	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANDOVER	MN	55304
steven	rattray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARY	IN	46406

Matthew	Crane	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. It\'s time for Congress to take action against these big companies and stand for what\'s right!	WATERVILLE	ME	4901
caryn	martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RUTLAND	VT	5701
Rema	Tanner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37216

Richenda	Bates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73112
Rachel	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVILLE	IL	62226

Mary	I\'Dea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. You can\'t have it both ways. You can\'t claim out one side of your mouth to foster competition, and then use the full force of the other side of your mouth to structure exclusivity to protect the profits of corporations represented by professional lobbyists. It had to end for the phone -- it is time it ended for the cable box.	SAINT CLOUD	MN	56301
Charlene	Wynant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33068

Nancy	Babington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCK HILL	SC	29730
Rolland	Corzine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVERTON	OR	97008
HONORA	GREEN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND BAY	AL	36541

David	Hardy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32812
Vicki	Shelfer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAVANA	FL	32333
Kenneth	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIR BLUFF	NC	28439

Star	Ozcan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLEASANT GROVE	CA	95668
Terrell	Brinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30344
Brian	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANAHEIM	CA	92807

Tracy	Goodman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAKER	FL	32531
Jessica	Randolph	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIFFLINTOWN	PA	17059
Beverly	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JONESBORO	GA	30238

Iris	Vargas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10457
Jennifer	Cagle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STERLING HEIGHTS	MI	48314
Patricia	Sitton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STRAWBERRY PLAI	TN	37871

Greg	Cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	MI	49045
jake	matz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIREN	WI	54872
Budi	Kusnawinata	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW HYDE PARK	NY	11040

Daniel	Brese	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITE RIVER JUNC	VT	5001
Mike	DePlanche	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PONTIAC	MI	48340
Julie	Rodrigues	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUDSON	MA	1749

chris	flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33815
Heather	Emmons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGEVALE	CA	95662
Rebecca	Farrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TORRINGTON	CT	6790

Nicole	Gallo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEWELL	NJ	8080
Jo	Daly	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANTENO	IL	60950
Kathleen	Bolger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92103

Lloyd	Talley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19143
Greg	Roth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98199
Eric	Biggers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOPLIN	MO	64804

Matthew	Howell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38134
paul	acerno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHERMAN OAKS	CA	91423
Ernest	Hernandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78228

Tammy	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PANAMA CITY	FL	32405
Phyllis	Campbell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARTVILLE	MO	65667
Gustavo	Gamboa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TINLEY PARK	IL	60487

Wendy	Ouellette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREWSTER	NY	10509
Jeffrey	Sheedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURKE	VA	22015
Faye	Eidson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEY CENTER	KS	67147

Charlene	O\'Donnell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHERMAN OAKS	CA	91423
John	Shea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABINGTON	MA	2351
Colleen	Neumann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YPSILANTI	MI	48197

Diane	Gaul	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ESSINGTON	PA	19029
Jessica	Haynes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSBORO	OR	97124
Joy	Scoggin	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74115

jan	swanson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78731
Stanley	McCoy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EASTHAMPTON	MA	1027
Rosa	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUSCALOOSA	AL	35405

Norris	Edney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	MS	39056
Bernice	Drake	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29223
Bonnie	Bachand	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALLKILL	NY	12589

Eddie	Burke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILKES BARRE	PA	18706
Lisa	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	CA	94549
Stacey	Petterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30312

Paul	McHale	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUSTIS	FL	32726
Bob	Rosenthal	I find it silly that advertisers sponsor TV shows, yet we have to pay cable companies. This amounts to additional taxation we have no control over. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALATINE	IL	60067

Helen	Burleson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSPORT	TN	37660
Juan	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60618
Marjorie	johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT VERNON	NY	10550

Louise	Townsend	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOWE	VT	5672
Kristen	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENRICO	VA	23233
beatriz	chab	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33069

Myrna	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UPPER MARLBORC	MD	20772
laurie	allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	67110
linda	jett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLAHASSEE	FL	32309

Myrna	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UPPER MARLBORC	MD	20772
danette	clarke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SLATINGTON	PA	18080
Kevin	Frederick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATTLE CREEK	MI	49016

m.a.	McDonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK PARK	IL	60304
patricia	mazza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	7457
Jaime	Medina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	NC	28540

Lisa	Tierney	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROXTON	GA	31519
Lisa	Dixon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARY	NC	27511
Edwin	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANIELSVILLE	GA	30633

Amy	Monnin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARCANUM	OH	45304
Sandra	Earley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60609
James	Newman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79925

gina	raggette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST ORANGE	NJ	7018
Cheryl	Gartman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCMINNVILLE	OR	97128
Michael	McGreevey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSSEO	MN	55311

Terri	Bales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBRIDGE	VA	22192
Russell	Dinsmore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEBURG	OR	97471
Tracy	Acuna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78728

Robert	Hover	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAYMORE	MO	64083
Cindy	Cape	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33324
Spenser	Winters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	KY	40475

John	McGlynn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33433
joseph	colella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KITTERY	ME	3904
Eric	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT SAINT LUCIE	FL	34984

Julie	J	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANNANDALE	NJ	8801
Denise	Zook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POST FALLS	ID	83854
Veronica	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VINE GROVE	KY	40175

E	Alstad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POCATELLO	ID	83205
Lee	Bickerstaff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORONO	ME	4473
Ronald	Walters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MC CORMICK	SC	29835

Pamels	Patton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHESTNUT MOUNI	TN	38552
Virgil	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES PLAINES	IL	60016
Susan	Daniel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHRISTIANA	TN	37037

Edward	Zuidema	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREAT FALLS	MT	59404
Christy	Conversa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95148
James	Emerick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98683

kris	Vinkovic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYLMAR	CA	91342
Ernesto	Medina	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10002
William	Marotti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CULVER CITY	CA	90230

Alexis	Deleon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUMFRIES	VA	22026
Dorothy	Stiver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STREAMWOOD	IL	60107
Robert	Gwiazdzinski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT HOLLY	NC	28120

robert	romano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLYOKE	MA	1040
Chris	Breen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KEESEVILLE	NY	12944
Pamela	Socha	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19135

REUBEN	WANJIRU	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANCHO CORDOV	CA	95670
Dale	Galvan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDEN GROVE	CA	92840
Lisa	Rodgers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLAIR	MO	63077

robert	capaldi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHWENKSVILLE	PA	19473
Norman	Scantlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	IL	62708
YaÃ«l	Abraham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR PARK	TX	78613

DEBORAH	HARMAN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILPITAS	CA	95035
Joel	Wheeler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH AUGUSTA	SC	29841
Mark	Richards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Consumers also need true competition and choice for their cable providers.	MOUNT AIRY	MD	21771

Matt	Solomon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85008
Doug	Crowe	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JACINTO	CA	92582
Susan	Vosburgh	Happy to pay for what i watch but resent paying for all the dozens of channels i dont. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33707 sharon	mosher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	NC	27217

Stephen	Poindexter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUN VALLEY	ID	83353
Brian	Erickson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE	CA	92869

John	Price	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER	NH	3102
Robert	Schneider	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	CA	94801
Dan	Le	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93726

Mark	Stroupe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBORO	NC	27403
Laura	McKinney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLE ROCK	AR	72211
Margaret	Cossman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HATFIELD	PA	19440

Terri	Hanson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT DODGE	IA	50501
Keith	Malone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHILLICOTHE	OH	45601
deb	schafer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	NC	28401

Russ	Kane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTBURY	NY	11590
GLADYS	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALENCIA	CA	91355
Tye	Bergeson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IDAHO FALLS	ID	83402

Craig	Whenman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	MA	1501
Walt	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWFIELD	NY	14867
terry	moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARFIELD	KY	41267

JosÃ©	Arce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	NJ	8610
Meredith	Dowdall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THE VILLAGES	FL	32163
Cynthia	FERRARE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORISKANY	NY	13424

Lamar	Sorrells	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSING	MI	48910
Veronica	ROSKOM	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLLESON	AZ	85353
Richard	Lovell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33063

Corey	Hunter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE HAVASU CITY	AZ	86406
Daphne	Winders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMESBURY	MA	1913
Sandra	Evans	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACON	GA	31220

Tonya	Patterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46268
Shawna	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONDON	KY	40744
william	letson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43612

Mary	Shenas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLD LYME	CT	6371
Amy	King	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76126
Cindy	Eller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST JEFFERSON	NC	28694

Timothy	Casey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33065
Donna	Hart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERWYN	IL	60402
Patricia	nagle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTAGE	PA	15946

Marissa	IbÃ¡Ã±ez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAYAMON	PR	956
Aaron	Gibson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRATT	KS	67124
daniel	gianesin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60618

Amy	Sheneman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAZENOVIA	NY	13035
Brandon	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37214
Zach	Crawford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98466

Paula	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALVA	WY	82711
Stephen	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98030
Oscar	Trevino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN PEDRO	CA	90733

Faith	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97301
Chuck	Dowe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROXBURY CROSSIN	MA	2120
Bianca	West	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98407

Valerie	Dillon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROANOKE	VA	24018
Angela	Nicholson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	IN	47167
thomas	degrandis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMPBELL	CA	95008

Sue	Peterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERRITT ISLAND	FL	32952
jodi	winters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97213
David	Frey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHANDLER	AZ	85249

Jean	Derderian	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW SALEM	MA	1355
Terese	Brasile	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYNESBORO	PA	17268
Brent	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90066

Eileen	Browne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33334
allen	johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95126
Kris	Eastman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAGNA	UT	84044

Herman	Rodriguez	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	DE	19803
Erin	Regan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURBANK	CA	91501
grace	richardson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73130

CARLOS	BERMUDEZ	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUNNYSIDE	NY	11104
Justin	Eickhoff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77004
Drew	Roach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55124

Sam	Stowell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONALASKA	TX	77360
Tanya	Baird	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODRIDGE	IL	60517
Angelica	Earl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63114

Joe	Reed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRINCETON	WV	24740
Jamie	Flynn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUBUQUE	IA	52001
C	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVERTON	OR	97007

Richard	Magnani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST SAYVILLE	NY	11796
richard	duclos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAINFIELD	CT	6374
Sharon	McClaskey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEWISTON	FL	33440

Hector	Pagan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53215
William	Blevans	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32211
Johnnie	Root Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOORESVILLE	IN	46158

Andrea	Gross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRISON	TN	37357
Tina	Larson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORPUS CHRISTI	TX	78418
De	Kingston	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80917

Ann	Jeffryes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWARK	NJ	7104
john	stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	OH	44706
Christopher	Morgan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98685

Marilyn	Brinker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORMAN	OK	73069
Allison	Vail	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	CO	80015
Tami	Guess	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KRUM	TX	76249

Alan	Scop	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYLMAR	CA	91342
Brian	Erice	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEY VILLAGE	CA	91607
Martin	Toro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33073

Daniel	Buswell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORNELIUS	OR	97113
Sarah	Knickerbocker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHWENKSVILLE	PA	19473
Jennifer	Kuenzig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLEN HEAD	NY	11545

Joni	Coleman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHESTER	VA	23831
Pat	Pollard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GALLOWAY	OH	43119
Rick	Sauer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	12182

Lynne	Dennis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTRAL LAKE	MI	49622
Mike	Casad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHATHAM	IL	62629
Kenneth	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23224

Dennise	Alba	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	MA	1970
Kathryn	Gainard Monroe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GIRARD	OH	44420
carol	buchner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87121

Holly	Hanson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52403
Adriana	Hoyos-Gilberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGDALE	NY	11735
John	Hoier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKHART LAKE	WI	53020

Hugh	Harkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98225
Dusty	Zabel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURANGO	CO	81301
Daniel	Van Luvender	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAPMANSBORO	TN	37035

Caroline	McCauley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NANUET	NY	10954
T	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSONVILLE	IN	47130
Duncan	Armstrong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11215

mark	dikowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GROSSE POINTE	MI	48230
Cathryn	Trifeletti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10305
Shawn	Best	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89119

Betty	Garza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANDVIEW	WA	98930
Lisa	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEMINOLE	OK	74868
Vyjayantimal	Goonan	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALDWIN	NY	11510

Amanda	Lucky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAGERSTOWN	MD	21740
Laurel	McDonough	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33328
Chris	McAdory	This cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77068

Cynthia	Boardo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLISTON	MA	1746
Juan	Luna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALNUT	CA	91789
Susie	Hawley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67217

Timothy	Kealy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORVALLIS	OR	97333
NIVEA	SOSA	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASSELBERRY	FL	32707
Erica	Gaudios	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19139

Patricia	Bever	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATWATER	CA	95301
Meka	Diggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN CLEMENTE	CA	92672
Elliotte	Skinner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92104

Matthew	Wisniewski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARTERSVILLE	GA	30121
Carol	Wiese	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW PORT RICHEY	FL	34652
Terry	Caudill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STANTON	KY	40380

Dave	Shipos	These cable companies get away with robbery. ..High prices, crappy signals and high equipment rental charges...they also force you to pay for channels you dont need...Time Warner is the worst ! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANDOR	NY	13743
sherry	shaft	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHEPHERDSVILLE	KY	40165
JoAnn	Roselli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33304

Sarah	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70119
william	Burns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST WEYMOUTH	MA	2189
Kathleen	Garter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YALAHA	FL	34797

Claudia	Pollari	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33060
Angie	Weinel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALEXANDRIA	KY	41001
Emily	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEANECK	NJ	7666

carless	Veillon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	LA	70501
Robert	LaMoy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALDEN	NY	12586
Sandy	Rubio-Boitel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELBOURNE BEAC	FL	32951

Gail	Nordland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Where I live, there is ONE cable company, no competition. We either pay their price or do without. Please put an end to this by allowing the users to take matters into their own hands instead of keeping us at the mercy of the cable giant we live under.	MASTIC	NY	11950
Angie	Rand	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98404

Bridget	Connolly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40229
Kari	Cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GANSEVOORT	NY	12831
Allison	Tripp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55423

Bridget	Connolly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40229
Colleen	Carpenter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENNINGTON	VT	5201
kim	Caito	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN	GA	30217

Irma	Albinana	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80526
Rosemary	Nolan	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33496
Marie	Yerardi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHLAND	MA	1721

Merri	Rothman PRila	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON STA˙	NY	11746
Caitlin	Spain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLBURY	MA	1527
Craig	Rhoads	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLAHASSEE	FL	32308

Shawn	Davidson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT MORRIS	MI	48458
Maria	Chang	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10452

Ami	Colon-Treyger	Got rid of our cable because you guys are bank robbers. Hulu, Amazon and Netflix are so much cheaper. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON HEIGHTS	NY	11372
Amy	Olson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly and cable companies in collusion to set market prices hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELT	MT	59412

William	Zika	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSDALE	NJ	7642
Katie	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SNOW CAMP	NC	27349
Mary	Nosir	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSKEGO	WI	53150

Ryan	Carson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402 cRYSTAL	BYRD	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402
matthew	marcon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEN ARGYL	PA	18072

Mary	Staines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATESVILLE	NC	28625
Valerie	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREEDOM	PA	15042
Joshua	Roskamp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLEVILLE	MI	49333

Rita	Glover	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOMOSASSA	FL	34448
Angela	McBee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK RIDGE	TN	37830
Michael	Dance	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANADA HILLS	CA	91344

Paul	Yahl	1st off, you lied to us, told us the digital converter antennas would work, they don\'t! I\'ve spent all this money trying without reception of a single station. But, I refuse to give another dime to Charter! Make it fair! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	65065 87
Judy	Emenecker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARRISH	FL	34219

debra	creason	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERLOO	IA	50703
Joyce	Conlon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOVATO	CA	94947
Judy	Emenecker	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lower prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARRISH	FL	34219

Brandi	Folsom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARTSVILLE	SC	29550
debbi	selbiger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and STOP cable box PROFITEERING monopolies!!!! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98682
Kate	Lacasse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	NH	3301

Delilah	Kieffer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98466
Chase	Poore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	VA	24201
Ana	Alley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH THOMASTC	ME	4858

Natasha	Shuler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARKERSBURG	WV	26101
Charles	Poteat	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DICKERSON	MD	20842
Kim	McCray	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	GA	31907

Robert	Quelch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93711
Lorie	Swenson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT JOSEPH	MO	64507
Angela	Gamblin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWARK	NJ	7112

Bridget	Robertson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44111
Michael	Shepski-Lindsted	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60660
Wendy	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I\'m sick of being ripped off! Quit screwing your customers!	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73116

charlene	calhoun	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GIBSONTON	FL	33534
bonnie	mesnard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60618
Haydar	Kiran	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAPLE SHADE	NJ	8052

David	Gebhard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIGHTON	MI	48116
David	Gebhard	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIGHTON	MI	48116
Brittany	Owens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33809

Laurie	Lorch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JENSEN BEACH	FL	34957
Marla	Aragon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. I would only need 12 channels but to get the ones i want i pat 89.00 a month. I pay for all these others which i dont watch. That is not fair to me and my family budget. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Lets bring back innovators! Business has too much control over freedom. It must end.	SANTA ROSA	CA	95404

Mark	Portwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PIERCE CITY	MO	65723
Carla	Seefeldt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLE CHUTE	WI	54140
Peter	Bastien	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATH	ME	4530

George	Talbert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HATTIESBURG	MS	39401
Salvador	Jimenez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94131
Kathleen	Marie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEHACHAPI	CA	93581

Randall	Chicola	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOCKPORT	IL	60441
Wilson	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37924
Renee	Carnes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEDFORD	OH	44146

Ani	Salazar	Wouldn\'t you say, it\'s about time? I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74136
Gabriele	Salinas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	MD	21045
Evalina	Domerese	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELTON	MO	64012

Ann	Hirsch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEANECK	NJ	7666
Debbie	Ray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	OH	45373
Charles	Rhein	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRISVILLE	PA	19067

Samantha	Avellino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19145
sindy	hambley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST STROUDSBUF	PA	18301
Liz	LeClair	Cable companies have been ripping us off long enough! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILTON	NH	3851

Kevin	Cassidy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONDONDERRY	NH	3053
Theresa	Viscuso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77086
Carolyn	Emerson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALDWIN PLACE	NY	10505

David	Shillinglaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTTSDALE	AZ	85254
Nora	Fitzpatrick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	NJ	8628
Elleen	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDLANDS	CA	92374

Finn	Saxegaard	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNNWOOD	WA	98037
Teresa	Ziraldo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79922
Geoff	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	MA	2474

Aimee	Coombs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DRACUT	MA	1826
Jeremy	Jeffries	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALLS	MS	38680
Lila	Piechocki	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33709

LIsa	Linker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAUFORT	SC	29906
Julie	orosco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78228
Anthony	Polichetti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT WASHING	KY	40047

Rosalba	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	CA	92503
Kenneth	Atkinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARWICK	RI	2886
Ines	Younkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	MD	21769

Janice	Pushinsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUMBLE	TX	77338
Gina	Colon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17104
Jennifer	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLETON	CO	80120

michelle	jordan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSTON	NY	12401
Jeanne	Enos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOBURN	MA	1801
Vikki	Chiarini	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW CASTLE	PA	16102

Suzana	Feld	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAVANNAH	GA	31419
Susan	Struder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLDSMAR	FL	34677
Thomas	Adams	Competition is good for all American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING HILL	FL	34609

Jennette	Snell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANKIN	TX	79778
Beth	Weiner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOMALL	PA	19008
Laurie	Younkins	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICK	MD	21701

Ken	Neenan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMSTERDAM	NY	12010
Ronniery	De La Cruz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YONKERS	NY	10701
KEITH	BRYANT	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMS RIVER	NJ	8753

Ben	Giltner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOYNTON BEACH	FL	33435
David	Sandberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14610
William	Frank	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEEP RIVER	CT	6417

Pete	Peterson jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. More choice,better choices,less money!	RACINE	WI	53403
sonia	Baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98226 tmarie	jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10459

Ashley	Murray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PIEDMONT	SC	29673
Joseph	Subrecky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95973
Sheryl	Pramuka	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE ORION	MI	48360

April	Redbird	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80525
Nora	Leslie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30316
Jeremy	McBride	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33186

Cord	Monroe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GIRARD	OH	44420
Ronda	Justice	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT WASHING	KY	40047
Leslie	Kyler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14611

kathleen	gallucci	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROVIDENCE	RI	2904
Mary	Lippert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLYDE	NY	14433
Kelly	Keown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLUSHING	NY	11354

Gregory	Louderback	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTSMOUTH	OH	45662
Jennifer	Bayliss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARRON	WI	54812
Alfredo	Rolon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRAMINGHAM	MA	1702

james	wallace	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCE	KS	66049
Margaret	lloyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33467
Matt	Kuhar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHELTON	CT	6484

Shana	Upreti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLOUD	MN	56303
Cher	Malley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARVARD	IL	60033
Kimberley	Decker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINEVILLE	NY	12956

Christopher	Arndt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLENTOWN	PA	18106
Timothy	Brock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALTON	GA	30720
Joni	Quinn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA GRANGE	IL	60525

Richard	Dunfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELTON	MO	64012
A	Vea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60640
Cindy	Changar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94124

Tony	Luna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Cable companies like many other industries is now obsolete; the faster we end them, the better for our nation.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87111
chris	Isaac	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMITHVILLE	TX	78957

sandra	kish	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	PA	15026
Gloria	Gordon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SNELLVILLE	GA	30039
Cheryl	Bates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22406

Rndy	Lessley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAYTON	UT	84041
Sharon	Mullinax	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	IL	62522
Rafael	Gavilanes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11217

christian	eiden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40216
Michael	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60618
Robert	Pioli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55407

Victor	Valdez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ELIZARIO	TX	79849
Lauree	Eastman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98682
Donna	myers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST FREETOWN	MA	2717

Geoff	Kaven	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73132
Jolene	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREMERTON	WA	98311
April	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW CASTLE	DE	19720

linda	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIMS	FL	32754
Jean	Snyder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT SAINT LUCIE	FL	34952
scott	yaryan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONWAY	MO	65632

Dave	Fischer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERLOO	IL	62298
Jimmy	Russell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VINE GROVE	KY	40175
Victoria	Pirozzoli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARLISLE	PA	17015

Susan	Gaida	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRADENTON	FL	34210
suni	kelley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80260
Halle	Barnett	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEACHWOOD	OH	44122

Khabran	Peters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEORIA	IL	61614
YM	Reeves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48201
Robert	Argue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGMAN	MI	49106

Don	Burke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95126
paulina	McDonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HINGHAM	MA	2043
Jodi	Chaffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85029

Ann	Hoffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAU CLAIRE	WI	54703
Cheryl	Horrall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VINCENNES	IN	47591
julie	lucas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATTLE CREEK	MI	49037

Becky	Horvatin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUREKA	CA	95503
Margaret	Gallione	TV Internet phone ...rising costs need to be capped. I remember huntington cable at 10 a month sold to cable vision and since then the price has gotten out of hand. help ! My bill for these airwaves services close to 200 a month ! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENLAWN	NY	11740

Kathleen	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32514
Tebecca	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILTON	WV	25541
Beth	Hengst	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53211

Linda	Sullivan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	RI	2915
FREDERICK	WOLFE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	OH	44057
Betty	Budahazy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HANOVER	MD	21076 will	abdiewsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HICKORY HILLS	IL	60457

Ann	Fivecoate	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOGANSPORT	IN	46947
Stephen	Douglas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAGNA	UT	84044

James	Muth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HATBORO	PA	19040
Tonja	Rebeck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPARTA	WI	54656
Esther	Alvarez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK LAWN	IL	60453

Rosetta	Adkins	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32801
Gala	Spanogians	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HERMITAGE	TN	37076
Allyson	Palmeter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98168

james	clarke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	MD	21122
Reed	Carson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEORIA	AZ	85345
shane	third	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAVELOCK	NC	28532

Mark	Battiste	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	32607
Arelis	Dominguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERIDEN	CT	6450
Sondra	Lawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEPORT	CT	6605

Kathleen	Valin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33810
kay	briggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSFORD	MI	49802
Christian	Kiebel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCKERTON	NJ	8087

Dara	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70122
Elizabeth	Siqueiros	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79905
Jacob	Kersbergen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRPORT	NY	14450

Mary	Ingrao	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YPSILANTI	MI	48197
Ray	shreffler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING	TX	77380
Rebecca	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT DORA	FL	32757

Michele	Crowder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANDING	NJ	7850
Cynthia	Gorospe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRESCENT CITY	CA	95531
Casie	Heaton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDEPENDENCE	MO	64055

Geraldine	Gage	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTGOMERY	TX	77356
Marcus	Burkhalter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97217
Tammy	Sanders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	MS	39339

Deborah	Bennett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44333
marlene	guy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE CITY	FL	32025
Karen	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANASSAS	VA	20109

Grace	Giles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARLAND	TX	75042
Mary	Schmigel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOOSICK FALLS	NY	12090
Bettina	Kropp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402

Jennifer	Bogut	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERVILLE	NJ	8876
John	Bartol	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORRISTOWN	PA	19403
Robert	Windsor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM BAY	FL	32909

thersa	knerr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT MORRIS	MI	48458
Chandra	Yesiltas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALISBURY	MD	21801
Lydia	Carroll	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32208

Ruth	Winters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34108
Neil	Botticelli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90029
KEITH	BRYANT	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMS RIVER	NJ	8753

Tracy	Gonzalez	It is way over time to unlock the Box I support this action I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30344
Francesca	Pignataro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMWOOD PARK	IL	60707
Bev	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARTO	PA	19504

christina	allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANDRUM	SC	29356
Richard	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Do what you\'re supposed to do and protect the consumer!	KELLER	TX	76244
Christopher	Flynn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BRANCH	NJ	7740

Lynn	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMFIELD HILLS	MI	48301
Marquita	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48234
Christoper	Luczak	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92115

rachel	ferrey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MATTHEWS	NC	28104
Trish	Short Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THIEF RIVER FALLS	MN	56701
Pete	Durkovic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLUSHING	NY	11354

Michelle	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JASPER	AL	35502
jeffrey	boehlert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UTICA	NY	13501
ruth	cochran	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADERA	CA	93638

Bernice	Parks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85023
Heidi	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TIJERAS	NM	87059
Maggie	Doctors	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20015

Vivian	Falto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10039
chris	Martinot	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELBOURNE	FL	32904
Teresa	Clanton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GADSDEN	AL	35903

Katrina	Williams-Herndon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LORAIN	OH	44052
Richard	Garza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KEMAH	TX	77565
Gretchen	Maguire	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DYER	IN	46311

Heidi	Korf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	IL	61103
brad	firestine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	PA	17602
Elizabeth	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIERRA VISTA	AZ	85650

MARLENE	BORING	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSTOWN	PA	15909
Peter	Dallman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IRVINE	CA	92614
Doug	Greiner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTER	KS	67452

Cheryl	Prevost	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTPELIER	VT	5602
David	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSPORT	TN	37660
Billy	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTRAL CITY	KY	42330

Tim/Kelly	DAngelo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMESTOWN	NY	14701
Edie	Chernack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERNON ROCKVILL	CT	6066
Cayleen	Sawyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEXICO	NY	13114

Kathryn	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSPORT	PA	17701
Bonnie	Lindstrom	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMBURG	NY	14075
tiffany	parsley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAINGERFIELD	TX	75638

George	Marchione	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIDGEWOOD	NY	11385
Ken	devries	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSKEGON	MI	49441
Donna	Higgins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	CT	6413

Marie	Anthony	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALO ALTO	CA	94303
Patricia	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING LAKE	MI	49456
kerry	judge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78759

Bob	Arnold	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVIDSONVILLE	MD	21035
matthias	pakula	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST MOLINE	IL	61244
Amanda	Hand	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	KS	66103

John	Woytko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	READING	PA	19607
Dawn	Clemens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAGRIN FALLS	OH	44023

Cheryll	Davis	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Because the cable company gets that amount it leaves the satellite dish companies to also rape the consumer with hidden charges, packages necessary to get one channel you want etc. people on fixed incomes are not able to pay these exhorbatant prices. Please do something to make cable and satellite television available to all. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWARK VALLEY	NY	13811
John	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS BANOS	CA	93635

Be erly	Pish	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVIDSONVILLE	MD	21035
Tiffany	Mason-Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43213
Jennifer	Valenti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAHUARITA	AZ	85629

Steve	Keane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HATBORO	PA	19040
Joe	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COOPER	TX	75432
Mick	Stevenson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PINEHURST	ID	83850

Lisa	McSain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORRISTOWN	PA	19403
Vickie	Rico	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YUMA	AZ	85367
debra	hancock	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GALAX	VA	24333

Lynn	Poreca	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSTON	RI	2919
Jeffrey	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77013

Debbie	Lawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. My bill went up more than $50./yr the last three years and I never changed services. I\'m on a fixed income. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	KY	40504
debra	rabedeau	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97266

Leslie	Fowler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVINA	CA	91722
paul	grewe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55117
Michelle	Dorfman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW CITY	NY	10956

Pauline	Quirk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELCHERTOWN	MA	1007
B	rolff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLIFTON	NJ	7012
Joylynn	Glenn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	jrjg55@h

Richard M	Buck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRESHAM	OR	97080
Michael	Lydick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ERIE	PA	16509
D	C	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34109

Martha	L	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEAVERVILLE	NC	28787
Melody	Schantz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WENONAH	NJ	8090
Lewis	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLASGOW	KY	42141

Rita	Cox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76114
ravenda	dallah	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19142
Laura	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48089

kelly	mackey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THREE OAKS	MI	49128
Lisa	Hagen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. - My household alone pays more than double that because of multiple TV\'s. - This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Besides the fact that they have little incentive to make their boxes work well. The boxes suck and the inconvenience of switching their poorly functioning boxes in for a new one is not small. They already have a monopoly on the cable wires which is bad enough. Stop this insanity. Unlock the box AND force cable companies to rent their cable line to competition like they do in Canada Eh! Monopolies hurt us all. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FEDERAL WAY	WA	98003

Lisa	Nielsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37923
Xenia	Levitsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIR HAVEN	NJ	7704
Angel	Marino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT BERNARD	LA	70085

Jimmy	Collier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRIMAN	TN	37748
Alisa	Drum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GASTONIA	NC	28054
Joseph	Blazewicz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11234

Peggy	Codding	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCLOUD	OK	74851
Grant	Bennett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEATRICE	NE	68310
Shanah	Peterson-Boye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RACINE	WI	53404

Linda	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55113
Diana	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68131
J.L.	Hunnicutt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JONESBORO	GA	30236

Ryan	Halleg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEFIANCE	OH	43512
Andrea	Hoppe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENNEWICK	WA	99336
Donna	Karcz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUNKIRK	NY	14048

Lori	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA RUE	OH	43332
Shaun	Benishek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAMPSVILLE	NY	13163
Myrna	De La Camara-Ayen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32837

Trisha	Barr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEENAH	WI	54956
Angela	Braunschweiger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45419
Veronica	Viegra	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDEPENDENCE	MO	64052

Charlene	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEAVERVILLE	NC	28787
Kaye	Erwin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85710
Frederick	Stewart	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOSTON	MA	2215

Katherine	Klein	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTTDALE	GA	30079
Kevin	Jennings	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEER LODGE	TN	37726
Ana	Garrido Duero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33155

Shawn	McVay-Griffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80228
Dan	Muchnick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREEPORT	NY	11520
Joan	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOONE	NC	28607

Mary	Urisko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	47080
Linda	Potter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANNAPOLIS	NC	28081
Valorie	Hollan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSBURG	IA	52361

Cesar	Bustamante	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CALDWELL	NJ	7006
Susan	Micheline	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING HILL	FL	34606
Adrienne	Nichols	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOGANVILLE	GA	30052

Doug	Maesk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33321
John	Wertz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOWNINGTOWN	PA	19335
Zanita	Hicks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUCLID	OH	44132

Josiady	Acevedo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HACKENSACK	NJ	7601
Mark	Antonelli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GWYNN OAK	MD	21207
Tara	Ryan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSTON	NY	12401

Gilmer	Borbo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILILANI	HI	96789
Jeff	LaFlamme	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA FE	NM	87508
Kisha	Staley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	IL	61727

Deborah	Lawhorne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOYERTOWN	PA	19512
Robert	Jordan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOT SPRINGS NATI	AR	71913
Florimar	Agostini	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60647

Thomas	Yang	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TORRANCE	CA	90504
Margaret	DeBorba	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARSON CITY	NV	89701
Shawnna	Watkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89123

Dawn	Verden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30311
Kemit	Amenophis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94606
Joanne	Fleming	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99207

Louanne	Grand	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. Once the box is paid for they should not be allowed to continue to charge endlessly month after month after month. There should be a cap at how much is allowed over time for total charges on these boxes. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODINVILLE	WA	98077
Sherry	McGee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERS	MO	63376

renee	Menephee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLFLOWER	CA	90706
Bridgette	Price	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EFFINGHAM	IL	62401
Raviv	Greenberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW CITY	NY	10956

Cara	Lister	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATTLE CREEK	MI	49037
Charles	Harrington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTINEZ	CA	94553
Cari	Gordon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	MO	64067

Barbara	Barnes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROE	LA	71201
Rebecca	Tuggle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHREVEPORT	LA	71115
John	DiTullio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW PROVIDENCE	PA	17560

Cyn	Watson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89144
Tena	Floeter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDMOND	OK	73013
Jim	Lunsford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	NC	28405

Rob	Wolter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHESTERTON	IN	46304
Tenesha	Fred	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRETNA	LA	70053
Brian	pilgrim	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARLBORO	NJ	7746

donald	ciluffo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKFORT	IL	60423
Jack	Rose	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64132
Michelle	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST HAMPTON	NY	11937

John	Kogas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27106
Nicole	Ladd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FULTON	NY	13069
Fran	Nease	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	CA	94519

Lina	Mendez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSION	TX	78574
Stella	Ursua	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90814
David	Tengler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43229

Brian	Rhodes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENDALLVILLE	IN	46755
Erica	Cowan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80526
Vikki	Hofhine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KUNA	ID	83634

Patrick	Mannix	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	NJ	7748
Robin	Aitcheson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW LONDON	CT	6320
Shauna	Warriner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STAFFORD	NY	14143

Marie	Rowan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANCHORAGE	AK	99508
Kirk	Artrip	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACON	GA	31201
Tim	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRPORT	NY	14450

patrick	castle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37920
Aaron	Ross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN PEDRO	CA	90731
Mary	Paul	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23503

Carol	McClain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BULL SHOALS	AR	72619
Julie	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BANNING	CA	92220
Teresa	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IRENE	SD	57037

Robert	Hull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARBERTON	OH	44203
Eric	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98409
Julie	Ploss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST GREENBUSH	NY	12061

Lorence	King	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST NEWTON	PA	15089
Ian	Stavros	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POWAY	CA	92064
BRENDA	DAUTEL	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78747

Margaret	Hicks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIG RAPIDS	MI	49307
Sandi	I	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANFORD	NC	27330
Jeremy	Lauten	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23508

Paige	Barnett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOCKTON	NJ	8559
Stephen	Walsh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHREVEPORT	LA	71105
Chelsea	Bellville	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADRIAN	MO	64720

Stacie	Wells	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78741
Carol	Koutavas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80260
Dina	Kawer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON WO	MI	48070

Karla	Crawford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	17357
Marisol	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77034
Darin	Kimball	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMESBURY	MA	1913

Karen	Oliver-Paull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT MILL	SC	29707
LAURA	ENGLISH	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	19067
Everett	Delph	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20020

Tiffany	Dobbins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENEVILLE	TN	37743
Jessica	Greenfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45417
Irene	Dominique	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RINGWOOD	NJ	7456

Lauren	Olsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTHFIELD	OH	44067
Adan	Hagen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10023
Stephanie	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROMULUS	MI	48174

Dustin	Duling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUREKA SPRINGS	AR	72632
Filipa	Vitorio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALEXANDRIA	VA	22315
Myra	Symons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDDICK	FL	32686

Janis	Desotelle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREEN BAY	WI	54313
Amanda	Love	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90046
Ashley	Kirk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ACWORTH	GA	30101

Ralph	Donato	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSTON	PA	18641
Ludvin	Vallejos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAKERSFIELD	CA	93304
Len	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNION CITY	GA	30291

Eloise	Wilkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27606
Angelique	Suarez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYNESVILLE	MO	65583
Marni	Greer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98665

David	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60647
kamla	presswalla	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80211
James	Garber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIGH RIDGE	MO	63049

Michelle	Maston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT MARYS	WV	26170
Soraya	Ramos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIALEAH	FL	33015
Roberto	Santos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELIZABETH	NJ	7202

Anna	Ventura	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH HAMILTON	MA	1982
Sarah	Baney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRAPPE	MD	21673
Derek	Holland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33710

Donna	Pittman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WELLSTON	OH	45692
Debbie	Wantland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73129
Gina	Garnett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPARTANBURG	SC	29301

Rebecca	Hill	I have been renting cable equipment for almost 40 years. With technology as it is 40 years later, isn\'t it time to do away with the locked box? I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ESTILL SPRINGS	TN	37330
JANE	SCHULTZ	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REISTERSTOWN	MD	21136

Marilyn	Neuman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPARKS	NV	89434
Kim	Long	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	OH	44708
Elizabeth	Rivera	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWOSSO	MI	48867

don	henry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLIDAY	FL	34691
james	jeffers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRINEVILLE	OR	97754
Ronald	Meunier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	VT	5408

Kenny	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST NEWTON	PA	15089
Chris	Monti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH RIDGEVILL	OH	44039
Darby	Bellisle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHOUGAL	WA	98671

Gaynell E.	Hickman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	40203
Matt	Blomberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	85712
curtis	maxfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90813

Lisa	McElroy Sweeten	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98144
gigliola	garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOMA LINDA	CA	92354
patricia	hines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40242

Terra	Strummer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55423
Sean	Feeney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45224
Ellamae	Hunter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98030

charles	freeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSBURG	WV	26301
Judith	Wyman	Cable pricung and fees ard bogus! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87105
Emory	Babb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97405

Benjamin	Caplin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNN	MA	1904
Marian	Jefferson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINDEN	NJ	7036
Melinda L	Mess	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHELBY	OH	44875

Charis	Engle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLE GLADE	FL	33430
Carol	Schrum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	16517
Mark	Shaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIGHTON	CO	80601

Karen	OGrady	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUDA	TX	78610
Kerrye	Raven	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. As a previous consumer, I finally got sick of this game, so now we switched to Amazon Prime and dumped the box all-together! Cable- get lost!	KELSO	WA	98626

Luis	Cancel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33309
Laurie	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VILLA PARK	IL	60181
Robert	Henderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHBOROUGH	MA	1772

Maria	Bagula	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGAN HILL	CA	95037
Catherine	Hart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHPORT	NC	28461

Greta	Lutman	Consumers deserve choices outside of the monopoly. Please make it easier to simply order the channels we want. Easy. Makes sense. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLYDE	NC	28721
Peggy	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OH	45502

Bonita	Marchand	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAK	WA	98841
Zofia	Chrzan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW HOPE	PA	18938
Sheryle	Sprissler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARLBOROUGH	MA	1752

Mark	Roe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHILLICOTHE	OH	45601
Melissa	Callaway	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAPHNE	AL	36526
Dora	Rosenthal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60624

Robert	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOMFIELD	CO	80021
Kathie	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUCASVILLE	OH	45648
Chelsea	Swan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENGLEWOOD	CO	80110

Shaun	Dixon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANDALLSTOWN	MD	21133
Elizabeth	Bell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33463
Lisa	Henry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ROSA	CA	95409

Candy	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHANDLER	AZ	85248
Julia	Zorzi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARNEGIE	PA	15106
Paige	Rusch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUN PRAIRIE	WI	53590

Rick	Fitzgerald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICKAMAUGA	GA	30707
Jessica	Covert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENSSELAER	NY	12144
Anil	Prabhakar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FEDERAL WAY	WA	98023

David	Collery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33157
Debra	Cherek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53221
Dwayne	Rich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FUQUAY VARINA	NC	27526

Eric	Wade	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87114
Rolando	Ramos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10002
Anicia	Sturgill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	76763

kenn	pike	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOWELL	MA	1854
Sean	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POTTSTOWN	PA	19464
Pamela	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORBA LINDA	CA	92886

Greg	Hay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ROSA	CA	95403
Marabeth	Russo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	NV	89014
Susan	Fulford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KISSIMMEE	FL	34744

Shawn	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	OR	97321
Shannon	Bowen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DE SOTO	KS	66018
Kevyn	Paul	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OR	97477

Frankie	Rivera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34473
Peter	Bernstein	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90026
William	Orman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	TN	38401

Tina	Johnsono	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10027
MARCELLA	SHERRILL	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SELLERSBURG	IN	47172
Jessica	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	WV	25311

Debra	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES MOINES	IA	50315
Lorelei	Keller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STREAMWOOD	IL	60107
Detressa	Stephens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44307

Kitty	Schenk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STEVENS POINT	WI	54481
Napoleon	Lustre	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLAREMONT	CA	91711
Desirae	Saenz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA PAULA	CA	93060

Kevin	Richard	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHTON PARK	IL	60471
cheryl	khoury	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77088
Kelley	Norman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEXAS CITY	TX	77590

John	Shinsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLANO	TX	75074
Michaela	Cottle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROVO	UT	84604
David	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARTFORD	CT	6114

Colleen	Wahl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARGO	ND	58103
Cathy	Hull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANDOLPH	VT	5060
Earl	Johnston III	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YPSILANTI	MI	48197

Sheila	Love	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45459
Brandon	Liebig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60622
Kristin	Keeton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSING	MI	48906

william	O\'Brien	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUMMERVILLE	SC	29485
Joan	Ortega	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDMOND	WA	98052
Joan	Cavanaugh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMS RIVER	NJ	8753

Rebeka	Slinkman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRHOPE	AL	36532
Amanda	Thornton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80909
Dawn	Brandenburg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80239

Erika	Unger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATAVIA	NY	14020
Naseeb	Anwar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92128
Maria	Serna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19111

Maria	Serna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19111
Heather	Kitts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85712
Joyce	Santacruz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	IN	47374

Ellen	Kaplan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33156
Deb	Irwin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBRIDGE	VA	22192
Karen	Glass	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TARZANA	CA	91356

Shelley	Heutmaker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH SAINT PAU	MN	55075
Nancy	Raia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENSHAW	PA	15116
Nancy	Neilsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	TN	37777

Karen	mcmurrey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLARD	OH	44890
Robert	Geer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45403
Tracy	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSKEGON	MI	49445

Bryan	Fatka	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK PARK	MI	48237
vincent	messina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST WARWICK	RI	2893
Tina	Pohlman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA CROSSE	WI	54601

Val	Yoder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. I want and need to turn off cable, but my son won\'t be able to watch baseball which appears to only be on cable for live games. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19147
Tabitha	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL DORADO	AR	71730

Cyndal	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POST FALLS	ID	83854
Yolanda	Cintron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85746
M.L.	KRASE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53705

marita	martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELRAY BEACH	FL	33484
Veronica	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92154
Joanne	Kokot-Hoppen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37206

Valerie	Dowden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KOKOMO	IN	46902
Greg	Lollis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOBART	IN	46342
Mary	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PAYSON	AZ	85541

Greg	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84116
Mari	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMARILLO	CA	93012
Ramon	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53214

Connie	Sweeney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARLISLE	PA	17013
Bryan	Di Leo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINNETKA	CA	91306
Joanne	Hunter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUINCY	MA	2170

Michael	Hundertmark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	13357
Tommy	Pate	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89145
Nicole	Landseadel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT RICHEY	FL	34668

michelle	chelikas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK FOREST	IL	60452
Robyn	York	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENPOOL	OK	74033
Patty	Nispel	Please unlock the box. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICE LAKE	WI	54868

Charles	Cooper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDEN	UT	84401
Timothy	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINOOSKI	VT	5404
Gordon	West	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KATY	TX	77450

Eleanor	Campbell	If cable is based off air waves. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28217
Rachel	Nagy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLIDAY	FL	34691
John	Lane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85034

Elliott	Bronstein	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLAIRSTOWN	NJ	7825
James	Chelone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HESPERIA	MI	49421
Mary	Peyton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70121

Silvia	Block	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUKESHA	WI	53186
Richard	Lear	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAINFIELD	NJ	7060
roberta	uhl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PADUCAH	KY	42001

David	washburn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALEXANDER CITY	AL	35010
Susan	Magliato	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70118
E	Evans	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATHENS	GA	30606

Maggie	Everett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98133
Teresa	Harlow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEMOUNT	MN	55068
Renee	Stenger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FT MITCHELL	KY	41017

Richard	Fisher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWARK	DE	19702
Shannon	Erickson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENT	MN	56528
Stephanne	Dickerson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDFORD	MI	48239

Jessica	Crispin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GORDON	GA	31031
Marge	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70115
Kim	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRANE HILL	AL	35053

Rita	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POTTSTOWN	PA	19464
Gwen	Bomyea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92131
Len	Finch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NESBIT	MS	38651

Pamela	Stevenson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKVILLE	MD	20850
Jason	Buhr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOURBONNAIS	IL	60914
Thomas	Kaul	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MENASHA	WI	54952

Mario	Bogarin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93727
Debbie	Hebrard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95842
Donnelly	Webb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TWIN FALLS	ID	83301

Catherine	Blanton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSONVILLE	IN	47130
Luz	Ocasio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	MA	1129
Debbie	Harmonson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SURPRISE	AZ	85374

Terrence	Wolf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARKER	CO	80138
Berh	Chiles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR	MI	49621
Kate	Bortells	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANTS PASS	OR	97527

Janet	Hirshberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUNAPEE	NH	3782
Renee	Luckett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERDALE	GA	30274
Deborah	Matney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARROLLTON	TX	75006

Mary	Shepherd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA FE	NM	87505
jackie	tonkel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95128
Deborah	Logue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	TX	76016

Miguel	Bonilla	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33325
Valerie	Ackerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEORIA	IL	61606
larry	pe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies should allow consumers to pick the channels we want to watch not lots of bundles. . We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARKER	CO	80134

Karen	Shepherd	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA FE	NM	87505
Pete	Phimphavong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPE	AZ	85281
Rosalind	Owen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92105

Nicolette	Crone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KELSEYVILLE	CA	95451
sheryl	bourgeois	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROE	MI	48161
Cassandria	Clemons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERIDIAN	MS	39301

Skip	Pikl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97304
Micki	Allyn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOUVERNEUR	NY	13642
Alan	Slutsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVINGTON	GA	30016

Deborah	Christmas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATESBORO	GA	30458
Lynn	Funkhouser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60610
Kathy	Higgins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	METAIRIE	LA	70002

Terri	Lamb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PINCKNEY	MI	48169
Trenny	Bivens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15206
Beatrice	Flett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MASSILLON	OH	44646

Derickson	Blaize	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30331
Greg	Brent	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARROLLTON	KY	41008
EARLEEN	CASE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALCONER	NY	14733

MICHAELLE	ROBARDEY	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	71105
Nasrin	Bashir	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTTSDALE	AZ	85260
Brett	Meyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33334

Michelle	Momsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Besides, when we PAY for tv we aren\'t supposed to have commercials. Commercials are from your sponsors and help pay for the broadcasting, so why are you taking my money and still making me watch the paid, sponsors commercials. DOWN WITH CABLE ALL HAIL ROKU.	ALTADENA	CA	91001
Taylor	Stutts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IOWA CITY	IA	52246

Kelli	States	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEMENTON	NJ	8021
Travis	Reh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23234
Ghislaine	Ettori	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	VA	22204

Deborah	Brockhurst	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHTABULA	OH	44004
Christina	Goggin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23220
Rachel	Wineski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIG CABIN	OK	74332

Karen	ONeill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	CO	80016
Thomas	Estes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Its also worth mentioning that many cable boxes can use as much electricity as a refrigerator, because end users have to take what they\'re offered and cable companies actually buy the boxes from the manufacturers no one in a position to consider it can push for energy efficient components. So while the average cable customer may pay $231 per year to rent the box, they also likely pay about $75 a year to power it. That\'s $306 dollars a year for a basically useless product.	ASH FLAT	AR	72513

Carol	Holmes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRAZIERS BOTTOM	WV	25082
Frances	Wilder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON	NY	11743
Michael	Hernandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95823

Cynthia	McIntire	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAMMAMISH	WA	98075
Tanya	Williamson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29212
Kristina	MacRae	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKEMOS	MI	48864

Terry	Quintero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90046
Gary	Oliver	Why on Earth do cable companies have a monopoly every company that sells TV services blocks the other companies from selling services in their area that is absolutely anti-capitalism anti Democratic and horrible do everything you can to make competition in the cable services are reality bring down the prices it\'s ridiculous . I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW PALTZ	NY	12561

brad	deark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELGIN	IL	60120
Preston	Harper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRYSTAL BEACH	FL	34681
Bruce	Supernaugh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	CT	6013

Cheryl	Bihari	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW PHILADELPHI	OH	44663
Pat	Hendrix	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSDALE	MI	49242
Anna	bouillon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GIRARD	IL	62640

Bernice	Joines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21216
Michael	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	OR	97321
Jon	Johns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77095

Marthe	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAYCE	SC	29033
Jocelyn	Hammond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARNE	MI	49435
Trish	Byrne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIBERTYVILLE	IL	60048

Carrie	Musser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MYRTLE BEACH	SC	29575
Wendy	Barcomb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	224401
Donna	Ahrendsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68104

Michael	M	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBERT LEA	MN	56007
deborah	schwanger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRASER	MI	48026
Sharon	Richardson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73120

Elena	Sweeney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST HAMPTON	NY	11937
Robin	Blackburn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KING	NC	27021
Ronald L and	Meeks VIET NAM V	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28226

Deb	Brown	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARWICK	RI	2889
Chris	Jeleniewski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVONIA	MI	48154
Jessica	Marcillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53718

Don	Kovach	I REALLY THINK ITS WAY OVER DUE YO GIVE THE CONSUMER THE FREEDOM OF WATCHING CHANNELS WITHOUT PAYING OUTRAGEOUS RENTAL FEESI support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32504
Rebeca	Giles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43227

Mary	Bell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICKLIFFE	OH	44092
Barbara	Carozza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTHFIELD	MN	55057
Michele	Serra	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEBURG	OR	97470

Bryan	Watters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARGO	ND	58102
Sarah	P	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TORRANCE	CA	90501
Noel	Durrant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOVER	DE	19904

Necta	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11204
sonya	bykofsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LENOX	MA	1240
Michelle	Hyder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NILES	OH	44446

Gerald	Harrison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLETON	CO	80123
Leanna	Nolan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Cable companies think they can get away with gouging because there are limited options in each area. Moyer needs to be done to protect consumers, including driving competition, regulating internet costs, and enough monopolies on equipment like cable boxes.	PASADENA	CA	91102

Annie	Witzorreck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMESTOWN	PA	16134
Loren	Mosley	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44306
David	Vigil	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87104

Barbara	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	43220
Marchella	Beretta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33311
Monique	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95829

Robert	Scales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARCATA	CA	95521
kelly	king	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60653
Kris	Lovaas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING PARK	MN	55384

Lisa	Schwarz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63129
Michelle	Andersen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVUE	NE	68005
Glen	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76133

David	Flick	We have 1 choice for cable. They hike up the rates every year and the service just gets more and more horrible. Why should it cost so much when they make billions in profits by commercials that seem to get longer and longer? It makes absolutely no sense. For example, we have time warner. Why should we have to watch commercials about time warner on time warner? Again, it\'s complete nonsense. Why is what is aired censored beyond belief? There\'s so many "whys" it\'s ridiculous! If you pay for something and only get half of what you paid for you\'d be upset but yet with TV it\'s explained as "Well the FCC is there to protect us" from what, bad words, body parts? Pretty sure we all have an uncle tom and also have a body and know what they look like. Just seems like a giant scam to profit from in the hopes no one will call them on it... That\'s all.	NILES	OH	44446
David	Parajuli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43224

Candy	Coulter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HURST	IL	62949
amber	every	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVINGTON	KY	41011
carol	lambert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46241

Stacy	Click	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45420
claire	gallimore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68154
Scott	Heinze	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10456

Robert	Seagrave	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSPORT	PA	17701
Scott	Darrah	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70121
Sherry	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGANTOWN	WV	26508

Shelia	McKinney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK RIDGE	TN	37830
Donnie	Price	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWNAN	GA	30265
Gerri	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREMERTON	WA	98337

Diane	Maher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELRAY BEACH	FL	33446
Susana	Chavez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOCKTON	CA	95210
Mitchell	Manley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73114

Alex	Trujillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST RUTHERFORD	NJ	7073
Molly	Auchter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUBBARD	OH	44425
Jessica	Gutmann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK CREEK	WI	53154

Shannon	Sirola	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT KLAMATH	OR	97626
patricia	miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55422
Pamela	Cotton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMILTON	GA	31811

Robert	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROYSE CITY	TX	75189
Lisa	Grandmaison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW PORT RICHEY	FL	34655
Louise	Amos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCCOMB	MS	39648

Laura	Rodrick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST PEORIA	IL	61611
mario	guerra	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EGG HARBOR TOW	NJ	8234
Kim	Ambrose	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OH	44460

Nicholas	Rekito	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PIKE	NY	14130
Mark	Couchman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MYRTLE BEACH	SC	29572
Irma	Reynolds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INWOOD	NY	11096

June	Polkowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95354
Betty	Monroe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HEMPSTEAD	NY	11550

Margaret	Lang	The ridiculous cost of cable has gone on too long. Do something for the people instead of continued corporate welfare! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70117
James	Sparks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELTON	MO	64012

Lynn	Dorman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33812
Tracy	Ruppman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60640
Kathy	Righellis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89145

Beverly	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWSON	MO	64062
Madeline	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA MESA	CA	91941
Susan	Hulett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95823

Greg	DeStefano	Even in a city like Seattle, the city is zoned. I live in Comcast area and I can\'t by law get a different company. That\'s ridiculous. Competition is fair!! I\'m being gouged by Comcast. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98101
Jennifer	Jenkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60646

Kevin	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10475
jacqueline	ferreira	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAYWARD	CA	94544
Adrian	Neuendorf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOPLIN	MO	64801

collin	jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WELCHES	OR	97067
Ammin	Barnett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19146
John	Emby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45431

Robert	Stevenson	They showThe same shows over and over againAmerican consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINOT	ND	58701
rob	carron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHLAND	WA	99354
Ruth	Hendricks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNION	MO	63084

Roberto	Carrera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCKINNEY	TX	75069
Christy	Fritz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRESCOTT	AZ	86303
Robyn	Becker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AVON	OH	44011

Janet	Beckham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.They also charge for the remotes. $25 a month. Don\'t forget that. It\'s a racket. Especially since Att bought Direct Tv, they aren\'t giving discounts to old customers and raised rates!!	KERMIT	TX	79745
Agustin	Soto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSDALE	PA	19446

Mark	Cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMPOBELLO	SC	29322
Kim	Johns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77095
Ed	Wiesick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALNUT CREEK	CA	94596

Jackie	Reed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19151
James	Sena	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPE	AZ	85281
Patricia	Bayes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EASTLAKE	OH	44095

Amy	Kelly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40217
Kelly	Hendricks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMECULA	CA	92592
Carey	Slade	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Yours Truly Carey Slade	MESA	AZ	85201

Pam	Riehm	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85730
Rebecca	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	MI	48188
Michele	Diaz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMECULA	CA	92592

Vincent	Venetti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	OH	44484
Omega	Brewer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95834
Kelly	Parrish	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STEVENS	PA	17578

Mike	Stephens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IMPERIAL	MO	63052
Evan	Grassi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN SQUARE	NY	11010
Robert	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99207

Denita	Nichols	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PERRIS	CA	92571
Xiomara	Morales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VAN NUYS	CA	91405
Donald	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VAN NUYS	CA	91405

Elena	Ypina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89130
Cindy	Atkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15204
Kevin	Doucette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAINVILLE	MA	2762

Jean-Richard	Pierremont	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11230
MARGARET	JAMES	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	NY	13617
Amy	Andreoni	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ESCONDIDO	CA	92027

Stefani	Feist	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94609
Elena	Wakeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANN ARBOR	MI	48103
Lisa	Santos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABERDEEN PROVIN	MD	21005

Margie	mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENNEWICK	WA	99336
Neil	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YUCCA VALLEY	CA	92284
Joan	Baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74146

Mary Jane	Long	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	CA	94509
Pavel	Akinshin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97222
james	potter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEARLAKE	CA	95422

JR	fletcher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUMMERVILLE	SC	29485
Paul	Kutlina	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NIAGARA FALLS	NY	14303
Jenny	Long	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64119

John	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMARILLO	TX	79109
cheryl	dymond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87107
Nick	Sherfey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSPORT	TN	37663

Ann Marie	Lundgren	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELGRADE	MN	56312
lBeth	Scheele	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW GLARUS	WI	53574
Sabrina	Giesler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAWLINS	WY	82301

Janice	Atkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63136
Dawn	Penny	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRUNSWICK	MD	21716
maria	krech	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOWNERS GROVE	IL	60516

Philip	Alcala	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COMMERCE CITY	CO	80022
Myra	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SLIDELL	LA	70460
cante	christensen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARVADA	CO	80003

Theresa	Beebe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITCHFIELD	IL	62056
Tim	Ellsworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSING	MI	48911
omar	canteberry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIETTA	GA	30064

James	Perry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALVIN	TX	77511
Pam	Willie	I live in WIsconsin and know everything going on with Minnesota politics as MN local channels are shoved down my throat. I pay for it too, I can\'t get a local station in my own state. I am forced in the MPLS market 0ver 150 miles from my house. I don\'t shop there and it\'s all because of the almighty advertising buck. They are not required to inform me about my state, Newspapers are folding every day. I should be able to choose the market as I pay for it. Most advertising is National anyway. Heck I can get what I want from Amazon. The rest of the world gets their tv for free. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANBURY	WI	54830

Jason	Berg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHWAUK	MN	55769
Pilar	Labrado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95110
Paula	Nobles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDEN	UT	84405

Tonya	Christensen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAQUEMINE	LA	70764
Michael	May	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALOS VERDES PEN	CA	90274
johnny	phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TITUSVILLE	PA	16354

Marilyn	Mabbett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANOGA PARK	CA	91304
Joshua	Wood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOLD HILL	OR	97525
Erin	Crone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAMPAIGN	IL	61822

J	Lannen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING VALLEY	IL	61362
Kara	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORSICANA	TX	75109
Therese	Weil	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VISTA	CA	92081

Jean	Wall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTRAL CITY	PA	15926
John	Moon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPARKS	NV	89441
Jessica	Woods	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTREVILLE	VA	20121

Tess	Lee	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	294
Sharon	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDLOTHIAN	VA	23114
Tess	Lee	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	2o465

Lara	Godwin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97303
Karen	Skidmore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORCROSS	GA	30092
Cynthia	Doty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASEYVILLE	IL	62232

Lakeyva	Catala	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14616
Darryl	Pellegrini	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HONOLULU	HI	96816
Kim	Berry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box!	PLEASANT PRAIRIE	WI	53158

Dave	Green	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN PARK	MI	48146
malak	cleveland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARADISE	CA	95969
Millie	Howard-Metcalf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40245

Margie	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROY	UT	84067
Jamie Lynn	Guy-Ostrowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA PLACE	LA	70068
Julia	Offutt	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROME	GA	30165

John	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLY SPRINGS	NC	27540
tommy	Fiorentin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46208
Diana	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EASTON	MD	21601

RADO	OFIL	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more watch they want. innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERCED	CA	95341
Alison	Spalding	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VISTA	CA	92084
Debbie	Abad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95132

Darnesha	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KILLEEN	TX	76542
Timothy	Faulkner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VISTA	CA	92084
Richard	Hacker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AVON BY THE SEA	NJ	7717

Chris	Blumberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HELENA	MT	59601
Jeff	Cox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST PEORIA	IL	61611
maria	De	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	93806

Joycde	Larsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOVATO	CA	94949
D	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARMEL	IN	46082
george	govas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLLEGE POINT	NY	11356

Kierra	Tanner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMISBURG	OH	45342
Lois	Kobb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRESCOTT	AZ	86301
Jodi	carness	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89120

David	Albert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AGOURA HILLS	CA	91301
Beth	Britton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97217
jillian	mottram	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAVERHILL	MA	1832

Lynn	Busby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPE	AZ	85281
Shalonda	Cleveland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48223
Kandi	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAYS	KS	67601

Debra	McCrea	DUE TO THE CHARGES & TAXES, I HAD TO DROP CABLE COMPLETELY. IM A SINGLE WOMAN ON A FIXED INCOM. IT IS SAD THAT THE CHEAPEST PACKAGE IS BASIC CHAMNELS & ITS STILL ALMOST $100.00. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10468
Eric	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37920

Erika	Mendez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAMONA	CA	92065
Nikole	Will	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEDFORD	OH	44146
Vontavius	Hurd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38128

Gary	Archambault	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN	CO	80935
Sandra	Gearhart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELPRE	OH	45714
Melissa	Hanley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN	CO	80910

Marney	Mathison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly takes away the ability of fair price with competitive cable companies. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Paying taxes and prices on shows we don\'t watch. Increased prices and eliminating the ability for low income to afford.	#N/A	#N/A	98661
April	Briqueleur	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONGMONT	CO	80501

Dharma	Fuller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. It\'s ursury. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANDIA PARK	NM	87047
Rowena	Lanier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53717
Lisa	Karsyns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH SALEM	NY	10590

Julianne	Day-Evers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSONVILLE	NC	28792
Shani	Hedden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHATTANOOGA	TN	37421
Ingrid	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94607

Rossana	Cambron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90019
Pamela	Guenther	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANDERSON	IN	46012
Helene	Zemel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDMOND	OK	73034

Laura	Stanley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WAYNE	IN	46805
Tom	Garner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PINNACLE	NC	27043
Stacey	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENNEWICK	WA	99336

Belinda	Fish	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48202
Gregory	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OXNARD	CA	93033
Penny	Russell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98409

Kim	Fike	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95815
Michele	Cacano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98144
Lottie	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PONTIAC	MI	48341

Shari	Escateno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93705
Priscilla	leung	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASTRO VALLEY	CA	94546
Talaine	Jacob	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANKAKEE	IL	60901

Pauline	Gold	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98683
SE	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLIFFSIDE PARK	NJ	7010
Laura	Yarbrough	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	95361

Jan	McDaniel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISONVILLE	KY	42431
Cindy	Rempel	I support the #Unlock the Box movement. I would rather pay for the channels I watch, rather than being required to buy an entire tier of programming to get the one or two channels I actually watch. For instance, Direct TV requires me to get their most expensive package (minus the premium channels like HBO) if I am to watch History2 channel. I am especially tired of subsidizing sports coverage, since I never watch it.	DESERT HOT SPRIN	CA	92241
Marco	Saenz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KILLEEN	TX	76541

Troy	Cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVERETT	WA	98203
Rick	Halm	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TIFFIN	OH	44883
Sandra	Hendrickson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCONTO FALLS	WI	54154

Teresa	Garner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TYLER	TX	75703
Anne	Haggerty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60614
Joel	Saeks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	OH	45177

Cathy	Giuffre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11209
Martin	lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDNA	TX	77957
William	Meyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. And end the cable company monopoly\'s, enforce price restrictions! It\'s insane! Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	2704

Richard. D	Antone	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	VT	5401
Rachel	Mccomb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99207
Melissa	Cody	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	MO	65560

Maria	Damone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTELLE	IA	52305
Miriam	diaz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICOPEE	MA	1013
Danika	Esden-Tempski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97405

joann	dry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABERDEEN	MD	21001
reba	Carswell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGANTON	NC	28655
Queen	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94606

Kimberly	Jenkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKVILLE	MD	20849
Carol	Mayernick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARWICK	RI	2886
Ron	Ackland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST HOLLYWOOI	CA	90069

Marlon	Montano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97213
David	Joseph	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTCLAIR	NJ	7042
Andre	Bennett	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT AUGUSTINE	FL	32084

Kelly	Bryant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FENTON	IA	50539
Mel	Asher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94110
Denise	DeHosse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLAIR SHOR	MI	48081

Betty	Deist	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLWOOD	PA	16617
M	Spiegel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARNOLD	MO	63010
Peter	Sukowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERTOWN	WI	53094

Laurie	Conway	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FEDERAL WAY	WA	98023
Shelli	Nolan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	CT	6480
barbara	hargrave	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSTON	PA	18640

barbara	timmons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33461
Kevin	Jacques	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUTCHINSON	KS	67502
Cynthia	Chan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATHENS	GA	30601

Lindsay	Bianco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IRVINGTON	NY	10533
Dani K	Morgan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW GLARUS	WI	53574
Cynthia	Rowley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63146

Susan	McLaughlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34108
Jaime	Sierra	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80902
Tammie	Carson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	TX	76017

Bonney	Ryder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	AL	35601
Melissa	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARYSVILLE	OH	43040
Christina	Powers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33023

Cindy	Lott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	16060
Billie	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALDESE	NC	28690
Mina	McWhorter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	TX	76012

jeffrey	cazes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW IBERIA	LA	70563
David	Sepulveda	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELAND	FL	32720
Stanley	Corwin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENPORT	NY	11944

Kem	Tillford	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97404
Martha	wiles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDLANDS	CA	92374
Martha	wiles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDLANDS	CA	92374

Patricia	Barber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98106
Catherine	Finkeldey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	CT	6413
Travis	Nave	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENO	NV	89523

julie	coleman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARRINGTON	NH	3825
Monica	Leiendecker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CUYAHOGA FALLS	OH	44221
William	Yates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	VA	24202

Lizette	Adames	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11211
Jane	Giovanazi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARKVILLE	MD	21234
maryann	Barber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	NY	13021

Lisa	Bailey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CROWNSVILLE	MD	21032
l	stein	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERTOWN	MA	2472
Donna	Duschek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	NC	28403

Alex	Mora	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RYE	NY	10580
Janice	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLOWBROOK	IL	60527
Barry	Deist	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAMBERSBURG	PA	17201

Howard	Mintz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33434
Violet	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOULTON	ME	4730
Danielle	Petrucci	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEVERLY	MA	1915

beth	oram	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMBRIDGE	MA	2139
Aleksandr	Barlow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	29496
Lindsey	X	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONTARIO	CA	91764

Janice	Yager	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LELAND	NC	28451
Angelo	Simao	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95928
Mary	Workman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONNELLSVILLE	PA	15425

Robert	Marino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAUGUS	MA	1906
Roxana	Baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EASTPOINTE	MI	48021
Stormy	Johnston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67214

Erin	Shann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COATESVILLE	PA	19320
Noelle	Leaf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAPE CORAL	FL	33990
Elizabeth	Symon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	SC	29412

Dawn	Dumas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KALEVA	MI	49645
Cheri	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40220
amy	baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79935

Amy	Lund	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33143
James	Whiten	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIMPSONVILLE	SC	29680
Laura	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HERNDON	VA	20170

Chela	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAWTHORNE	NJ	7506
Gary	Grosser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT MYERS	FL	33913
Jeff	Wrights	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27103

Joni	Whitney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	NH	3222
Kelvin	Tyler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WAYNE	IN	46806
Robert	Melendy	Charter sucks! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COMSTOCK PARK	MI	49321

Filadelfa	Melendy	Charter sucks! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COMSTOCK PARK	MI	49321
frankl	monty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT JERVIS	NY	12771
Nicole	Gamar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLER PLACE	NY	11764

Alon	Kaplan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHEVILLE	NC	28806
Beth	Normandin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARATOGA SPRING	NY	12866
Norman	Kirk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	421

Teri	Maynard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40272
scott	legg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGANTOWN	WV	26501
Shawn	Sargent	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST YARMOUTH	MA	2673

Kelly	Swieca	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHAUMBURG	IL	60193
Todd	Morlock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST HURLEY	NY	12491
Anthony	Grudin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	VT	5408

Trixie	Logan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	URBANA	OH	43078
Lee	Quave	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCEAN SPRINGS	MS	39564
John	Hrabar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15203

Monica	Helgesen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77015
Haneef	Rasheed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97220
Sherylann	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	METHUEN	MA	1844

Kathleen	Gladmon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHEPHERDSTOWN	WV	25443
Kris	Coumbe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APPLETON	WI	54911
ssire	ivy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63136

Jaclyn	Ellefsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENTOWN	PA	18426
Cynthia	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. Cable cost $290.00 a month. Was suppose to be cable free! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENBELT	MD	20770
Derek	Bazemore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELIZABETH CITY	NC	27909

YaÃ«l	Abraham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR PARK	TX	78613
Mike	Owem	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13211
Elisa	Mace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KAYSVILLE	UT	84037

Kathy	jeter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32507
Scott	Egan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TWINSBURG	OH	44087
Kimberly	Bondi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33625

Stephanie	Holden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44305
Daniel	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Dan Wilson	BUFFALO	NY	14216
CarmeLita	Morris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63112

William	Sinderbrand	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10040
June	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON	NY	11743
Sally	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTFIELD	MA	1085

Kathleen	Harne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	MD	21769
Barbara	Price	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEAGUE CITY	TX	77573
Rick	Staron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	READING	PA	19608

Olivia	bartley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98506
Alex	Sande	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	NJ	8527
Samuel	Rowser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13205

Beatrice	Kukaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10467
Stephanie	Von Grumbkow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEENAH	WI	54956
Tonya	Sill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAPELLO	IA	52653

daniel	maldonado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32808
Le June	Perrin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NC	27703
Barbara	Gant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKWOOD	AL	35444

Anne	Hull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN	WI	53132
Carrie	Faircloth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOSWELL	VA	23047
Humberto	Lucero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAINES CITY	FL	33844

Tim	Buchanan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAINS	GA	31780
Karen	Clarke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMHURST	IL	60126
David Paul	Rosato	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORAOPOLIS	PA	15108

dale	KELLEHER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RUMFORD	RI	2916
Mark	Morton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63109
Sharon	Bond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEARWATER	FL	33765

Rick	Marshall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VINCENNES	IN	47591
Valerie	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	NJ	8016
Deborah	Petty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45420

Tricia	Desroches	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER	NH	3103
Mary Ann	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11204
Joan	Morrison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	11520

Dino	Kostouros	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAVE CREEK	AZ	85331
Charles	Stickelman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANSFIELD	OH	44906
James	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEACHWOOD	NJ	8722

JAMIE	COLE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES MOINES	IA	50317
amanda	sipes	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATESVILLE	NC	28625
CHRISTINE	Morales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOMOSASSA	FL	34448

Peter	Stenske	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW RICHMOND	WI	54017
Julie	Maguire	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RONKONKOMA	NY	11779
Nicole	Ramirez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STUART	FL	34996

rhonda	mclaughlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CATAWBA	NC	28609
Alberto	Cruz	Ya es tiempo que esas compaÃ±Ã-as de cables les controles el alto costo que unonpaga por tener cable i internet tambiÃ©n deberÃ-an de controlar el costo de las facturas celulares ya que tambiÃ©n estÃ¡n elevadas por el costo	JERSEY CITY	NJ	7307
Kevin	Lloyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRESTWOOD	KY	40014

Louisa	Borowick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEWOOD	OH	44107
Jean	Meroni	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64109
Robert	Santa Maria	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	NJ	8527

Courtney	Bryant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLESON	TX	76028
Adrienne	Buchholz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70119
Jason	Casano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEWATER	MA	2324

Dianne	Love	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33060
Luis	Ventura	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10467
Bohnny	Wiedemann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	OH	43130

Peggy	Makurat	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Time to allow cable companies to compete in markets without community contracts. Competition brings improved service and pricing options for consumers. Time to unbundle their services and allow consumers to choose what they want do they aren\'t paying for 150 channels when they want only 20.	OCONOMOWOC	WI	53066
Rebecca	Rinehart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40213

paul	friest	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87121
Mark	Wade	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRISVILLE	PA	19067
Nina	Guerrero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46229

Regina	Vasquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33027
Sofia	Mondragon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KATY	TX	77449
lisa	jerome	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHOLD	NY	11971

Debra	Merkel	Stop the cable monopolies from ripping off American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SLINGER	WI	53086
Georgia	Komarnicki	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80526
William	Reece	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GASTONIA	NC	28056

Mark	Morrison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANFORD	FL	32771
Ginger	Sitler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUGUSTA	GA	30904
Tonya	Yancey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELDEN	MS	38826

Ramona	Wanglund	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENDICOTT	NY	13760
Jeff	Sharrar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	MI	49203
Jennifer	Nunn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40215

victor	coronel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSWELL	GA	30076
Vincent	Natterer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32256
Marissa	Cornelious	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSVILLE	TN	37043

Gail	Pascaris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORKTOWN	VA	23690
Carole	Jordan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELGIN	IL	60123
Sanderson	Tattersall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEWETT CITY	CT	6351

Beverly	wilder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT HURON	MI	48060
Becca	Reese	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29223
Louise	Fenno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOONSOCKET	RI	2895

Diana	Butcher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PAINTSVILLE	KY	41240
Doug	Petermam	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTAMONT	NY	12009
Cindi	Marcum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98685

Cynthia	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PINELLAS PARK	FL	33781
Steven	Bishop	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTON	IL	62002
Polly	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87108

Vickie	Patraw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW RICHLAND	MN	56072
Karen	Dotu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EASTON	PA	18042
Debora	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRHAVEN	MA	2719

Dan	Leventry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APOLLO BEACH	FL	33572
Penny	Fox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACHIAS	ME	4654
Chester	Zuchniewicz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77074

Patricia	Russell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YELLOW SPRINGS	OH	45387
Jeff	Hines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	SC	29414
Christopher	Grande	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10035

judith	aims	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17102
Tracy	Rodrigue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	TX	77503
Amy	Polanco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33145

David	Frevert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	URBANA	OH	43078
NICK	PERLICK	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55413
Elizabeth	Enright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEDFORD	PA	15522

Caryl	Owen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERO BEACH	FL	32967
Mike	DeVito	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMDEN	NJ	8102
LaTanya	StClair	I cannot afford this ripoff ! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48204

Kimberly	Glass	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEONARDO	NJ	7737
Dorian	Atchison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33021
Joy	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM COAST	FL	32137

Donna	Barnes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40272
Kris	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELGIN	TX	78621
John	Connors	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	PA	19007

dominick	darrigo	this cable is to much money...I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING LAKE	NJ	7762
Jeff	Christiansen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELGIN	IL	60124
Tonya	Brooks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46237

James	Justice	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STREETSBORO	OH	44241
Junnier	Olivas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREEPORT	NY	11520
Anne	Renihan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46219

Carmen	DeVito	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GENEVA	IL	60134
Bob	Bruce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	KY	40509
Louis	Weijers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELMONT	MI	49306

DONATO	DEVITO	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GENEVA	IL	60134
Wendy	Biccum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVINGSTON MAN(	NY	12758
Delores	Ritzman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17110

Maria	Salgado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60647
Lauren	Nicoletto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMIRA	NY	14901
Lloyd	barber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENTON	AR	72019

Andrew	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. Cable monopolies themselves should be ended in the same way that was done with phones and AT&T. This anti-competitive model has failed the people for far too long. If nothing else, we should be allowed to pick and chose which channels we want and for which we will pay. I got rid of cable because of this issue. I did not like that I had to give money to channels that go against my beliefs (yes they do exist). The cable monopoly is one of the worst offenses of corporate control that we allow in this country and you are the ones who should be doing something about it.	PORT CHARLOTTE	FL	33954
Peggy	Regan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FULTON	NY	13069

Douglas	Chapman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOFFSTOWN	NH	3045
Jimmy	Herman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADRIAN	MI	49221
Aaron	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	CO	80015

Kimberly	Martin-Mubasu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHANTILLY	VA	20151
Nyanna	Threadgill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33063
Paul	Cooper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARINETTE	WI	54143

Elizabeth	Cote	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEWATER	MA	2324
Mark	Ferriegel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87110
Sheree	Hodges	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR HILL	TX	75104

Gabriela	Westrup	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCALLEN	TX	78504
mary	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAGINAW	MI	48609
Jason	Dempster-Pauley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	MI	49202

Brad	Hennigan	I personally pay almost $500 a year to rent locked equipment from Verizon. I have paid for this equipment 5 times over by now; it is price gouging at the extreme. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLANO	TX	75023
Alex	Armstrong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANDALIA	OH	45377
Heidi	Krout	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORK	PA	17408

Bonnie	Florentine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLAND PARK	IL	60462
Danielle	Wood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLINE	MA	2445
Steve	CATPENTER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75287

Holly	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNIVERSITY PLACE	WA	98467
Patricia	Meacham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33161
Andrew	McGregor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUEBLO	CO	81007

Tami	Hawthorne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYPHANT	PA	18447
Teresa	Teschner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTONA BEACH	FL	32114
Barry	Butina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17112

Mike	Stamp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75252
Linda	Sherony	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA CROSSE	WI	54601
dave	reed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRCH RUN	MI	48415

michael	esiakowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODRIDGE	IL	60517
Sandy	Demski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48092
Anne	Burke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANSFIELD	MA	2048

Corrine	Farrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	IN	47941
Jenifer	Cooksey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWTON	NH	3858
Anju	Sandhu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEL MAR	CA	92014

Irvin	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20032
Carla	Glade	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINNETKA	CA	91306
Christopher	Day	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARSHALL	WI	53559

Maryann	Vigotov	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	NJ	7940
Stephen	Hannah	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAVARRE	FL	32566
Patricia	hanaford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FENTON	MI	48430

lenore	bush	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALPHARETTA	GA	30004
e j	cruz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASCO	WA	99301
Amy	Hodges	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTHROP	ME	4364

Toni	Adami	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOSHEN	IN	46528
Jean	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10468
Jennifer	Hollowell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33617

Debbie	French	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMDEN	TN	38320
Jerome	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORENO VALLEY	CA	92553
Holley	Ohar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEWETT CITY	CT	6351

Jillian	Spires	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTAMONTE SPRIN	FL	32701
Ellen	Andrews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch the way they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10011
Brooke	Hazen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUINCY	MA	2169

Elizabeth	Atchley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EXTON	PA	19341
Ysabel	Dean	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32824
Karin	Broadhurst	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. I pay an average of $185 per MONTH for my cable including leasing a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMAICA PLAIN	MA	2130

Kellie	Constantine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN LORENZO	CA	94580
karen	cruce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKPORT	IN	47635
Amanda	Holland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILFORD	OH	45150

Larry	Heckethorne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSBORO	OR	97124
Michael	Papa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BERLIN	WI	53146
Anthony	Werner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BABYLON	NY	11702

Andrew	Leon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHELBY	NC	28150
Molly	Oberndorf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOTHELL	WA	98011
Joanne	Merola	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOHEGAN LAKE	NY	10547

Susan	Phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERRILLVILLE	IN	46410
Rafael	Delgado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWARK	DE	19711
Valerie	Borges	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95350

John	Kroll	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77055
Deborah	Brons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITHIA SPRINGS	GA	30122
Lester	Berg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PICAYUNE	MS	39466

Sherri	Sides	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTTSBLUFF	NE	69361
John	Veliky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLIFTON	NJ	7013
Andrew	Hagen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLAND	MI	49423

Tristan	Retzlaff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APPLETON	WI	54914
Rick	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GAINESVILLE	FL	32608
Roxanne	Facer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADA	MI	49301

Erik	DiVito	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77003
edward	schaming	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TARPON SPRINGS	FL	34689
Andres	Malatesta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33138

Barbara	Garrey	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WELLS	ME	4090
Theresa	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PATERSON	NJ	7501
Ani	Balian	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VAN NUYS	CA	91401

kathleen	vega	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFIELD	CT	6824
Chris	Digirolomo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29229
gail	Harrington	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENFIELD	MA	1301

Bill	Manuel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99202
Elizabeth	Dolan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROE	NY	10950
Penny	Merritt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40299

Cody	Pruyne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAYRE	PA	18840
Lee	Barber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN LAKES	NJ	7417
Salvatore	Iemmiti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASTORIA	NY	11106

Taryn	Joel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98106
Brenda	Achey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIAWATHA	IA	52233
Anthony	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONROE	TX	77303

gary	vanwyk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST ORANGE	NJ	7052
Cornelius	Coughlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEEDHAM HEIGHT	MA	2494
Donald	Kershaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEYMOUR	CT	6483

John	Fonseca	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHBOROUGH	MA	1772
Daniel	Manning	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92103
Patricia	Ramsawh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34473

Jonathan	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85051
Wayne	Reid	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPLE	TX	76504
Claire	Buck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	ME	4027

Wayne	Reid	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPLE	TX	76504
James	Arthurs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTOONA	PA	16602
Patricia	Flanders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85711

Shannon	Liuzzo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GENEVA	OH	44041
Kimberly	Tucker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LORAIN	OH	44052
Elizabeth	Humphrey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST SIMSBURY	CT	6092

Linda	GRAY	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	302.52
Marie	Lara	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSVILLE	TX	78521
Josephine	Fitzpatrick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKAWAY PARK	NY	11694

Susan	Borghard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEACON	NY	12508
David	Gill Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUBLIN	OH	43017
J	Glacken	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKY RIVER	OH	44116

melody	bratley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLOVER	WI	54467
Sam	Stowell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONALASKA	TX	77360
Darlene	Hayes	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAN STATION	TN	37708

Michelle	Lord	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BONITA SPRINGS	FL	34134
stephanie	king	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARKVILLE	MD	21234
Andy	Luker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORYDON	IN	47112

George	Chambers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW HARTFORD	NY	13413
Amy	Dague	I thought monopolies were illegal!! Who\'s getting paid off??? I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHEELING	WV	26003
Carolyn	Golaszewdki	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60630

Yvette	Tucker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	GA	31721
Sam	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH ATTLEBOR(	MA	2760
jacob	cooper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH TONAWAN	NY	14120

Stacey	Johnson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28269
Jason	Senior	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHERWOOD	OR	97140
Gary	Dowell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75214

Brooke	Zerrlaut	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARNOLD	MD	21012
Alex	Nemeth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHEL PARK	PA	15102
james	cooley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MC LAIN	MS	39456

Sandi	York	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKFORT	KY	40601
Darla	Studzinski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44134
Joe	Sandoval	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85006

Julie	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROGERS	AR	72756
amelia	mcentyre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RED OAK	TX	75154
Diana	Dominguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSVILLE	TX	78526

Kelli	Mullaney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER	CT	6042
Linda	Hensens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLAYTON	NC	27520
Pam	Wolford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOPOVER	KY	41568

Lanette	Norris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77284
William	McMullin	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON HEIGHTS	MI	48071
Rob	Mayfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING GROVE	IL	60081

Mary	Saqr	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERONA	WI	53593
Bonnie	Lussier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIR HAVEN	VT	5743
Cecibel	Gutierrez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94110

Heidi	Bresilge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLANO	IL	60545
Bonny	Griffith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DRYDEN	NY	13053
Jon	Fallier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTAGE	PA	15946

Albert	D\'Orazio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANCHO CUCAMO	CA	91730
wenceslao	garza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSVILLE	TX	78521
Meredith	Barrioz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTRAL	SC	29630

Eada	Webb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK RIDGE	TN	37830
Heather	Mabus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSBORO	OR	97123
Wendy	Higgins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	TN	37013

Jaap	Boersma	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIMA	OH	45804
Todd	McLaughlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORAOPOLIS	PA	15108
eli	foster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11239

Jesse	Drennen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKWOOD	TN	37854
Brad	Fry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PINELLAS PARK	FL	33782
Justin	Arbogast	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROY	UT	84067

Neil	Nitkin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28212
Donald	Leider	MymMmAmerican consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMWOOD PARK	NJ	7407
Susan	Sarkisian	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EMERSON	NJ	7630

Alan	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENCINO	CA	91316
Jen	Holtz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WAYNE	IN	46825
Anna	Kuhn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COATESVILLE	PA	19320

Gisy	Cornie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10473
Leona	Ridenbaugh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLERSBURG	OH	44654
Steve	Suerth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMWOOD PARK	IL	60707

Melissa	Cahill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55418
Randal	Stout	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHARPSVILLE	IN	46068
Valerie	Beverly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALNUT COVE	NC	27052

Anthony	O\'Brien	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEE	MA	1238
Christopher	Hammons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARDSTOWN	KY	40004
Debra	Cameron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RUTLAND	VT	5701

DAWN	PERRY	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SATELLITE BEACH	FL	32937
Karina	Kielw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COEUR D ALENE	ID	83815
Ellen	Jorgensen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES MOINES	IA	50310

Tim	Markwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERMILION	OH	44089
Alexandra	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CICERO	IL	60804
Melyssa	Lyons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98102

Yvonne	Simmons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCDONOUGH	GA	30253
Steven	Martin	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAGLE RIVER	AK	99577
Melissa	Hutchinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLIARD	OH	43026

Debbie	Gomez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Where\'s the freedom of choice in this country. Little by little it is being taken away.	VICTORVILLE	CA	92392
Mitchell	Manley	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73114
Brian	Geenbaur	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORMOND BEACH	FL	32176

Tim	Emerson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	KY	40505
Emilie	Saks Webb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97203
Deborah	Benjamin-Koller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60618

Ryan	Ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TURNERS FALLS	MA	1376
David	Crighton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23235
Grant	Crenshaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55412

Andrew	Fowley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LARGO	FL	33774
Sherlyn	Dawkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND PRAIRIE	TX	75050
Christine	Coffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OXNARD	CA	93035

John	Gispanski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATTLE GROUND	WA	98604
Tamara	Sandoval	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85006
Todd	O\'Connor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH LAKE TAHO	CA	96150

Cherie	Walter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52404
Kathryn	Wyatt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98512
Patricia	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28212

Diane	DeMeyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETTENDORF	IA	52722
Maurice	Cooper	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROVIDENCE	RI	2905
Harley	Renden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GUADALUPE	CA	93434

shonee	mingo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOBILE	AL	36618
Selene	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOULDER CITY	NV	89005
Kathleen	Lynch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAYONNE	NJ	7002

Juan Enrique	Granados	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT HOOD	TX	76544
kenneth	sullivant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	TN	37115
Karen	Payton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEITCHFIELD	KY	42754

Bill	Fredhoff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST DEPTFORD	NJ	8096
jean	albrecht	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORPUS CHRISTI	TX	78412
Scott	Robb	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBRIDGE	VA	22193

Diane	Ashbaugh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ANA	CA	92706
Elaine	Hiatt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	44015
Martin	Corbin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	89121

Chris	Daniels	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHEVILLE	NC	28803
Donald	DeRuyscher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	MI	48094
Denise	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	NE	68433

Alana	Heaton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR PARK	TX	78613
Rhonda	Kizer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRINNELL	IA	50112
Michael	Titus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14619

David	Beauregard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLYOKE	MA	1040
Juliet	Kandel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDMONDS	WA	98026
Rod	McCabe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68134

Ruth	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	CT	6010
Scott	Noel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA MESA	CA	91941
Jill	Hudson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIPON	CA	95366

Andrew	York	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10025
Cynthia	Mattingly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97317
Donna	Dollner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOCKBRIDGE	GA	30281

James	Brostrom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	64118
Ann	Orlando	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGVILLE	NY	11738

Robert	Mintern	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. In addition to the standard letter, I\'d also like to point out that I can already buy my own cable modem. Why am I limited to renting a similar box for cable TV? Make the right call FCC and end this cable company madness. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST POINT	VA	23181
Sunshine	Moquin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	TN	37322

Pia	PayneShannon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55430
Rachel	Behnke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEANDER	TX	78641
Ronda	Lemon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	26194

Alexandra	Ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	30312
Rae	Coleman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78759
Toni	Stoner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITE CLOUD	MI	49349

Amanda	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH ELGIN	IL	60177
Aneliese	Alvarez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32826
Elizabeth	Claassen	Cable sucks; please give us options! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NC	27703

Sharon	Schlicher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOBLE	OK	73068
Robert	Olson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDEN PRAIRIE	MN	55347
Marcia	Deschler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32821

Marybeth	Hamblen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ANGELES	WA	98362
Sandy	Luis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33187
Julie	Vernon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAYVILLE	WI	53050

David	Silva	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33311
Clifford	Ryan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	NV	89015

Kelly	Ralston	I have comcast, and it is the most exspensive bill i have every month. Excluding the mortage. This company is a billion dollar a year bully, they charge for everything they can get away with. Instead of giving the consumer incentives to keep their service they keep raising the cost on the first of the new year, every year. How do they exspect ppl to keep up ? We should file a class a ction law suit against them for gouging the consumer. I know that if things dont change soon, i am going to discontinue their service and get it for free on my own, (if you know what i mean) if this unlock the box does actually go in effect, and actually works i may change my mind. It\'s time that we stop letting big corp. steal our money.I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUNTA GORDA	FL	33950

Susan	Coffi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTWOOD	CA	96137
Valeria	Woods	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SNEADS FERRY	NC	28460
Cathy	Nazari	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCEBURG	IN	47025

Randal	Miles	It\'s time to end this monopoly and give consumers some choices. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90046
pam	washburn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORESTDALE	MA	2644
Carol	Ruegamer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICK	MD	21703

lesal	conte	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	CT	6385
Martha	L	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEAVERVILLE	NC	28787
Richard	Lovett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSON	WI	53549

April	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IDAHO FALLS	ID	83402
Kenneth	Swinger	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELTON	SC	29627
Zoe	Santamour	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEWOOD	WA	98498

Amber	Westbrook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94117
Doug	Schlitte	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELTA	PA	17314
Mike	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHOUGAL	WA	98671

Lynda	Jaremski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GROVETOWN	GA	30813
Sergio	Vera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33487
Tyler	Harms	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERLOO	IA	50702

A	Arnold	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIETTA	OH	45750
Guy	Carroll	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSBURG	VA	23188
Lana	Haas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97230

Shelley	Spencer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELLENSBURG	WA	98926
Mark	Widowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44129
Patricia	Norzow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOWDOIN	ME	4287

Mark	Barnett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10003
Angela	Farmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOGAN	WV	25601
david	theiss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FEDERAL WAY	WA	98003

Maria	Linger	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTSVILLE	AL	35802
Brian	Creek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GILLETTE	WY	82718
Kevin	Brown-Goebeler	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEWATER	NJ	8807

Chris	Aven	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN	TN	37064
Paula	McPhail	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAYETTEVILLE	NC	28304
Victoria	Ravdin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93722

Becky	Lauffer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLAIRSVILLE	PA	15717
Susan	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTSMOUTH	RI	2871
Kelly	Myers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENFIELD	IN	46140

Tron	Petersen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWINGTON	CT	6111
Carola	Pedreschi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33178
Sandra	Erfft	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABINGDON	VA	24210

Maritza	Glascock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77070
Douglas	McMahon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HESPERIA	CA	92345
Judith	DeVeau	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTON	MA	2766

Nancy	Boerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKHURST	CA	93644
Ersen	Sulejmani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POPLAR GROVE	IL	61065
david	milne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCK FALLS	IL	61071

kim	bright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55416
Linda	Schultz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89104
Sherry	Fletcher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WISCONSIN RAPID	WI	54495

Dale	Salisberry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOLINE	IL	61265
Elizabeth	Medina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year and more to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	IL	60505
Scott	Hanwell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARNER	NH	3278

Gabrielle	Sida	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60626
Filip	Papierz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60656
Josh	Vandewerfhorst	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANGLEY	WA	98260

Nancy	Arozamena	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STREATOR	IL	61364
DeAnna	Hellberg	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOLINE	IL	61265
Grant	Freeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT BLANCHA	OH	45867

paul	piacitelli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSTON	RI	2919
Carol	Lesh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERKELEY	CA	94702
Kc	McBride	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	CA	91107

Marlene	Malenda	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLENDALE	NJ	7401
Kati	Russell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARBERTON	OH	44203
Amy	Whittington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT RAINIER	MD	20712

Wesley	SWAIL	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FPO	AE	9566
Bettina	Jessie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENTERPRISE	AL	36330
Jackie	Salisberry	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOLINE	IL	61265

ROBERT	LAWRENCE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROVIDENCE	RI	2909
Kate	Loasen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	KY	40504
Heather	Seaman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW CASTLE	PA	16105

Amanda	Seeley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35215
Walter	Fetterley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOISE	ID	83712
Eric	Lund	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOORHEAD	MN	56560

Lewis	Cox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT AIRY	NC	27030
Dale	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLATTSBURGH	NY	12901
Robert	Correa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97303

Matresa	Carlock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNION CITY	CA	94587
Caryn	Simon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAPITOLA	CA	95010
RoseAnn	Kevgas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUN CITY CENTER	FL	33573

Kim	Bishop	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33063
Jesse	Butterfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68516
Paul	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICOPEE	MA	1020

carl	Elledge	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BILOXI	MS	39530
Terry	Gassett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEIGS	GA	31765
Lisa	Morgan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76120

Sarah	Lerda	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95928
Melanie	Wilcox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAHAM	NC	27253
Georgia	Ave-Lallemant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37210

Alex	Loefstedt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANEOHE	HI	96744
Gary	Ruleman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIETTA	GA	30064
MISSIE	OLSONSPECK	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORK	PA	17404

Denise	Shelley	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINDSOR	CA	95492
JoLynn	Kekke	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APPLETON	WI	54913
Shane	Parsons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78703

Christi	Puff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOULDER	CO	80304
Danita	Barton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELLENSBURG	WA	98926
Kelly	Skender	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGTON	MI	48335

Charles	Messina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT JAMES CITY	FL	33956
JAMES	HOFFMAN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53215
Annette	Vanderzon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THE PLAINS	VA	20198

Katrina	Follen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CADILLAC	MI	49601
Maria	Vazquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10451
Ashlie	Boyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EASTPOINTE	MI	48021

carla	person	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROE	NC	28110
Adam	Rivard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVIS	CA	95616
Kathleen	Phelps	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. You know its bad when you have "basic cable" and you pay almost 200.00 for it.	MURRIETA	CA	92563

Fredy	Espinoza	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHELSEA	MA	2150
Lisa	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST FRANKFORT	IL	62896
Anne	Ramsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABERDEEN	WA	98520

Brian	Reilly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAMARONECK	NY	10543
Alexander	Cruz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10034
Joanne	Gordon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19134

Julie	Wolgamot	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANVILLE	IL	61832
Stephen	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMPTON	VA	23663
Ron	Tim	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUCHANAN	NY	10511

Veronica	Joll	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402
Mari	Bronczyk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERS	MO	63376
Marcus	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11214

Lynn	Lavallee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISVILLE	RI	2830
Sharon	Garlena	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICK	MD	21703
Debra	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CUERO	TX	77954

Holly	Ross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46240
Emma	Harold	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRINCETON	WV	24739
Lisa	Bollander	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNTAIN LAKES	NJ	7046

Corey	Kruse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSHKOSH	WI	54901
Adrienne	Roseberry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARLINGEN	TX	78552
Kara	Maxin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAYLAND	WA	98547

Tim	Eason	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS CRUCES	NM	88005
Anne	Patrick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DIGHTON	MA	2715
Christine	Francis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRADENTON	FL	34207

Deborah	Huntley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Since the advent of the huge monopolies the price has become obscenely expensive. The prices have gone up while wages are stagnant. This keeps average families from being able to afford channels that are educational. That keeps the children of America from information that is commonplace in in many countries. It is causing the dumbing down of our children. Capitalism can only work correctly when their is competition. The large monopolies need to be broken up for the sake of a healthy economy. Nobody can deny that the economy in the USA is broken. We need opportunity for all!!	HARRISON	AR	72601
Sarah	Grau	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHANDLER	AZ	85286

Louis	NiksickJr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURTON	OH	44021
Mary	Syrenne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORENCE	MT	59833
Zhanna	Pernik	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94121

Paige	Vargas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT JOSEPH	MI	49085
Ian	Donley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THOUSAND OAKS	CA	91360
Mariel	Kruse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RINGWOOD	NJ	7456

Gwen	Anthis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	8573"
Danette	Whipple	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE LURE	NC	28746
Chad	Heeley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KATY	TX	77450

Carol	Reed	We need more choicesI support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUBERTUS	WI	53033
Veronica	Sanborn Pledger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLBURY	MA	1527
Sherry	Dhondy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLYMOUTH	MI	48170

Grace	Kozlowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE IN THE HILLS	IL	60156
Brent	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90066
Jennifer	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KERNERSVILLE	NC	27284

Patricia	Flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAREDO	TX	78045
Sheila	Kearns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEVILLE	MI	48066
Chris	Monti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH RIDGEVILLE	OH	44039

michael	ford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98136
Marilyn	Cole	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO RIDGE	IL	60415
laura	stieber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WAYNE	IN	46805

Darrin	Christy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MATTHEWS	NC	28105
Maria	Alpanes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15212
Mark	Moerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98684

Bret	Armstrong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINDSOR	PA	17366
Aubrey	Brown Sr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60619
Doreen	Farscht	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	READING	PA	19610

Toney	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFIELD	IA	52556
shelby	welch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	CA	90744
Catherine	Picker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33710

Jon	Butina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHANDLER	AZ	85226
Rosa	Haley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I WANT MY ALJAZEERA AMERICA BACK!!!	RICHMOND HILL	NY	11418
Michelle	Nesdore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSTOWN	PA	15906

Samantha	Ferrara	I have three young kids and one cell phone in the house my husand works nights. We relyed on the house phone till recently the cable shut off our services for a non payment three years ago at a differnet address. They need to unlock everything including phone so we can call 911 atleast . .... I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUKEGAN	IL	60085
michael	wittig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRIFFITH	IN	46319

Rebecca	Riter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOUGHTON	MA	2072
Nanette	Betts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLIO	MI	48420
Heidi	Norton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	NC	28401

Li	Shen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10314
Catherine	Hale	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA MESA	CA	91941
Tara	Bamberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KISSIMMEE	FL	34744

Kelley	Currier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROMEOVILLE	IL	60446
Sara	Logan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10460
Kim	Ayala	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80525

Thomas	Routte	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORENCE	KY	41042
Kristen	Swanson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OR	97477
Lori	Lindquist	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99228

Kenneth	Green	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. In the past boxes were free but now it\'s just another way to squeeze another dollar from its consumers who must have the box to view programming. No alternatives are available to the consumer. Boxes should be cost of doing business and not leased by the month.	HOWEY IN THE HIL	FL	34737
Judy	Hosford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEMENTON	NJ	8021
Kamisha	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUTZ	FL	33558

Jose	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33178
Sheryl	McNeill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHEBORO	NC	27205
Kathleen	Bell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAYWARD	CA	94541

Stefan	Durham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97211
Brandon	Spivey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37211
Anita	Kurek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARKVILLE	MD	21234

Sherry	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVINGTON	KY	41016
Vera	Hanlon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OTTAWA	IL	61350
doreen	DeMarco	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIDALIA	GA	30474

Rebecca	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR SPRINGS	MI	49319
susan	milosevic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAPE CORAL	FL	33904
Charlotte	Lafer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15228

Patricia	Veal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN PEDRO	CA	90731
Jeffrey	Vanvranken	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	NY	12188
Kim	Lloyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOWLING GREEN	OH	43402

Sylvia	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30318
Robbie	Venezia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MALABAR	FL	32950
Sheri	Close	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. Enough is enough. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIXBY	OK	74008

Wilma	Dominguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32824
Paul	Markillie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND BLANC	MI	48439
Kathy	Ramsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OXFORD	OH	45056

Mary	Way	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRESTVIEW	FL	32539
Jody	Lopez-Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	TN	37013
Ann	Moses	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OREGON CITY	OR	97045

Anastasia	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	WV	25306
Donald	Allison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAUMONT	CA	92223
Sheldon	Koehler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ANGELES	WA	98362

Melina	Munoz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSVILLE	TX	78520
Robert	Krzebiot	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKFORT	IL	60423
Mike	Kleiber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEER PARK	NY	11729

Michael	Goehrig	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	NJ	8610
Ashley	Powers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	TN	37312
Sandy	Lowe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLMADGE	OH	44278

Rhonda	Martini	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97210
Suam	Rivera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32808

Jennifer	Clapham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. We need to end monopolization of the media. When you only have two choices, and neither fit your needs and are very expensive, you are forced to spend money you don\'t want to spend on an item that is not really what you want.	LATHAM	NY	12110
Larry	Linch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CROWLEY	TX	76036

Jaime	Staalenburg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78724
Loren	Kummer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98444
Jennifer	Elliott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKFIELD	MO	64628

Brad	Berger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARGO	ND	58103
James	Plagmann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	80304
Darcy	Shaffner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15206

James	Limbach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94602
Leslie	Todd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENVILLE	TX	75402
Erwin	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDWOOD CITY	CA	94063

Jeanne	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28212
Donna	Hernandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	O FALLON	IL	62269
Tonya	Rodriquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TARRYTOWN	NY	10591

Brenda	Peterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEND	OR	97701
Mary	Johnston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	98028
Mary jo	Salas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNION GROVE	WI	53182

Amber	Nicholson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44311
Bruce	Paulk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT AUGUSTINE	FL	32086
Alice	Green	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78758

Darryl	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45215
Robert	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BONNEY LAKE	WA	98391
ROGER	MINOR	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW PORT RICHEY	FL	34652

Stacie	Dibona	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERGENFIELD	NJ	7621
James	Ott	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTON	IL	62002
shirley	harrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PAWLEYS ISLAND	SC	29585

Joey	Schulte	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43214
Amanda	Redman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASSELBERRY	FL	32707
Elizabeth	Peterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68504

Maurice	Castro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93725
Raymond	Dillon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98125
Evelyn	Al-misnad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVERGREEN	CO	80437

sara	marcy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEMENTON	NJ	8021
Cassie	Jordan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENTON	TX	76209
Donald	Mi!ler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALOS HILLS	IL	60465

John	Tingley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98109
Debbie	Woodmansee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85716
Wanda	Haines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORENO VALLEY	CA	92555

Barbara	Gianna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THORNTON	CO	80241
John	Langsford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENSIDE	PA	19038
Katie	Mathews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHESAPEAKE	VA	23322

Jeri	Braandon-Begley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95926
Suzanne	Sloan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97222
Carolyn	Hebenstreit	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63128

Georgette	Quillin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST HELENA	MT	59635
Lawrence	DeVore Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10027
Michael	Meyers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOODYEAR	AZ	85338

Indranee	Clarke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89169
James	Orcutt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESA	AZ	85207
Marie	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELTONA	FL	32725

Jay	Arellano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOMFIELD	CO	80020
richard	miscione	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEARWATER	FL	33761
Jessica	Coco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JERSEY CITY	NJ	7306

Melissa	Gregorio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAHWAY	NJ	7065
SALLY	SNOW	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84123
Britny	Arteaga	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30316

Bonnie	Cantrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRANDON	FL	33511
Jessica	Hoffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSION VIEJO	CA	92691
Margaret	Goodnough	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55423

alex	patel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95111
John	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89170
Cathy	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSING	MI	48910

Debra	Greth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SELBYVILLE	DE	19975
John	Hailey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT VERNON	MO	65712
Doris	Brady	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	TN	37013

Heather	McGuirk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERNARDSTON	MA	1337
Bill	Anziani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	NC	28027
RITA	LEE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLATTSBURGH	NY	12901

Joanne	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TORRANCE	CA	90501
Ben	Hazw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRIS	IL	60450
Eloise	Christiansen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND MARAIS	MN	55604

Kathi	Ervin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILFORD	NH	3055
Sharon	Rettig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45414
Nathan	Turk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAMPAIGN	IL	61820

Roseanna	Gutierrez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY SHORE	NY	11706
Lisa	Storer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINFIELD	PA	17889
Kurtis	Ferry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IRVINE	PA	16329

jacob	gambler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MULDROW	OK	74948
William	Swanson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT FRANCIS	WI	53235
Patty	Ashley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND JUNCTION	CO	81504

Jeannie	Inglehart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55115
Susan	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	NC	27295
Susan	Arnold	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANGELO	TX	76903

Wendy	Manson-Myers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90038
R	F	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMBRIDGE	MA	2140
Noah	Vis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHEVILLE	NC	28804

scott	henry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN	WI	53132
Glenn	Jacobs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH HADLEY	MA	1075
peggy	felts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEATHERFORD	TX	76088

Kitty	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNTAIN RANCH	CA	95246
Margie	Tackett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUMMERFIELD	FL	34491
ibis	gato	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIALEAH	FL	33016

Joanne	Ogilvie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLAHASSEE	FL	32303
Jessica	Parks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KIRKSVILLE	MO	63501
Larry	Kiser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21202

Ginnie	Preuss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEPORT	CT	6606
Jay	Glover	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98661
Anthony	Nicoletti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YAPHANK	NY	11980

M.E.	Raines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEDONA	AZ	86336
Elizabeth	Schultz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAGINAW	MI	48603
Larisa	Gilley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85003

john	svitilla	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLENTOWN	PA	18103
Ann	Testa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VILLA PARK	IL	60181
Kenneth	Nalley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STEPHENVILLE	TX	76401

Elizabeth	Wilkes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATHENS	GA	30606
martha	wells	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE CITY	FL	32763
Larry	Norby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YUBA CITY	CA	95991

izayah	jeffrey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM SPRINGS	CA	92264
Teresa	Colvin	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSCLE SHOALS	AL	35661
Olga	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIALEAH	FL	33012

Bren	Danielson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN RAFAEL	CA	94901
Carriann	Frye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	NJ	8075
Colin	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LEE	VA	23801

Stephanie	Webb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROCKTON	MA	2301
Olga	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIALEAH	FL	33012
Art	Helbig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60657

Krystal	Romine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92124
James	Osborne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER	NH	3104
Thomas	Brook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELAWARE	OH	43015

Donald	Fleck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH BEND	IN	46613
Kellie	Krasovec	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDWARDS	CO	81632
Justin	Sassone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREEHOLD	NJ	7728

richard	busby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	77062
Todd	Streich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAMPLIN	MN	55316
Kelli	Favis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89115

Jack	Duffett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEY SPRINGS	CA	95252
Joanna	McVay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARMICHAEL	CA	95608
Donna	Shue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARLISLE	PA	17013

mary	McDowell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98229
Kyle	Ulrich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PERRYVILLE	MD	21903
Amy	Solley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTFIELD	IN	46074

Dan	Pena	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	93550
Melody	Bowen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGMAN	AZ	86409
Winfield	Waggoner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53211

Mark	Hesselgrave	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	GA	30032
Azlan	Allam	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89103
Charles	Livingston	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IRON RIVER	MI	49935

Robin	Hilyard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORWOOD	NY	13668
deborah	petteruti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNS ISLAND	SC	29455
Elizabeth	Mapplebeck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98155

Mark	Pierce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANDOLPH	MA	2368
Wayne	Cox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOBLESVILLE	IN	46060
Kevin	Hoyt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFORD	GA	30519

Ivan	Camacho	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78249
Ben	Dahlstrom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	MI	49341
Jackie	R	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85718

Audrey	Abernathy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WASHINGTO	MD	20744
JAMES	BAXTER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARCADIA	FL	34266
lauri	coville	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW PORT RICHEY	FL	34652

Omar	Flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60632
Diana	Butsch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST FALLS	NY	14170
Henry	Laureano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10036

Nick	Papworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV, not should they continue combining and monopolizing. The pressure they place on small businesses and cities demanding they not subsidize fairly priced internet and cable is also wrong and should be illegal. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSON CITY	TN	37604
Kelly	Durham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	VT	5156

Gregg	Schroeder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	IL	61109
ROGER	WIES	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WACO	TX	76708
Rose	Sterling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	CA	91107

Heidi	Barnes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67217
Rafat	Omar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	19002
Stacy	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44312

Thomas	Agriesti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLDSMAR	FL	34677
Stephan	Mccartney	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREEN VALLEY LAK	CA	92341
Daisy	Cartagena	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLENTOWN	PA	18104

Damion	Higgins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERO BEACH	FL	32962
Janelle	Odorico	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANOGA PARK	CA	91304
Kristin	Wyatt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23464

harold	townsend	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRINCETON	ME	4668
robert	cansler	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AIKEN	SC	29803
William	Giglio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOVELAND	CO	80537

Kimberly	Feldman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTONMENT	FL	32533
Louis	Borreli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENDALE	CA	91206
Melodie	Loury	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEDFORD	OH	44146

Eugene	Vargas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94132
Jack	Obrest	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92119
Barb	Powell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64123

Sam	Rizzo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEVERLY HILLS	CA	90210
Pamela	Gardner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAVERHILL	MA	1835
Apr ill l	Ohms	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15217

Juliana	Lucero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKDALE	AZ	86324
David	Dunham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45429
Theresa	Nealy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78729

John	Goodwin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMAICA PLAIN	MA	2130
Kevin	Mcguire	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLASSPORT	PA	15045
Aydee	Serrano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	Fort Laud

Lisa	Simms	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	KY	40069
john	Mack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCEANSIDE	CA	92056
Brian	Emanuele	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANDOLPH	NJ	7869

Robert	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45414
osvaldo	rocafort	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33183
Lori	Needham	Corporate America has got to stop abusing America!! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENO	NV	89503

Renee	Hayes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRINITY	NC	27370
Abbie	Oliver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA FOLLETTE	TN	37766
David	Carrillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REVERE	MA	2151

Elaine	Ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHELBY	NC	28152
Chiana	Skidmore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSVILLE	TN	37042
Phil	Bridges	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RACINE	WI	53403

Dawn	Handzus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANVILLE	IL	61326
Stephanie	Tesoriero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANORVILLE	NY	11949
Miguel	Molina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COTATI	CA	94931

dave	ogden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUNNYVALE	CA	94087
James A	Kyte Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSON CITY	TN	37601
Karen	Butler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95350

Cynthia	Winchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94102
Brett	Chase	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMBURG	NJ	7419
Robin	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92103

Tom	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33647
Joanne	Naclerio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITE PLAINS	NY	10603
Jim	Hurley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	NC	28406

Cheri	Oehler-Terman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52405
Serpil	CelikRamsay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TITUSVILLE	FL	32780
Matt	Berridge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDEPENDENCE	MO	64055

Darah	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	CA	91106
Pat	Pollard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GALLOWAY	OH	43119
Deborah	Wood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALTON	GA	30721

Jennifer	Gaulden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTEVALLO	AL	35115
Tayler	Wood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAPID CITY	SD	57701
Beth	Milheron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	IL	60502

Michael	Rance	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33433
Charles	Mazon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW SPRINGFIELD	OH	44443
THOMAS	YOUNG	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUPACA	WI	54981

Tonya	Lawshe	It is ridiculous for the consumer to be at the mercy of the cable companies. If viewing was allowed freely there would assuredly be an increase in viewership and the consumer volume could be competitive and business would soar. Stop stifling the public by leveraging the inability to watch what they want and having to continue to pay. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSBURG	IN	46112
Jenifer	Vail	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOCKPORT	NY	14094

Tonya	Lawshe	It is ridiculous for the consumer to be at the mercy of the cable companies. If viewing was allowed freely there would assuredly be an increase in viewership and the consumer volume could be competitive and business would soar. Stop stifling the public by leveraging the inability to watch what they want and having to continue to pay. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSBURG	IN	46112
Sandra	Drexel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOND DU LAC	WI	54935

John	Jerviss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUYALLUP	WA	98375
Karen	Grayson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89104
Jonh	Mack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENVILLE	NC	27834

Barbara	Bollinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OR	97478
Patrick	Guilliaems	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BALTIMORE	MI	48051
Pamela	Mirth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	KS	66111

Rhonda	Hern	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHASTA LAKE	CA	96089
Melissa	Berky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BANGOR	ME	4401
Patricia	Bradley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SWANNANOA	NC	28778

Hilary	Avalon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEBASTOPOL	CA	95472
Rae	Zehel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	TN	37115
Patti	delong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALMERTON	PA	18071

MaryBeth	Burton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33462
Diana	Hernandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA CANADA FLINTF	CA	91011
Margarita	Carter	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALDEN	NY	12586

Joe	lathus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO RIDGE	IL	60415
lynda	de;ellis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANNAPOLIS	NC	28081
Pam	Woodson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CYPRESS	CA	90630

MICHAEL	HOPPER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	MO	65803
Dahna	Lane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA HABRA	CA	90631
Wendy	Roussin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STARKVILLE	MS	39759

Megan	McCormack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMBURG	NY	14075
Jason	Spear	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40215
Barry	Livingston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KYLE	TX	78640

Janet	Mackenzie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN LORENZO	CA	94580
John	Mifsud	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94619
Kelly	Downey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRUDENVILLE	MI	48651

Russell	Leblanc	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREAUX BRIDGE	LA	70517
Scott	Leahy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRUDENVILLE	MI	48651
Kerry	Berger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAYETTEVILLE	AR	72701

Chris	Fredrichs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY VILLAGE	OH	44140
Donna	FerrierJohnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARLAND	TX	75044
Chris	Alburger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERVILLE	MA	2143

Luis	Espinosa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10040
Melissa	Porter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BALTIMORE	MI	48051
Robert	Paredes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSVILLE	TX	78521

Barbara	Frey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENOSHA	WI	53140
Olin	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALMDALE	CA	93550
Lynn	Middleton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	NJ	8618

Ben	Spaulding	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	IN	47143
Mike	Mcguire	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COATESVILLE	PA	19320
Jeff	Rule	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94607

Izabel	Souza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI BEACH	FL	33139
Eduardo	Brambila	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTCHESTER	IL	60154
Steve	Borchers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45252

Terri	Columbus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INVER GROVE HEIC	MN	55077
Denise	Ferries	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENTON	WA	98058
Virginia E	Reeves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43224

Scot	Toski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33487
Lisa	Langton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANKATO	MN	56002
Deb	Bunn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HICKSVILLE	OH	43526

Sean	Burlingham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELBOURNE	FL	32901
Brittany	Penrose	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	RI	2885

Jonathan	Wegner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I keep hearing how monopolies are bad, and yet since it\'s beginning cable has been a monopoly with only one company serving an area. And if you lived in rural areas like I did, cable wasn\'t even an option. It wasn\'t until the dish companies came into being that the monopoly was broken, but even the dish companies are a monopoly in that you pay for what they tell you to be able to watch what you want to watch. You want this channel, then you have to pay for package #4 which is more than packages 1-3, but that\'s the only way you can have that channel. Unlock the box!!!	YUCCA VALLEY	CA	92284
Ken	Ovryn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60625

Gautam	Kaul	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELK GROVE	CA	95757
Myranee	Hubbard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	WI	53185
jamea	potter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEARLAKE	CA	95422

Maria	Markiewicz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHENECTADY	NY	12303
JOY	PATTERSON	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98225
Asphodel	Denning	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98104

Jill	Evans	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHTABULA	OH	44004
Ed	Poe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLEASANTON	CA	94588
Terressa	Kennedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77034

Heather	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEVILLE	MN	55044
Holly	Grootonk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	CA	92504
Kyla	Shannon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	NY	12204

Janene	Brinkley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46254
Autumn	Mann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREMEN	IN	46506
Aquilla	Yoder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HADLEY	PA	16130

galen	snyder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTOONA	PA	16602
Cindy	Haviland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WELLS	VT	5774
Phoenix	BlackHawk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94115

David	Marquis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEWISTON	ME	4240
Ditas	Valenzuela	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIO RANCHO	NM	87124
Tarsha	Latif	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33026

Shelly	Silver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES MOINES	IA	50313
David	Kwitkowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60646
Tracy	Turner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEXAS CITY	TX	77591

Richard	Tutching	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTPORT	CT	6880
Trudy	Marotta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	VA	22152
Tiffani	Spaulding	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SECAUCUS	NJ	7094

Paula	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMA	WA	98541
David	Parry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOMEWOOD	IL	60430
Patrick	McCabe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT GERMAIN	WI	54558

Diana	Lynn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAVANNAH	GA	31405
Paul	Newman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE HOPATCONG	NJ	7849
Archi	Hipkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDVALE	UT	84047

Roz	Alexander	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTCH PLAINS	NJ	7076
Lourdes	Ortiz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80911
Elnora	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COATESVILLE	PA	19320

Lessie	Laney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THOMASVILLE	NC	27360
Valerie	Hoffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENMORE	WA	98028
Ronald	Fisher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRICK	NJ	8724

Mary	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW MARTINSVILL	WV	26155
Twana	Boyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43607
Jamie	Dewitz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERLOO	IA	50701

Paul	Redmond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLOWS FALLS	VT	5101
David	Adamd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. David Adams	FREMONT	CA	94555
Mary	Fitzgibbons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILFORD	CT	6460

Bambi	Henderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Release us from hostage please. Thank you!	#N/A	#N/A	98478
John	Espinoza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHARR	TX	78577
Stephen	Skees	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN	CO	80921

michael	meers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44310
Eleanor	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVERMORE	CA	94551
jeffrey	thomas	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEYMOUR	TN	37865

Elbert	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PICAYUNE	MS	39466
irene	guzman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARY	IN	46406
Robert	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84111

Tyson	Elling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98226
lelia	hodges	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTSMOUTH	VA	23703
Mara	Wooten	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNIGHTDALE	NC	27545

Kathleen	Pollard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19130
Ron	Ellis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	CA	94518
RACHEL	JEANOTTE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98661

Jose	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEHIGH ACRES	FL	33971
Jon	Seidman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW MILFORD	CT	6776
Tiffany	Claiborne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	MS	39212

Heather	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELBOURNE	FL	32904
Brian	Coletta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27104
Brian	Shopsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT PLEASANT	PA	15666

Cheri	Tieso	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	IA	52732
Lisa	Kennedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARDIFF BY THE SE	CA	92007
Nelson	Luis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33626

Billy	Tieso	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	IA	52732
Kimberly	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23224
Janna	Brown	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANDY	UT	84070

Charles	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBORO	NC	27407
Peter	Moreno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85029
V.	Phelps	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOWELL	AR	72745

PACO	GARCIA	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78228
tony	Aras	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSIDE	NJ	7205
Joseph	Waldron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST JORDAN	UT	84088

John	Underwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM SPRINGS	CA	92264
Janice	Sinna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARIBAULT	MN	55021
Jason	Vance	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT VERNON	OH	43050

Jackie	Bodiou	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWENSBORO	KY	42303
Andrea	Brockelman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORK	ME	3909
Margaret	Pfaff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	DE	19801

Ronald	Tippitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90034
Bryan	Mohr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLINT	MI	48507
Beth	Levine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORADELL	NJ	7649

Robin	Forrest	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92111
James	Stadler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	4
Richard	IRITANO	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OZONE PARK	NY	11417

Lauralee	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEWATER	NJ	8807
Juanita	McDaniel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67210
John	Evangelista	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	IL	62701

Rick	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLOUD	FL	34769
Suki	Fasano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98155
Andrea	Chait	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITHONIA	GA	30058

Diane	Jones	Unlock the boxI support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19130
Timothy	Collins	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROCKTON	MA	2301
Sherry	Stover-Volker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT HOLLY	NJ	8060

Ken	Schroppe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELMAR	NJ	7719
Ronald	Breining Sr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT HOLLY	NJ	8060
Steve	Colajezzi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENSALEM	PA	19020

David	Krouse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GULF SHORES	AL	36542
Trina	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLAHASSEE	FL	32301
Sue	Brim	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92127

Joolz	Roolzu	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RUSHFORD	MN	55971
Edward	Schopf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARLTON	NJ	8053
Michael	Lacy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77086

Madeline	Tucker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60630
Colleen	Hansen	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEER ISLE	ME	4627
Winifred	Schopf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARLTON	NJ	8053

Phillip	Wagner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97203
Irene	McGee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUEBLO	CO	81001
mark	small	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOMPOC	CA	93436

Shari	Covens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75219
Juan	Arellano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN BERNARDINO	CA	92404
Melva	George	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWARK	NJ	7106

Alton	Duderstadt	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUNDEE	IL	60118
Jeremy	Kriegel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	MA	2474
Teresa	Vestal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLINT	MI	48506

Nancy	DAvis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAVRE DE GRACE	MD	21078
Cael	Kuhlman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST SACRAMENT	CA	95691
Peter	Earley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COMMERCE TOWN	MI	48382

Nicholas	St-croix	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSTON	MI	48348
Naomi	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60657
Dylan	Stjepovic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11221

Johnathan	Duvall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN PARK	MI	48146
Martin	Urbanczyk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOMETOWN	IL	60456
Donna	TrusKowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	DE	19808

Stanley	Biggers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLADAY	TN	38341
Robert	Dodge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERCED	CA	95348
amy	drown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	ME	4864

Nancy	Davin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IOWA CITY	IA	52240
Jason	Adler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	CT	6413
PACO	GARCIA	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78228

Nicole	Sams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48224
Michelle	Cerniauskas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27616
Phil	Godwin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKY MOUNT	NC	27801

Robin	Ostrom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARTLETT	IL	60103
Micharl	Breen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LENEXA	KS	66219
Michael	Ryba	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK PARK	IL	60304

Laurir	Oldfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDEN	UT	84404
Pedro	Carlo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33060
Lauren	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YPSILANTI	MI	48197

Charles	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBORO	NC	27407
Sherrie	McCarthy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68502
Lila	CAMPION	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUN CITY	CA	92586

jay	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELLISON BAY	WI	54210
Leanne	Gaunt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ECHO	OR	97826
Jamilah	Lawry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DARBY	PA	19023

Janet	Hagen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55128
Janet	Hagen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55128
Tipton	Russell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLE ISLAND	NY	11953

Nickolas	Garner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77004
Kim	Gelinas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AGAWAM	MA	1001
Renee	Cash	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUN VALLEY	CA	91352

Logan	Garvey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	IL	61107
Lamont	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EULESS	TX	76039
Pam	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95825

Ivan	Ricov	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JERSEY CITY	NJ	7306
Ailene	Farkac	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVERTON	OR	97078
Marina	Lutz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10036

DeAnn	Wabuti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLCHESTER	VT	5446
Philip	Shimkus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ACWORTH	GA	30102
Kendall	Purselley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANBURY	TX	76048

Thomas	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEARBORN	MI	48124
Emerson	Kasper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVERETT	MA	2149
Darrell	Palmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENTON	WA	98058

carlee	trent	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OH	45505 cindy	dean	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERO BEACH	FL	32967
Les	Panek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERIDIAN	MS	39305

Michael	Caudill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RINGGOLD	GA	30736
Glenda	Gregory	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AFTON	OK	74331
Joanne	Goykin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT JEFFERSON S	NY	11776

Debbie	Lloyd	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTARA	CA	94037
Darlene	Cunningham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATAUGA	TN	37694
Thomas	valentine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRICEDALE	PA	15072

Frank	Jaskulski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BINGHAMTON	NY	13901
K	Rivard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48091
Beth	Ray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	IL	62703

Kimberly	Townsend	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63117
Kim	Gant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HICKORY	NC	28601
Edward	McGrath	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19147

Jennifer	Tenharmsel	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ZEELAND	MI	49464
dale	riehart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94107
Jeff	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBERTVILLE	AL	35950

Chris	Caddell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TWINSBURG	OH	44087
Johnathan	Stallman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITESBORO	NY	13492
Marci	Benkowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	CA	92501

Erin	Wolfe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37211
Mo	Byzz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCK HILL	NY	12775
Katherine	Barts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHEBOYGAN	WI	53081

Helen	Beasley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AFTON	OK	74331
Helen	Beasley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AFTON	OK	74331
Todd	Bryson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FENTON	MI	48430

Ingrid	Petersen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOVATO	CA	94945
DeAnna	Richardson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85053
Elizabeth	Murrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSONVILLE	TN	37075

Randy	Wieden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55448
Tonya	Woodard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTERVILLE	NC	28590
Daniel	Cadzow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	14214

Gabriel	Szoke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46201
Luis	De Toledo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERVILLE	MA	2145
Susan	Lindsay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55435

George	Bailey-Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	PA	17602
Tammy	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOWNSEND	TN	37882
chantel	shepherd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98225

Michael	Healy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43614
Dusty	Cordell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUEBLO	CO	81004
LeChonne	WRIGHT	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL CAJON	CA	92020

Shannon	Barrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER	NH	3104
jim	hartley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89166
victoria	Smith,	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTINSBURG	WV	25401

Georgiann	Kiricoples	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27103
Janice	Lawrence	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHLAND CITY	TN	37015
Tina	Mills	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBORO	NC	27405

sharon	blickenstaff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97225
Jennifer	Paynter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITE PLAINS	NY	10606
Eric	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VENTURA	CA	93001

Anne	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PERRIS	CA	92570
Jessica	Carfagno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNNWOOD	WA	98036
Pam	Lytle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHATTAROY	WA	99003

Charles	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANFORD	FL	32772
Russell	Vanderwende	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19123
Rhonda	Lavine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76107

Alice	Gray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	TX	77503
Gina	Pantier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FEDERAL WAY	WA	98003
Jenny	Jenkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERRYVILLE	VA	22611

Sheila	Romero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW IBERIA	LA	70563
Kelvin	Hoffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76118
Timothy	Szarzynski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60655

Royal	Gonzales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DIXON	IL	61021
jason	balinski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRINCETON	IA	52768
Thomas	Sartain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATCHISON	KS	66002

Mike	Villasenor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSION HILLS	CA	91345
Chris	Dias	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	DE	19810
Julio	Guzman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10033

bonnie	tichardson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	19707
Minsha	Ho	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OZONE PARK	NY	11417
Scott	Woods	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEARLAND	TX	77584

Laura	Sanchez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA FE SPRINGS	CA	90670
Alyce Y.	Sanders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERSET	NJ	8875
Michelle	Blosser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90035

Kate	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAYDEN	ID	83835
Jason	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15228
mike	yarnott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49508

Nancy	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32835
Mimi	Louiso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLAGSTAFF	AZ	86004
Elizabeth L.	Moon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALO ALTO	CA	94306

JENNIFER	GROVE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT MYERS	FL	33907
Denise	Hodges	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOSSIER CITY	LA	71111
Bob	Douglas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILO	HI	96720

Lisa	Cheney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARWINTON	CT	6791
ERNEST	DOCS	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	METUCHEN	NJ	8840
James	Brighter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COEUR D ALENE	ID	83814

Summer	Hayes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ERIE	CO	80516
Kathy	Putnam	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVINGTON	VA	24426
Linda	Paris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLE NECK	NY	11362

Joseph	Hargis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	OH	44708
Jeremy	Furtner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97203
Kevin	Mulcahey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSWEGO	NY	13126

Rick	Williams	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHINGTON	CT	6489
James	Heusner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10469
CHRIS	BALL	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. The cable TV industry already gouges the public for huge rates while still selling ad spots that always generated huge profita and kept /TV free...ENOUGH IS ENOUGH!	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33314

Nancy	Mitchell	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAHAINA	HI	96761
Myra	Fleming	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBORO	NC	27407
Dana	Denmark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLOW GROVE	PA	19090

Nancy	Woelfel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVIDSONVILLE	MD	21035
George	Andreadakis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAYSIDE	NY	11361
Ardis	Matus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85022

lisa	davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST ORANGE	NJ	7052
Paulette	Niehoff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34112
Carolyn	Biggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40203

Deni	Sellers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINDSOR	CO	80550
Ann Marie	Valk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10307
Sam	Marzouk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78247

Anthony	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90066
Gene	Planes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH LAS VEGAS	NV	89031
Maria	Heldens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROYSE CITY	TX	75189

Debby	Mulcahey	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSWEGO	NY	13126
Stephen	Guenther	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95834
Sharon	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING	TX	77373

Brax	Greve	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DONAHUE	IA	52746
Jacob	Fulmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSTOWN	NJ	8867
alan	sapolsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11223

Roderick	Russell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSLYN	NY	11576
Sheena	Blanchard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDNER	MA	1440
Robert	Watson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLAHASSEE	FL	32308