Helen	langley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73162
Joe	Alati	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HONEOYE FALLS	NY	14472
Jennifer	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14221

Kira	Price	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22401
James	Blevins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOBART	IN	46342
Ethan	Wheeler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76107

CATHLEEN	CROWLEY	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOMBARD	IL	60148
Andrew	Draus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVUE	IA	52031
Rich	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MABLETON	GA	30126

Mary	Andriotakis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALISBURY	MA	1952
Linda	Asleson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99208
Donzella	Godbolt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	NJ	8618

Marlece	Turner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20011
Dante	coleman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNIONDALE	NY	11553
Steve	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MATTHEWS	NC	28104

Scott	Armstrong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OR	97391
Steven	Frey	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DESERT HOT SPRIN	CA	92241
Luis	Gamero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOLFEBORO	NH	3894

Nestor	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box We need innovation and choices!	YONKERS	NY	10701
Dom	Caswell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCRANTON	PA	18505
Gary	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEARBORN HEIGH	MI	48125

Charles	Lindsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38118
Matthew	Peterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARBOURSVILLE	VA	22923
Shawna	Langdell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38107

Karen	Herr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SLIDELL	LA	70458
Christy	Buchanan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	TN	37716
Wendy	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68521

Nikki	Hadzicki	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORAM	NY	11727
Stefan	Kwiatkowski	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97401
Teresa	Lana	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS OSOS	CA	93402

Arlen	Beileson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHULA VISTA	CA	91914
dennis	kneip	Stop corporate technology degradation. support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMPSHIRE	IL	60140
Tommy	Hodge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSTON	TN	37763

JOSEPH	PIASEK	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	3.3E+07
Anita	Noeder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM COAST	FL	32137
Victoria	De Carvalho	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DESERT HOT SPRIN	CA	92240

Becky	Kerr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89130
Roy	Laccone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESLEY CHAPEL	FL	33543
Matthe	Ankrom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMFIELD HILLS	MI	48302

Louis	Lacy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROE	LA	71203
Neil	Hjorth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDEN	UT	84405
Donald	Patterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSKEGON	MI	49444

linda	fisher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAZLETON	PA	18202
Joe	DiGangi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROMEOVILLE	IL	60446
Rob	O\'Dwyrr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTHROP	MA	2152

Agustin	Rivera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95122
Sheryl	Lawrinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICKLIFFE	OH	44092
Ruth	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GROTON	NY	13073

Kristen	Constable	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GIG HARBOR	WA	98335
R.S.	McAlary	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLOVIS	CA	93612
Patricia	Egger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55103

May	Darwish	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING VALLEY	CA	91977
Don	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TWENTYNINE PALM	CA	92277
Joanna	Olszewski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROSPECT HEIGHT	IL	60070

Lloyd	Mudie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	ME	4950
Joanna	Dye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBERT LEA	MN	56007
Juan	Anzola	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH MIAMI BEA	FL	33160

Mark	Kovi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKY RIVER	OH	44116
Tamara	Shurling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. They also shouldn\'t be allowed to have data caps so I can watch my streaming and not pay $300 a month for internet service!!!	GUYTON	GA	31312

Eric	Engelberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENGLISHTOWN	NJ	7726
Michelle	Adorno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COMMERCE CITY	CO	80022
Terri	Dundas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRESCOTT	AZ	86304

Chris	Kuehl	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APPLETON	WI	54911
Vanity	Washington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOBILE	AL	36695
Kim	Kee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW JOHNSONVIL	TN	37134

Sheila	Dunbar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLANTSVILLE	CT	6479
Vicki	Rios Sanchex	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49504
Sherry	Moon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Give us the choices we want. Stop forcing us to bow down to the cable monopolies.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15210

Eileen	Vandernoot	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YONKERS	NY	10710
Anthony	Fletcher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JERSEY CITY	NJ	7306

Gerry.	Pinion	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I am going to have to let go of cable as it is now what is more important....my health needs or my entertainment that is now $79 a month. The cable companies are robbing us with your blessing. Shame on you!	STILLWATER	OK	74074
peter	waligora	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALINAS	CA	93901

John	Everlast	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55107
Denise	Privett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALTVILLE	VA	24370
DOUGLAS	WHITMORE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68122

Vicki	Rigsby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14622
Adam P.	Scopino, Jr.	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT JERVIS	NY	12771
kathy	ramaglia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRADENTON	FL	34203

Delores	Garrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GWYNN OAK	MD	21207
Joyce	Wall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84123
Laurel	Hamlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SENECA	SC	29672

Tim	Flynn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREMONT	CA	94538
Kevin	Fisher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23224
Robert	Oakley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	CA	94549

David	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRESHAM	OR	97080
Penney	Bush	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHVILLE	NY	13681
Nikka	Deskin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55435

Michael	Flatto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFIELD	CT	6825
Tammi	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	KY	40505
Forrest	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YUBA CITY	CA	95991

Kristy	Shewbridge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTINSBURG	WV	25404
Diane	Bryce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAPEER	MI	48446
Elma	Lannager	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROULETTE	PA	16746

Tracey	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89129
LINDA	COX	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRESTWOOD	KY	40014
Laura	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80903

Jon	Ellwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLE ROCK	AR	72209
Amanda	Varner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	NC	27925
Christopher	Googins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH ANDOVER	MA	1845

Kimberly	McGuire	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33301
Jennifer	Conforti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DARLINGTON	PA	16115
Angela	Alfe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60657

Catherine	Monk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSON CITY	NY	13790
D	L	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	TX	76002
Cynthia	Goggin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALPHARETTA	GA	30004

Sandi	Valencia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90808
Eric	Granger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTAMONTE SPRIN	FL	32701
David	Carr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKINS PARK	PA	19027

Deborah	Willis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELTON	MO	64012
Linda	Kinnaman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA MESA	CA	91942
Arturo	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11206

Michael	Hansen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98168
Lydia	Romero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONGVIEW	WA	98632
Heather	Roe-Lehman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KALAMAZOO	MI	49048

Tonya	Whetstone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST ORANGE	NJ	7019
Kimberly	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78251
Rebecca	Smiroldo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95124

shelly	quartaro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONTARIO	NY	14519
Wayne	Mickel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHEVILLE	NC	28806
Debra	Hull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATASCADERO	CA	93422

helwn	thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMMOND	IN	46324
Margaret	Skinner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALGONAC	MI	48001
Carolyn	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTSVILLE	AL	35810

Heidi	Susla	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CROMWELL	CT	6416
Charles	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97305
Willie	Tucker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDEPENDENCE	LA	70443

Nancy	Marett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30327
Rick	Provenzano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST PALM BEACH	FL	33411
pam	rehbein	WHERES FREE TV THIS SURE AINT FREE!!!!!! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH MILWAUKE	WI	53172

Beverly	Moss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOWIE	TX	76230
Julie	Maxwell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODINVILLE	WA	98072
Karen	Shakkour	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10007

Karen	Coburn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33805
Elias	Abunassar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEWISBURG	PA	17837
Tracey	Gordon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19142

Jody	Dupuy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGAN CITY	LA	70380
Lisa	Houck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONT VERNON	NH	3057
Tracey	Gordon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19142

Eric	Paoletti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BINGHAMTON	NY	13903
James	Quillin Jr	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST HELENA	MT	59635
Elena	Leosewski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EASTLAKE	OH	44095

Sandra	Palkovic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	PA	17046
Brandy	Armstrong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KILN	MS	39556
Nathalie	Freeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98406

Jennifer	Wickward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEWELL	NJ	8080
Belinda	Mikel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAPEVINE	TX	76051
Jayme	Shirley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HURST	TX	76053

Laurel	Lloyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAUREL	MD	20723
Reginald	Grigsby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60626
Joe	Sousa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS BANOS	CA	93635

Les	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLETON	CO	80127
Ed	Montero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APO	AE	9007
Evan	Rihde	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90048

Jack	Diodato	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAYBROOK	NY	12543
victoria	madrigal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMECULA	CA	92592
Clinton	Boone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WYANDANCH	NY	11798

Denise	Morris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	WV	25312
Donni	karczmarczyk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT MADISON	IA	52627
Jerome	Webb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. American consumers pay an average of $231, sometimes more, per year to lease a cable box. This hurts consumers, limits competition, and props up cable profits while holding back a consumer\'s option to change their package. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to control what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33138

Cheryl	Dalton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurtses it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN	KS	66735
Paul	Fugate	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL CENTRO	CA	92243
Greg	Stump	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAGUNA NIGUEL	CA	92677

Kate	Cordell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE MARY	FL	32746
John	Dant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KEY WEST	FL	33040
Sherrill	Hubbard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALMDALE	CA	93552

Kelly	Westphal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55125
Rich	Jimenez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOW	OH	44224
Laura	Ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHEYENNE	WY	82009

shirley	redford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT	NC	28570
karen	mcnerney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITEFIELD	NH	3598
Jerald	Palmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANDERSON	CA	96007

Karla	Meredith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APPLETON CITY	MO	64724
tamara	kidd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402
Terry	Kerr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW CASTLE	PA	16101

Susan	Karpy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM COAST	FL	32164
Maurice	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30339
Norma	Long Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN LEANDRO	CA	94578

Dianne	Shaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PATERSON	NJ	7509
Kate	Gualtieri	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORTON	PA	19070
Konnor	Buxton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74133

Tamara	Henderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CROTON ON HUDS	NY	10520
Pedro	Luna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77075
Juel	Rice	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	MI	48094

Tom	Voorhees	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOZEMAN	MT	59718
carolyn	sharp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PADUCAH	KY	42003

Elizabeth	Mullaney	Why does America not enforce anti trust laws? We have no free press any longer because the government allows the same six conglomerates to own and operate all media outlasts and suppress objective reporting of the news. This is a morally corrupt and morally bankrupt system. Do we enforce our laws here in this country or not? I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87111
Alyssa	De Luca	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10465

Damiel	Luis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	11469
Robert	Ellin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEVENS	MA	1434
William	Lincicome	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LORAIN	OH	44052

Julie	Ham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARLISLE	PA	17013
Heidi	B	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYCAMORE	IL	60178
Cynthia	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVERSON	PA	15631

Janet	Payne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63114
Logan	Hilton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH MYRTLE BE	SC	29582
Michelle	Barker-Childs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OXFORD	AL	36203

Lynn	Warner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92110
Donald	McWethy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMYRNA	GA	30080
Daniel	Velasquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33326

Chris	Epps	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27607
Linda	Sisk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTREVILLE	VA	20121
Beth	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85716

liz	hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33157
Jeremy	Ruzanski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEVILLE	MI	48066
Melissa	Houck	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAXHAW	NC	28173

Julie	Ham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARLISLE	PA	17013
Mallory	Yoder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREMERTON	WA	98311
Deb	Aughenbaugh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLETON	CO	80123

Nancy	Proesel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEKALB	IL	60115
Debra	Sanders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHEAT RIDGE	CO	80033
Roger	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ORCHARD	WA	98366

Robert	Worth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKTON	MD	21921
LeeAnn	Jubenville	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAYPORT	NY	11705
jeffery	pallo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH BEND	IN	46615

Jabar	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GASTONIA	NC	28052
Neil	Tobin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23453
Brenda	Muskas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MALABAR	FL	32950

RUTH	TAYLOR	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOVELAND	OH	45140
Carrol	Mick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	NC	28540
Kimberly	Sisk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANGELO	TX	76903

Kimberly	Fasano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOVATO	CA	94947
Susan	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALNUT CREEK	CA	94595
Kristin	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68104

D	C	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76179
Ken	Shiloff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERVILLE	NJ	8876
Kristi	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESA	AZ	85206

Levell	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WAYNE	IN	46806
David	Koziol	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60631
Jill	Southerland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32826

Laurie	Berberich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANDWICH	IL	60548
Lorrie	Silva	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85086
James	Harvey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MASTIC BEACH	NY	11951

c	boehm	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLVILLE	NJ	8332
Danielle	Robillard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAPPY VALLEY	OR	97086
Penny	Lafountain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMFIELD HILLS	MI	48304

Danielle	Lutz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRACKENRIDGE	PA	15014
Wayne	Van	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALHAMBRA	CA	91801
Christine	Goldman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ODENTON	MD	21113

Brenda	Shea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13219
Teresa	Simpson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUSANVILLE	CA	96130
Jackie	Elkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUBBOCK	TX	79410

Paige	Collins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33323
Tammy	Coon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANVILLE	IL	61832
Ruth	McLean	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWINGS MILLS	MD	21117

Sondra	Soufane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAYLOR	MI	48180
Sara	Ham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68144
Maria	Garcia-Eggly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POWAY	CA	92064

Stephanie	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINDSOR	CO	80550
Mary	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTGOMERY VIL	MD	20886
Carol	Scheckelhoff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANFIELD	OH	44406

Keith	Peters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKFORT	KY	40601
Pete	Kutcher V	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60641
Cindy	Perrin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONTONAGON	MI	49953

Theresa	Gordon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLEBURG	FL	32068
Dale	Lawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA FIELDS	IL	60461
Julie	Easlick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ZACHARY	LA	70791

Julian	Imbachi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33183
Patricia	Rojas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10457
Martin	Stockdale	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33065

Ken	Brucker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BONITA	CA	91902
Stanley J	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORTON	PA	19070
Lola	Niasse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10011

Toni	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DORCHESTER	MA	2121
david	crawford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEBRING	FL	33870
Robert	Ratti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89115

BOB	KNOX	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	33461
Stephen	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOLIVAR	OH	44612
Tiffany	Carrera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VACAVILLE	CA	95688

Loretta	Russon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST JORDAN	UT	84088
Amber	Eggers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99202
Julie	Shouse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27127

Loretta	Russon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST JORDAN	UT	84088
Haley	Blair	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PONTIAC	IL	61764
Gretchen	Hoffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUCKEYE	AZ	85326

Ray	Ahearn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOCKPORT	IL	60441
Darrin	Shouse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27127
Lawrence	Magras	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE	CT	6477

Maryjane	Streeter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELOIT	WI	53511
Catherine	Cornelius	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97218
David	Ellegant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60630

Kent	Reeves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	XENIA	OH	45385
Cathleen	Schulz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33314
Manuel	Matos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENTON	KY	42025

Adam	Wingfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22405
Pa Yiar	Khang	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH SAINT PAU	MN	55075
Keith	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PERRIS	CA	92570

Richard	moskola	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORRISTOWN	PA	19403
zach	laney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48214
Darold	Babcock Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARD	AR	72176

George	STEFENELLI	I have already cut the cord and refuse to go back. It\'s too much money for what should be easy, I pay for what I want and only what I want. I also don\'t care if a company supposedly paid for the lines under my house, I pick who I want to go with as a company and I should not have to go with a company only because it says where I live is its area and I don\'t get a choice. Because of that I get price fixed into paying for more than I have to instead of a fair price just like internet. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77082
jessica	rivera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48214

Karla	Boemig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARASOTA	FL	34237
ARTURO	ROSADO	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	22309
Sheri	Wickham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEMUS POINT	NY	14712

Russell	Felton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTER VALLEY	PA	18034
Kevin	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPA	CA	94558
Craig	Perkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98155

Jennifer	Frcho	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Please consider making cable channels available al a carte.	CLEVELAND	OH	44118
Crystal	Vance	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERDUNVILLE	WV	25649
Tom	Flake	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KILLDEER	ND	58640

Mark	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSGOOD	IN	47037
Moira	MacLean	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENTON	WA	98059
lesa	richards	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CHARLES	IL	60174

Penelope	Hurt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78247
Julie	Woods	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATKINSVILLE	GA	30677
Robert	sparks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVER GROVE	IL	60171

John	Muse Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SILVER CREEK	GA	30173
Doug	Bell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74145
Elizabeth	Suellentrop	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95138

Billy	Traylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEY	AL	36854
Christine	Hartz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MC DONALD	PA	15057
Jen	Thurston	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74105

James	Richardson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UTICA	NY	13501
Jeannine	Sawicki	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80224
Lisa	Deluccio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTMINSTER	CA	92683

Nancy	Dieffenbach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	NC	28409
paul	vu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89139
Adam	Olgin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AVON LAKE	OH	44012

Ary	Warbenjagermanje	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. +please kindly hang yourselves you service dropping leeches, and give your American and Indian help desk employees a raise.	WINOOSKI	VT	5404
Teri	Gast	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURBANK	CA	91505

Shantell	Bentley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAGLE LAKE	FL	33839
Ian	Sagucio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBURG	PA	15601

Dona	Sweetland	When my small town in Florida had 5 cable companies I paid $12.60/month for basic cable. Now there\'s no competition and I pay well over $100/month. Monopolies are bad for everyone except the owner of the monopoly. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILSONVILLE	OR	97070
kellie	hatch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSBORO	MO	63050

Darlene	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30315
Alan	Rollins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLAHASSEE	FL	32312
Stephanie	Merrill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCHENRY	IL	60050

Carolyn	Haack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANN ARBOR	MI	48105
Scott	Willi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH BEND	IN	46637
Jeanne	Page Arvidson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW LENOX	IL	60451

Tamara	Miles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORWAY	ME	4268
Sheryl	Pike	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85029
janet	singer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES PLAINES	IL	60018

Julie	Mock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMP HILL	PA	17011
jeremy	perigo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSVILLE	TN	37043
Angeline	Broomhall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLVILLE	NJ	8332

Connie	Triller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTINSVILLE	IN	46151
Clarissa	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAMPA	ID	83686
Clara	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEAFORD	DE	19973

J	Shea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	MN	55902
Angus	Day	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80521
Lloyd	Colburn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TURLOCK	CA	95380

Elizabeth	Manske	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	95215
Glenna	McKitterick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	MN	55901

Kathleen	Feeney	Iam sick if these outrageous prices and am soon to be unplugged if something doesnt change. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15216
Kelby	Sisson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST KINGSTON	RI	2892

Becky	Melton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32817
Angela	Keres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERKELEY	CA	94707
James	Omar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STERLING	VA	20166

Robert	Frey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ERIE	CO	80516
Ruby	Barillas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH HOLLYWO(	CA	91605
Leonel	Rojas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33161

Kim	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST SACRAMENT	CA	95605
Joshua	Bickford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKLAND	ME	4841
Kenneth	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YPSILANTI	MI	48198

C	cutler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23503
Alger	Newberry III	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FENTON	MI	48430
Melvinia	Knight	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PERTH AMBOY	NJ	8862

Kristie	Howard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCDONOUGH	GA	30252
Kelly	Darst	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YEAGERTOWN	PA	17099
Peggy	Hoffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN	OH	45005

Timothy	Sheppard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	CA	93535
Robert	Barnwell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOULDER	CO	80306
Mary	Burlew	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUINCY	MI	49082

Judith	Russo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97206
Mark	Proffitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45409
Jenny	Ng	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERCER ISLAND	WA	98040

Amy	Leverson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80209
Sarah	Molina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74136
Susan	Palma	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	MN	55912

KELLY	AHEARN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COUDERSPORT	PA	16915
Ellen	Segal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANCHORAGE	AK	99504
Anastasia	Cronin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90025

Lisa	Haynes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURTON	WA	98013
Sasha	Roudenko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10010
Jennifer	Willson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARKERSBURG	WV	26104

Daniel	Brun	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENNINGTON	NJ	8534
Lauren	Tweeton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN	TN	37064
Torance	Austin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	MS	39212

Deborah	Reilly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WORTHINGTON	MA	1098
Greg	Urquhart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33305
coreen	vitack	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSTON	PA	18704

Sadaf	Baig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEVITTOWN	NY	11756
Eileen	Brennan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10025
Richard	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	CA	94706

Christopher	Dotson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lower prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. I urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box!	RUSSELLVILLE	AR	72802
Roxie	Huszar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVANSTON	IL	60202
Debbie	Flake	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CATHEDRAL CITY	CA	92234

Jeffrey	Schwartz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15218
mary jane	whalley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OREGON CITY	OR	97045
Lorraine	smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NC	27713

Vicki	Bacila	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APOLLO BEACH	FL	33572
Sarah	Barton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	VA	24201
Lynly	Gilman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	NY	13667

Dana	West	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77082
Monica	Ashbaugh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA VERNE	CA	91750

Neil	JAiCtiN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. WHAT ARE REASONS WHY THE CABLE COMPANIES ARE CHARGING TOO MUCH TO US THE CONSUMERS AND INCREASES THEIR LIKE EVERY YEAR	HONOLULU	HI	96818
Angela	Woods	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. I love in a rural community. There are trees around my home. I can\'t get dish or directv because of it. There is only one cable company in town and they don\'t offer dvr in our area. I thought, well, I\'ll just use Hulu and Netflix and amazon tv and not get cable. CBS offers a paid version of their channel without a cable subscription. Most others don\'t. I can\'t even watch USA shows at all without cable. It\'s ridiculous. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see.	VENETA	OR	97487

richard	montgomery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34476
Vanessa	Pianfetti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTLAND	MI	48185
John	Schroeder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60646

Dorinne	MMcKay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UPPER MARLBORC	MD	20772
Jaime	Davila	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33315
Holly	G	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	IL	62704

Karen	Ballard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63104
Thomas	Altman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NARBERTH	PA	19072
jackie	hamblen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45239

Tracey	Jensen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VACAVILLE	CA	95687
John	McLane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78723
Robert	Macaluso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLMORE	NY	11710

Jake	Sawyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	OR	97504
Dawn	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLASGOW	MT	59230
Karen	Huebner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33305

Pam	Wolff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORSYTH	GA	31029
Monica	Unseld	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40299
Robert	Mullins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95117

Michael	Davenport	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STANHOPE	NJ	7874
Kevin	Finn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIMA	OH	45805
Holliday	Cullimore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEJO	CA	94591

Kevin	Edwards	This is the 21st century! The cable companies have had a ridiculous monopoly for too long. I pay for over 800 channels and there is never anything on, even including the 500 channels we pay for but don\'t use. Enough. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40207
Malcolm	Chandler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARPSWELL	ME	4079

Matias	Godinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94112
Lou Ann	Dohse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVUE	NE	68123
Annette	Ferando	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68136

Wm Jason	Hickman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT SMITH	AR	72918
John	Hajder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANIELSON	CT	6239
Robin	Hodge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSON CITY	TN	37604

Linda	OBrien	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRISON	IL	61270
Cheri	Dye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOLINGBROOK	IL	60440
paul	ostermyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPERANCE	MI	48182

Catherine	Cornelius	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97218
Dawn	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHEVILLE	NC	28806
Nancy	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEENAH	WI	54956

Dave	Holterman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILTON	WI	53563
Walter	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73162
Darrell	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAYLOR	GA	31641

Thaddeus	Aid	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Isn\'t any monopoly a problem?	SAN JOSE	CA	95118
Valerie	Goldman	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASTRO VALLEY	CA	94546
maureen	mccabe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33463

patricia	mccabe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33463
Nancy	Keefer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUNNELLON	FL	34433
VICTORIA	HERB	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT MYERS	FL	33913

greg	Gatten	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OH	45505
Jeff	Cote	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW IPSWICH	NH	3071
Michael	Soldo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34482

Susan	Holm	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEESBURG	FL	34748

DEBBIE	HAUSMAN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.As a disabled AMERICAN CITIZEN close to being considered elderly I and my mom both were faced with either paying higher utilities or having television.Since i live in a basement apartment I was forced to have cable or nothing.They raised the prices , took out the option of just paying for the local stations which were free to others and combined the tiers do the cheapest was over $50.00 a month to watch the same shows all month if not longer.I appriciate that the FCC is doing something to protect the increasing poor and dwindling middle class but they also need to break up some of these monopolies on our news, and entertainment here in the UNITED STATES.Why do I need to watch foriegn news to find out what happens in my own country?This bodes ILL for our Democracy and Freedoms when so few hold the power of information to the masses.I would not be able to respond to this if not for a neighbor since I can\'t afford the computers or internet and the equipment it	OMAHA	NE	68137

Joanne	Abel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	DE	19709
Doris	Brady	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	TN	37013
Scott	Bennett, LCSW, BCI	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	6510

Joanne	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAWTHORNE	CA	90250
Shelby	Schluchter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDMOND	OK	73013
Jeff	Bunch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95350

Melissa	Colombo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22401
Steven	Willis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUMMERLAND KE\	FL	33042
Torie	Torreano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UTICA	MI	48316

Paul	Reilly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEARL RIVER	NY	10965
Daniel	Ferguson	TI support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PAHOA	HI	96778
Leah	McRobie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CURTIS BAY	MD	21226

Jennifer	Lisy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GALENA	OH	43021
Kemp	Collins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KITTRELL	NC	27544
Jeff	McMahan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32806

roxane	poxon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIMI VALLEY	CA	93063 vicki	tawney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT ALBANS	WV	25177
jeff	Harrison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEVERN	MD	21144

Kimberly	Cruz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POTTSTOWN	PA	19464
William	Shultz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAY CITY	GA	31645
peter	burnham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEPPERELL	MA	1463

Thomas	Del Regno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALGONQUIN	IL	60102
Stacy	Harter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. WHY DO YOU ALLOW THE CABLE COMPANIES TO BE A MONOPOLY IN GENERAL? WHY DO YOU SUPPORT NON COMPETITION BY ONLY ALLOWING ONE CABLE COMPANY TO BE IN AN AREA?	CANTON	OH	44721

jacquelin s	west	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARTBURG	TN	37887
Billy	Middlebrooks III	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32506
Todd	Smeltz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYKENS	PA	17048

Michael	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15206
Nicole	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay anaverage of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60617
Michael	Weed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402

Karen	Bailey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANN ARBOR	MI	48103
lori	stokes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLUE SPRINGS	MO	64014
Darren	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM COAST	FL	32164

Jody	Kemper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCIENCE HILL	KY	42553
kathleen	gardner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEABROOK	TX	77586
Charles	Talbert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48089

Don	Redford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98465
maria	yanez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95928
Terrance	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32507

Donald	Walton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEVIERVILLE	TN	37876
Patty	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OJAI	CA	93023
Kelly	McKenzie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89122

Corinne	Bowers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHEL PARK	PA	15102
Cameron	Beard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	IL	61109
Sheri	Lockbaum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402

jc	causey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PATCHOGUE	NY	11772
Clark	Stringer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LADY LAKE	FL	32159
Raymond	Holder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52406

Kevin	Richeson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10016
Amanda	Boyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RUTHERFORDTON	NC	28139
Bonita	Geary	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRINEVILLE	OR	97754

Tammie	Bradley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALPARAISO	IN	46385
Danielle	Hess	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANCHO CORDOV	CA	95742
Jessica	Stanco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROKEN ARROW	OK	74014

James	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHESTER	VA	23836
Crystal	Van Houtte	Thank you for reading my comments. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21218
Leo	Jerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELGIN	IL	60120

Frederick	Hess	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTURY	FL	32535
Timothy	mickel	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHEVILLE	NC	28806
Jim	E	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARTLETT	IL	60103

Jerry	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNWOOD	TX	76801
julia	lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10473
C	G	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19148

johanna	rentschler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85714
Keith	Hess	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19115
Rhett	Larsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	84009

Gwendolyn	Singh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SULPHUR	LA	70663
Alan	Fischer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60626
Jennifer	Lawrence	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Airwaves are for the general public. Let\'s keep TV for everyone!	SPOKANE	WA	99205

deena	wolfe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PANAMA CITY	FL	32401
rose	miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERVIEW	MI	48193
Bryan	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEHERRIN	VA	23954

peter	Sheldon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW HAVEN	CT	6511
Julie	Mckay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98199
Stacey	Shaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLVILLE	NJ	8332

Jennifer	Bates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARRE	MA	1005
Brent	Bell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OZARK	AL	36360
Danielle	Corbitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARDEN	NC	28704

Amy	Balcam	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMINGTON	IN	47401
Virginia	Jenkins	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46260
Lawrence	Kipp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAYUGA	NY	13034

Joan	DeFilippo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VICTORY MILLS	NY	12884
Eugene	Manantan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILTON	NY	12547
Craig	Brownlee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48092

Leslie	Shively	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEFONTE	PA	16823
Malcolm	MacIver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60640
Thomas	Osterberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DE SOTO	MO	63020

Debbie	Dunham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASCO	ME	4015
Reuben	Mahar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALDOBORO	ME	4572
Audrey	Shiffler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PIKEVILLE	TN	37367

Pam	Cutaia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60631
Cameron	Chaney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27105
Justin	Richards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND HAVEN	MI	49417

joann	souza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALL RIVER	MA	2721
Joseph	Poliseno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAYSIDE	NY	11361
Carolyn	Hough	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDFORD	MI	48239

Angie	Granados	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PICO RIVERA	CA	90660
Tricia	McComb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN	MA	2038
Scott	Kaiser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMMOND	IN	46324

Janice	Casey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90047
Caeolyn	Spears	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38128
Zella ann	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	28570

Gregg	Friend	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORTON	IL	61550
Dan	Murray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55406
McKenzie	Duke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMTRAMCK	MI	48212

Mrs	Hadley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33463
Jason	Mann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH BROOKFIEL	MA	1535
richard	kaley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32839

Deborah	Finn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAPISTRANO BEAC	CA	92624
Marie	Lohr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUN PRAIRIE	WI	53590
Gabi	Teed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BOSTON	NH	3070

Elizabeth	Schiller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOYNTON BEACH	FL	33426
Carlos	Rivera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROMULUS	MI	48174
Carlos	Rivera	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROMULUS	MI	48174

Gwen	Hourihan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	CA	91104
Diana	Hinds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUBLIN	NC	28332
Linda	Manrodt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33020

charles	wagner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMIRA	NY	14904
Rachell	Jordan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTSVILLE	AL	35810
Abel	Acosta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAXAHACHIE	TX	75167

Raj	Jawa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA CLARITA	CA	91390
Todd	Amerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	NJ	8055
Joe	Baxter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPE	AZ	85282

Laura	Foster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUND BEACH	NY	11789
Bobbi	Belden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASTLETON	VT	5735
David	Paris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHGATE	MI	48195

Kyle	Corry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43085
Heather	Kuhl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68516
Amanda	Tashjy-Barnes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANSON	WV	25438

Dakoda	Ball	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARLAN	IA	51537
Marie	Lohr	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUN PRAIRIE	WI	53590
Mark	Zellmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUCERNE VALLEY	CA	92356

Eduardo	Herbut	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33193
robert	lawton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON	VT	5462

Linda	Lopez	When did watching TV become a hassle? When I was a kid it was special. Saturday morning cartoons & Wonderful World of Disney on Subday evenings. In middle school cable TV came out and MTV was my new addiction. Then satellite was born. Cable & satellite have been "it" for more than 3 decades. I broke up with both about 2 years ago. I\'m sick of being robbed, every month, with no recourse. My price increases a dollar or 2 and no one can tell me why, channels disappear, and nothing makes me turn tail & run faster than a "contract" . I haven\'t watched the news (unless we\'re on vacation in a hotel) in 2 years. TV isn\'t relaxing or informative or enjoyable anymore. It\'s a stressful ripoff. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CROCKETT	TX	75835

Mario	Macera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	METAIRIE	LA	70005
Michael	Trapp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBRIGHTSVILLE	PA	18210
Michelle	Glover	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73127

Birgit M	OHLENFORST	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUCONDA	IL	60084
larry	diss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	OH	44710
David	Westgate	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34480

Brian	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNTAIN VIEW	CA	94043
Bryan	Roschetzky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78727
Bryan	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCMINNVILLE	OR	97128

Deborah	Ainsworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOLDEN	CO	80401
Joyce	Baskind	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year per household to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TVs. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44143
Christine	Carroll	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	CT	6019

Michael	Einreinhof	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RINGWOOD	NJ	7456
James	Sabol	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMAQUA	PA	18252
John	Fadeley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWBURY	OH	44065

Robert	Green	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93727
Christine	Rambo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMMONTON	NJ	8037
Peggy	Light	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44118

Jeff	Swisher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARYSVILLE	OH	43040
richard	kaley	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32839
Mary	Thomson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	SC	29414

Glenn	Caldwell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTINSBURG	WV	25405
Christine	Bryant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSING	MI	48911
Marshall	Shepherd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33811

Jo	Metz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	73791
Jeffrey	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERVILLE	NJ	8876
Laura	Ross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55110

Susan	Comerford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCEANSIDE	NY	11572
Margaret	Bartha	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBRIDGE	VA	22193
Diane	Feliciano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19145

Melody	Joyce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GUTHRIE	OK	73044
Sandra	burson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Making us go digital, really hurt many of us. I want my free tv back!	HUMBLE	TX	77396
pat	darden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAGRANGE	GA	30240

Julie	Lanning	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN	CO	80906
Ken	Boyke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMPSHIRE	IL	60140
Curtiss	Jones	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT LAUREL	NJ	8054

Tracie	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	GA	31907
art	yatsko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARWICK	RI	2888
Diana	Ruggiero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVENTRY	RI	2816

Kay	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHATSWORTH	GA	30705
Heather	Whitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARTLAND	MI	48353
Kim	Nyitrai	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43613

Robert	Salisbury	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRANFORD	CT	6405
Andrea	Stokes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHEYENNE	WY	82009
Stephanie	Davies	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRESCOTT	AZ	86301

Vitinna	Keath	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROYAL OAK	MI	48073
Sheelagh	Degnan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEBASTOPOL	CA	95472
Ellen	Hardin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STEILACOOM	WA	98388

Katherine	Fuller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTVILLE	IN	46391
Keith	Widd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGTON	MI	48336
Christine	Wanta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63114

Mike	Stenzel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14617
Daniel	Glicker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90046
K	Kuester	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INVER GROVE HEIC	MN	55076

Michael	Drane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROGERSVILLE	AL	35652
Jason	Renner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ZAP	ND	58580
Jason	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49503

brad	beresford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLUSHING	MI	48433
Mark	Butcher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LORAIN	OH	44052
Cinda	Kratzer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENGLEWOOD	OH	45322

Patricia	Savage	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53217
Kim	Kampplain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURANT	OK	74701
Juan	Santiago	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLOUD	FL	34769

David	Cassidy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARROYO GRANDE	CA	93420
David	Layman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISONBURG	VA	22801
Don	Nordine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Start representing people instead of corporations!	ROCHESTER	MN	55902

Catherine	Ochoa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85051
Matthew	Plummer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLIARD	FL	32046
Rose	Lapp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SENECAVILLE	OH	43780

Earl	Jelke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	READING	PA	19601
Cindy	Haviland	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WELLS	VT	5774
Sheri	Woodward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARYSVILLE	MI	48040

Jennifer	Greenidge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLEAN	NY	14760
Meri	Justus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNCHBURG	VA	24502
Cora	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMONA	CA	91766

Mona	Klarman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAHOMET	IL	61853
David	Stroka	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT CRANE	NY	13833
Lee	Woodall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30345

Kathleen	Sargent	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST HAVEN	CT	6516
Brittney	Vaughn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONACA	PA	15061
Glenda	LambWilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45410

Aletia	Morgan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST BRUNSWICK	NJ	8816
David	Hunt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMFIELD	NJ	7003
Karen	Peckyno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRESTO	PA	15142

Troy	Rutledge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAVANNAH	GA	31419
Kathy	Rehme	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRACY	CA	95391
Delana	Keefer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	OH	45640

Mark	Pupillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	NY	12180
Lillie	Mc Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	70634
Casey	Robison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98122

Gwenda	Cruickshanks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK ISLAND	NC	28465
tamara	davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASH	TX	75569
Terrisa	Cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	OR	97355

Seamus	MacCallum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAUMONT	TX	77706
Shawn	Fox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT GEORGE	UT	84770
Tina	Mills	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBORO	NC	27405

Steven	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAINVIEW	NY	11803
Nick	Chen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGANVILLE	NJ	7751
Colin	Dunnigan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85711

Audrey	Richardson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37923
Ashley	Bee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOLLANSBEE	WV	26037
Zackary	Gushwa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89149

WENDE	SHANNON	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOYOCK	NC	27958
Chad	Hairston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87198
Ann	Comtreras	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN BERNARDINO	CA	92408

toni	stanfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KAPAA	HI	96746
Jessica	Bolsei	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDONIA	NY	14063
Robert	Logan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYNESBURG	PA	15370

Carey	Boyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMBURG	PA	19526
Holli	Critchlow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDEN	UT	84414
James	Caudle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78752

Bridget	Sparks Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77049
Charlotte	Waters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCKINNEY	TX	75071
Claire	lisa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	7456

Joe	Sanchez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALMDALE	CA	93550
Ruth	Coleman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES MOINES	IA	50317

Amanda	Delinck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. As a college student I can barely afford anything. If I could at least chose the channels I want, and pay for only the channels I choose, I would be more than happy to actually pay.	WHITING	IN	46394
Sheryl	McGrath	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT RICHEY	FL	34668
Brett	Lowell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JERSEY CITY	NJ	7302

kev	btannelly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11216
Karen	Eggleston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW LISBON	WI	53950
frank	mcgann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST BABYLON	NY	11704

Deborah	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	39204
Veronica	Barragan	I am sick of the cable company charging me rental fees for equipment that can\'t be purchased and owned. When they increase my bill every few months for lame reasons, this becomes increasingly expensive! Cable shouldn\'t be a luxury only the rich can afford. I don\'t get to go out every weekend, nor do I want to, because it\'s expensive. But everyone should be able to afford entertainment, as well as internet access in the comfort od their homes. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78744

Taylor	Hatcher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97223
Elizabeth	Petry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89131
Jennifer	Berger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRAWFORD	CO	81415

Wayne	Hudson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH EASTON	MA	2375
Eric	Bullock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94102
Patty	Deeds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILTON	WV	25541

sylvia	trezevant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11233
LAUREL	MULLEN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARASOTA	FL	34232
Stephanie	Magat	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FEDERAL WAY	WA	98003

stephen	vega	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEORIA	AZ	85345
Jill	Kalaniopio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIMI VALLEY	CA	93063
Amy	Parry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84106

Barbara	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15228
Heather	Vongarvisch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALAMEDA	CA	94502
Melanie	Costa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BEDFORD	MA	2740

Matthew	Morrison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74107
Brent	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90066
Jen	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUNDALK	MD	21222

Vicki	Yates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MURFREESBORO	TN	37128
Sally	Hodges	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27103
Maria	Bergheim	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEESBURG	VA	20175

Frederick	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTONA BEACH	FL	32118
Jeanne	Johnston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENGLEWOOD	FL	34224
Keith	Radogna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENRICO	VA	23294

Christina	Hutson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANCHO CUCAMO	CA	91701
Dana	Barksdale	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27101
Dee	Olson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	MN	55901

jo	tesar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55107
Mark	Schuler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35215
Anne	Distefano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALMOUTH	ME	4105

Joan	Reynolds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROGERS	AR	72756
Jose	Cruz alicea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KISSIMMEE	FL	34759
Vince	Costanzo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT SINAI	NY	11766

Roxanne	Skarritt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34481
Idella	Burmester	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OH	45506
LAURIE	BARNHART	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILDOMAR	CA	92595

Joan	Cuplin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSOULA	MT	59801
Kim	Milan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEDBETTER	KY	42058
Car	Burke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COSTA MESA	CA	92626

BRIAN	WOODARD	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER HAVEN	FL	33880
Luigi	carputo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NUTLEY	NJ	7110
Tim	Perkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97229

Andrew	Brady	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55416
Michele	Mendenhall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	NJ	8628
Diana	Webster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YELM	WA	98597

Sarah	Elliott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSAGE	IA	50461
Matt	Kitterer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84108
Shawn	Kaminski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHANDLER	AZ	85244

Sylvia	Gruber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSTON	PA	18640
Denice	Massengill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENN VALLEY	CA	95946
Minerva	Ruiz-Cordova	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60639

Enrique	Melendez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32205
William	Mayor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	OH	44485
Joan	Raphael	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92126

Michael W	Evans	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90034
Matt	Bowera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OZARK	MO	65721
Randy	McKay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KOKOMO	IN	46902

Todd	Blevins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CUMMING	GA	30040
Marisela	Garza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHERERVILLE	IN	46375
Caren	Stevens	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOULDER	CO	80303

Justin	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REVERE	MA	2151
monnie	stephens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW CARLISLE	OH	45344
Kevin	Ryan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN MARCOS	TX	78666

Angie	Franco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97303
Mark	Haeris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHIRLEY	NY	11967
Carole	Cimitile	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOWIE	MD	20716

Dinna	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60615
Sara	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78727
Audra	Akins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60628

Karen	Spillman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVENPORT	FL	33837
Sidney	Pearson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30316
Andres	Vigil	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90004

David	Desantis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALISBURY	NC	28147
Wayne	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTINSVILLE	VA	24112
Noreen	Romano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSELLE PARK	NJ	7204

Heathet	Hubbard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	MI	48328
Deborah	Deane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHGATE	MI	48195
Melanie	Wiley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87120

Patricia	Hutchins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSON CITY	TN	37760
Alicia	Merry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUXBURY	MA	2332
Connie	Dyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHEELERSBURG	OH	45694

Judy	Kirkman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23452
Rafael	Quinones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11220
Karen	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14223

lori	mastriani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOWELL	IN	46356
Connie	Sturdy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75234
Nadja	Medley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDEN	UT	84405

Jim	Springstead	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENNINGTON	NJ	8534
michael	culkin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YAPHANK	NY	11980
Hector	Gutierrez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRADENTON	FL	34208

Robert	Holland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT HOLLY	NJ	8060
Donna	Denson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PANAMA CITY	FL	32409
Sarah	Kelly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA BARBARA	CA	93109

Benjie	Craig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREMONT	CA	94538
Donna	Gathright,	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30311
Christine	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98125

Dan	Thomey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTMINSTER	MD	21157
Daisy	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORIENTAL	NC	28571
Vincent	Perry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW HYDE PARK	NY	11040

Ramon	Antu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90019
Jason	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARTBURG	TN	37887
Carla	Kittle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHLAND	KY	41102

Jason	Self	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUINCY	IL	62305
Tyrone	Davies	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84106
Paul	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52401

Angela	Eastep	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EIGHT MILE	AL	36613
Matthew	Bruns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARLISLE	MA	1741
Chris	Angel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN LEANDRO	CA	94577

Terri	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98405
Cherise	Albanese	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	NV	89012
DOLORES	GUST	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78223

Stephen	Matson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLUE SPRINGS	MO	64014
Sean	McGoey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MATAMORAS	PA	18336
Sharon	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	NH	3766

Edward	Cronin	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NINE MILE FALLS	WA	99026
Miguel	Suarez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33145
Lisa	Martin	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33616

Patrick	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	MO	65802
Patrick	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	MO	65802
Julie	Maurer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OREGON	OH	43616

Janet	Buck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA GRANGE	IL	60525
Patricia	Claus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORRINGTON	ME	4474
Shannon	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSON CITY	MO	65109

Todd	Halbert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLYMOUTH	MI	48170
Donnette	Weiterman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANDOLPH	WI	53956
Sage	O\'Brien	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84115

Michelle	Waggoner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29229
Dianne	Estes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUKON	IA	52172
Vicki	Snipes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	IL	61104

Jamie	Rainey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAVARRE	OH	44662
Luis	Roeder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOPATCONG	NJ	7843
Valerie	Miles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60660

Martin	Dirksen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENNEWICK	WA	99337
Thomas	Keegan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROME	NY	13440
E	Klinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HICKSVILLE	NY	11801

Marquez	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28215
GRISSEL	GARCIA	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79938
Andreas	May	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97229

Alison	Tango	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ISELIN	NJ	8830
Sandra	Rosko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90805
Tim	Coslar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORWOOD	PA	19074

Robert	Hendries	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAYDEN	ID	83835
Amy	Hardy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEAVER	AL	36277
David	Molesworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37216

Betty	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISON	TN	37341
Mary-Jo	Paull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINNABOW	NC	28479
Brian	Murray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROYAL OAK	MI	48073

Julia	Herkimer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43613
Judy	Mcintosh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52402
Robert	Butera	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box,. And end per outlet fees.	SOMERSET	NJ	8873

Debra	McLean	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTAGE	MI	49024
Aaron	Wagner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRINNELL	IA	50112
Jaclyn	May	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAVANNAH	GA	31404

Heidi	Hardwick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. FURTHER after 5 years of rental of seven boxes when I moved and kept the same carrier they demanded I use upgraded equipment, wiped out all the programs I\'d saved on the devices AND "lost" movies I PURCHASED TO OWN.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22408
KS Taylor	Stone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98682
Teresa	Rakes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	KY	40504

John	Gallup	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARVADA	CO	80005
Robert	Kopp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIMI VALLEY	CA	93065
Glenn	Beaver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	TN	37115

Rubye	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTGOMERY	AL	36108
Dewayne	Lenox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTTSBORO	AL	35769

leisha	monet	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I actually believe we shouldn\'t need any of it to watch programming as so much is paid by ads. Those who can\'t afford cable are up a creek and it\'s pitiful.	BATON ROUGE	LA	70819
Tamye	Riggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLAKELY	GA	39823

princess	jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10466
Margina	Espinoza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10475
Cathy	Mcginty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67205

Jeanne	Guy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46268
robert	whitford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIPOSA	CA	95338
Virginia	Forrest	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HONOLULU	HI	96818

Nick	Mimikopoulos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22408
Kim	Green	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENRICO	VA	23238 carlos	gallegos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95926

Margina	Espinoza	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10475
Jo	Vargas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76104
george	howe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREEN BAY	WI	54302

ken	ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLE VILLAGE	NY	11379
Doina	Masala	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79912
Caitlin	Vargas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76104

Danial	Woodford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOLD BAR	WA	98251
Tim	Fullbright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANDERSON	SC	29625
Eluzabeth	Savage	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARYSVILLE	MI	48040

David	Horne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44120
Dave	Roland	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COCHRAN	GA	31014
Tamara	Humphries	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MATTAPAN	MA	2126

Eric	Zayas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32205
Pam	Salinas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95818
Gwen	M	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARY	IN	46401

Steven	Napierala	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT FRANCIS	WI	53235
Elizabeth	Gaida	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DULUTH	MN	55803
Lois	De Armond	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90019

Stephanie	Furman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLIANCE	NE	69301
Daniel	Fontes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	47905
Steven	Napierala	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT FRANCIS	WI	53235

Patrice	Basso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64112
Phyllis	Tabron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10452
Neena	Plant-Henninger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST JORDAN	UT	84084

Michelle	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANCHORAGE	AK	99509
Rafaela	Verdialez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93703
Janice	Schultz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55125

Ron	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTERVILLE	OH	43081
Donna	Belvin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78745
Kollin	Haynes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELIZABETHTOWN	PA	17022

laure	woolverton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	NJ	8628
Jeff	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97220
Jon	Demarino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SLOATSBURG	NY	10974

Cindy	Meide	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE BEA	FL	32250
Candice	Mouton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE CHARLES	LA	70605
Justin	Collins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DYERSVILLE	IA	52040

Trischa	Thorne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	MO	65202
E	S	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BINGHAMTON	NY	13904
Will	Brickner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVANSTON	IL	60201

Laura	Genna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMFIELD	NJ	7003
Michelle	Gallatin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85037
LORI	VUGTEVEEN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79903

Nick	B	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENVILLE	TX	75401
Larry	Guzman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAPPINGERS FALL	NY	12590
Patricia	Faulk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON TOWNSH	MI	48038

Lisa	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOBBS	NM	88242
Mike	Power	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SULLIVAN	IN	47882
Marianna	Moss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80238

Rose	Bevington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELLENBORO	NC	28040
Rosa	Maldonado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCE	MA	1843
joan	goerlach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSFIELD	MA	1201

Joanne	Naillieux	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALNUT RIDGE	AR	72476
bill	medina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALINA	KS	67401
danielle	gerlinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STAUNTON	VA	24401

Kathy	Hough	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH HAMILTON	MA	1982
Cynthia J	Pierce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45215
Teresa	Farver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSONVILLE	NC	28791

Eric	Staruk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLAIR	PA	17970
A	Carey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTTSDALE	AZ	85255
Judy	Driggers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28227

Kevin	Searle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAVERLY	NE	68462
Denise	Romano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78701
Heidi	Ford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55123

William	Minnick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402
Elizabeth	Hernandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10027
Lynne	Henderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10128

Sonja	Jellison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74137
Helen	Campbell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74135
Raymond	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45231

Donna	Hubbard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98683
julie	strom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PACOIMA	CA	91331
Christian	Schauer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DILLON	CO	80435

Diana	Linares	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUENA	NJ	8310
Maureen	Jerge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Also NO or extremely limited commercials on cable tv stations. That was the whole idea about paying for commercial free tv at one time!! Also pick and choose Channels -a la carte instead of paying for approximately 70-80% stations of no interest and loads of stations of interest unavailable to your plan. That would be awesome and about time!	OAK LAWN	IL	60453

Yvonne	Garza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALGONA	IA	50511
Jacqueline	Mc:Greevey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSSEO	MN	55311
Tammy	Lupton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTMINSTER	MD	21158

Linda	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHEL PARK	PA	15102
Billie	Feathers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MECHANICSVILLE	VA	23116
Judy	Lawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIG STONE GAP	VA	24219

Joe	Lulay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STREAMWOOD	IL	60107
Kirsten	Hali Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCK TAVERN	NY	12575
Mark	Baland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLEN	TX	75002

David	Golida	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68111
Steve	Bessette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OXNARD	CA	93033
Sheryle	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11236

Janet	Marshall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SELBYVILLE	DE	19975
Israel	Escobedo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIERRA VISTA	AZ	85635
Pat	Abbott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANDERSON	TX	77830

Kathryn	O\'Connor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON HEIGHTS	NY	11372
Carrie	Marc	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFIELD	CA	94533
Thomas	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREEN VALLEY	AZ	85614

Abir	Abdelmoaty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JUPITER	FL	33458
Caron	Nakamura	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANEOHE	HI	96744
Denny	Bernsmeier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	86755

chissa	woodling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSTOWN	PA	15902
Sandra	Hopwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKY RIVER	OH	44116
Cynthia	Daugherty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. And do this for Computer MODEMS, TOO	WAYNESBORO	VA	22980

James	Alt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFIELD	IL	62837
Anne	Kedmenec	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PERU	NY	12972
Jason	Sanders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOLIET	IL	60431

Ronald	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENGLEWOOD	CO	80110
Larry	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	WV	25306
Larry	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	WV	25306

Bridget	McDonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77053
Nicholas	Lugo	I support the efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNION CITY	TN	38261
DAVID	REELS	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST PROVIDENCE	RI	2914

Terry	Huxhold	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROANOKE	VA	24013
liz	redd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLOW GROVE	PA	19090
Heather	Poole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	CA	92504

Victor	Flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN	CO	80905
Samantha	Ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEXARKANA	TX	75501
Magen	Macias	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARIS	TN	38242

John	Wachenheimer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	CA	92501
Catricea	Allen-Reese	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREA	CA	92821
Jason	Palagi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60628

eugene	griffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALNUT COVE	NC	27052
Robert	Gault	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TORONTO	OH	43964
Victoria	Shotzman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STURGIS	MI	49091

James	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUMTER	SC	29150
Christy	Porterfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENTON	TX	76209
Annie	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUMTER	SC	29150

Kenia	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33617
jorge	noriega	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCALLEN	TX	78503
Mary	Osmundson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLINVILLE	NJ	8322

Ysabel	Dean	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32824
Michael	Bozile	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85027
Laura	Gutierrez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALEXANDRIA	VA	22302

Rune	Borgir	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lower prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEND	OR	97702
Patricia	Lubitz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOBILE	AL	36608
Alison	Kelemen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	92260

Stacey	Askew	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOTHAN	AL	36301
Bla	Howell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32810
Luis	Villarruel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS CRUCES	NM	88001

Deborah	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45417
Laura	Fox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLY	MI	48442
Melissa	Mason	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LATONIA	KY	41015

Alan	Trenary	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67203
Marguerite	Gerber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLUALOA	HI	96725
Justin	Balbierer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIALANTIC	FL	32903

Joseph	Nagel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARION	IL	62959
sean	stuart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACON	MO	63552
Eva	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOLD HILL	OR	97525

Alejandro	Montalvo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10456
Rosemary	Soto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN BERNARDINO	CA	92411
Thomas	Hudson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIGHTON	CO	80603

Kurt	Reynolds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO HEIGHTS	IL	60411
P T	Stanton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLFLOWER	CA	90706
Carla	Bradley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	13

Brandi	Tallent	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JUSTIN	TX	76247
Keneth	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOUNTAIN	CO	80817
Barbara	Grado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHOUGAL	WA	98671

Johnathan	Rubinsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	PA	17512
Todd	Trevett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANAHEIM	CA	92802
Anthony	Stanton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55408

Jeff	Barker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOVER	PA	17315
Lillian	Hughes-Utsch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRINCETON	IL	61356
Michael	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEWOOD	OH	44107

Stacy	Hanlon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN CITY	OR	97367
Adrian	Mitchell Sr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLMAWR	NJ	8099
James	Hearn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOMFIELD	CO	80020

Wanda	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS LUNAS	NM	87031
Joan	Dorish	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSTON	PA	18704
Anne	Sauvie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402

Christina	Carr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYNESBORO	PA	17268
Carol	Plain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87120
mario	flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94606

wendy	kuchar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STREETSBORO	OH	44241
Janette	Cruz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STRATFORD	NJ	8084
Joyce	Rodin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTICELLO	IN	47960

Susie	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCPHERSON	KS	67460
Laurita	Olortegui	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33186
Peggy	Hinkle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALAMEDA	CA	94501

Gregory	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OXNARD	CA	93036
Pamela	Yeh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10002
Tracy	Waters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98148

Renee	DYE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORPUS CHRISTI	TX	78412
Susan	Daugherty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76116
Nancy	Spinella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RESCUE	CA	95672

Dianna	Western	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVILLE	IL	62223
Susan	Finsterer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85705
Valerie	Stone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTINEZ	CA	94553

Tom	Verre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEVILLE	MA	2347
Dana	Foley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	IL	61101
Chris	Cordeiro	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAPEL HILL	NC	27516

Grant	Schwersensks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARABOO	WI	53913
Joseph	Naughton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLUFFTON	SC	29910
Christina	Cantley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BECKLEY	WV	25801

Vincent	Worthington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. End the monopolies now!	BELLEVUE	WA	98007
James	Weinmann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEKALB	IL	60115
Marty	Carman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45247

Rene	Cruz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CATASAUQUA	PA	18032
Gabrielle	Flemister	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHFIELD	MI	48076
Philip	O\'Malley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46226

Nancy	Sprouse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78213
Jeremiah	Zajic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANCHORAGE	AK	99507
Clare	Fuchs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97222

Brandy	Fullerton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70121
Matthew	Baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CALHOUN	GA	30701
David	Isaacson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68516

Shelley	Stepp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAYMOND	WA	98577
Heather	Sutherland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHERN PINES	NC	28387
Doug	Burkeen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAYLOR	MI	48180

Steven	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOULDER	CO	80305
Suzette	Van Aken	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98030
Sara	Pontius	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISHAWAKA	IN	46544

Betty	Nixon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNS MILLS	NJ	8015
michael	fuller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10014
Davin	Nathanson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHANDLER	AZ	85226

Ray	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING	TX	77388
Joseph	Kim	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAPISTRANO BEAC	CA	92624
Charles	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENVILLE	TX	75401

Shannon	Fouts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREEN VALLEY	AZ	85614
debra	teeter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRADFORD	PA	16701
Luther	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COCKEYSVILLE	MD	21030

Matt	Howell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97206
Leah	Dorn-Coaton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98686
Kathi	Wermter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH RANGE	WI	54874

Kirsten	Potter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE OSWEGO	OR	97034
Ann	Dux	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	PA	17601
Cecilia	Cazares	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHULA VISTA	CA	91911

malala	Andriani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANNANDALE	VA	22003
Lori	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORTON	MN	56270
Gloria	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEAVENWORTH	WA	98826

paul	baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSFORD	NY	14534
Isaac	Landreth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	ME	4210
Suzanne	Huesgen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63104

Me	Yui	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEVERLY HILLS	CA	90210
Cherry	Vercher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	88141
Andy	Read	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	97070

Robert	Bowers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOUNTAIN INN	SC	29644
Jess	Hutchins II	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95112
Vince	Flaherty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSBORO	OR	97124

Gary	Delcourt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON TOWNSH	MI	48036
Xeno	Muller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COSTA MESA	CA	92627
Camela	Pappan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73109

Sam	scerbo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	12118
Justin	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97301
Kathleen	Dailey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MALDEN	MA	2148

Kevin	Sheneman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNNWOOD	WA	98037
Vicki	High	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO HEIGHTS	IL	60411
Marlens	Markel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOREST RANCH	CA	95942

Sandy	Kocher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY CITY	MI	48706
Sean	Bruckman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46202
Sheila	de Leon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	CO	80026

LeeAnn	Elkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Thank you.	BAINBRIDGE	GA	39819
Penny Hunte	Hunter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ROSA	CA	95407
Patrick	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEJO	CA	94590

Adrienne	Holmes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIETTA	GA	30062
Dawn	DeEitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA CRUZ	CA	95063
Vance	Barber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVERTON	OR	97078

Lorri	Boye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREMONT	NE	68025
Brandy	Miracle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN HILLS	MI	48326
Sean	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37934

John	Cipriano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNBROOK	NY	11563
John	Cipriano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNBROOK	NY	11563
Sherrie	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARMEL	CA	93923

Christal	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35210
Carol	mccord	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEDERLAND	TX	77627
Edward	Flounoy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAR ROCKAWAY	NY	11691

Bryan	Wallin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	38310
Tim	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARKERSBURG	WV	26104
Ed	Carrera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PATERSON	NJ	7501

Matt	Pritchett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95833
Forrest	Gallwas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98409
Valerie	Orington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANVILLE	IL	61832

Kimberly	Moon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN RAFAEL	CA	94903
Edward	Derr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	PA	17603
Michael	Ross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENWOOD	IN	46142

Jack	Padron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSWELL	GA	30075
Elizabeth	Zang	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTIA	CA	95565
Marcus	McPherson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRYSTAL SPRINGS	MS	39059

Khobie	Alexander	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREMERTON	WA	98337
Melinda	Lee	I thought we had escaped the box rental rip of by going to satellite many years ago, but of course they caught on to that revenue stream and added the charges as well. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVILLE	NJ	7834

Aaron	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUDA	TX	78610
Cindy	Emanuele	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKHORN	WI	53121
Adrian	Vasquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78245

Lynn	Goins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESA	AZ	85202
Aaron	Perreault	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLUFFTON	OH	45817
Della	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMYRNA	GA	30080

Daniel	Bowen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WALES	FL	33859
Linda	Tuccillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COEUR D ALENE	ID	83815
Philip	Andersonnderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33637

William	Luna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78201
Austin	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVERTON	OR	97006
Charles	Coffelt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUALATIN	OR	97062

Dave	Orr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIBBY	MT	59923
Tyrone	Pierce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IOWA CITY	IA	52246
Deborah	Dunn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CITRUS HEIGHTS	CA	95621

Brandon	Griffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAGNOLIA	TX	77355
James	Talbott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOWDOINHAM	ME	4008
Darrell	Hartsock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34475

Melissa	McKenzie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CULLMAN	AL	35057
Lesley	Woodward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKY RIVER	OH	44116
Matthew	Cameron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89144

Michelle	Gibbs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERSET	OH	43783
Daisy	Haley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE DALLAS	TX	75065
Joseph	Knight	People should have more control over how they access the services they pay for.	ELKTON	MD	21921

Jon	Madden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33461
traci	valentine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55101
Damon	McWilliams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLAIRE	TX	77401

Rebecca	Hopkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAGLE BUTTE	SD	57625
micheal	smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	CO	80013
Traci	Vaccaro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	CA	91103

Enger	Barnes-Webb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GROVELAND	FL	34736
Duke	Elliott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	17100
HEATHER	HUPP	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILSONVILLE	OR	97070

mich	de Alva	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78247
Melissa	Herbert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SULLIVAN	OH	44880
Pam	Baca	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUCKEYE	AZ	85396

Matt	Bowen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINNABOW	NC	28479
Pamela	Watson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85008
Monica	Daniel-Marshall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CATSKILL	NY	12414

Maryann	Dougherty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SWEET HOME	OR	97386
Jason	Hintz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAIPAHU	HI	96797
Jason	Moran	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33701

James	Reynolds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	TN	38351
Diane	Jones Zakrajsek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALOME	AZ	85348
Julio	Jimenez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORK	PA	17404

Emily	English	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGVILLE	NY	11738
Mark	De Yulia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANADARKO	OK	73005 juliana	rose	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85705

Liana	Terry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27627
Robert	Gerber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68157
Gregory	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK PARK	MI	48237

Michael	May	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALOS VERDES PEN	CA	90274
franck	blair	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENDALE	AZ	85304
Maria	Rice	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AVOCA	WI	53506

Gwen	Ashcraft	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99205
Geoffrey	Southwell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOVI	MI	48374
Brian	Boyle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33162

ruby	fuhlrodt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95817
Andrew	Laude	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHAMOKIN	PA	17872
Malick	Sy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32206

Kevin	Michael	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST AMHERST	NY	14051
Brian	Haws	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINGATE	NC	28174
Veronica	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARAMUS	NJ	7652

Paulette	Capperis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44128
Maria	Rice	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AVOCA	WI	53506
Charles	Pendergast	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INVERNESS	FL	34453

Joe	Aurigemma	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN	MA	2038
Stacy	Terrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLEN BURNIE	MD	21061
Thomas	Bowen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNTAIN LAKES	NJ	7046

Angela	O\'Shea-Duke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAPEER	MI	48446
Brandon	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60649
Tina	Martell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROMULUS	MI	48174

Peter	De Gregorio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALINAS	CA	93905
Mindy	Messerly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	OH	43130
Kimberly	Tingle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	46158

Randy	Mannor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	MI	49203
Gary	Wise	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STILLWATER	OK	74075
Patricia	Cason	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACON	GA	31201

Jacqueline	Ellis	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NC	27707
Terry	Trumbo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELIZABETHTOWN	KY	42701
Joni	Coursey	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE CHARLES	LA	70615

Michelle	Soto-Teall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94607
Regina	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35243 debra	huewitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44135

Gary	Swick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ORANGE	FL	32127
Darnishia	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63137
Darnishia	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63137

Carol	Skelton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA FALLS	TX	76308
Jill	Heryford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VASHON	WA	98070
Carolyn	duncan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85016

Scott	Belanger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENFIELD	MA	1301
Elias	Carbajal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHULA VISTA	CA	91911
Kevin	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POOLER	GA	31322

Dean	Wedsworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUNEDIN	FL	34698
Donald	Wilcox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GALLOWAY	OH	43119
Patti	M	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40204

bill	wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RED HILL	PA	18076
Michael	Manenkoff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER GARDEN	FL	34787
Johnny	George	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28203

Carol	Tinkham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	2533
Carole	Arbour	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUDSON	NH	3051
Cindy	Little	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEAVERVILLE	NC	28787

Thomas	Odonnell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60641
Keith	Schnakenberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78217
Richard	Palmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14225

John	Walsh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHUA	NH	3060
Debbi	Jobes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTHBOROUGH	MA	1532
Chris	Schulze	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENWOOD LAKE	NY	10925

mona	goodwin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE DALLAS	TX	75065
Louie	Horvath	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EASTLAKE	OH	44095
Marcos	Latorre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVERPOOL	PA	17045

Betti	Schuster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUNNELL	FL	32110
Sherrie	Waltz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM BAY	FL	32909
Cheryl	Fischer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98229

christina	rawlings	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORENO VALLEY	CA	92553
Marianna	Greco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIGHLAND	NY	12528
Amy	Barnes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREMONT	OH	43420

Cindy	Whitson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLETCHER	NC	28732
David	Steward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT MADISON	IA	52627
Rachele	Ray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95821

Sheila	Rehling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELDON	IA	52554
Bobby	Reynolds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUSTIS	FL	32726
David	Hoover	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BONITA SPRINGS	FL	34135

Genia	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRUNSWICK	GA	31525
Blanca	Davila	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBRIDGE	VA	22191
Hope	Carrillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMMOND	IN	46323

Laura	Schuyler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRADENTON	FL	34211
Gaye	Spetka	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43204
Natalia	Ramirez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBURN	OR	97071

Katherine	Vineyard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA JOLLA	CA	92037
Bobbi	Kerr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SLIPPERY ROCK	PA	16057
David	Nepveu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HYDE PARK	VT	5655

Marcos	Latorre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVERPOOL	PA	17045
Tammy	McCauliff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAIRNBROOK	PA	15924
Tom	Barrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	PA	19007

Tawny	Poggio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80214
Marsha	Slosburg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYLMAR	CA	91342
Steve	Feuer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMAICA	NY	11432

Jeffrey	Hastings	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHREWSBURY	MA	1545
Tina	Oney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANDERSON	SC	29621
Christopher	Powell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	2177

Michelle	Costin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11228
Brady	Howard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BILLERICA	MA	1821
Linda	Pearson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOCK ISLAND	RI	2807

Terry	Bradley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATTALLA	AL	35954
Jeff	Lambert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANDALUSIA	AL	36420
Sonya	Capeling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTLAND	MI	48185

Warren	Tanner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSTON	SC	29697
Diane	Cox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74135
Terri	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDGEWATER	MD	21037

John	Porth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33703
Kim	Krys	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	MI	48327
Charlene	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL MIRAGE	AZ	85335

Deborah	Springer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANANDAIGUA	NY	14424
GARY	VAUGHT	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10473
Brian	Claffee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOREST HILL	MD	21050

Susan j	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GANADO	TX	77962
Joyce	Williamson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37211
Fredrick	Hatcher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PONTIAC	MI	48341

Marcy	Gadeck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST ORANGE	NJ	7052
Angela	McWilliams	I don\'t see any reason for this charge except monopoly and extortion. The gov\'t did away from telephone rentals back in the day and this is the same. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75240

Ryan	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19146
James	Nunnari	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89123
michael	curtis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAVANNAH	MO	64485

Preston	Long-Lamoureux	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH BEND	IN	46628
Nan	Morelli White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAFETY HARBOR	FL	34695
Sherry	Robbins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALISBURY	NC	28147

Michael	Nobles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	NC	27889
DAWN	GOODALE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45252
Phil	Merriwether	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32256

Gary	Reynolds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	IN	47909
Brad	Wessels	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APPLETON	WI	54915
Timothy	Frock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW OXFORD	PA	17350

Andrew	Steinecker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I am amending the auto generated stub to say personally we need to revolutionize the way our entertainment infrastructure currently works. Not just with television, but also with Internet service providers. Americans deserve the same quality being delivered in Europe at equally reasonable prices.	TOLEDO	OH	43605
Alison	Rugus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33460

Alexandrea	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOCKTON	CA	95209
Toni-Jean	Ferrara	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAPPINGERS FALL	NY	12590
Cynthia	Knight	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32503

Mark	Turcotte	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LISBON FALLS	ME	4252
Elisabeth	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HYDE PARK	MA	2136
Debbie	MacMichael	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOMALL	PA	19008

William	Saunders	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	33810
Linda	LeTendre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARATOGA SPRING	NY	12866
jason	molner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	MD	21131

Barb	Mullady	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUBUQUE	IA	52001
Steven	Ellington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80917
Dahlia	Merritt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMIMENT	PA	18371

Kelli	Dailey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LORAIN	OH	44055
Teisha	Keister	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROE	MI	48161
Marc	Byrnes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERLIN	CT	6037

Charlene	Potter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68111
Avonne	Bonin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLATTEVILLE	WI	53818
Corrinne	Fogg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARDMORE	PA	19003

Matt	Slade	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURAND	IL	61024
Jev	Marshall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35204

Courtney	Goytia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. It is truly highway robbery the prices we are charged for something we will NEVER own!!!! Unlock the box and give us what we deserve!!!!! What we\'ve bought with out hard earned money!!!!	FORT WAYNE	IN	46806
Larry	Narcisse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROUND ROCK	TX	78665

peter	schram	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOONSOCKET	RI	2895
Erin	Street	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98133
Lisa	Uskov	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KEENE	NH	3431

Tonnia	Switzer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	SC	29416
Mimi	Rollins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32806
Heath	Decker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLAIR SHOR	MI	48081

William	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST NEW YORK	NJ	7093
Dee	Asbury-Robertson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78741
Becky	Graham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KALKASKA	MI	49646

Alexander	Padilla	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32812
Janet	Hollinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23451
Sean	Belew	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73127

Traci	Christy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDMOND	OK	73003
Bonnie	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA GRANGE	KY	40031
Danelle	Jannazzo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEADVILLE	PA	16335

Criss	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KERRVILLE	TX	78028
Cheryl	Adkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH BEACH	MD	20714
Randy	Shafer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15210

wendy	root	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATTLE CREEK	MI	49014
Susan	Inman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELK RAPIDS	MI	49629
Eileen	Siple	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEL AIR	MD	21015

Kye	Dixon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANDUSKY	OH	44870
Laura	Beeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HEBRON	KY	41048
Liora	Farkovitz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOUGLASVILLE	GA	30134

Rachael	Simmons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTGOMERY	AL	36108
Colleen	Fisch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	WI	53104
Edward	Savage	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	34957

Rita	Broils	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45229
Yulanda	Ramsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUMTER	SC	29154
Christin	Hayday	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUMBLE	TX	77396

Richard	Smethers	I want more on tv and i cant watch them cuz of the cable company..	BERWICK	PA	18603
Tiffany	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE CITY	FL	32055
Tracy	Majer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HURON	OH	44839

Christian	Nielsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GERMANTOWN	WI	53022
Dayton	Hanford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37919
Shweta	Farmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST BLOOMFIELD	MI	48324

Arlene	Balaban	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST MEADOW	NY	11554
Rachel	Hood	Im tied of being forced to pay SO much! I dont have any companies to choose from. Its either Verizon or Comcast. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23224

Lynda	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW MARKET	VA	22844
Steve	Pelka	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT HURON	MI	48060
Kathy	Shaffer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROE	NC	28112

Kevin	Urban	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT ROYAL	NJ	8061
Bonnie	Wylie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTWERP	NY	13608
Wendy	Campbell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLACK MOUNTAIN	NC	28711

Jessica	Mcginnis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SWARTZ CREEK	MI	48473
Yolanda	Holloway	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENTON	MD	21629
mary	boyle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLD SPRING	NY	10516

Dan	lear	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	MA	2155
Trent	Karr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROYERSFORD	PA	19468
Mario	Ju	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17111

Sara	Mesler	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75218
Stephanie	Mardis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	OH	44708
Kevin	Boone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITESBORO	NY	13492

Billie	Turnage	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANDERSON	CA	96007
John	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	OH	44708
Mary	Wilt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT JULIET	TN	37122

Timothy	Grener	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. This goes for Satellite services to. I asked Direct TV to buy their box but they said no. They want to add unfair cost to us consumers.	BOYNTON BEACH	FL	33436
Frederick	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VILLA RICA	GA	30180
khadja	gregory Faal	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33020

Ron	Buck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38116
Stephanie	Mosier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MALONE	NY	12953
Mark	Daye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45424

Martha	Robertson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENVILLE	SC	29605
Phillip	May	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERWICK	IA	50032
Denise	Turgeon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28203

William	Bradley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOUGLAS	MA	1516
David	Vanderwerf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STONEVILLE	NC	27048
Thomas	Peoples	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BRUNSWICK	NJ	8901

Pablo	Salas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32216
Vincent	Polizzi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37201
Sergio	Rivas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHLEHEM	PA	18020

Jose	Garza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN PARK	MI	48146
Wilson	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERBURY	CT	6708
Trisha	Walter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLINT	MI	48506

Jonathan	faria	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	RI	2809
Debbie	Cesar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEVIEW	MI	48850
Peggy	Moran	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH CHINA	ME	4358

Cheryl	Snow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAINVILLE	MA	2762
Tyler	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTESVILLE	VA	22901
Leslie	Montano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROSPECT	CT	6712

Renae	Matlock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	IL	62703
Reane	Gallegos	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARYSVILLE	MI	48040
Sandy	Kish Jordan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERMILION	OH	44089

Mary Ellen	Noel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15202
Ronald	Hidalgo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIDGEFIELD PARK	NJ	7660
Justin	Banyai	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARGO	ND	58103

Erin	Marquardt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80234
Heidi	Swann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WAYNE	IN	46835
Kara	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUYALLUP	WA	98372

Brian	Campbell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WISCONSIN RAPID	WI	54494
kevin	conway	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELROSE PARK	IL	60164
Roxane	Bolton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST FALMOUTH	MA	2536

Kim	Corl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERVIEW	FL	33579
Kelly	Rumley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMINGTON	IL	61701
Rhonda	Thorn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VOLCANO	CA	95689

Vanessa	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWTON	NJ	7860
Roger	Beames	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40207
Suzi	Cooper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGTON	MN	55024

Alex	Boyce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSPORT	PA	17701
Jorge	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90802
Melissa	Saco Vertiz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33434

Carole	Donner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97233
Maureen	Callahan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHERN PINES	NC	28387
K.	Healy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11204

Kristin	Conway	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOYLESTOWN	PA	18901
Emma	Beauchamp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDENSBURG	NY	13669
Dan	Thorn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWATONNA	MN	55060

Richard	Angel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA VERGNE	TN	37086
Carrie	Lingle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43613
Glenn	Clifford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCK ISLAND	IL	61201

Deb	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRMOUNT	IL	61841
Sarah	Arensman	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENTON	TX	76206
A.	Bergeron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45415

Lori	Vera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49525
Cynthia	Hockaday	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMYRNA	GA	30082
tomika	walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKIN	NC	28621

Barbara	Goodman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST BABYLON	NY	11704
Anna	Kasior	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SILVER SPRING	MD	20901
Keith	Joseph	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28213

Paula	Kuhns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDFIELD	IA	50233
Carlos	Burgos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YONKERS	NY	10704
Maryann	Gilman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRICK	NJ	8723

Michele	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTSVILLE	AL	35802
Lauren	Doria	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM HARBOR	FL	34683
Cheryl	Bielich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCONOMOWOC	WI	53066

Marcia	Erving	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST	MS	39192
Christine	OBrien	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELTONA	FL	32738
Jonathan	Chambers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAURENS	NY	13796

brad	cope	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER HAVEN	FL	33880
Irene	Clemente	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10459
Laura	Merrill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10025

Erin	Marshall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28278 famous	klinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	TX	75654
john	roark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	IN	47904

Steven	Russell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNIONTOWN	OH	44685
Valley	Pickren	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23236
Deborah	Rozell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PANAMA CITY	FL	32405

Patti	Rice	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE ODESSA	MI	48849
Paul	Tupciauskas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43611
Thomad	Breier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14206

Susan	Sherrouse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KATY	TX	77449
Edward	Isabella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SADDLE BROOK	NJ	7663
Rachel	Sorgi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCKINNEY	TX	75070

Beau	Pierre-Louis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55128
Gay	Freebern	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90065
Zachary	Rudd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MENOMONIE	WI	54751

Beverly	Baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43229
Jeshua	Dorsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TENANTS HARBOR	ME	4860
Bob	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89104

Anne	Kelly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15227
Marty	Farmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALTON	GA	30721
Elbert	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35217

MARK	Ackerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREWERTON	NY	13029
Taylor	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARWELL	MI	48622
Wayne	Hoffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELBOURNE	FL	32904

Eric	Boland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLETON	CO	80126
David	Vannoy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40229
Karla L. B.	Freitas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	95322

Adrienne	Petty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORISSANT	MO	63033
Gary	Carone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOULDSBORO	PA	18424
Joyce	Pustilnik	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	10075

Vincent	Dembinski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INGLESIDE	IL	60041
Norlene	Leake	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HONEA PATH	SC	29654
Natalie	Madison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78245

Paula	Benton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53713
Susan	Hakonson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I currently choose to not have cable TV because of the ridiculous cost.	BERTHOUD	CO	80513
Alan	Pelton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NC	27703

Robert	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	IL	62521
Brian	Fulton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERIDEN	CT	6450
Hilary	Hoyt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	MA	2155

kyle	recipko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARBONDALE	PA	18407
Laura	Rayl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORROW	OH	45152
Bala	Kandampalayam	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSDALE	PA	19446

John	Benson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEERFIELD	IL	60015
Pat	Slater	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIOUX FALLS	SD	57106
Isker	Frank	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST SAINT LOUIS	IL	62207

Amanda	Kelly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLUEMONT	VA	20135
Monica	Beebe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MALONE	NY	12953
Paul	Bastarache	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDNER	MA	1440

Erica	Deen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COEUR D ALENE	ID	83815
Anastasia	Rzhevskaya	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LEE	NJ	7024
David	Preston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOORESVILLE	NC	28117

Valerie	Kinney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNION CITY	PA	16438
Daniel	Boykin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FUQUAY VARINA	NC	27526
Mark	Henning	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSSEO	MN	55369

Margaretta	McKenzie	Please stop the monopoly American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCOEE	FL	34761
Linda	Kaminski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALPHARETTA	GA	30004
maryann	squires	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WAYNE	IN	46805

Amy	Hladilek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WISCONSIN RAPID	WI	54494
freida	darn ell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHELBYVILLE	TN	37160
Chad	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE GENEVA	WI	53147

Donna	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TREVETT	ME	4571
Craig	Larsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN LORENZO	CA	94580
Wayne	Buethe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH PLATTE	NE	69101

Michelle	Contois	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDNER	MA	1440
Sandra	Kelle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDINER	ME	4345
David	Bales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40216

Lydia	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60623
Jason	Whitcomb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	O FALLON	MO	63366
Mike	Braniff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67217

Carlton	Sanders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAYSON	GA	30017
Rebekah	Spencer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	MA	1742
Raul	Montalvo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10459

Cheryl	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORKTOWN HEIGH	NY	10598
Deborah	Lackey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. People aren\'t going to put up with this much longer. I am SICK of passing so much just to watch TV.	MADISON	WI	53704

Douglas	Biagini	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO GROVE	IL	60089
Cara	Vergeyle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHLEHEM	PA	18018
Sarah	Murren	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MC SHERRYSTOWN	PA	17344

Tara	Vinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. Since television went digital, my signal aren\'t reliable. I shouldn\'t have to pay anything to watch broadcast TV. If I want local channel to be reliable, I have to purchase cable and a hefty fee to rent boxes. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60628
Anita	Frullani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17111

YoKasta	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37211
Stephanie	Whittaker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TONAWANDA	NY	14150
Lisa	Orlando	YES!! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75223

Wendy	Howell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80227
Ronald	Albert Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAVARRE	OH	44662
Michele	Sievers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOHNTON	PA	19540

Sydney	Chipman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLANO	TX	75075
Christina	Reichenberger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60622
Steve	Hartline	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75254

Penny	Barnes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73130
leah	windhaeuser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCONOMOWOC	WI	53066
Vincent	Rondinelli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14214

Michael	Castner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13203
Robert	Sykes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEAKESVILLE	MS	39451
Wayne	Arnsperger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHANDLER	AZ	85226

Christina	Guerra	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60647
Steve	Rosenberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	NJ	8527
Mark	Persson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	MN	55901

Nicholas	Koors	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44130
Diane	Toureille	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHESDA	MD	20814
Morgan	Peterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW EGYPT	NJ	8533

Liz	Gibba	It\'s time to shut this charade down. In addition to the monthly cost, they regularly fail, wasting countless hours of \'troubleshooting\' to fix something the TV is designed to do without the box. 25 years ago in CA we could survive without the box. Why do you guys allow them to continue to steal from us? Do your job! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55102
Stephanie	CHAN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11214

Gerald	bighia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55444
Michele	Shiner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98155
Kristi	Szczepanski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21239

David	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45431
Cathy	Parks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSON CITY	TN	37601
Emily	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWNDALE	NC	28090

Tr	Atkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SWEETWATER	TN	37874
jeff	Trepanier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAYVILLE	WI	53050
Kristina	Fuller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARKVILLE	MD	21234

Henry	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARKER	CO	80138
Matthew	Schaut	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55406
Heather Rose	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCDONOUGH	GA	30253

Sampson	Holder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARYVILLE	TN	37801
Clifton	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MYRTLE BEACH	SC	29577
john	davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW CASTLE	IN	47362

Danette	Sheridan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING	TX	77389
Alina	Yllanes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33312
Michele	Palermo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANDING	NJ	7850

Jose	Cruz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10032
Vicky	Chaney-Little	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67207
Marc	Lalosh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MASHPEE	MA	2649

Kather	G	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCE	MA	1841
Darcie	Boyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64152
Patricia	Stone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FERNANDINA BEA(	FL	32034

Pia	Colucci	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15213
Pia	Colucci	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15213

Donald	Johnson	This Day and age We should be able to do Better than what is offered by these Cable crooks??? Shit Programs! Too many Fucking Commercials on Every Fucking channel! I spend more time here the past few years on this box than the tv... support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PETALUMA	CA	94954
Tom	Slade	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALDWINSVILLE	NY	13027

Cara	Schmid	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64118
Maria	Lesko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27107
Jasmine	Elliott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	IL	60504

Karl	Petrick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONGMEADOW	MA	1106
Nicole	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PELHAM	AL	35124
michele	macdonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33025

Troy	Tackett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROCTORVILLE	OH	45669
Kirk	Melhuish	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENNESAW	GA	30144
Diane	Cabrales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAUREL	MD	20708

Tracy	Ayers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINSTON SALEM	NC	27107
Linda	Oliva	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PATTERSON	NY	12563
Audrey	Maine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST WARWICK	RI	2893

Bill	McDonnell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIMA	OH	45807
Andrew	Long	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10002
Jim	Wilcox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97219

Laverne	Sherman	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	NJ	8618
Barbi	Setlock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSTON	WA	99403
Chris	Carbonara	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALLINGFORD	PA	19086

Craig	McKibben	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSPORT	PA	17701
Ralph	Oswald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMMOND	LA	70403
Bryon	Farmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46205

Carlo	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95132
Kenneth	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	94602
Angela	Biddinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GAMBRILLS	MD	21054

mirta	rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT SAINT LUCIE	FL	34953
Patrice	Francois	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROE	NY	10950
Walter	Benjamin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78738

Raymond	Gustely	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING	TX	77388
Miguel	Flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VILLA PARK	IL	60181
Cathy	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37914

Jamie	Tater	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32825
Hantzley	Audate	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVERETT	MA	2149
Kevin	Urman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APPLETON	MN	56208

Greg	Cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	MI	49045
Aaron	Wing	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VESTABURG	MI	48891
SORNIEL	DÃ□VILA	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11206

KATE	RICHMAN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST BRUNSWICK	NJ	8816
David	Mynott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROXBURY CROSSIN	MA	2120
Billie jo	Hinote	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANVILLE	IL	61832

Lynne	Gunn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHFORD	CT	6278
Ernest	Daniels	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and the initiative to cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABINGDON	VA	24210
Jordan	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49506

Kathleen	Cahill	The cable companies are holding us for ransom!! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14201
u	s	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELMAR	NJ	7719
John	Herbert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELYRIA	OH	44035

Adolphe	Heppell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FULTON	NY	13069
Kyle	Higgins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FISHERS	IN	46038
Patricia	Haines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ORCHARD	WA	98367

Bryan	Santer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SELINSGROVE	PA	17870
Patty	Crider	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARIS	KY	40361
Irene	Hernandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27609

Brandon	Bonaventura	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	46483
MOLLY	MACKERT	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRANDON	FL	33511
Joel	Ogonowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMS RIVER	NJ	8753

Larry	Dull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TERRE HAUTE	IN	47802
Nick	Hightree	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68507
Jill	Pelletier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KLAMATH FALLS	OR	97601

Ray	Coleman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94102
vincent	aguilar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95126
Raymond	Najor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	MI	48363

Kelly	Bennett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREELAND	MI	48623
James	Ivy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUSTIN	OK	74839
Jeanette	Lehman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOSCOW MILLS	MO	63362

Luis	Mendoza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KISSIMMEE	FL	34746
Marc	Hershkowitz	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKVILLE	MD	20852
Chris	Stearns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts i pay 250 for cable and internet no movie channels or anything,innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIGHLANDVILLE	MO	65669

Gigi	Galloway	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21239
Kendra	Cuyler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MICHIGAN CITY	IN	46361
Linda	Keller	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55426

Dustin	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	99307
Steven	Hansen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84124
tracie	walsh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	19433

Gus	Golter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68516
Antoinette	Zaragoza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87102
Nina	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32803

Billy	Vermillion	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAMPAIGN	IL	61821
Linda	Gray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	30252k
Sharon	Stone	I hate being held hostage by corporate. I sandupport efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUDSON	FL	34667

Heather	Romero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHEYENNE	WY	82001
Maureen	Mclean	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	MI	48183
victor	mikulin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHERIDAN	WY	82801

Floyd	Bradley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DE LEON SPRINGS	FL	32130
Juan	Hernandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PICO RIVERA	CA	90660
Nichole	Herche	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPE	AZ	85283

R. Scott	Harrison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15218
Christopher	Pashke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTHFIELD	OH	44067
Charlene	Conrad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	WA	98092

David	Craig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIALTO	CA	92377
Craig	Moir	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMS RIVER	NJ	8757
Julie	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LARGO	FL	33770

Yolanda	Espinosa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33625
Chris	SMITH	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHULA VISTA	CA	91910
nicole	sauvageau	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI BEACH	FL	33139

Robert	Wagner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENTON	IL	62812
jacob	shonk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Roosevelt would break you up.	RIVER FALLS	WI	54022
Starr	Hughes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSTOWN	KY	41097

David	Chaplain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEESBURG	VA	20176
Earl	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORNELIUS	NC	28031
Earl	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORNELIUS	NC	28031

Veronica	Platzbecker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	IL	62526
Jennifer	Stjude	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	CA	93536
Beth	Dixon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDMOND	WA	98053

Corey	Manspeaker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	READING	PA	19611
Erik	Mensch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	NV	89074
Tara	Bolen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TWO HARBORS	MN	55616

Janis	Russell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUPERIOR	WI	54880
James	Jacks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ACWORTH	GA	30101
Meredith	Cable	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVERETT	WA	98204

Michael	Whitehead	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPLE	TX	76504
Alejandro	Rivera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE CITY	FL	32763
Zach	Raber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST SALEM	OH	44287

Victor	Steele	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45212
Mary	Haroney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UTICA	MI	48317
Eileen	Carson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEARL RIVER	NY	10965

Belinda	Boyles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN TAN VALLEY	AZ	85143
Rudolph	Ross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABILENE	TX	79603
Dan	Ionescu	Comcast has hiked their rate over 250% since we started with them, these kinds of monopolies are bullshit!	HALLANDALE	FL	33009

Manuel	Ronquillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79907
Shawn	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33701
Ruben	Merced	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10468

Omi	Mccarthy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10075
Susan	Creaturaa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10024
Austin	Natile	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHEVILLE	NC	28806

barry	mccollum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPANAWAY	WA	98387
Denice	Lessard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95973
A	Felix	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA FE	NM	87505

Marjorie	Casey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTAMONTE SPRIN	FL	32701
Robert	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORMOND BEACH	FL	32174
Frank	Blumeberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11214

Nathan	Malick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLEAN	NY	14760
tracey	matthews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCEAN CITY	MD	21842
Elinor	Bridges	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRVIEW	NC	28730

Jose	Kranwinkel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAGERSTOWN	MD	21740
Stephen	Gagnon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHUA	NH	3064
Joseph	Briordy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARTERET	NJ	7008

Israel	Quijano morales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VAN NUYS	CA	91406
James	Napolitana	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTOONA	PA	16602
Janean	Lott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLOVERSVILLE	NY	12078

Jessica	Gutierrez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76114
Danielle	Pouletsos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLE ISLAND	NY	11953
Erlyn	Meyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMSTERDAM	NY	12010

Stephanie	Morton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92117
Nathan	Gray	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENFIELD	MA	1301
MARK	COULOMBE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRYEBURG	ME	4037

Beverlee	Ray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COOKEVILLE	TN	38501
Ronald	Garner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10468
tommie	taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REIDSVILLE	NC	27320

Jason	Ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60618
Brian	Heine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92154
Richard	Lamb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99208

Bryan	Nielsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUKILTEO	WA	98275
Eric	Fitch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIETTA	OH	45750
mike	orihood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EATON	OH	45320

perry	morano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSTON	NY	12401
Tom	Zillig	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OVERLAND PARK	KS	66212
Samantha	Northart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10036

Purnima	Barve	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KING OF PRUSSIA	PA	19406
Bobbi	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80231
Yan	Tsirklin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEY COTTAGE	NY	10989

zakk	giannette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLBURY	MA	1527
Lew	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEHOOPANY	PA	18629
Jeffery	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75219

Destin	Maynor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRATTVILLE	AL	36067
kathy	mccrone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILKES BARRE	PA	18702
Maisha	Morales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11217

Jennifer	Bishop	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARROLLTON	TX	75006
T	A	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SURPRISE	AZ	85374
Lisa	Hammer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98030

DeeAnn	Loso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST DUBUQUE	IL	61025
J	D	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SURPRISE	AZ	85374
Anna	Phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN PARK	IL	60131

Jeff	Tix	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUGAR LAND	TX	77478
S	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33619
Richard	Piacentini	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRANFORD	NJ	7016

Catherine	Sofikitis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHUA	NH	3060
John	Peter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOORESVILLE	NC	28115
Michelle	Danielson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55127

Raymond	Amador	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BRAUNFELS	TX	78130
Travis	Baxley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHIPLEY	FL	32428

Reynaldo	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. And by their actions it\'s obvious the big companies are enjoying their advantage	PALMETTO	GA	30268
Dennis	Osborn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45424

daniel	arnold jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOBART	IN	46342
Leslie	Legge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Consumers should have the freedom to pick their provider which would increase competition & maybe stop price fixing. In metro area of Detroit we are limited to Brighthouse OR Comcast (Comcrap). We cannot change to another service & are stuck with the ever increasing prices with ever decreasing selection of channels. Direct TV is no better as it is the same as cell phone contracts & customers are STUCK with their service or pay huge penalties. Its all a monopoly. Please stop protecting corporate profits & protect consumers !!!!	LIVONIA	MI	48150

David	Kimker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARNOLD	MO	63010
Stephen	Thomas	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DRACUT	MA	1826
Micheal	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULLAHOMA	TN	37388

Marlene	Lofton	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND HILL	GA	31324
Janet	Basile	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST SETAUKET	NY	11733
Whitney	Fischer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINDER	GA	30680

aaron	johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94133
Michele	Walford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCKINLEYVILLE	CA	95519
Debbie	Roon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLIFTON	NJ	7013

Daniel	Soria	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLEASANTON	CA	94566
Inge	Arbacauskas	I would just like to have affordable and reasonable Internet and tv! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWMAN LAKE	WA	99025
Aundria	Randall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAUREL	MD	20707

Kimmy	Kinney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98512
Paul	Barber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST SACRAMENT	CA	95691
Aundria	Randall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAUREL	MD	20707

Miguel	Duarte	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT KISCO	NY	10549
Alexis	Madison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIETTA	GA	30064
Paula	Haefner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MECHANICSBURG	PA	17055

carol	mcculley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTURAS	CA	96101
Robert	Burgess	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76135
Pamela	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTELOPE	CA	95843

Susan	Meyer	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98042
Randal	Reber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I am tired of supporting filth and greed!!!	MONROE	WA	98272
Tim	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTLAND	MI	48186

Donald	King	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	WA	98579
Dianne	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTA VISTA	IA	50603
Jennifer	Stefanow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOMFIELD	CO	80021

Greg	Gale	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT CALHOUN	NE	68023
tracy	lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYLACAUGA	AL	35151
Michael	Milliron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85051

James	Lund	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	IL	60506
michael	rossi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CHARLES	MO	63303
Denise	Varela	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11237

reo	urbina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. The digital TV signal from local channels is so low quality its a joke. Force local TV stations to transmit local TV to transmit quality digital signals. They do this on purpose to force locals to have cable. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94606
Michael	Flaherty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBURY HEIGH	NJ	8097
Contonya	White	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	MA	1109

Nancy	Tuthill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10301
William	Tomlinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78224
David	Wiethe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHEELING	WV	26003

Vicki	Bordieri	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99202
marcia	allshouse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15212
Michael	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TERRE HAUTE	IN	47804

Andrea	cherny	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDMOND	WA	98052
Sheila	Crabtree	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITE HOUSE	TN	37188
Heather L.	McPherson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAZEL PARK	MI	48030

Hillary	Palmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAKAWAO	HI	96768
Kerry	Sandler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STEVENS POINT	WI	54482
Margaret	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OR	97478

Diana	Sweeney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNETONKA	MN	55345
Eileen	Hayhurst	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUREKA	CA	95501
elizabeth	gardner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRESHAM	OR	97080

Ron	Lanton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOVER	NH	3820
Catherine	Fitzgerald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GAINESVILLE	GA	30506
Michelle	Chrismon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73130

Hector	Villegas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33351
Bill	Houlis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARRENVILLE	IL	60555
Jeff	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEWISPORT	KY	42351

Jimmie	Jack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENSALEM	PA	19020
Jim	McRae	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STANWOOD	WA	98292
Stanley	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUMSVILLE	OR	97325

valerie	provosty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EFFORT	PA	18330
Sandra	Lang	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ORCHARD	WA	98366
David	Hemingway	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23505

Karen	Katschke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOMEWOOD	IL	60430
Samuel	Boyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30312
Esther	Sanchez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEBURG	OR	97470

Tory	Ornelas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89129
richard	busby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	77062
Jason	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	98002

Richard	Campbell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53222
Mike	Harlow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10014
Russell	Malahowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSOULA	MT	59803

Jennifer	Donnell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALISO VIEJO	CA	92656
elise	sheldon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85006
Lisa	Zimmerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32807

Evelyn	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MYRTLE BEACH	SC	29575
Scott	Salbo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMAICA	NY	11435
Linda-Hale	Pabon-Grieser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAPID CITY	SD	57709

Ercka	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	GA	31701
Fabian	Gray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUMBLE	TX	77346
Jeff	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGIE	KY	41572

Raymon	Morales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AVON PARK	FL	33825
lisa	chandler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARY	NC	27513
Jeannette	Corchado	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. We need to stop this MONOPOLY THE CABLE COMPANY DOING.	AVON PARK	FL	33825

Stephanie	CRAMER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODWAY	TX	76712
Joanne	McCardle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATON ROUGE	LA	70806
DeAntranett	McCray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35206

Unlock the b	Colon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99205
Debra	Thomas	#UnlockTheBox and cut costs. we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN MARCOS	TX	78666
Janet	Proctor	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUNTA GORDA	FL	33983
Rob	Reitenauer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLENTOWN	PA	18104

Daryl	Moses	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIGHTON	TN	38011
Dawn	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARMICHAEL	CA	95608
LYDIA	MCMURPHY	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOBILE	AL	36606

Allison	Sergio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANVILLE	OH	43023
Pamela	Feldman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK PARK	MI	48237
Samantha	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85019

Stella	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIBERTY	KY	42539
James	Freeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KATY	TX	77494
David	Hellmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSON	OH	44047

Margaret	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAUGERTIES	NY	12477
David	Volta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST HAVEN	CT	6516
Joshua	Grant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLSTON	MA	2134

James	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTOWN	IN	47111
Tammie	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	AZ	85539
Robert	Hollobaugh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TIMBLIN	PA	15778

Scott	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77082
Kim	Schumacher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80247
Jon	Easley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48221

Shantanu	Basu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97225
Dale	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT PLEASANT	MI	48858
Jonathan	Staley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEDHAM	MA	2026

Jessica	Utzman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CALUMET	MI	49913
Belinda	Leventhal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37922
Cindy	Hanson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98042

Victoria	Cunnagin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40220
Princeduke	Nkanteen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INGLEWOOD	CA	90302
Tiffany	Paulson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55404

Jessica	Costa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARION	MA	2738
Heather	Steiger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENTONVILLE	AR	72712
Joshua	Lawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63114

Cathleen	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	VA	22645
Pamela	Ibarretz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARSHALLTOWN	IA	50158
John	Gehring	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSING	IL	60438

Charles	Hamrick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GADSDEN	AL	35903
Zachary	Krone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JUAN CAPISTR	CA	92675
Peter	Fines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAVERNIER	FL	33070

Rhonda	Sadler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOBBS	NM	88240
Kevin	Vail	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49506
jose	martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHLEHEM	PA	18015

Eliseo	Tzuc	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78229
Dianne	Daley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90807
Eric	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSTON	PA	18643

Marco	Flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE	CA	92866
Aaron	Moore	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEARBORN HEIGH	MI	48127
Julia	Rapoza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOCKTON	CA	95207

A	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33024
Myrna	Carroll	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78239
Robert	Crane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90025

Rey	Macias	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYLMAR	CA	91342
Paul	Vermillion	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSBURG	VA	23185
Alfrane	Medina	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10467

Margaret	Charara	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEARBORN	MI	48128
Zachary	Hornig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19107
Leslie	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALEXANDRIA	VA	22312

cesar	droz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN TAN VALLEY	AZ	85140
John	Morgan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARBLEHEAD	MA	1945
Dan	Baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46205

Vincent	morrow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ESCONDIDO	CA	92025
Alyson	Brisco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ROSA	CA	95407
Lois	Josimovich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMBRIDGE	MA	2138

Cameron	Hadden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37918
Michele	Lejeune	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE	CA	92868
Van	Welborn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85029

meocha	Stevenson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLETON	CO	80121
Nicole	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANAHEIM	CA	92806
Jennifer	Blaser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53719

Sue	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TIFFIN	IA	52340
Scott	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DERBY	CT	6418
Steve	Gray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONGMONT	CO	80503

Jay	Cannell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	CT	6010
Dustin	Matthews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENTON	WA	98055
Richard	Sanders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38104

Randy	Nitecki	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELCHO	WI	54428
Aubrey	Hanson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REYNOLDSBURG	OH	43068
Clifford	LaRocque	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44126

Serena	Woodham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VISTA	CA	92083
Gary	Ducharme	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARDIFF BY THE SE	CA	92007
Sarah	Kilbara	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMSTERDAM	NY	12010

Kevin	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. Time to become ethical or business will fail. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREELEY	CO	80631
Jodi	Switalski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CALEDONIA	WI	53108
Monica	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALAMEDA	CA	94502

Charlotte	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOLIET	IL	60436
Rhoda	Cuerdo-Ratto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95350
Ronald	Meyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORENCE	TX	76527

Julian	Hernandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDENA	CA	90249
Susan	Conte	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33604

Victoria	Kent	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I cut the cable cord two years ago as a result of usurous rates. I miss a lot of good programming, but having to pay for things I don\'t want just to see the things I do want is not worth it.	OLYMPIA	WA	98501
Angel	P	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHULA VISTA	CA	91915

Robert	Tudball	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTHVILLE	MI	48167
Lisbeth	Gary	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KEY WEST	FL	33040
K	Day	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95118

Valarie	Cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FENTON	IA	50539
Georgette	Leggett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48092
Linda	Williams-Jasper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOCUST GROVE	VA	22508

John	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAZLETON	PA	18201
Lauren	Magnusson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33813
biff Michael	Appia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99207

Paula	Mischanko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSION	KS	66202
Cindy	Pappert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEBSTER	NY	14580
Keith	Sanks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HONOLULU	HI	96815

Sandra	Sc&ultz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75233
Ruth	Fannin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRBORN	OH	45324
Katrina	Dorsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANNISTON	AL	36201

Tammy	Grondin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW GLOUCESTER	ME	4260
Heidi	Breen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT SAINT LUCIE	FL	34953
Deborah	Cooper	It\'s really makes using cable hard to keepI support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60639

Sharon	Beck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCKINNEY	TX	75070
Delina	Blanchett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I have been a loyal cable user for over 30 yrs, and I now pay $240 a month for premium cable TV, but also for channels I never use. Let\'s also unlock the channels too. I\'m sick of paying for ESPN and Spanish language channels I don\'t use. Why is that automatically bundled into my channel lineup? Why should I pay for all these sports channels when I hate sports? I don\'t speak Spanish and don\'t understand why those are in my lineup either. Let me pay for what I use!!!	ARVADA	CO	80004

John	Breen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT SAINT LUCIE	FL	34953
Peter	Palmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33714
Linda	Lentz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	150q0

Mark	Cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSON CITY	MO	65109
Christine	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DARBY	PA	19023
Dawn	Saraceno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOYNTON BEACH	FL	33472

Peter	Mahoney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AVON	CT	6001
tamarcqua	marshall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21206
Joanne	Hankinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSTOWN	PA	15905

John	Slattery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEERFIELD BEACH	FL	33441
Robert	Amico	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELTONA	FL	32738
austin	gkwnn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90038

KEN	Gelormini	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	NH	3079
Dean	Swindell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALAMEDA	CA	94501
Mark	Sarcone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANKENY	IA	50023

Alda	Fers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHEVY CHASE	MD	20815
Susan	Reed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UPLAND	CA	91786
Russell	Bromberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90034

Larry	Shaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97217
andrew	montelongo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDENA	CA	90249
Carlos	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78233

Jennifer	Deel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISONVILLE	TN	37354
Eva	Boyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	97003
Chuck	Berry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38111

Christopher	Henderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33713
Robin	Ross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADDISON	TX	75001
steve	darner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKFIELD	WI	53045

Sylvia	mollers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402
Jacob	Dean	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	OR	97535
Bharti	Carrington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAYLOR	MI	48180

John	Myers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	CO	80011
Jeffrey	Baunach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40299
Brenda	Craig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UPPER MARLBORC	MD	20772

Judith	Struble	After having worked for Comcast and see the higher ups giving themselves in excess of $32,000,000 raises a year, mind you thats was one person, I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CUSSETA	GA	31805
Laura	Barroso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEACON	NY	12508

David	Washington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLWOOD	IL	60104
Doni	Gragert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NIKISKI	AK	99635
Richard	Kenney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST JORDAN	UT	84088

Anne	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLE FALLS	NJ	7424
Virginia	Felty	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEARWATER	FL	33759
Glen	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUGUSTA	KS	67010

Dominic	Minaga	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTMINSTER	CO	80031
Lewis	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTSVILLE	TX	77320
Jason	Crisp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68506

brian	tyrrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROVIA	CA	91016
Cindy	Dumas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTMINSTER	CA	92683
Dali	Stires	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANFORD	FL	32771

Glen	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73132
Ron	Paull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANACONDA	MT	59711
Karl	Zellar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVER DAM	WI	53916

Michael	McCaughan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEARFIELD	PA	16830
Sara	Barry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VASHON	WA	98070
Daniel	Cullen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60607

janis	allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48088
Debra	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	OR	97530
Fred	Armstrong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	WV	25303

Tonya	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60615
Sean	Tyler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YAKIMA	WA	98902
Lydia	Weekes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80247

Mark	Hamilton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	KY	40475
Nathan	Arnold	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OREGON	WI	53575
Keith	Pierce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONSON	MA	1057

Ellen	Green	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESA	AZ	85209
Cherylann	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98106
Jesus	Castro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ANA	CA	92701

Jeffrey	Possinger	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEESBURG	FL	34748
Philip	Lynch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10034
Lisa	Chadwick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTLAKE VILLAGI	CA	91361

Michelle	Haggard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADA	OK	74820
Delana	Veirs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87108
Jeannette	badershall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KILLEEN	TX	76547

David	Laczi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14217
Theresa	Rohan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80247
robert	hoyez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN CITY	OR	97367

Max	Hochman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32246
Frederica	Teer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STEUBENVILLE	OH	43952
John	Emfinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLUE BELL	PA	19422

David	Kruk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTERVILLE	OH	43081
Helen	Ford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST PEORIA	IL	61611
Louis	Morrow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ESSEX	MD	21221

Jane	MacRae	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARASOTA	FL	34231
Tiffany	Downing	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97266
Lee	Goodrow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANBURY	CT	6811

Kim	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEDFORD	OH	44146
Michael	DeHar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40216
Rick	Lesniak	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14214

Peter	Naughton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21223
Eric	Hussey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH BEND	WA	98045
Debra	Hange	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH WALES	PA	19454

Ann Marie	DeMeo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTSMOUTH	RI	2871
Manny	Cardoso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH DARTMOU	MA	2747
Erin	Barb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70113

Christopher	Strader	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK HARBOR	WA	98277
Dawn	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17103
Bill	Collins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEES SUMMIT	MO	64063

Brandon	Terry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROE	VA	24574
Wil	Melendez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34474
Christopher	Strader	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK HARBOR	WA	98277

Tammy	Tybor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKWOOD	MI	48173
Meg	Doyle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OOSTBURG	WI	53070
Michael	Holzinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANTS PASS	OR	97526

Tim	Ellsworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSING	MI	48911
Michael	Succarde	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTER LINE	MI	48015
Robert	Mackey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NIXA	MO	65714

Calvin	Chan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLOVERDALE	CA	95425
Charlene	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	97703
Debbie	Ganoung	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVIEW	FL	34420

Hannah	Hinshaw	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99216 zarah	doan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	CO	80026
Demetrios	Vellianitis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHBURN	VA	20148

Phyllis	Baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUMMERFIELD	NC	27358
Greta	Shirdon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDMOND	WA	98052
Romona	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WRIGHT CITY	MO	63390

A	S	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLOWS	CA	95988
Julia	Norton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARSHALL	NC	28753
Nancy	Tabbert	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLINT	MI	48506

Bryan	Mellberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YPSILANTI	MI	48197
Deborah	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85035
Tracy	Dorsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEAFORD	DE	19973

Scott	Briggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97405
Arthur	Ball	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOBILE	AL	36695
Cale	Brehio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80521

Oliver	Beals	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ISSAQUAH	WA	98029
Thomas	Learnihan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89113
Marie	Maybee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90048

Andrea	Minor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHELTON	WA	98584
Becky	Learnihan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDMOND	OR	97756
Arianna	Vander Weele	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EMERYVILLE	CA	94608

Arianna	Vander Weele	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EMERYVILLE	CA	94608
Parmalee	Zochios	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACEDON	NY	14502
Rob	P	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENSENVILLE	IL	60106

Julia	Reed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA SAL	UT	84530
Michael	Maloney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOWELL	MA	1852
Abbie	Collins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45242

Chris	Franklin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	KY	40505
Carine	Shanafelt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98501
Daniel Pax	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHALIMAR	FL	32579

Denise	Querido	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95828
Michael	McShea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILSONVILLE	OR	97070
Jenalee	Joslyn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97213

Zachary	Drewery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHEYENNE	WY	82001
Donna	Osler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANNAPOLIS	MD	21401
Heidi	Stach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEWOOD	WA	98499

Paul	Laeder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YPSILANTI	MI	48197
cynthia	smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATHENS	GA	30606
Lisa	Lay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	TN	37013

Hannah	Rowley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	PA	17601
Matthew	Hawk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	WA	98092
Alana	Hughes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MN	55744

Rory	Reed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERCED	CA	95348
Sheila	Kopaska-Merkel	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUSCALOOSA	AL	35404
Kimberley	Hallas	Cable companies have unjust regional monopolies currently. Until the FCC dies something about this , I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GASTONIA	NC	28052

Gabriela	Amari	I strongly support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box!	BROOKLYN	NY	11218
Lori	Aronica	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARNATION	WA	98014
Robert	Holley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORAL PARK	NY	11001 eugene	pearson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STUART	FL	34994

Lori	Eden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PETERSBURG	NY	12138
Charlene	lawshea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	MI	48083

Todd	Kannal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	CA	94509
kevin	martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORTLAND	OH	44410
Alexander	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98042

Dorothee	Custer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERRITT ISLAND	FL	32952
Lorraine	Keenan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	NJ	8690
Mark	Evans	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHLAND	OR	97520

Richard	Kasinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DICKINSON	TX	77539
Gary	Geiman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDEPENDENCE	KY	41051
Mike	Holborn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEENAH	WI	54956

Susan	Colison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAYWARD	CA	94545
Renee	Cote	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	4074
Richard	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89101

Sheila	Gentry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	80026`
blondenia	williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENVILLE	SC	29611
Ashley	Pete	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	IL	60505

ronald	hollon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRATTVILLE	AL	36066
Brandy	Watters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDNER	KS	66030
Becky	Forbes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	OR	97355

Debbie	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTSVILLE	AL	35805
Jay	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLE ROCK	AR	72210
John	Holtz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NC	27713

Lora	Chaffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45212
Paige	Coker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOBILE	AL	36608
Tania	Solis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHULA VISTA	CA	91913

Adam	Sems	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RACINE	WI	53405
chris	eggleston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOULDER	CO	80302
Gregory	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33634

jesus	Barbosa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKAWAY	NJ	7866
Mary	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOCKTON	CA	95204
Kerry	Hardy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RHINELANDER	WI	54501

Valentini R	Beaulieu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BEDFORD	MA	2746
Mark	Phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROCKTON	MA	2302
Terri	Tilden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING	TX	77389

keith	hartman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLAYTON	NC	27520
Eul	Liester	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98118
Victor	Nieves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARTLETT	IL	60103

Isaiah	Arana	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTTSDALE	AZ	85257
Sandra	Accordino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13209
Nicole	Winborne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLETON	CO	80130

Marilyn	Mayers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10128
Michael	Vujovich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95126
Corey	Lake	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78251

Jan	Tullis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97219
Deb	Perkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSTOWN	PA	17098
Richard	Conway	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33196

Dan	Marr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67211
Theile	Riordan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUTZ	FL	33559
Wendy	Buckmaster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60660

William	Sanabria	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KISSIMMEE	FL	34741
Ashley	Chambers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32514
Jorge	Reyes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32219

Mark	Spencer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLEN RIDGE	NJ	7028
dabora	deveraux	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATCO	NJ	8004
Jesseca	Olsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33618

Lou	Barta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRUNSWICK	OH	44212
robert	tlownsend	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PFLUGERVILLE	TX	78660
John	Mathews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TARZANA	CA	91356

Nicholaus	Gerber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOWER LAKE	CA	95457
Jeff	Ingraham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST HARTFORD	CT	6118
Rebecca	Reza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	TN	37013

Janet	McPhail	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON BEA	CA	92647
Evelyn	Forbes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN BERNARDINO	CA	92405
Linda	Pomranky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANFORD	MI	48657

Dan	Nelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECORAH	IA	52101
Eileen	Matro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55417
Debra	Eul	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	MN	55912

Shaun	Ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNDEN	WA	98264
Nick	Lepore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERWYN	IL	60402
Laurie	Landis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISHAWAKA	IN	46544

James	Ling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BONITA SPRINGS	FL	34135
Teresa	Tonnemaker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUKILTEO	WA	98275
Maria	De la Pena	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POUGHKEEPSIE	NY	12601

KIM	DEJESUS	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14215
Michael	Cacciapaglia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYNESBORO	VA	22980
jennifer	bennett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELIZABETHTOWN	KY	42701

Manuel	Driggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST BERLIN	NJ	8091
Joan	Danenberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94619
James	Metter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63122

Rick	Haynes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSBORO	MO	63050
Roxane	Orf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUNCOOK	NH	3275
Heather	McAfee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97203

casey	begin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFIELD	ME	4937
Linda	Bonsall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I Love My Atenna TV	NAVARRE	FL	32566

Wain	Poole	The comments below are suggested by the website unlockthbox.com. I agree with the comments, and hereby submit them as my own thoughts on this subject. --- I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38111
Jeff	Brock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74135

Michael	Oliver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSONVILLE	IN	47130
ruben	garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPLE HILLS	MD	20748
Beatrice	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA GRANGE	TX	78945

Judy	LaRue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HINCKLEY	IL	60520
Philip	Giordano Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANVILLE	NY	12832
Herb	Mauro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRIS PLAINS	NJ	7950

Jeremy	Vachon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55448
Geri	Fox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNING	MT	59417
Leanda	Chaffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOUGLASVILLE	GA	30135

Stephen	LaRue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MENOMONIE	WI	54751
Pat	Hendrix	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSDALE	MI	49242
Amy	Wassell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLYMOUTH MEETI	PA	19462

CHRIS	BALL	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. The collusion, rate-fixing and price gouging have gotten WAY out of control. ENOUGH IS ENOUGH! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33314
Teresa	Louis-Tomlinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONIFER	CO	80433

Christina	Semidey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW PORT RICHEY	FL	34653
Lesli	Lytle	There is no need fora monopoly. We are not in the 1920\'s without resources and technology. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90027
Phyllis	Nelson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVENPORT	FL	33837

Kathleen	Kalanquin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DYERSBURG	TN	38024
Daniel	Reed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOYNE CITY	MI	49712
Dori	Myers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78229

Kathy	Grandt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDINA	OH	44258
Charlie	Wesley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14214
Shirley	Burton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTGOMERY	AL	36109

Russell	Dahl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KEANSBURG	NJ	7734
Lisa	Schweinsberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY CITY	MI	48708
Rohit	Puri	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALOS VERDES PEN	CA	90274

Erin	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOTHELL	WA	98012
Dannie	Sherrick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89118
Jessica	Daly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOPEKA	KS	66609

Mr	Riker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FULLERTON	CA	92832
kathy	rench	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOVER	DE	19904
Robert	Futty	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ESSINGTON	PA	19029

Siddhartha	Lokanandi	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10026
Gabrial	Lehrer	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33460
Darrell	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15241

Mary	Montgomery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40211
Julie	DonCarlos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80220
James	Gibbs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29203

Duane	Fink	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLNEY	MD	20832
akeem	witherspoon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARTSVILLE	SC	29550
Eliezer	Robles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEPORT	CT	6605

Sarah	Barnhill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM HARBOR	FL	34683
Monica	Bankston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29229
Jeremy	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVINGSTON	LA	70754

Lee	Law	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEARBORN	MI	48124
Nancy	Abbott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENWOOD	IN	46143
Frances	Patton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILTON	WV	25541

Joseph	Custer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOONES MILL	VA	24065
Troy	Bailey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEARWATER	FL	33756
Leslie	Long	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76179

Rita	Muehlman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT MILL	SC	29707
Steven	Klayman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78737

Mark	Bethel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. And High Definition should not cost extra. It is the new broadcast standard. I can\'t buy a 4:3.1 tv anymore so why does HD cost extra ?	KNOXVILLE	TN	37909
Michael	Beesley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44102

DOROTHEA	JONES	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19143
Jeffery	Keown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90066
Benjamin	Babarsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCRANTON	PA	18504

Kelly	Casey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55419
Edith	Huber	We pay way too much for way too many "services". Time to put the people first. This is a start. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARVARD	MA	1451
Lisa	Gottlieb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHUA	NH	3060

Lani	Gallear	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASILLA	AK	99654
Annalei	Lake	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85032
John	LaRue	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELAVAN	WI	53115

Barbara	Hunter	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY SHORE	NY	11706
Mary	McMahon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALLS CHURCH	VA	22042
Teresa	Gott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	KY	40517

Donna	Halldorson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW IBERIA	LA	70563
Chuck	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	DE	19809
Francisco	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH BEND	IN	46619

Ellie	Donovan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABINGTON	MA	2351
Christiana	Fuller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90802
Tim	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT AUGUSTINE	FL	32092

Andrea	Deane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAHUARITA	AZ	85629
Dave	Gugliotta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	MA	1970
Lydian	Weikel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VASS	NC	28394

Angela	Alfonae	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COATESVILLE	PA	19320
Wilmer	Hermandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HYATTSVILLE	MD	20783
Juan	Gallardo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROVIDENCE	RI	2908

Jennifer	Schmidt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45231
BM	Weathers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORDOVA	SC	29039
Kathleen	Jekabsons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97225

Melanie	Oberlander	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAVARRE	FL	32566
Sarah	Fetterman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PINE BUSH	NY	12566
amber	waggoner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTON	IL	62002

Sheryl	Pike	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85029
Marshall	Knauf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE HAVASU CITY	AZ	86406
sal	Indriolo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDEPENDENCE	OH	44131

Dale	Ducheneaux	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	SD	57013
William	Burton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PANAMA CITY	FL	32405
Nancy	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21230

Janet	Beckham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KERMIT	TX	79745
Sheri	Beatty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STAMFORD	CT	6903
M	Doore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEDGEFIELD	SC	29168

Deborah	McDaniel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA MONICA	CA	90401
Jerrod	Mertz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	PA	17603
David	Nguyen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ANA	CA	92704

DeeAnn	Butler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIO RANCHO	NM	87124
Chad	Henson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VICTORVILLE	CA	92392
Theresa	Collie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUEEN CREEK	AZ	85142

Travis	Unterbrink	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAPAKONETA	OH	45895
Janet	Sutton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BILLERICA	MA	1821
Adil	Hassan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95835

Andrea	Deachman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICHESTER	NH	3258
rhonda	suttle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIDNEY	OH	45365
Morris	Neal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT SMITH	AR	72904

Courtney	Ignarri	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENDICOTT	NY	13760
Erica	Ustaszewski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	READING	PA	19602
Mary	Yager	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FULLERTON	CA	92832

Alexander	Kinkead	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37214
Ryan	Goughneour	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TARRS	PA	15688
Elizabeth	Ricketson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APOPKA	FL	32712

Alvin	Willett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85719
Eric	Ricketson Sr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APOPKA	FL	32712
Kevin	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KATY	TX	77494

Matt	Wenner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROUND LAKE	IL	60073
Dan	Swiger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRMONT	WV	26554
steve	Brustman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GENOA CITY	WI	53128

Norma	Caamano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH ARLINGTOI	NJ	7031
James	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43232
Stuart	Barr0n	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30339

Adrian	Childs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	AL	36830
Phillip	Bricker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANSFIELD	OH	44907
Debbie	Evans	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94134

John	Barry	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13215
William	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10306
Brandon	Brooks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	OH	45710

linda	McDonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75218
George	Figueroa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34116
Greslim	Vela	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDINBURG	TX	78542

Jacqueline	Cruz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANDISVILLE	NJ	8326
Peter	Noriega	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10310
Colleen	Sheridan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	NY	13617

Orion	Gudgell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	WA	98236
bria	ellis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60615
Debbie	Hodge	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CICERO	IL	60804

Marilyn	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARYVILLE	MO	64468
John	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43204
Sherry	Soehnlein	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53714

Christie	Whitney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEDRO WOOLLEY	WA	98284
Terry	Nowotarski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE	CA	92866
Sheila	Wiles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMA	NY	14059

Andrew	Mikkelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSKEGON	MI	49444
Natalie	Baxter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LORAIN	OH	44052
Harry	Sklaroff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WASHINGTO	MD	20744

Teresa	Gurno Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCE	KS	66046
Robin	Kottke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85019
Thomas	Griffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKEMOS	MI	48864

Kim	Damron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLAHASSEE	FL	32312
Earl	Puckett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PAYSON	AZ	85541
Daniel	Rativa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32821

Paula	Jamiel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33334
Lars	Tofastrud	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWTOWN	PA	18940
Jaydean	Huff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GAMALIEL	KY	42140

John	Knight	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80214
Roy	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52403
Tracy	Wenner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GURNEE	IL	60031

Bobby	McGuire	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10036
Mary	Fleury	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Monopolies prevent competitive marketing and can silence free speech if the monopoly doesn\'t approve of what is being said.	FOWLERVILLE	MI	48836

Tammy	Masters	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	URBANA	IL	61802
JODI	HENNEN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43211
thomas	brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VINELAND	NJ	8361

Timothy	Francis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45414
Laurie	McKay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CADILLAC	MI	49601
sam	baj	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49512

Monica	Hyatt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER PARK	FL	32792
Darrell	Mackie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SATELLITE BEACH	FL	32937
gerri	lawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMAQUA	PA	18252

Nikki	Bauman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSCOE	SD	57471
Celia	Andrews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	WA	98002

Debbie	Alves	For the disabled (like me) and others on a low- or fixed-income, these box fees can mean the difference between cable access to programming and the Internet, or nothing. #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20008
William	Hawkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANNAPOLIS	MD	21403
AJ	Solis	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87121

Thomas	Pecore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALLBROOK	CA	92028
Desiree	Navarro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85736
paul	hendrickson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINOOKA	IL	60447

Albert	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KISSIMMEE	FL	34745
Jonathon	Meeks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOAZ	AL	35956
Joe	Profilio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAGERSTOWN	MD	21742

Daniel	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABILENE	TX	79606
lisa	Forrestor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	PA	17042
james	jenkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHATSWORTH	GA	30705

vincent	mosemann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BILLINGS	MT	59101
Christine	Vaughn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILTON	VT	5468
Christopher	Sneed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHATTANOOGA	TN	37405

Deborah	McClellan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ZUNI	VA	23898
Kathleen	McCurry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTBROOK	ME	4092
charlotte	smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ORCHARD	WA	98367

Sarah	Heppell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALDWINSVILLE	NY	13027
Pam	Llewellyn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALGONQUIN	IL	60102
Scott	Brannon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46201

George	Barrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMILTON	OH	45013
Eric	Friedman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COUNCIL BLUFFS	IA	51503
Zan	Wesker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBORO	NC	27312

Bonny	Todd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DESTIN	FL	32541
mary	barron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLAIR SHOR	MI	48082

Jamie	Benavides	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. My parents recently moved, dish network wanted $500 to setup the new house and to upgrade receivers that would still remain their property. That doesn\'t include the monthly fee for the equipment.	TWIN FALLS	ID	83301
Kalinda	Garner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38107

Trip	Kirk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33701
Susan	Mounshi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43615
Justin	Arends	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHEVILLE	NC	28804

William	Vanderhoff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INVER GROVE HEIC	MN	55077
Josh	Schrieber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78216
Andrew	Beach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSFIELD	ME	4967

Terra	Mascarenas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80206
Nicholas	Afdahl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLUTE	TX	77531
Dee	McCrea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GALENA	IL	61036

felicia	kandel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KEW GARDENS	NY	11415
Peter	Monie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78232
Katherine	Day	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERKELEY	CA	94705

Mel	Fish	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	NY	12202
lawrence	waites	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48089
Filiberto	Quintana	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PERTH AMBOY	NJ	8861

Richard	Kaleta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37203
Annita	Mason	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	47! 50 adam	ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BANGOR	ME	4401

George	DePrez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33617
Shannon	Winn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOBLE	OK	73068
Dr. Gene	Maynard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	NY	12205

Traci	Frost	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23456
Ronni	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TIFFIN	OH	44883
Maryann	Rogers	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98042

Michael	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87123
Max	Carson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK PARK	IL	60304
Susan	Caggiano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90066

Michael	Gyugo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43207
Wesley	Shoemaker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ALBANY	IN	47150
Brandon	Rochon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERRILL	WI	54452

Karen	Burns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33707
Enrique	Rubio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33132
Jose	Morales	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICOPEE	MA	1013

Christopher	Haley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OZONE PARK	NY	11417
Patricia	Brozek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDEN CITY	MI	48135
Eleanor	Troutman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACON	GA	31204

Marisor	Roman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW HAVEN	CT	6511
Sabina	McQuillan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97217
Stephen	Antonacci	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCEANSIDE	NY	11572

Natecia	Alfonso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAREHAM	MA	2571
Richard	Greene	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENNESAW	GA	30152
Noreen	mainguy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHUA	NH	3060

nichole	palmisano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45215
Jason	Stremel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONTARIO	CA	91761
Bryan	Fields	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37209

Carlos	Delgado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRIS	IL	60450
Tiffany	Cafarella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAPEL HILL	NC	27516
Craig	Fisher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT JERVIS	NY	12771

Nicole	Boyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEMAQUID	ME	4558
Sameer	Asmar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ODESSA	FL	33556
Ivan	Tello	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60623

Pearl	Chavez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	MO	65202
keitg	cooper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIDDEFORD	ME	4005
Liz	Merry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVIS	CA	95616

graciela	castro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING VALLEY	NY	10977
Catherine	Genna	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODHAVEN	NY	11421
Arthur	Burns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANVILLE	IA	51022

Vincent	Lombardi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH LAS VEGAS	NV	89031
Cheryl	Kelmar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA BARBARA	CA	93109
Angela	Groves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALLS CHURCH	VA	22042

Lisa	Gibson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULLAHOMA	TN	37388
Dorothy	Klimoff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLD ORCHARD BE/	ME	4064
Khadijah	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARQUETTE	MI	49855

Steve	Bergamo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GILBERT	AZ	85234
Lester	Tomson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMPTON	NJ	8827
Christopher	Yoos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERBURY	CT	6704

Larry	Chandler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45424
Sue	Birkeland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA PORTE	IN	46350
Clifford	Padilla	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11223

Pamela	Hanrahan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHATHAM	MA	2633
Cheryl	Andres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53211
Maryann	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKLAND	MA	2370

Clara	Matthews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSONVILLE	IN	47130
Christopher	Diver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	60087

Sarah	Falls	When I was a kid, cable didn\'t have commercial breaks, because we paid for cable TV. Now, we\'re paying for commercials. This is ridiculous. Commercials OR consumers should pay for the content, not both. If I\'m sitting through commercials, I shouldn\'t be paying for it. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30309
Anthony	Valentin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BEDFORD	MA	2740

Debra	Ostrom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85737
Jesus	Ruvalcaba	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUKEGAN	IL	60085
Bill	Antonacci	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	3216421

Richard	Caddell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PAINESVILLE	OH	44077
Brian	Geenbaur	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORMOND BEACH	FL	32176
Michael	Burt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14609

Lynette	Lynn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOOMIS	CA	95650
Kimberly	Antonacci	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM COAST	FL	32164
Anthony	Virella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOWELL	MA	1854

Michael	Harwig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92114
joyce	boyle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAYS LANDING	NJ	8330
Robin	Murray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98108

David	Higgins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55410
Pedro	Ortega	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11214
Lisa	Foster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40214

Kathy	Lockhart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SILVER SPRING	MD	20901
Cesario	Maritnez	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOUGLAS	MA	1516
Genia	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORPUS CHRISTI	TX	78410

Terry	Broussard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABBEVILLE	LA	70510
David	Pressley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM COAST	FL	32164
Jimena	Tovar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33176

Joe	Dunn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEVITTOWN	PA	19057
Shawn	Kubitza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97229
wilfredo	melendez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Pure greed but until people STOP ordering cable it will never change!	BRONX	NY	10462

Jerry	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLINE	NH	3033
rusty	escott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WACO	TX	76705
Patricia	Hawkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40220

Edward	Johnson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAVOIS MILLS	MO	65037
Kandys	Mercer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76111
jeff	guelzow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COCKEYSVILLE	MD	21030

Katrina	Bielinski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT FRANCIS	WI	53235
LaNora	Richard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89108
Anna	Phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN PARK	IL	60131

Keni	Meyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ROSA	CA	95407
Greg	Yackley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WIXOM	MI	48393
Leslie	LaRue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10035

Dalcini	Canella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10001
Jewel	High	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARIS	TX	75460
Jeff	Scheiderer	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOSHEN	OH	45122

Ross	Edmonds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLACKSBURG	VA	24060
Mary	Randall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKSTON	TX	75421
Terry	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98031

Sheila	Penney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40203
Danielle	Lillie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Twc is averaging 200 a month in Rochester, NY. Ridiculous! This petition is for 200 a year when we spend 12 times that!!!	ROCHESTER	NY	14620

Khris	Radke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRACY	MN	56175
Forrest	Gladden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARION	NC	28752
David	McCormic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA CRUZ	CA	95062

Lisa	Hobbins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	21811
Shirley	Lawsin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HACKENSACK	NJ	7601
Duane	Bush	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	OH	45373

Heather	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONGMONT	CO	80503
fernando	barron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SKOKIE	IL	60076
Sandra	Schmitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTAGE	IN	46368

Rigoberto	Sandoval	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSVILLE	TX	78520
Stacey	Ruedinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSHKOSH	WI	54904
Glenn	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	VA	22152

Michael	Hudson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KEY WEST	FL	33040
Megan	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HASLETT	MI	48840
Jared	Farnum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IRVING	TX	75038

Sherri	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46202
E	Palid	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99201
Dennis	Yarbrough	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARRIZO SPRINGS	TX	78834

Anil	Arora	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLBURN	NJ	7041
Loretta	Long	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPA	CA	94558
Cory	Alvarado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63104

Linda	Vaughn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	NC	28411
Lisa	Ham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19114
Laurie	Jordan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63139

richard	leblanc	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABBEVILLE	LA	70510
Katrina	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER GARDEN	FL	34787
kevin	mcdonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29229

Daniel	Arebalo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURKE	VA	22015
Margaret	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISONVILLE	KY	42431
Fabricio	Godoy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY SHORE	NY	11706

Dustin	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40229
Robin	Blackburn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KING	NC	27021
Carmen Alici	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	33547

delores	warren	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29229
Wayne	Harke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARKESAN	WI	53946
Laura	Heshmaty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BASKING RIDGE	NJ	7920

Roberta	Fuhrer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53718
Elmo	Lawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUFKIN	TX	75901
Ann	Madseb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97214

Charles	Childers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CYPRESS	TX	77433
Torregez	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33169
Michelle	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTMINSTER	MD	21157

linda	davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRYAN	TX	77803
Mark	Lysdahl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELK RIVER	MN	55330
dr frank	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH BURLINGTC	VT	5403

sarah	mcdonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST HAVEN	CT	6516
Jason	Harvey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLBROOK	NY	11741
Rocco	Demark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RACINE	WI	53403

Monica	Boulton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PADUCAH	KY	42001
Caitlin	Noah	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PACIFICA	CA	94044
Curtis	Kirk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TYLER	TX	75709

Ben	Riesenberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97217
Mimi	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN MARCOS	TX	78666
amar	ashworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BERN	NC	28560

Frank	Giunta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST GROVE	PA	19390
Tracy	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANBY	OR	97013
Jose	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADDISON	IL	60101

Adam	Staats	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78222
Elizabeth	Garner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	98290
Mary	nix	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60659

Loren	Collins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDWARDSVILLE	KS	66113
Jeanne	Mello	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABERDEEN	SD	57401
Christopher	Mendez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89102

Amanda	Butler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EATON	OH	45320
Bruce	Smith	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALENCIA	PA	16059
Melissa	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEON	KY	41840

JM	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32806
Jerry	Phenney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRUNSWICK	OH	44212
Tyler	Hendrick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKESIDE	MT	59922

Jessy	Guffey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34110
Jennifer	Aiken	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HADLEY	NY	12835
Jeanette	Carrero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10467

Andrew	Crider	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAMBERSBURG	PA	17202
Jordan	Dimovski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53221
Ilia	Powell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERRILLVILLE	IN	46410

Chris	Cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KELLER	TX	76244
Harold	Metzger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97210
Nancy	Prive	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	MD	21122

Dave	Negrete	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAINFIELD	IL	60544
Branden	McGuire	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	CA	92507
Dylan	Krech	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97217

Marisa	Sasson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VAN NUYS	CA	91401
Charles	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT AUGUSTINE	FL	32086
Lynda	Boucher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUNTA GORDA	FL	33983

Olivia	Kaesberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLERSBURG	OH	44654
STephanie	Browne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENTON	WA	98059
Chris	Coutts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OOLTEWAH	TN	37363

Joel	Albert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST DECATUR	PA	16878
Damon	Tabb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOREST HILLS	NY	11375
Daniel	Ballard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENMORE	WA	98028

Lynda	Boucher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOONSOCKET	RI	2895
Silvana	O	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASTORIA	NY	11102
Steven	Lai	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVILLE	MI	48111

Cynthia	Gedz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHVILLE	NY	14710
Sharon	Gast	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT SAINT LUCIE	FL	34953
Billy	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVERMORE	CA	94550

Janet	Mack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMITHFIELD	VA	23430
Becky	Farrell	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97304
Tinian	Crawford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAYDENVILLE	MA	1039

Janine	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. My last box I paid over 800 bux for something that costs 300. It isn\'t fair! American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLOUCESTER CITY	NJ	8030
Angela	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSDALE	MI	49242
Aaron	Cristaldi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COTTEKILL	NY	12419

Helen	Suffour	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOMETOWN	IL	60456
Lauren	Manning	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	NY	12207
Michael	West	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32812

Beryl	Dunwoody	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRUNSWICK	GA	31520
John	Aceti	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEND	OR	97701
John	Lynch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE CITY	FL	32025

Chris	Ennis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	CT	6420
Lorie	Radabaugh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHENIX CITY	AL	36869
Kay	Lumpkin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22407

Ann	Lane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OR	97477
Tom	Rockey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEWARD	PA	15954
helen	acosta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAKERSFIELD	CA	93304

David	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90025
Robert	Kash	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STROUDSBURG	PA	18360
Judy	Schmidt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST LANSING	MI	48823

Ramona	King	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I just think Americans should have the right to watch tv channels 2, 4,5,7,9, and 13 the way we once did, for free. We buy our TV\'s and do to these cable companies we pay to watch tv for the remainder of our lives.	LEWISTON	CA	96052
John	Resner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORYDON	IN	47112

Sharon	Rosplock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASSADAGA	NY	14718
Leonardo	Borba	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33066
Kristen	Moses	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WADSWORTH	IL	60083

John	Masalko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33637
Becky	Bond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATON ROUGE	LA	70817
Barbara	Fernandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LARGO	FL	33771

Ryan	Lewandowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKHORN	WI	53121
Vickie	Smithson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDEPENDENCE	MO	64057
Allison	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BASTROP	TX	78602

Ronald	Cunningham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENTON CITY	WA	99320
Sandy	Culpepper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCOS	CO	81328
Suzanne	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	19061

Ralph	Erdenbrack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORK	PA	17406
Rachael	Barnhart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEFONTE	PA	16823
Gloria	Arnold	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT NEWS	VA	23608

Thomas	Stenglein	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15227
Richard	Shepherd	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43205
Robert	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORENCE	OR	97439

Anthony	Worden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESA	AZ	85212
Jeffery	Cloud	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MALVERN	AR	72104
Edward	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN	CO	80918

Alixandria	Andrews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTON	IL	62002
Gina	Mendoza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89117
Wendelyn	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19144

Jose	Nieto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALENCIA	CA	91355
Denise	Dorey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94102
Kirk	Norlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN LORENZO	CA	94580

Tania	Love	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTIC CITY	NJ	8401
Galon	Cooper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSOURI CITY	TX	77489
Dariet	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38135

Rhianna	Berrigan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERRIMACK	NH	3054
javier	marcial	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77084
Renj	Reichert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER HAVEN	FL	33880

Daryl	Brock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTLAND	MI	48186
Erik	Felten	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHEELING	IL	60090
Scott	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	1760

Tysha	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17102
Florence	Byrd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAPID CITY	SD	57703
Samantha	Kennedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STERLING	KS	67579

Michele	Horton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAVE JUNCTION	OR	97523
Deborah	Sasson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORK	PA	17402
Bill	Wixon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34476

Lionel	Francois	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11216
Helena	Zahara	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATTLE CREEK	MI	49037
Kevin	Sarna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRAIDWOOD	IL	60408

Andre	McDonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87108
Doug	Roaten	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MATTHEWS	NC	28105
Laura	Rosser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76103

Theresa	Abraham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78228
Joseph	Wojciechowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK CREEK	WI	53154
Angelina	Lambert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60640

Michael	Budd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROVIDENCE	RI	2905
Mary	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALISADE	CO	81526
Kim	Mileusnic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CROWN POINT	IN	46307

Thomya	Jenkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSVILLE	TN	37043
Steven	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10027
Ragan	McManus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISONBURG	VA	22802

Gene	Paranuk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT NEWS	VA	23602
James	Larrow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MASSENA	NY	13662
Ron	Babcock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEAU	MN	56751

Sheryl	Mobley-brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45231
cynthia	davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSBORO	OR	97123
Ron	Avila	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94110

Belinda	Silvas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUSON	LA	70529
Roger	Peacock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHTON PARK	IL	60471
Talitha	Embry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSION HILLS	CA	91345

Daniel	Silvas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUSON	LA	70529
Andrew	Lederman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10003
Vicki	Kuglin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELAVAN	WI	53115

Jodie	Eck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	PA	17512
Shelley	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98119
Regina	Gallagher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VINCENTOWN	NJ	8088

Chris	Kennedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GROVE CITY	OH	43123
Renee	Holmes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11216
Linda	Rivera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASSELBERRY	FL	32707

Mario	Pinardi	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43215
Kevin	Ryan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN MARCOS	TX	78666
George	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT JOSEPH	MO	64506

David	Tarantino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLBURN	NY	10931
Blanche	Figliola	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROEVILLE	PA	15146
Catherine	Scydick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63129

Jacqueline	Asher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRIENDSHIP	TN	38034
Germaine	Tresvik	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ULSTER PARK	NY	12487
Jonathan	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALNUTPORT	PA	18088

Jean	Chevry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	NY	12180 ana	Zinevich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMPTON	NJ	8827
Philip	Read	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Freedom for information!	MELBOURNE	FL	32935

Kricket	Leedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14618
Casey	Atkinson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LARAMIE	WY	82070
Jennifer	Collins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63130

Kerry	Peeler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAIDEN	NC	28650
Brian	Champ	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TYRONE	GA	30290
Ivan	Peltier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KILLEEN	TX	76541

Darlene	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98660
Kim	Barber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTVILLE	NJ	7045
Carol	Matthews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINDSOR	VA	23487

cynthia	montallana	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMS RIVER	NJ	8755
Debbie	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRIOR LAKE	MN	55372
R	Winter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEVADA	OH	44849

Daniel	Saunders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80903
Maura	Hughes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	1047o
Lloyd	Cresci	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDEN	UT	84401

Charles	Hines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43620
Debra	Derr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOVER	NJ	7801
Behnoosh	Armani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREA	CA	92821

Nora	Canterbury	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GULF BREEZE	FL	32561
Kay	Lowe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	80233
Alexander	Smith	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98042

Gay	Hawkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTSVILLE	AL	35805
Derrick	Jenkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUTHERSVILLE	GA	30251
brenda	weathers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICKAMAUGA	GA	30707

cheryl	carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING	TX	77381 matt	moser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARK HILLS	MO	63601
Eric	Kramer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19134

Heather	Obloj	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FENTON	MI	48430
scott	daneker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUAKERTOWN	PA	18951
Monica	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97405

David	Holmes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40205
Wayne	Starz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TWENTYNINE PALM	CA	92277
Elizabeth	Watts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VENICE	FL	34293

Michael	Bay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT MARYS	OH	45885
Charles	Honse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM SPRINGS	CA	92262
Denis	O\'CONNELL	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HANSON	MA	2341

Daniel	Lyman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14217
Elizabeth	Creech	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONNERSVILLE	IN	47331
Ken	Wrightstone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMP HILL	PA	17011

Edwin	Barrera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORAL PARK	NY	11001
Vanessa	Stroud	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENNGROVE	CA	94951
Craig	Herold	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIDGEWOOD	NY	11385

Matthew	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STAFFORD	VA	22556
Richard	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78745
Kevin	Bears	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANASSAS	VA	20109

Karen	Renski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORMAL	IL	61761
Hector	Medina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60641
Joyce	Freeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDISON	NJ	8837

Emily	Heeg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HORTONVILLE	WI	54944
Lucia	Burnham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL SEGUNDO	CA	90245
Frank	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH RICHLAND	TX	76180

JAIME	SIBAUSTE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33181
Kenneth	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKSVILLE	FL	34601
Clifford	Jackim	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARVER	MA	2330

Reginald	Edmonds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH TONAWAN	NY	14120
Shane	Eicksteadt	I am sick of paying hefty fees to the monopoly that is Comcast/xfinity I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHELLE	IL	61068
Veronica	Debnam	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11233

Deborah	West	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANVILLE	NJ	8835
Brian	Landry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRUSLY	LA	70719
amy	hesse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLERMONT	FL	34714

Gregory	Essick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINDERMERE	FL	34786
Ray	Manguiat	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	91753
Arline	Osuna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROUND ROCK	TX	78664

Zack	Bird	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19144
Elisha	Speigner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FULLERTON	CA	92835
Kerry	Clough	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FERNDALE	MI	48220

Catherine	Cannon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ALBANY	MS	38652
Julie	LaFleche	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANITEVILLE	VT	5654
Margaret	Hodgkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENISON	TX	75020

Lesley	Woodward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKY RIVER	OH	44116
Jeffrey	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89104
Wendy	Flora	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KALAMAZOO	MI	49001

Perry	Martino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI BEACH	FL	33139
Mo	Huber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	WA	98042
Cynthia	Bourdon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCMINNVILLE	TN	37110

Monty	Marchant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORMAN	OK	73069
Russell	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	NC	28025
Carol	Colton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97301

holly	jensen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUBBARDSTON	MA	1452
Elizabeth	Snarski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WISCONSIN DELLS	WI	53965
Pete	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW HOLLAND	PA	17557

Robin	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32836
Chris	Conner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20001
Rafael	zamora	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYLMAR	CA	91342

Anna	Starner	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	PA	17042
Jamie	Glikin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21212
Beverly	Sneddon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46227

Elizabeth	Long	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19154
Margrita	Colabuno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOW	OH	44224
Darlene	Adler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90806

Kris	Lovaas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING PARK	MN	55384 khristy	bennett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELMAR	MD	21875
sherry	neese	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITSETT	NC	27377

Kelly	Collier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIS	MI	48191
Clinton	Margolis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUMBLE	TX	77396
Jason	Driscoll	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVERPOOL	NY	13090

Gary	McCreadie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAKEFIELD	RI	2879
wayne	wagner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	READING	PA	19605
Ryan	Kelley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRANDON	MS	39047

Rebecca	Peebles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10031
Phoebe	Olivera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOQUIAM	WA	98550
Joe	Krutz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOWNINGTOWN	PA	19335

Greg	Giammarco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALATIE	NY	12184
Leslie	DeLoach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKLEDGE	FL	32955
Mike	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERIDIAN	MS	39301

Emily	Bisbee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH HADLEY	MA	1075
Sue	Donaldson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KAILUA	HI	96734
Stanton	Painter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLEETWOOD	PA	19522

Marlene	Yost	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAKEFIELD	RI	2879
Jennifer	Luttrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKFORT	KY	40601
Teri	Frandsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37934

Natalie	Kochte	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GNADENHUTTEN	OH	44629
Kara	Leach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70118
Robert	Hovey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55115

Kelly	Pyles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEWIS CENTER	OH	43035
Sean	Hayes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEQUANNOCK	NJ	7440
Jessica	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	NC	27536

Malarie	Holcomb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUGUSTA	ME	4330
Jerri	Tober	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSKEGON	MI	49441
Brenda	Neckerman	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTESVILLE	VA	22901

Teresa	Ungerer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	NC	28025
Steve	Sinclair	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DE PERE	WI	54115
Kevin	McIntyre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHESTER	VA	23831

David	Bailey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55421
Jeanne	walsh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	GA	30033
Richard	Willets	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH LAS VEGAS	NV	89084

Maureen	Harding	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH TONAWAN	NY	14120
L.R.	FLORES	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINDSAY	CA	93247
Steve	Cox	I have turned in my cable boxes and most other cable subscribers can as well. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. However, using my provider\'s app on my Roku devices I now watch cable without boxes. There is no need to require them. They should be available on the competitive open market.	WHITESBORO	NY	13492

steven	kirby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IONIA	MI	48846
Lisa	Northrup	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33612
Lisa Marie	Pickens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60615

Debra	Weber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TORRINGTON	CT	6790
David	Kerstetter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOVER	PA	17315
Sean	Fritz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43623

Emily	Love	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HONEOYE FALLS	NY	14472
Jim	Vaughan	It would do well fir you to remember that we leased the right to use transmitters and receivers on certain frequencies to these very same monopolies who return the favor by making it easier for them to extract ever larger sums of money from us. You have a job and some account balancing to do! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURG	CA	94565

STEVEN	DE MERS	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUNTA GORDA	FL	33950
Robert	Fournier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI BEACH	FL	33139
Helene	Georgakopoulso	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHELMSFORD	MA	1824

Cassandra	Berg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55103
Tracey	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEARCY	AR	72143
John	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSING	MI	48911

Charlene	Porter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE MILLS	WI	53551
Jim	Sieczkarski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONTARIO	NY	14519
Michael	Monnin	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Is not if; but, when will cut the cable. Will be forced to buy Internet access from Comcast. Going to Google when they offer service.	GOODLETTSVILLE	TN	37072

Bob	Mazzoni	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40291
Lori	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHLAND	WA	99354
Samantha	Brookshire	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97217

Jon	Downs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH BALTIMOR	OH	45872
Julie	Carlisle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHEATON	IL	60189
Lisa	Dickson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53713

Desmond	Gates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANNA	TX	75409
Donna	Woepse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94117
Shawn	Larsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COUNCIL BLUFFS	IA	51503

Mark	Inglis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE BEA	FL	32250
Tammy	Roldan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89113
Erik	Ortux	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARK	NJ	7066

Habiba	Kareem	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUEENS VILLAGE	NY	11427
Erin	Costello	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UTICA	NY	13502
Jennifer	McClafferty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKTON	MD	21921

Leann	Richardson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDMOND	OK	73003
Judy	Kirschner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PETALUMA	CA	94954
todd	cardella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14625

Maureen	Lafferty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH BEND	IN	46617
Gabrielle	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HACKENSACK	NJ	7601
alex	naymayer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWARK	NJ	7105

Kevin	Lane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVUE	NE	68123
Zeke	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT MYERS	FL	33908
Lorraine	Poole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STUART	FL	34997

Ben	Krulwich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80203
Janet	Gillespie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORTLANDT MANC	NY	10567
Gwen	Bates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROARING SPRINGS	TX	79256

Daniel	Mackin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUCKLEY	MI	49620
Ohanes	Kalayjian	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALISADES	NY	10964
Veronica	Vela	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORPUS CHRISTI	TX	78404

Milton	Hedrick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE POWELL	UT	84533
Christine	Sanders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUGAR GROVE	IL	60554
Brandi	miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	PA	17603

Robert	Sircy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKFORT	KY	40601
Dianne	Feeney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10023
Dominick	Carnevale	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOWELL	NJ	7731

Stephen	Marois	I am on Disability and scrounge for food. I had basic cable for$19 mo. All I watched was 3 channels. They took the channels from me and in order to keep them they bumped me up to $82 mo. I still can\'t find anything to watch. This sucks and after I\'m done watching the Elections in Nov. I\'m going back to basic. I\'ve got 3500 DVDs to watch. Break up this monopoly!I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALL RIVER	MA	2724
Tyler	Price	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVIS	CA	95616

Joseph	Fountaine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SULLIVAN	ME	4664
John	Rowland	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSION VIEJO	CA	92692
john	burt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRISVILLE	VT	5661

Denise	Sparks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85015
Annette	Dunn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KUNA	ID	83634
Grace	Compston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELMONT	OH	43718

Jessica	Tellez-Chavez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77034
Joseph	Keenan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONNEAUT	OH	44030
Susan	Steele	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVONIA	MI	48154

Joseph	Chavez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77034
Mick	Fulgham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEWISVILLE	TX	75067
Calvin	Keen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49507

Charles	Furment	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33434
Cristopher	Silva	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUBERT	NC	28539
David	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	IL	60505

J	Bursser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON TOWNSH	MI	48036
Doreen	Buck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAVARRE	FL	32566
Micah	Byrd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH BEND	IN	46617

Gustavo	Pedrozo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33137
Rhonda	Long	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANDERSONVILLE	TN	37705
Jon	Blackwelder	Break the chains! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	GA	30030

Thomas	Brandt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KING	NC	27021
Cristal	Solemene	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHUA	NH	3060
georgeanne	hyatt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLOUCESTER	MA	1930

Eduardo	Israel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMAICA	NY	11434
Dan	Gasca	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYONS	IL	60534
John	Halsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLEMINGSBURG	KY	41041

Roger	Mccausland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COTTAGE GROVE	MN	55016
Imelda	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA MIRADA	CA	90638
Michael	Moser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM COAST	FL	32164

Lisa	Sorrentino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23454
Adrienne	Henry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOBOKEN	NJ	7030
Renee	Strange	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHREVEPORT	LA	71115

Shelley	Richardson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUBBOCK	TX	79424
Edgar	Arce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34476
Susan	Cantone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19119

Scott	Huxley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSLEY	MI	49649
M	Lokich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEARWATER	FL	33755
Dawn	Leedom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENSALEM	PA	19020

valerie	skupien	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELVIDERE	IL	61008
Fernando	Navarro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVENPORT	FL	33896
Kim	Naumann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLUE EARTH	MN	56013

Elaine	Arnold	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STERLING HEIGHTS	MI	48310
Patricia	Curtis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AIKEN	SC	29803
Tom	Vichos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN	CO	80910

Jhonathan	Aguilar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60641
Louise	Hines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NIAGARA FALLS	NY	14304
Cristina	Grant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	MO	65804

Frank	Gangone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KYLE	SD	57752
Michelle	O\'Donnell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85712
julie	harrison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKLEDGE	FL	32955

KYLE	REYNOLDS	Americans have been lied to. There is an idea that we have no voice but to pay our dues to the cable media giants. We have had our choices cut down and competition between providers is not existant due to declarations of territories. It is beyond me how they have created a bubble where anti-trust laws do not apply. They own a portion of revenue from the American people. They think they own us. They know they are becoming less relevant and they are scared to lose the revenue, so they choose to levy new rules and new fees. Comcast and TWC have among the worst customer service, but They don\'t care because there isn\'t a comparable alternative. They think they own us, but it can\'t be forever. Please do right by the American people. Stop the monopolist. Free us from these anti-competitive standards and open the free market so it can do what it does best. Unlock innovation!	CHARLOTTE	NC	28269
David	Canevit	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53214

Don	Mandel Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELCAMP	MD	21017
jerry	shoaf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSPORT	IN	47993
Theresa	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILLIPSBURG	NJ	8865

KEITH	HARRIS	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLVILLE	NJ	8332
Alex	Koenigsberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVENTRY	CT	6238
Laura	Nunn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWBERG	OR	97132

J.	Hoover	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBINE	MD	21797
Janna	Davenport	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PANAMA CITY	FL	32405
James	Pitchford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80907

Alex	Stadler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10011
lori	Middleton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98661
lori	Middleton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98661

John	McDill	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85711
Alan	Stevens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10016
Jackeline	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT SAINT LUCIE	FL	34986

Joshua	Prentice	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEREA	KY	40403
Jeff	Kimball	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHANY	OK	73008
Patrick	Ryan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSTON	WA	98346

Chris	Hughart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98683
Brent	McCay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUEBLO	CO	81001
Barry	Stow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGTON	NM	87401

Terry	Bradley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATTALLA	AL	35954
Linda	Matejek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VICTORIA	TX	77901
Deneen	Sarnick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILKES BARRE	PA	18705

Asa	Dills	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92110
Emily	Simmons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMYRNA	GA	30080
Larry	Evola	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40206

Jayson	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAKAWAO	HI	96768
Susannah	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTINSVILLE	VA	24112
Vincent	Apicella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BRITAIN	CT	6052

Petres	Calhoun	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALDOSTA	GA	31602
Mary	Blair	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIXBY	OK	74008
Jay	Grosflam	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90803

Mark	Bateman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	VT	5674
David	Lebis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELTONA	FL	32738
Mary	Wolverton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOLINE	IL	61265

Dora	Aguirre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89120
Patrick	Roll	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OXFORD	OH	45056
mike	janecek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60615

Michael	Dore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW IBERIA	LA	70560
Theresa	Dore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW IBERIA	LA	70560
Justin	Wilbern	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOMBARD	IL	60148

Jeanne	Raines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98109
Michelle	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHEAT RIDGE	CO	80033
jennifer	kohl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH PLATTE	NE	69101

Dennis	Radcliffe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAFFORD	AZ	85546
John	Santana	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRENTWOOD	NY	11717
Horace	Durrant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VILLA RICA	GA	30180

russell	parkinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15205
Heather	McCormick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTSMOUTH	OH	45662
Kevin	Cassidy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONDONDERRY	NH	3053

Talisa	Carridice	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19151
Christopher	Combs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BANNING	CA	92220
Gerrick	Bivins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FULSHEAR	TX	77441

William	Meadows	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT PLEASANT	NC	28124
Larry	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78727
Mary	Inman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH ATTLEBOR(	MA	2760

Olivia	Bear	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST JEFFERSON	OH	43162
jim	mckin	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITHIA	FL	33547
Penny	Lau	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33604

Laura	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOSS POINT	MS	39562
Colleen	Pickering	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERVLIET	NY	12189
Joanne	Turano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	VT	5868

Alan	Teitleman	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT PLEASANT	NC	28124
Catherine	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE PLACID	FL	33852
Terri	Blocker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAINFIELD	NJ	7060

Debra	Principe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMUL	CA	91935
Dawn	Stone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILTON	FL	32583
Rafael	Cruz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11206

Donald	Thorpe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98126
Kelly	Cravener	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This does not include all the taxes and other. Excessive fees added to your cable bill each month. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	READING	PA	19609

Vernita	Marn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHEFFIELD LAKE	OH	44054
Stephanie	Stepsis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VINELAND	NJ	8360
Rose	Brewer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUCERNE VALLEY	CA	92356

Josr	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIRA LOMA	CA	91752
Teddy	Brewer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUCERNE VALLEY	CA	92356
ALLISON	ARMSTRONG ROBIN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29223

Michael	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85033
Scott	Geyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIGHLAND	IN	46322
Cayce	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVIS	CA	95616

Marcia	Spencer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97267
Tina	Bloomer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. My additional concern is the cable company I deal with, Comcast, wants to do the same with modems as well. They really pushed me at me with constant messages telling me my box was out of date and I could get one from them. They were extremely aggressive when I told them my modem wasn\'t their business. Don\'t let them take over these either.	OLYMPIA	WA	98506

Michele	Spector	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRICK	NJ	8724
Jackie	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98225
Jessica	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	CO	80027

Ty	Byrd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERKELEY	CA	94703
Bill	Wiseman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCMECHEN	WV	26040

David	Lynch	Last year, I closed my Satellite TV account, and I\'m not going back. The only way the major networks and channels will get my business back would be to provide access to their services outside of a provider company. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURNSVILLE	NC	28714
Shannon	Srideman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAZADERO	CA	95421

Mark	Olson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSVILLE	TN	37040
Dawn	Trumblr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63119
sue	backus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLEASANT VALLEY	NY	12569

Brandi	Swanson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEORIA	IL	61604
Sam	Rodgers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38103
Patty	Barmes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWENSBORO	KY	42303

lisa	flugstad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONE TREE	CO	80124
Anthony	Geers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOVI	MI	48375
Laura	Radcliff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80521

Dora	Berger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99218
Tarena	Dettweiler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COSHOCTON	OH	43812
sue	khtges	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANTOUL	IL	61866

Theresa	Walcott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLVILLE	MA	1529
Aaron	Prohaska	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85701
Leslie	Collins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	MI	48084

ANNE	FLAHERTY	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HYATTSVILLE	MD	20784
carl	dufault	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROVIDENCE	RI	2904
Judith	Plantz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST LANSING	MI	48823

Verna	Engelmann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEVITTOWN	PA	19057
Susan	Eygabroad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HEMLOCK	NY	14466
Chad	Comey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PACIFIC PALISADES	CA	90272

Donald	Riggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSING	MI	48911
Suzette	Pike	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTTSBORO	AL	35768
Christl	Babcock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAPE CORAL	FL	33904

James	Froeschner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	75006
Brad	Bakalyar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	OR	97501
Ben	Cooper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89142

TINA	Olivier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW IBERIA	LA	70560
Carmen Ines	Perez Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAYAMON	PR	956
Jeff	Bunyan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	12020

Ryan	Whatley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLEDGEVILLE	GA	31061
Denise	Payne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST PALM BEACH	FL	33411
Melinda	Howes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93720

Shelia	Cockrell-Fleming	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOMPOC	CA	93436
Nicole	Teskey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHEFFIELD	IA	50475
Marshall	Depriest	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOWAGIAC	MI	49047

alina	asla	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33145
Michael	Nunes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOORPARK	CA	93021
John	Peloza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ZION	IL	60099

Dusty	Lloyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSION VIEJO	CA	92691
Isaac	Wagner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts ,competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I propose an app that replaces the cable box entirely, via media box or downloadable to smart tv	EL CENTRO	CA	92243

Shannon	Schmaus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEVILLE	MI	48066
Kristin	Hopkins	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55119
Carol	Farzetta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. A working family should not have to opt for no t.v. no news, or being gauged by the only one cable company allowed to serve your area.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46214

Rosemary	Stanley	I do support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	OR	97504
Geoffrey	Greenaway	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EASTLAKE	OH	44095
Daniel	Wheeler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARY	NC	27513

Kristin	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97402
Thomas	Frantz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	PA	17602
Michelle	White	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32506

Karen	Duld	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANIELSVILLE	PA	18038
Brad	Burkart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93705
Suzanne	Bishop	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15218

Florence	Ferguson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98661
Shawn	Walsh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGMAN	AZ	86401
Dannielle	Jaworski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STERLING HEIGHTS	MI	48313

Elizabeth	Thrower	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35242
john	prince	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THOUSAND OAKS	CA	91360
J	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32503

julie	papa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEVILLE	CA	95747
Stephen	Sheffer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAPEVINE	TX	76051
ellen	sommers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANOGA PARK	CA	91303

Michael	Welles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLIN SQUARE	NY	11010
Howard	Yorek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30341
Paul	Noone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERVILLE	NJ	8876

Charles	Dalberth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APOPKA	FL	32712
Steven	Glass	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JANESVILLE	WI	53545
Janet	Mornch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREEN BAY	WI	54304

Robert	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	CO	80012
Patti	Schaller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONSHOHOCKEN	PA	19428
Sarah	Bodhuin	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19146

Chase	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87121
AnneS	Shirley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14225
Rick	Moser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WADSWORTH	IL	60083

Heather	Hersch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49508
Chris	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10019
Michelle	Tellez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80215

Michaela	Wells	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80224
Heidi	Crabtree	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAYETTEVILLE	NC	28311
Jennifer	Tamera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TORRANCE	CA	90501

Naeem	Raja	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMBALL	TX	77375
Steve	Valdez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRINIDAD	CO	81082
Laura	Kennell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63130

sigi	markworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBORO	NC	27312
Kaitlyn	Casey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	NY	12208
Austin	Hildebrant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80918

Leon	Levasseur	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUTCHINSON	KS	67501
Craig	Musch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43615
Cindee	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99224

Brent	Jensen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOSIER	OR	97040
Brian	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	21061
Joshua	McGee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRINCETON	NJ	8540

Chris	Hoelzel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLD LYME	CT	6371
Michael	Powers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOTHELL	WA	98012
Dorian	Simonetti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH ARLINGTOI	NJ	7031

Felix	Ortiz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAR ROCKAWAY	NY	11693
Karen	Jutkiewicz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	2193
Laura	P	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST HOLLYWOOI	CA	90069

Matthew	Bjelland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55105
Marie	Price	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROUTDALE	OR	97060
Karl	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODS CROSS	UT	84087

Daniel	Speicher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCE	KS	66047
Tracy	Bowles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA GRANGE	KY	40031
Julene	Jolley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84120

Arturo	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75214
Chris	Hernandez	I believe it is in the public\'s best interest to unlock cable boxes. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNION CITY	IN	47390
Donald	Benedict	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44113

Ray	Stachelski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14214
Ozer	Suner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARENGO	IL	60152
Tim	Rymel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELK GROVE	CA	95758

Adam	Fields	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	28807
toni	ringer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32822
David	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HANSON	MA	2341

Patricia	LaFever	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COOKEVILLE	TN	38501
Joseph	Dominick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFIELD	CT	6825
Chris	Stiverson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWARK	OH	43055

Elin	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98118
Phil	Worley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVINGTON	VA	24426
Jason	Pavelka	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELTSVILLE	MD	20705

Valerie	Cordova	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUEBLO	CO	81001
Matt	Whitehead	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97229
Carmen	Rollins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UPLAND	CA	91784

Kerry	Holmberg	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55129
Ron	Reyes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLOVIS	CA	93612
Mateland	Mayes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27604

Sandie	Reynolds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MENTOR	OH	44060
Lindsey	Gattman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POOLER	GA	31322
mallie	holt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28212

Patty	Fehr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHWENKSVILLE	PA	19473
Roger A	Fleck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLISTON	ND	58801
carole	trapp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67203

Lisa	Sweeney Radeleff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMECULA	CA	92592
Shaylee	Ramirez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10035
David	Persson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	98043

Bryan	Botta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60657
A	Bonilla	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANFORD	FL	32771
Keith	Sabol	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63109

Owen	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOX LAKE	IL	60020
Shawn	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUYALLUP	WA	98371
Marge	Storey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POTTSTOWN	PA	19464

Walter	Fox	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85739
Marie	Gandara	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	CA	94531
Lisa	Rooks	Please stopI support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMMONDSPORT	NY	14840

maria	orozco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT VERNON	WA	98273
krista	taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLYMOUTH	MA	2360
Shary	Simpson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WAYNE	IN	46809

Patricia	McCarthy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSING	MI	48906
George	Lindow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19134
John	Riley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	CO	80026

Karoline	Riskowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60640
Anne	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90802
Irene	Cuevas	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENDALE	AZ	85301

Deidre	Wille	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JORDAN	MT	59337
Brett	Gloss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANASSAS	VA	20111
Karol Denise	Huntmoses	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	78634

Edward	Spruell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBION	IL	62806
Nicholas	Marthers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTTSDALE	AZ	85257
Kelly	Worthen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78717

Eric	Dixon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10456
Virginia	Rmagh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	2
Clarence	Beidler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROE	MI	48161

Wesley	Beltz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GEORGETOWN	KY	40324
Misty	Rohr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEXICO	MO	65265
Ga y	Darnstaedt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT JOHN	IN	46373

Juergen	Deutzer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92116
Erin	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERKELEY	CA	94710
Mary	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON	IN	46750

Robyn	Beach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK HARBOR	WA	98277
Dave	Abston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARMICHAEL	CA	95608
Ellen	Schnurr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILFORD	MA	1757

Patrick	Deem	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWENSBORO	KY	42303
Eric	Amador	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THOROFARE	NJ	8086
Marian	Snyder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	CA	92501

John	Colclasure	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOODYEAR	AZ	85395
Jeffrey	Green	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ORCHARD	WA	98366
Janet	Hafeez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77008

Munequita	Brownlee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HALTOM CITY	TX	76117
Christopher	Linderman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUNCANSVILLE	PA	16635
Deborah	Rey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92105

Andrea	Rudness	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WETMORE	MI	49895
William	Edgar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITE SWAN	WA	98952
Val	Shelton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNCHBURG	VA	24501

Andrew	Montano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80205
Vito	Stan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM BEACH GARI	FL	33410
Brian	McKay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITE LAKE	MI	48386

Jeffery	Thibodeaux	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE CHARLES	LA	70601
Craig	Bugg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KALAMAZOO	MI	49009
Andrew	Chick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FABIUS	NY	13063

John	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60640
Carlos	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	6581
Elliott	Bronstein	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLAIRSTOWN	NJ	7825

Adam	Hammond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98109
Patrick	Veal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STILLWATER	NY	12170
Hayden	James	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10128

James	Santo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10065
Hillary	Mack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IOWA CITY	IA	52246
Jessica	Helterman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRISTOWN	NJ	7960

HC	Reid	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GERMANTOWN	MD	20876
Stephen	Nesmith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHANUTE	KS	66720
Blythe	Bugg	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KALAMAZOO	MI	49009

john	manning	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92114
Carey	Giffen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTAGE	MI	49024
Nicolette	Fatchett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55437

Jim	Mace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH RICHLAND	TX	76182
Anthony	Gutierrez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	TX	76001
Sarah	Howard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COOKEVILLE	TN	38501

Lisa	Stroman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORK HAVEN	PA	17370
Luanne	Goldman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRIS	IL	60450
Robert	Seagrave	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSPORT	PA	17701

Sandra	O\'Neil	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97401
Teri	Hariston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROANOKE	VA	24019
Sean	Gray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST WEYMOUTH	MA	2189

Kathryn	Hood	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85716
larry	craig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40242
Eunice	Ahonor-Desjardin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITE PLAINS	NY	10607

Kenneth	Eckman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. This problem systematically creates a problem for customers and slows technological growth on the industry. Without competition, the companies have no incentive to compete nor provide the latest technology, offer the best customer care, or provide competitive pricing.	ORLANDO	FL	32821
Ava	COLEMAN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14622

Leigh	Stanzel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68508
Karen	Laird	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT HADLOCK	WA	98339
David	Gallardo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90042

jessa	koney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YOUNGSTOWN	OH	44511
Dana	Kennis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97214
Susan	Cleary	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	973333

Barbara	Kim	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS CRUCES	NM	88001
Lisa	Coefield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11209
Sherry	Huggler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARSONSBURG	MD	21849

Javier	Delgado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KATY	TX	77494
Holden	Forrestor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	PA	17042
Cassandra	Mayes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85017

Tammie	Busch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIDGELAND	MS	39157
kevin	barrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32244
Allen	Wand	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARYSVILLE	WA	98270

MARGIE	SHAW	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLE CHASSE	LA	70037
Jaime	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MASSILLON	OH	44646
Kipling	Dunlap	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30308

Kimberly	Burress	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33811
Mathew	Hiner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	OR	97321
Jeremiah	Egnor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44135

Oliver	Lester	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMHURST	NY	11373
laura	echegaray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURBANK	CA	91501
Gina	Powers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST PROSPECT	PA	17317

Lorraine	Stark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80237
Esther	Rosken	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEVIERVILLE	TN	37876
Noreen	Allison	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34117

Dean	Seifert Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	OH	44483
Tracyann	Croce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOSTON	MA	2128
Diane	Vierra	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YUCAIPA	CA	92399

Blake	Singer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENICIA	CA	94510
Andrew	Koch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGEVALE	CA	95662
Lisbeth	Lanpher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40212

Caroline	Danielson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LENEXA	KS	66227
Loretta	Malo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97301
Shannon	Earehart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	48021

Terrie	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAKERSFIELD	CA	93309
Nicole	Vann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VENICE	CA	90291
Dianne	Elkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49504

Shawn	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTICELLO	IL	61856
Jenzy	Ryan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STANLEYTOWN	VA	24168
Cheyenne	Brodt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAPEER	MI	48446

Kathy	Sullivan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VAN NUYS	CA	91411
Keith	Stuckey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	IL	61108
Patricia	O\'Keefe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODRIDGE	IL	60517

		When these companies first started out it was you paid a fee so that there would be no commercials.. now just look at what has taken over.. a half hour show has almost 10 minutes of commercials. It started out with what the cable companies thought was a reasonable amount for this and that... and escalated to outrageous profits from all of the commercials and the public. IMHO.. THIS COULD BE FRAUD.... THINK SO? I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.
R.	Mason		DELTONA	FL	32725
		I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.
Rick	West		ONEIDA	TN	37841

cari	Griffin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVUE	WA	98004
Kurt	Brahms	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HADDON HEIGHTS	NJ	8035
Paula	Mayes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45404

LaVonne	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98444
Dottie	Sobet	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT RICHEY	FL	34668
Kathy	Place	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWEGO	NY	13827

Darlene	Boyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48093
Scott	Buss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63123
Kevin	Scaia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHISHOLM	MN	55719

Keith	Brooks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST PALM BEACH	FL	33404
Andrew	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHLAND	WI	54806
Randy	Gossett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTON	IL	62002

Silvia	Zani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80206
Elizabeth	Elias	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVUE	WA	98004
Andrew	Steffens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ZEELAND	MI	49464

Irene	Ryding	The USA has the highest cable bills and the worst service in the developed world because the FCC IS NOT DOING ITS JOB. IT IS TIME TO PROTECT PEOPLE, NOT CORPORATIONS. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAIKU	HI	96708
susan	edstrand	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOLINE	IL	61265

rosa	haley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND HILL	NY	11418
emran	khan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IRVING	TX	75038
Margaret	DeBorba	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARSON CITY	NV	89701

Paul	Yahl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSAGE BEACH	MO	65065
Kevin	Meetze	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLBROOK	AL	36054
Carol	Foster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	KS	66111

Ricardo	Lugo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAYLOR	TX	76574
Brandon	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENOLA	PA	17025
marta	larue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENBRAE	CA	94904

lynette	bech	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKLINTON	LA	70438
Elliot	Scozzola	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMPBELL	CA	95008
Crystal	Ri	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want including non-subscription programming/public broadcasts. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV! We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALDORF	MD	20601

Ty	Link	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80214
Kelly	Macias	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAGALIA	CA	95954
Kelly	Macias	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MAGALIA	CA	95954

Neil	Tadken	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM SPRINGS	CA	92262
Dion	Dismukes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIGELOW	AR	72016
Jessica	Wells	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE CITY	TN	37769

Elsa	Curtis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOCKTON	CA	95203
Travorus	Aiken	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28214
jeffrey	cazes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW IBERIA	LA	70563

Anthony	Kennedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10027
Kevin	McKee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15227
Kyli	Atkinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PAPILLION	NE	68046

Justin	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	CA	93535
Bryan	Burrma	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80922
Willton	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERVIEW	MI	48193

Christian	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEORIA	IL	61603
Kyle	Hills	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KILL DEVIL HILLS	NC	27948
Christian	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEORIA	IL	61603

Willamae	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKVILLE	OH	45309
debra	wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIOUX CITY	IA	51104
Arlon	Mattison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARHAMSVILLE	VA	23011

Kenneth	Turkowski	In my area there are only 2 providers for cable television: AT&T and Comcaat. They both pretend that they are supplying viewers a lot off choices, when in fact, there are sometimes up to 10 copies of the same channel. Additionally, at least 10% of the channels seem to be extended advertisements for products. They both force viewers to sign up for programs that they are not interested in, just so they can receive programming that they are interested in. This type of practice is not in the interest of the consumer. It only benefits the greed of the providers. Please open up the markets so that there can be real competition.	MENLO PARK	CA	94025
Joel	Escandon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers, especially when all I\'m trying to do is relax and enjoy myself at the end of a long day. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. It\'s bs, and we\'re tired of a rigged system that always hurts the lower class. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. We\'re not going to take it anymore, we\'re fed up of the abide, and uniting to voice our concern. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Don\'t fuzz out when I\'m talking to you, listen to my words. Undo to chokehold cable industries have on visual artists, and open the doors for creativity to flow through all of our devices, with simplicity and affordability. Thank you.	PORTLAND	OR	97266

Taryn	Southern	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90038
Jen	Ingle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90049
Deek	Keane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90049

Jeffrey F	Dean	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWHALL	CA	91321
john	feirick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMWOOD PARK	IL	60707
Susan	Atooli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARLSBAD	CA	92008

Joyce	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11210
Angela	Belpedio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM BEACH GARI	FL	33418
Marianne	Wainwright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63117

Lawrence	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VICTORVILLE	CA	92392
Corinne	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COHOES	NY	12047
Dorothy	Townsend-Tyers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANGLEY	WA	98260

Angela	Frangione	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumerse. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKDALE	NY	11769
BROOKE	FULTON	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	MI	48328
Michael	Stannard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48223

Liberty	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDMOND	OR	97756
Debora	Riddle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HERRIMAN	UT	84096
lee	Baker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77041

Eugenia	Leftwich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10025
Debra	Myers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOCKPORT	NY	14094
Justa	Victorin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33322

Anthony	DeLisi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BALTIMORE	MI	48047
krisen	gatseos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARVADA	CO	80003
Sandra	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGDALE	AR	72764

Cynthia	Groover	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PINEVILLE	LA	71360
Glen	Terry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98466
John	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALY CITY	CA	94014

Denice	Eldridge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VACAVILLE	CA	95687
Grace	Yruitt	I just think that it\'s so unfair that these ca lÃ¨ companies have all these plans each one costing more than the next and still doesn\'t provide the consumer with all they\'d like to watch Ã§Ã¿ hey end up spending more yet to see what they want. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	5256

Latonya	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30349
Linda	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSTON	MI	48895
Peter	Zeigler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97206

Johnny	Proctor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUSAU	WI	54403
Lorrie	Rockwell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLAPOOSA	GA	30176
Danny	Rochel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELGIN	IL	60123

Courtney	Piazza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17112
Linda	Mennitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HACKETTSTOWN	NJ	7840
Karen	Ashenberner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESA	AZ	85208

Jackie	Redmond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHLAND	MI	49083
Travis	Strickland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POQUOSON	VA	23662
Angela	Humphrey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55405

Rodney	Knight	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCEVILLE	GA	30043
Melody	Bellinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERRYVILLE	AR	72616
Robert	Santee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRBANKS	AK	99709

Doug	Dederich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POYNETTE	WI	53955
Gregory	Hart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THOUSAND OAKS	CA	91360
Renate	Espinoza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELBOURNE	FL	32904

Geraldine	ZIEGLER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APPLE VALLEY	CA	92308
Patrick	Henson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	PA	19007
Brent	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90066

Laura	Sebly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBORO	MD	21639
Gabriel	Acosta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33327
Patrick	Self	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMARILLO	TX	79103

Christian	Salazar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRENTWOOD	NY	11717
Margaret	Hartford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIGH FALLS	NY	12440
Sue	Weible	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIETTA	GA	30008

Jasmine	Enciso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWASSO	OK	74055
Marjorie	Maddela	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63138
Yvonne	Bass	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAVANNAH	GA	31406

Rhonda	Heumiller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELOIT	WI	53511
Lamont	Bowser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RADCLIFF	KY	40160
Brenda	Moran Schaefer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDINA	OH	44256

cailin	fonseca	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92116
Ravi	Wadhwani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87107
kathleen	vonesh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32825

George	Planas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78227
Theresa	Ford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33315
Ronald	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMYRNA	DE	19977

Lynne	Costen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILFORD	CT	6460
Ronald	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMYRNA	DE	19977
Joe	Layson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPERVILLE	IL	60563

Elizabeth	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT GRATIOT	MI	48059
Rogelio	Ramirez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUFKIN	TX	75901
Lorena	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROGERS	AR	72758

KEVIN	BURNETTE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT NEWS	VA	23607
John	Averill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORENCE	MA	1062
charlane	slaughter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	VA	22727

Mary	O\'Brien	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RESTON	VA	20190
Beverly	Ashby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER	TN	37355
Margaret	Stewart-Hart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLISTON	MA	1746

Daniel	Ashworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11218
Kris	Frank	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRUMBULL	CT	6611
Sol	Pinto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWNAN	GA	30263

Danny	Purvis	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	NC	27536
Thom	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	TN	37620
Larry	Tyrrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRUNSWICK	ME	4011

KC	Breck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BONIFAY	FL	32425
Juan	Santos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA PUENTE	CA	91744
Robb	Landis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32806

Carol	O\'Coin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST PROVIDENCE	RI	2914
Luis	Colon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TONAWANDA	NY	14150
Samantha	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARSHVILLE	NC	28103

Kevin	Tones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRIENDSWOOD	TX	77546
Jeffrey	LiCalzi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTMINSTER	CO	80030
Debbie	Marion	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH DARTMOU	MA	2747

Devaughn	Miree	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44102
Jennifer	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98502
Kimberly	Sansores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77011

Timothy	L\'HUILLIER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATWOOD	TN	38220
Adam	Neely	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALISBURY	NC	28147
Connie	Chrobot	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46235

Brian	Kelly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENSSELAER	NY	12144
Michele	Owens	CableSupport efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND PRAIRIE	TX	75052
Brian	Hirt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST BABYLON	NY	11704

Paul	Douglas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMDEN	NJ	8103
Laura	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HERCULES	CA	94547
Michele	Randall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33308

Regina	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY MINETTE	AL	36507
Tonya	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUCHULA	FL	33873
Billy	Coley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIGH POINT	NC	27263

Dorie	Burch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST PALM BEACH	FL	33415
Bryna	Klevan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWTON LOWER F	MA	2462
jennifer	Lunz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYLVA	NC	28779

Brian	Zwergel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	15068
Brenda	Ferranti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALL RIVER	MA	2721
Bobbie	Deleon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76118

Terri	Waller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BASSETT	VA	24055
C	Vasquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10034
Kathi	Bogert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTAVISTA	VA	24517

Heather	Brueggeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEEDHAM HEIGHT	MA	2494
Jamie	Terrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE PARK	GA	31636
Pauline	Leatherman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GUILFORD	CT	6437

Julie	Powers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROYAL OAK	MI	48073
Justin	Rubio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	TX	78624
Russia	Phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTSVILLE	AL	35810

Elizabeth	Correll	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85701
Meghan	Hyland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15207
Kelly	Blank	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COMSTOCK PARK	MI	49321

Doris	Stene	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHESTER SPRINGS	PA	19425
Kelli	Horton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GALENA	KS	66739
Leah	Giles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMINGBURG	NY	12721

Lily	Benavides	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUMMIT	NJ	7901
Tyler	Balthrop	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98506
James	Wethers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDFORD	MI	48240

Kari	Cincotta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKLAND	MA	2370 santiago	herrera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87114
Shannon	Robinson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lower prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	21061

Robin	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23509
Terrence	Sawtelle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BANGOR	ME	4401
Bernie	Robinson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lower prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	21061

Susan	Porter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUCLID	OH	44123
Kenneth	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARNOLD	MD	21012
William	Ringel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CREVE COEUR	IL	61610

Jenny	Matthews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAGINAW	MI	48603
Jillian	Avila	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BEDFORD	MA	2740
Tanya	Zubic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89147

Scott	noring	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLOUCESTER	MA	1930
Leila	Keegan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWHALL	CA	91321
Kathleen	Marabella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSPORT	PA	17701

Mike	Riley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAPE CORAL	FL	33904
Kelli	Storie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLANTERSVILLE	TX	77363
Kathleen	Marabella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSPORT	PA	17701

Sidney	Vazquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STRATFORD	CT	6614
Gillian	Bengough	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARSHALL	VA	20115
Shawn	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEESBURG	FL	34748

Tom	Kovarik	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCHENRY	IL	60050
Glen	Tweedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON HEIGHTS	VA	24572
Kirstyn	Engler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DREXEL HILL	PA	19026

Laurie	Shifflett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINCHESTER	VA	22602
Darlene	Bates	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND PRAIRIE	TX	75052
Heather	Brooks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSON CITY	TN	37601

Melanie	Gage	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLANCO	TX	78606
Shaina	Hull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRANDON	WI	53919
Patricia	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING LAKE	MI	49456

Lauren	Byrne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	80203
Donna,	MILLER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40241
Lillian	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELIZABETH	NJ	7208

Phil	Kenar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LISLE	IL	60532
Paul	Furbush	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENTON	OH	43326
Betsy	Padilla	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMHURST	IL	60126

Tammi	Seyb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEMINOLE	FL	33776
Roman	Tkacz	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19115
Andrea	Worth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROLLING MEADOW	IL	60008

Michael	Sanderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST PALM BEACH	FL	33411
Lisa	Otterstrom RN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SILVER SPRING	MD	20910
David	Ploutz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONEONTA	NY	13820

Susan	Kinnin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOLIVIA	NC	28422
David	Lemos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOCKTON	CA	95203
bill	cross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MYRTLE BEACH	SC	29572

Laura	Lloyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANBORN	NY	14132
kelley	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ERIE	PA	16510
Daniel	Slaughter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MATTESON	IL	60443

Vanessa	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63106
Barbara	Kowalski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33428
mirta	rodriguez	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT SAINT LUCIE	FL	34953

Reynaldo	Rubianes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33625
Courtney	Perry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COCOA	FL	32926
Marlin	Bennett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICK	MD	21703

Brian	Rellstab	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STERLING	MA	1564
Erik	Ross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	NY	12204
Michael	Tisch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FINDLAY	OH	45840

Paul	Tauger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT BEACH	CA	92660
Lia	Patterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	31505
Lia	Patterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAVANNAH	GA	31405

Stephen	Keesey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLIAMSBURG	VA	23188
Carol	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	75209
Christian	Faure	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODRIDGE	IL	60517

Alvaro	Castro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLOUD	FL	34772
Valerie	deshong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11205
debbie	Cameron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44110

Michele Shel	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT JOSEPH	MO	64507
William	Grindle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80526
Lynette	Riester	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14221

Kristen	Carlson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60645
Michael	Spencer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TIOGA	TX	76271
Julia	Ellingsworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONANCOCK	VA	23417

Jessica	Dalman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WAYNE	IN	46835
Edward	Sprole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND HILL	GA	31324
Janet	Conley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST HARTFORD	CT	6110

michael	kain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UTICA	NY	13502
Jackie	Boone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUDSON	OH	44236
CJ	Pierce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45215

Carol	Banjura	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DYER	IN	46311
Lynda	Folk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLE ISLAND	NY	11953
Mary	Wilt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT JULIET	TN	37122

Geison	Carrera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNION CITY	NJ	7087
Paul	Flanders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33487
Nichol	Albertson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLD HICKORY	TN	37138

Dorthy	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	ME	4055
Pamela	Baxter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMBRIDGE	MA	2139
David	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33810

Rebecca	Harpe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMILTON	OH	45011
Sonya	Weber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37918
James	Casserly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEABODY	MA	1960

Josh	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARNWELL	SC	29812
David	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33810
Jeff	Beeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALLS	PA	18615

Mary Ellen	Stuart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32811
Barbara	Fontanetta	OntI support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST NORTHPORT	NY	11731
Michelle	Black	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTSMOUTH	VA	23702

Laarni	Ramirez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94121
Margie	Weitzel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49505
Simone	Medlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMONT	NY	11003

Faux	Swade	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON BEA	CA	92647
Regina	Padula	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHEBOYGAN	WI	53081
Tasha	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASTORIA	NY	11106

Shawn	Best	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	KS	66106
Angie	Wall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY CITY	MI	48706
Sara	Barboza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAPE CORAL	FL	33909

David	Barberich	Case in point and a clear indication of deceptive advertising is when a cable or satellite company offers a very low introductory rate only to leave out that the offer is not all inclusive. Hidden are all the equipment fees that the respective company charges you for the box I each room driving costs through the roof. One can end a door to door solicitation from their reps peddling their product. Just ask if their "triple play" for 79.99 is all inclusive and guarantee the conversation is over quickly. So please support any measure that unlocks the box.	TRENTON	NJ	8610
martin	Acosta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMPTON	TN	37658
Jeff	Cox	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STONEVILLE	NC	27048

jamie	cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES MOINES	IA	50317
David	Centeno	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSON	MA	1522
cheryl	stotts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOPLIN	MO	64804

Sandra	Coleman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	68207
Tina	Cundiff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMILTON	OH	45011
Susan	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUCONDA	IL	60084

Lisa	Ganson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	WI	53105
Pat	Kitchen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARGARETVILLE	NY	12455
Elizete	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10025

Timothy	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRISCO	TX	75035
Sharon	Glass	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30318
Douglas	Lawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSTRANDER	OH	43061

John	Malone	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANCHO CORDOVA	CA	95670
Donna	Reidhaar	I would love to have a lower cable bill. Paying over $200.00 a month for cable is ridiculous and more than half of the time something doesn\'t work right. Thank you. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FELTON	DE	19943
Michelle	Zachry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ORCHARD	WA	98366

hanna	martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11204
Nicole	Darwin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I can\'t afford it and am unable to stay informed of current world and local events and important news because of this huge monopoly.	ANCHORAGE	AK	99504

Paul	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST CHESTER	PA	19380
Erik	Cuevas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VINELAND	NJ	8360
Tm	Milr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NC	27705

ken	allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIOUX CITY	IA	51104
dave	peper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	IL	61102
Sheila	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOVER	DE	19901

Robert	Woodward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES PLAINES	IL	60016
Danielle	Craig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	IL	61103
Mathew	Eget	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RESEDA	CA	91335

Jeff	Barker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOVER	PA	17315
William	DeMuth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARCUS HOOK	PA	19061
Joe	Reyes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93701

Debra	McCawley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76104
Benjamin	Henderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISBURG	NC	27549
Sonia	Hill	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KISSIMMEE	FL	34747

Jeffrey	Holzapfel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	WV	25304
Marcus	Mabee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14216
Steven	Beard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASTORIA	NY	11103

Sean	Markley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHOREWOOD	IL	60404
LORI	REGO	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	2790
Dona	Fraenkel	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DORCHESTER	MA	2125

Kate	Higgins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78702
Sonia	Ness	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	60007
Dwight	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWBURGH	IN	47630

Livia	Eliseo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORENO VALLEY	CA	92553
Michelle	Mullen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68512
Yannick	Kinnie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32803

Daniella	Johnston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST ORANGE	NJ	7017
Carla	Kociolek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONGMONT	CO	80503
Scott	Jarvis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHATEAUGAY	NY	12920

Timothy	Treadwell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLEN BURNIE	MD	21060
mary	osaki	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTEREACH	NY	11720
Jane	Henson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST PALM BEACH	FL	33406

Tracy	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRAIG	CO	81625
Jean	Rawlinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46219
Tina	Wiese	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHELSEA	MI	48118

John	Chaney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DONORA	PA	15033
John	Chaney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DONORA	PA	15033
Marianne	Bernard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL SEGUNDO	CA	90245

Craig	Collison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JONESBORO	AR	72401
Karen	Brokken	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97223
Lori	Peterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEWOOD	WA	98499

SILVANA	ISBISTER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROCKTON	MA	2301
Ann	Kasper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WELLINGTON	FL	33414
cheryl	furbee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMBRIDGE	OH	43725

Michelle	Gish	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WASHINGTO	MD	20744
Debra	Milkovich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAYETTEVILLE	NC	28303
Todd	Melton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46220

Caryn	Bishop	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM BAY	FL	32909
Christy	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	NV	89015
Jamelle	Williams-Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HYATTSVILLE	MD	20785

Bryan	Fuller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILTON	FL	32570
Chaz	Ruckstuhl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARASOTA	FL	34231
Quay	Dixon	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLIARD	OH	43026

Darlene	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEWISBURG	WV	24901
Joseph	Cable	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98117
Gayna	Hoffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELROSE	MA	2176

Lauren	Glickman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98144
Anthony	Cilluffo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INTERLOCHEN	MI	49643
Anthony	Cilluffo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INTERLOCHEN	MI	49643

Orlando	Hughes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLACKSTONE	VA	23824
mary	wolfsberge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIDOR	TX	77662
Anthony	Cilluffo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INTERLOCHEN	MI	49643

judyth	Savage	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33076
Sabrina	Bacote	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10030
Julia	Henry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROYAL OAK	MI	48067

Anthony	Sparks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMPTON	VA	23669
Ida	Lawrence	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCKER	GA	30084
Madeline	Hildreth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POUGHKEEPSIE	NY	12603

Tanya	Kelly	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCRANTON	PA	18504
David	Lindsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVER DAM	KY	42320
Erin	Casey	Cable and internet need to be publicly funded. The monopoly that\'s been exploiting Americans gas got to stop.	FORT WAYNE	IN	46808
Kathleen	Funk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENO	NV	89521

Sylvia	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSSVILLE	GA	30741
Joseph	Reeves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUGUSTA	GA	30909
Kevin	Gregorowicz	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NUTLEY	NJ	7110

Tim	VaughAn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREWSTER	MA	2631
karin	coolidge	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUNCAN	SC	29334
Shara	Hunter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLIVEHURST	CA	95961

Donald	Kolb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABSECON	NJ	8205
jordan	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLETON	CO	80121
Bernadene	Whitten	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDEN	UT	84404

Melanie	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WHITE BLUFF	TN	37187
Susan	Michaels	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT WASHINGTO	NY	11050
Anthony	Zahler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALEXANDRIA	VA	22303

Dana	Allen-Tucker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	AL	36830
Perry	Smith SR	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30331
Sherri	Lawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RUCKERSVILLE	VA	22968

Maria	Bolanos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUNNYSIDE	NY	11104
scott	magandy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANNANDALE	MN	55302
Salil	Maniktahla	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	VA	22206

Marion	Flynn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVANSTON	IL	60202
Marion	Flynn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVANSTON	IL	60202
Yolanda	Medina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEBSTER	MA	1570

Pamela	Worthington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77023
Zoe	French	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHEHALIS	WA	98532
Cynthia	Classens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32822

Gregory	Catalone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITITZ	PA	17543
Thomas	Levy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	CT	6010
Adrienne	Pollitz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60660

Denise	Cuevas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOWANDA	PA	18848
Sarah	Nimmo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	21309
Barry	Aptt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOBURN	MA	1801

VANNESSA	BELISLE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST BROOKFIELD	MA	1585
Angie	Albright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEAVER	AL	36277
Jennifer	Malloy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH ADAMS	MA	1247

Cindy	Cobb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OH	44460
Joshua	Karsh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78741
Mindy	Miguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRIENDSWOOD	TX	77546

Matt	Brace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELIZABETHTON	TN	37643
Scott	Archer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44308
Virginia	Quinonez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK PARK	IL	60304

Brinda	Simmons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALYERSVILLE	KY	41465
Lucas	Pedraza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87102
Samuel	Dolson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30316

Michael	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	MN	55912
Catherine	Frossard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FERNLEY	NV	89408
Shirley	Grierson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOTHIAN	MD	20711

Billie	Oldsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80203
Edwin	Samuelson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11205
Jim	Dydo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOKENA	IL	60448

Leigh Ann	Spence	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ST THOMAS	VI	802
Andrew	Schade	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH PORT	FL	34287
Carol	Romie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45459

Angie	Ahmadi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	VA	22203
Angela	Ramirez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVILLE	IL	62226
Jonathan	Valentine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSTON	PA	18704

Francie	Lesniewski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMMOND	IN	46327
Norine	Wells	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98513
Katie	St clair	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTONA BEACH	FL	32114

Jorge	Gomez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORKVILLE	IL	60560
Brima	Seck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90034
Tammy	Bluewolf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERONA	NY	13478

Kathryn	Hessing	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKLIN	CA	95765
Jeriel	Lowe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSTON	PA	18640
Janet	Ballard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND HAVEN	MI	49417

Oxford Hous	Douglas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20018
Debra	Kuster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINERAL	IL	61344
Daniel	Stratton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORFU	NY	14036

Ryan	Spragg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97202
Joseph	Knoer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14207
Wilhelm	Guggisberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33322

Timothy	Moynihan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELIZABETH	LA	70638
Gabby	Ogles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MURFREESBORO	TN	37130
Dottie	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELLENSBURG	WA	98926

Carla	Fry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	TX	77505
Doug	Bullock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTON	IL	62002
Mary	Schmeski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	46368

Carlos	Flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33134
Tony	Gaj	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIMI VALLEY	CA	93065
Leslie	Butler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANN ARBOR	MI	48104

Samuel	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAVERHILL	MA	1830
Ovidio	Fernandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32821
Beth	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10457

Tracy	Fahey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BARNEGAT	NJ	8005
Kimberly	McGlone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLPORT	NY	11713
Kevin	Koesterer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63130

john	jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREER	SC	29651
Michelle	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRESTVIEW	FL	32536
Charles	Cox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT SMITH	AR	72901

Wendy	McLain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAYTON	UT	84041
Jason	Henderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19126
Daniel	Pulvino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14608

Ruth	Carlson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOYLESTOWN	PA	18901
Brandon	Drury	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45420
Robert	Stickler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLISTON	ND	58801

Rebecca	Rebaldo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BATON ROUGE	LA	70814
Donald	Page	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROME	NY	13440
Alan	Field	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NC	27701

Monica	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97405
Samantha	Young	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND JUNCTION	MI	49056
Jessie	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68526

Vesa	Wuoristo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BANGOR	ME	4402
Fazle	Hasnain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68516
Kathy	DeaGuero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONTONAGON	MI	49953

Nicolie	Peterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEORIA HEIGHTS	IL	61616
Helgaleena	Healingline	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53716
James	Gregg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95123

Kathleen	Drew	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH STREET	MI	48049
Michael	Lombo	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DORCHESTER	MA	2122
Jennifer	Perret	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMECULA	CA	92592

Bert	Simonis	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM SPRINGS	CA	92262
Veronica	Slaughter	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOVATO	CA	94945
Jim	Webb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EATON	OH	45320

Jim	Webb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EATON	OH	45320
Loren	Attwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84108
Anthony	miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98661

Jasmine	Sydney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VERO BEACH	FL	32960
Julie	galbreath	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPERVILLE	IL	60565
Sandra	Guillemette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER	NH	3109

George	Azzariti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32502
Katrina	Shipley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23222
Dawn	Karsaba	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOHNSTOWN	PA	15905

Greta	Mcwhorter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	6003
Tanya	Radic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37215
Marianne	Apicello	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEN LOMOND	CA	95005

Patrick	Fortunato	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33716
Luis	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33190
edgar	estrada	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ANA	CA	92701

Dean	Goldberg	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTGOMERY	NY	12549
S	King	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KELSO	WA	98626
Sarah	Brandt flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95112

Gregory	Chandler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77090
Yvonne	Paschall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21229
Mya	Myint	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11220

Denise	Sanchez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YONKERS	NY	10701
Suzanne	Vetek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85711
Charles L.	Taborn Jr.	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CREST HILL	IL	60403

Benita	Wilson	Cable television is TOO expensive. Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	MS	39202
Daniel	Frantz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ERIE	PA	16510
Carole	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	CA	94805

Eileen	Rahman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77082
Nicholas	Beeman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DULUTH	MN	55803
Tim	Dewey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32207

edda	osborne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HYATTSVILLE	MD	20782
Amy	Henson	Monopolies are unamerican! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA CENTER	WA	98629
Evy	Mayer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10463

sandra	piatt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT JERVIS	NY	12771
Nemika	Meely	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESQUITE	TX	75150
Luis	O\'Pry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	85697

JOHN	PALAZZO	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	28208
Virginia	Brokx	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENTON	WA	98055
brian	quintero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60622

Norval	Boyd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARPENTERSVILLE	IL	60110
Elizabeth	Cosgrove	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHINGTON	CT	6489
Eugene	Golden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	232227

william	martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	VA	24538
James	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUBUQUE	IA	52001
carol	pasquali	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OXFORD	MI	48371

Jessica	Marin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77067
Alexander	Flynn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINDEN	NJ	7036
Carol	Leonard-Ortega	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STRATHAM	NH	3885

Melissa	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANDVILLE	MI	49418
Jon	Waite	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUVALL	WA	98019
Vignette	Fleury	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	NJ	8611

Donald	Stenstrom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IRONWOOD	MI	49938
lisa	marco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARMICHAEL	CA	95608
Mark	Morin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERVILLE	ME	4901

John	Franta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLBROOK	NY	11741
Brian	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32811
Melonie	Grieser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE STEVENS	WA	98258

alex	doyon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT SAINT LUCIE	FL	34952
Rachel	Montellano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79928
Jose	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTCLAIR	CA	91763

Matthew	Helsel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARY	IN	46403
Joni	Swanson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHILLICOTHE	IL	61523
Greg	Slibowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT JOSEPH	MO	64503

Anne	Masson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	CA	94531
Lisa	Del Puerto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGAME	CA	94010
Maria	Barrios	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN MARCOS	TX	78666

Mary	Meldrum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERKLEY	MI	48072
David	Livengood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANNAPOLIS	NC	28083
judy	reckner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLSOPPLE	PA	15935

Peter	Earley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COMMERCE TOWN	MI	48382
Paul	Welsch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEANNETTE	PA	15644
Crit	Van Tuyl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IRVINE	CA	92606

Laurent	Colvin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERKELEY	CA	94704
Christopher	Gilan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27613
Shirley	Winand	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAHAMSVILLE	NY	12740

Daniel	Salazar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85031
Jonathan	Fitch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADA	OK	74820
Paul	Terranova	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARADIS	LA	70080

Greg	Urquhart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33305
Roberto	Duncan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89102
judy	cortes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11207

Linda	Pinsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98115
Arnoldo	Bertoncini	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUTZ	FL	33558
Joseph	Lalonde	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDENSBURG	NY	13669

Frank	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIG SPRING	TX	79720
Julio	Rosario	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHAMPAIGN	IL	61820
John	Hannon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10029

Ian	Rodell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97206
Tolga	Tomar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUBLIN	OH	43017
Michele	Potter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THEODORE	AL	36582

Kelley	Richarson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GAINESVILLE	FL	32608
Matt	Norris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89103
Stacie	Ott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEVILLE	MN	55044

Christine	Vasquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78702
Susan	Turk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84111
Paul	Kerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48091

Andrew	Kenneally	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNNFIELD	MA	1940
Dotti	Kunnap	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98106
Lanie	Eads	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT PAYNE	AL	35967

Laura	Prescott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOLSOM	CA	95630
Alice	Cinnante	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT PLEASANT	SC	29464
Jill	Gehring	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARION	VA	24354

Nicole	Montagna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEERFIELD BEACH	FL	33441
Jerry	Prince	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	SC	29073
Anita	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTRAL ISLIP	NY	11722

James	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37914
Ryan	Jeziorski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AZLE	TX	76020

Marybeth	Mattson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. I grew up with free public TV and now because of where I live I have to purchase cable to get channels. I\'m so close to droping cable and just watching Netflix, Hulu, and TYt on You Tube... Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STURGEON BAY	WI	54235
Debbie	Cressey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38119

Christine	Tuttle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTWOOD	NJ	7675
Jacqueline	Prince	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TORRANCE	CA	90501
Michael	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95834

Ian	Worthing	I am tired of the lack of innovation, and greedy money grabs from big corporations like Comcast. Do your job FCC and take them down a notch!	LARAMIE	WY	82072
Michael	Gauer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENT	OH	44240
michael	thallheimer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCOTIA	CA	95565

Kenneth	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENOSHA	WI	53140
Dennis	curnette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32507
Jim	Kotouc	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARLEY	IA	52046

Norelys	Pedron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33135
Alec	Stephens III	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11237
Gemiqua	Benjamin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	PA	17046

John	Blyth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90018
Anthony	LoGrasso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TONAWANDA	NY	14150
MICHAEL	BAUKNECHT	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	18969

Virgil	Vega	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHULA VISTA	CA	91911
Andrew	Grassette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78758
Dale	Riehart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94107

Lynn	Shaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRANFORD	CT	6405 jill	pellicciarini	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENO	NV	89503
Penny	Cowden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEASIDE	OR	97138

Trudy	Shealy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST COLUMBIA	SC	29169
Kathy	Fitzgerald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELAWARE	OH	43015
George	Counterman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53219

Zuly	Morales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	94821
Stephen	Tucker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVERETT	WA	98208
izzy	flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTEREY PARK	CA	91754

michel	Bertrams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95817
Mareka Ann	Huitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT AUGUSTINE	FL	32080
William	Antonacci	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM COAST	FL	32164

Ronald	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMYRNA	DE	19977
David	Canup	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	MI	49230
Lynn	Buckley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LILBURN	GA	30047

Eva	Toutain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32224
Joyce	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLEN BURNIE	MD	21060
Gojko	Radanovic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES PLAINES	IL	60016

Brandon	Price	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON	WV	25704
Tiffany	Mulford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREELEY	CO	80631
Michael	Reed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PFLUGERVILLE	TX	78660

David	Abrantes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89178
Jori	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLFLOWER	CA	90706
Sara	Elins	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODLAND HILLS	CA	91367

Paul	Minter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67207
Robert	Walker	UNLOCK THE BOX !!I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORENCE	OR	97439
Kathy	Robinson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lower prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	21061

Nancy	Olson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHEYENNE	WY	82009
Joey	Ownbey	I have paid oVer 102.00 this month in satellite tv. It\'s crazy. I started buying DVDs I will be shutting mine off has soon has contract is up. .I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RUTHERFORDTON	NC	28139

Ghaith	Hasan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANCHO CORDOV	CA	95670
Mike	Caruana	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23455
A.B.	Hersman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	75090

Lisa	Johnson	For my internet, I used to have the ability to use my own box which was better but then one day a couple of years ago, they changed it so that I was forced to lease theirs and pay a monthly fee. This is NOT RIGHT. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLOUD	MN	56303
Michael	Hundertmark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	13357

Ada	Toledo	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALMDALE	CA	93552
Jared	Middleton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTOONA	PA	16601
Irvin	Green	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77036

Marie	Quinn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78723
Roberta	Christian	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PIRU	CA	93040
Jamon	Pace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23227

Diana	Julian	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHURCHVILLE	NY	14428
dorothy	bickford	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFIELD	ME	4937
Matt	Wellbaum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PIQUA	OH	45356

Tom	Simpson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	SC	29072
Eric	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARY	IN	46409
Charles	Pinney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60647

Amanda	Bucaro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE	CA	92869
Kimberly	Coleman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	DE	19709
Jennifer	Bowerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLACK HAWK	SD	57718

Hilary	Bailey	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BILLERICA	MA	1821
James	Brittain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREMERTON	WA	98312
ERIKA	JONES	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89121

Paul	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVISON	MI	48423
john	samuels	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	TN	37090
Laura	Fey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80220

Victor	Lorenzi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10456
Sharon	McCleary	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GALION	OH	44833
Heidi	Bara	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALMER	MA	1069

Janette	Shaw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPERANCE	MI	48182
William	Crane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HERMITAGE	TN	37076
Ricardo	Batres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60632

CHRISTOPHE	PARKER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AULANDER	NC	27805
Karen	Farley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GORHAM	ME	4038
Josh	Alwine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98682

Bruce	Whalen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33020
Juan	Larenas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELROSE PARK	IL	60160
Michael	Diepstra	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49507

Guy	Petit	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	MA	1118
Toni Ann	Secreto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAUGERTIES	NY	12477
Sophornia	Pickett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11226

Dawn	Ventura	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH PORT	FL	34286
Patrick	Kenneally	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60612
Scott	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANCHO CUCAMO	CA	91730

Dominique	Dawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCEANSIDE	CA	92058
Steven	Mosley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox Iand cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERDALE	IL	60827
Delene	Dominick	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORWALK	CT	6855

Brenda	Burgess	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCOEE	FL	34761
Nustin	Taft	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85020
tammy	Nicholas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAQUEMINE	LA	70764

Melinda	Dotts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUAKERTOWN	PA	18951
Mark	Davitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACUNGIE	PA	18062
Brandon	Zickefoose	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUCKHANNON	WV	26201

George	Payne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSHKOSH	WI	54901
Melody	Haney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNIONTOWN	OH	44685
Eric	Lockwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TONAWANDA	NY	14150

Martin	Battle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOWNERS GROVE	IL	60516
mike	mcroy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELDORADO	IL	62930
Dan	Ahmad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBORO	NC	27401

Janet	Boone-Heaggins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28213
Molly	Burkhard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLEVOIX	MI	49720

MaryAnn	Vasquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. WE ARE FULLY AWARE AND WE WILL NOT ALLOW EXPLOITATION FROM THESE CORPORATIONS!	MARYSVILLE	CA	95901
Kelly	Olson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLMAR	MN	56201

Peggy	Baxter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HONEOYE	NY	14471
Nancy	Kucks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING LAKE	MI	49456
Thomas	Ally	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLVILLE	OH	44813

Maricela	Lazcano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90026
Ashanti	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97206
Peter	Lefevre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90031

Barry	Sprince	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32826
timothy	sedwick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15203
Barbara	Vampran	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDEPENDENCE	LA	70443

peter	Cavaliere	SO TIRED OF BEING RIPPED OFF BY POWERFUL COMPANIES LIKE COMCAST!!! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SECAUCUS	NJ	7094
Jeffrey	Brooks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95826
Angela	Greenwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLAYTON	DE	19938

Gregory	Love	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHFIELD	MI	48034
Dean	Austin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	89431
Thomas	Kaye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLASSBORO	NJ	8028

Douglas	Pepe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OTTUMWA	IA	52501
Sade	Jamison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POPLARVILLE	MS	39470
Vickie	Bass	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFIELD	CA	94533

Karen	Ground	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKESIDE	CA	92040
Vickie	Bass	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFIELD	CA	94533
Kelly	Morris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80528

Vicki	Tuck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23234
Robin	Stephenson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIG SPRING	TX	79720
karen	ricotta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GILBERT	AZ	85295

matt	fitter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	NY	11561
Kelly	Camden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INWOOD	WV	25428
Conchita	Gibbs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLAHASSEE	FL	32304

Mandi	Wyatt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FEDERAL WAY	WA	98023
Laura	Miyasaki	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALNUT CREEK	CA	94597
Donovan	Nowak	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINOOKA	IL	60447

Gary	Williams Jr.	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARGO	ND	58103
Donovan	Fawbush	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHURCH HILL	TN	37642
Galina	Yune	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROUND LAKE	IL	60073

Brian	Sherwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75206
Sarah	Mills	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORWALK	CT	6855
Danielle	Natale	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMDEN	CT	6514

Joseph	Rosas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUNNYVALE	CA	94086
Bryan	Hunter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASADENA	CA	91101
Bianca	Hamblin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERSIDE	CA	92509

Stephanie	Szabo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KILLEEN	TX	76543
Annette	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUSCALOOSA	AL	35405
Rick	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTSMOUTH	OH	45662

CJ	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	MI	49203
Jeffrey	Middleton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELLICOTT CITY	MD	21042
Kathleen	Triplett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IMLAY CITY	MI	48444

loring	wentzel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOBURN	MA	1801
Darlene	Harbick	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53704
Sharron	Yonko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ERIE	PA	16504

Brian	Critchfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84123
Chris	Dargaj	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASCO	MI	48064
Cathy	Albanese	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DORCHESTER CEN	MA	2124

Tiffany	Conchinha	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BEDFORD	MA	2744
Margaret	Amato	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORWALK	CT	6855
Tim	Garrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40245

Kelly	Shoemaker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HATBORO	PA	19040
Sara	Ricord	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80528
Loreen	Watkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSON	GA	30549

Dawn	Broyles III	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89101
Christine	Soto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVIEW	FL	34420
Audra	Bratton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARICOPA	AZ	85138

Christine	Renner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEREA	OH	44017
Dwayne	Washburn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOLD BEACH	OR	97444
Robert	Dugan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HACKETTSTOWN	NJ	7840

christine	lanphere	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10013
Russell	Casseday	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOWER SALEM	OH	45745
Lavona	Wormely	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35209

Lavona	Wormely	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35209
LISA	buckley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENS FALLS	NY	12801
Robert	Morgan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SABATTUS	ME	4280

Vici	Sokolov	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13209
Laura	Queen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODSTOCK	NY	12498
Chris	Zitting	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REXBURG	ID	83440

Kristin	Bruhl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVUE	WA	98004
Evelyn	mele	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTPELIER	OH	43543
Nancy	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98682

Garner	Cowan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33602
Jakob	Cawley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER	NH	3104
John	Mennes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLEN ROCK	NJ	7452

Melody	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARWICK	NY	10990
Sherri	Marquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCEANSIDE	CA	92056
robert	anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARION	PA	16214

Brandon	Paxton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30329
JoAnne	Sickeri	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15237
Mark	Tarpey-Schwed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILL VALLEY	CA	94941

Lisa	Cece	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHFIELD	MI	48033
Jose	Duque	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33351
Leah	Whiting	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85008

Joseph	Jenkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RINCON	GA	31326
Sam	Hranac	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98115
Vanessa	Boyle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46227

Diane	Snoderly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85053
Craig	Perkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98155
Daniel	Alvirez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78240

Jody	Richardson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46217
Jonathan	Gardner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55125
Craig	Burkhart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. End the Time Warner monopoly in central Ohio as well.	CRESTLINE	OH	44827

Patricia	Zirpolo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	NH	3079
emma	skog	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INVER GROVE HEIC	MN	55076
Joe	Eckre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90046

Montell	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60617
Debra	Seunarine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19116
Denise	ALBERT	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEVITTOWN	PA	19054

Arthur	Martello	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84123
Kenneth	McKeen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERVILLE	MA	2145
David	Guymon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDEN	UT	84403

Charity	Folmsbee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	KY	40475
Jerry	Marsh	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVENPORT	IA	52804
Phillip	Robertson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSON	NV	89011

Elise	Lorenzo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33175
Camille	Maclean	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVERTON	OR	97008
Randall	Starnes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90043

Jeffrey	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	ME	4963
Steven	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FINDLAY	OH	45840
Sean	Vater	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GROVE CITY	OH	43123

Jim	Merritt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCEAN VIEW	NJ	8230
Douglas R.	Greely	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	94404
Clay	Nacsin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN BERNARDINO	CA	92407

Shoni	Curless	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95351
Katie	Montes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALL RIVER	MA	2721
Matthew	Castel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROYAL OAK	MI	48073

Roger	Pruitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMITHS GROVE	KY	42171
Cory	Cheeks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DRY RIDGE	KY	41035
Harriet	Graves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHRISMAN	IL	61924

Karen	Glasgow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ESCONDIDO	CA	92027
Laura	Hackett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTPORT	WA	98595
Deanna	Steele	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTOONA	PA	16601

enrique	gallego	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10029
Michael	Rosa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17112
Joe	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREER	SC	29650

Emily	Bullock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FITCHBURG	MA	1420
Robert	Strotman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWHALL	CA	91321
Nellie	Pursley	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KING	NC	27021

monica	martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10464
Elise	Sitzman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAU CLAIRE	WI	54701
Sheila	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33073

Mary	Rayburn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTERVILLE	CA	93257
Leila	West	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUISUN CITY	CA	94585
James	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	URBANA	OH	43078

William	Sinderbrand	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10040
Tammy	Laub	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STANLEY	NC	28164
Leslie	Albishi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EULESS	TX	76040

Teresa	Gleason	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43211
Joanne	Benton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78229
Anthony	Hradel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NILES	MI	49120

Tom	McKim	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22401
Kourtny	Camden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INWOOD	WV	25428
R	Zager	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10019

Gloria	Frazer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ISSAQUAH	WA	98029
Chris	Baltzly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37207
David	Wardrop	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROY	UT	84067

Susan	Chizmadia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRASER	MI	48026
Kevin	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLAND	MI	49424
Douglas	Quinn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	48r63

Tracy	Scarbrough	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37931
David	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEATHERLY	PA	18255
Diane	Laskin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90068

David	Lund	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	MO	65807
Nicole	Reynolds	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JEFFERSON CITY	MO	65101
Isa	Gatollari	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HACKENSACK	NJ	7601

thomas	theriault	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAVERHILL	MA	1830
Lauren	Bereswil	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63143
Aaron	Wooley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAVEEN	AZ	85339

Nicole	Henson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORMAL	IL	61761
David	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IMPERIAL BEACH	CA	91932
Greg	Zimmerman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTHUMBERLAN	PA	17857

linda	bowen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KISSIMMEE	FL	34744
Darryl	Sawyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANNAPOLIS	NC	28083
Renee	Tommila	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98501

Michelle	Tirelli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLACKWOOD	NJ	8012
Queenetta	Perkins Leflore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22401
larry	Chanley	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHEL SPRINGS	TN	38315

merry	ward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNN	MA	1902
Robin	Sabo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IMLAY CITY	MI	48444
Maggie	Collin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIGNAL HILL	CA	90755

Joseph	Tingle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEWELL	NJ	8080
Amy	Garman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHOCTAW	OK	73020
Jaber	Rahmany	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA MIRADA	CA	90638

Sandy	McDaniel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRIFFIN	GA	30223
Tim	Brais	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT JOSEPH	MO	64501
Jesse	Bennett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	14892

Joe	Rider	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREMERTON	WA	98311
Joshua	Lorenz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30324
k	sousa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHUA	NH	3062

James	Stephens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLE ELM	TX	75068
Jeanine	Cantrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERTOWN	NY	13601
Thomas	Reddy	I feel this is just another way for big companies to gouge the consumer. TR. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	MA	1970

Gary	viola	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGAN CITY	LA	70380
Gloria	McDaniel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRIFFIN	GA	30223
Carlos	Planas, Jr.	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	48209

Freddy	Cantrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERTOWN	NY	13601
Christine	Brooks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63118
April	patalocco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERKLEY	MI	48072

William	Haddock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSVILLE	TN	37043
Nick	Markert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEVERLY	MA	1915
D	Hunt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPARTANBURG	SC	29301

Alexander	Satterlund	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FEDERAL WAY	WA	98003
Counnie	Semper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH LAS VEGAS	NV	89031
Raya	Livings	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	LA	70501

Maria	Bagula	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGAN HILL	CA	95037
wayne	mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NC	27712
David	Stanley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAU CLAIRE	WI	54703

Lisa	Collette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALDPORT	OR	97394
Kathryn	Ireland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANTS PASS	OR	97527
Casey	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HALETHORPE	MD	21227

Cheryl	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDGEWATER	FL	32141
Judy	Vezie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COTTONWOOD	CA	96022
Dean	Dyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADAMS	NY	13605

Liliana	Cisneros	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53705
lea	mac leod	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	14226
Dustin	Vietzke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27609

Katiana	McCown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60641
Rhonda	gettings	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VISALIA	CA	93277
Gerardo	Cantu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOBILE	AL	36608

Megan	Gray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICK	MD	21702
Michele	Sievers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOHNTON	PA	19540
Jen	Bogardus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60649

Gregory	Glenn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33701
Brad	Kowalke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANNA	TX	75409
Jennifer	Girod	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAK LAWN	IL	60453

Mike	Lavin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIDLEY PARK	PA	19078
Charles	Favata	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE GROVE	NY	11755
John	Cronin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMESTOWN	NY	14701

paco	garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78228
Terry	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRENTON	OH	45067
Rachel	Brandow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANDVIEW	MO	64030

Priscilla	Fleming	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMYRNA	GA	30082
Jeremy	Castel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43215
Christopher	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32821

Laura	Edelman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROANOKE	VA	24018
Doris	Flory	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PIEDMONT	SC	29673
Dina	Hughes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTSVILLE	AL	35810

Ada	Casebolt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT	KY	41071
Armando	Salinas	I\'m tired of paying high cable bills!!!!!! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60632
Patricia	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAYETTEVILLE	AR	72701

John	Prince	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEXINGTON	KY	40515
tony	Cunningham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43224
Rodney	Erickson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDWOOD CITY	CA	94061

Adam	Van Kirk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	77057
Phyllis	Ianniccari	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKHAVEN	PA	19015
Kelsey	Escoto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PACIFIC GROVE	CA	93950

Caryn	Gibson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LENOIR	NC	28645
Sharon	Naumchik	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELLENVILLE	NY	12428
Theodora	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20018

Jennifer	Britt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEDBETTER	KY	42058
Justin	Bowers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEMENTON	NJ	8021
P	garcia	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78228

Hans	VanHeuveln	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33161
Gina	Santonas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	11221
Charles	Harding	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSVILLE	IN	47129

Deborah	Coble	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERCERSBURG	PA	17236
Jason	Webb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLERMONT	FL	34714
curtis	adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HORSE CAVE	KY	42749

Steve	Perry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHTABULA	OH	44004
Billy	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGDON	PA	16652
Laurie	Dexter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLUSHING	MI	48433

Toni	Scofield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80525
Joe	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75251
Lyle	Sobba	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDEN CITY	KS	67846

Daniel	Wohlrab	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	AL	35758
Amelia	Pogue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW WINDSOR	NY	12553
Suzy	Suggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45231

Lyn	Henderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE MARY	FL	32746
Gretchen	Shields	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEMSON	SC	29631
Brandon	Coleman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRETNA	LA	70056

Roderick	Bear	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COOS BAY	OR	97420
Randal	Bonney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUGENE	OR	97405
Kathryn	Weller-Demming	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTCLAIR	NJ	7043

Sherry	Slem	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVER FALLS	PA	15010
Julie	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY CITY	MI	48708
Alicia	Mathews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENDALE	CA	91206

francisca	carr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLARKSVILLE	TN	37042
Joseluis	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCALLEN	TX	78501
Tracy	Embley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	8.2E+07

Joseph	Achille	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TERRYVILLE	CT	6786
Caron	Rodesk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGDALE	NY	11735
ASIF	Rojan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMAICA	NY	11434

kim	skinner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIG LAKE	AK	99652
Karen	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVUE	WA	98006
Zoe	Vaughter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYZATA	MN	55391

Kristin	Trammell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STEGER	IL	60475
Michelle	Brewer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESA	AZ	85209
Jennifer	Picking	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALINA	KS	67401

A V Sandi	nack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98108
Beth	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEOSHO	MO	64850
Catherine	Sherman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23452

Madeline	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA MESA	CA	91941
Johnny	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMAICA PLAIN	MA	2130
Ruth	Busch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90042

Elissa	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33637
Paul	Normoyle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORK	PA	17406
Daniel	Newell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98103

Jed	Bentley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORINDA	CA	94563
barbara	miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVESVILLE	WV	26588
Wilma	Kerns	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CUMBERLAND	MD	21502

Steven	Chinigo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTERLY	RI	2891
Kate	Murphy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AU SABLE FORKS	NY	12912
crystal	husk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44305

Will	Sannella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER	NH	3103
Tereasa	Flanagan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW SMYRNA BEA	FL	32168
barbara j	miller	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVESVILLE	WV	26588

Wayne	Toles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GAITHERSBURG	MD	20877
Cali	Hackmann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POULSBO	WA	98370
Clayburne	Washington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INGLEWOOD	CA	90301

Patrick	Bennett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARVEYSBURG	OH	45032
Lela	Fitzgerald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DANVILLE	VA	24541
Stephanie	Kemp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KENOSHA	WI	53142

Alvin	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAYETTEVILLE	GA	30215
Melissa	McCoy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALIQUIPPA	PA	15001
Robert	Lester	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOPOVER	KY	41568

Jonathan	Blasucci	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORTON	PA	19070
Ken	Linzey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEER LODGE	MT	59722
Gregory	Nelipowitz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13211

Elizabeth	Demnitz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORRIS PLAINS	NJ	7950
Rose	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMMOND	LA	70401
Joan	McCaffrey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIDLEY PARK	PA	19078

Lisa	Esposito	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WRIGHTSVILLE BE/	NC	28480
Angel	Fernandez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10002
Rusty	Dillard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92154

Walter	England	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVIS	CA	95616
Kenneth	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	NC	28027
Martha	Coulter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	CO	80014

Omar	Avina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97302
Jack	Delima	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78746
Melinda	Broadwater	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97218

Reyes	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19137
Pauline	Estrada	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HEMET	CA	92543
Rob	Klopfenstein	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORAOPOLIS	PA	15108

Brigitte	Clary	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33073
Steven	Wise	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17109
William	Birdshead	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73149

Karen	McGee-Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT	RI	2840
Andrew	Nieman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DE PERE	WI	54115
A	Cole Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RACINE	WI	53403

Jean	Stephens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	333/2
Stephen	Coats	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOORE	SC	29369
Megan	Mccarty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	OH	44485

Robert	Horr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACKETS HARBOR	NY	13685
Jack	Strickler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCMINNVILLE	OR	97128
Christian	Saca	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94602

Moira	O\'Crotty	I would like to be able to just plug in, turn on and have TV...I can\'t afford cable. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98409
Christopher	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PANAMA CITY	FL	32401
Hoanh	Ingram	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND PRAIRIE	TX	75052

Douglas	Elliott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VICTORVILLE	CA	92392
Hugo	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGVILLE	UT	84663
Vincent	Kissinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOHNTON	PA	19540

JOSEPH	SANTORO	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STRATFORD	CT	6615
Alexandra	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HYATTSVILLE	MD	20783
Missi	Rochman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63130

Maranda	Plumb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES MOINES	IA	50317
Robert	Anthenat	Stop favoring corporate monopolies and give consumers a break ! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEKALB	IL	60115
Tonya	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MICHIGAN CITY	IN	46360

James	Yager	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY CITY	MI	48708
Andrea	Tabor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GEORGETOWN	TX	78626
Stephanie	Iverson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACHESNEY PARK	IL	61115

Natasha	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASPER	WY	82604
Mary S.	Ryberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MICHIGAN CITY	IN	46360
Christine	powers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95928

Patricia	ROBERTS	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	11742
Amber	Ronquillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNWOOD	CA	90262
Jason	Stolworthy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR CITY	UT	84721

Robert	Andres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMFIELD	NJ	7003
Christine	powers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95928
Nerisa	Gracia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLD BRIDGE	NJ	8857

Steve	Harrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19143
Joe	Stark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT ANN	MO	63074
Phil	Orobello	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	11742

ilura	gennette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48223
Nadine	Safadi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	CA	94509
Jennifer	Maurer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOCKTON	CA	95208

shannon	crosby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEYMOUR	TN	37865
Joleen	Horn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VISTA	CA	92083
Troy	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON BEA	CA	92647

Gloria	Perchynski	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REPUBLIC	WA	99166
nayeem	khan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60659
William	Brown	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REPUBLIC	WA	99166

Suzanne	Richards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARCUS	WA	99151 dianne	Struble	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST MILFORD	NJ	7480
audrey	talley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANTIOCH	TN	37013

Yvonne	LaBelle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28217
Jessica	Kristianson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARGO	ND	58103
Hector	Saucedo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95121

Kathleen	Kennedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MASTIC	NY	11950
Cynthia	Larsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97220
jamie	morgan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	80907

Debbie	Foster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANTS PASS	OR	97526
William	Williamson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VAN NUYS	CA	91401
John	Parise	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94108

Megan	Ryan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST ISLIP	NY	11730
Sharon	Anderson	Your cable rates are outragious!! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW CASTLE	DE	19720
Joseph	Groom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33334

Jill	Igl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OREGON	WI	53575
Michael	Gutierrez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHIRLEY	NY	11967
Tricia	Jarrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	OH	43130

Kathy	Sadus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TINLEY PARK	IL	60487
Renee	Stotler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT SIMONS ISL/	GA	31522
Amanda	Poland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARROLLTON	TX	75010

James	Houser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97225
Alisha	Gomez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHERTZ	TX	78154
Stacey	Pacheco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLERS FALLS	MA	1349

jason	crayne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN MATEO	CA	94403
Krissy	Rushing	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHIRLEY	AR	72153
Penny	Woodmansee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHASTA LAKE	CA	96019

ron	reeberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIO LINDA	CA	95673
joanna	olszewski	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROSPECT HEIGHT	IL	60070
Zach	Vietze	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10002

Clay	Shelton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGVILLE	AL	35146
Bruce W	Mead Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLVILLE	NJ	8332
Christie	Palmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORCROSS	GA	30071

Caparice	Paige	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32839
Joanna	McCoy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMFIELD	IA	52537
Tami	Hicks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONTGOMERY	IL	60538

Ann	Curry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLEASANT GROVE	UT	84062
Lydia	Gutierrez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78214
Melissa	Servant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDINER	NY	12525

Scott	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAU CLAIRE	WI	54701
Larisa	Kudisheva	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUN CITY	CA	92587
Madeline	Halloway	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRASS LAKE	MI	49240

zak	harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90813
Melissa	Woodrow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNTAIN HOME	ID	83647
Claudia	Vassallo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMBALL	TX	77377

Sandra	Melkonian	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WORCESTER	MA	1609
Peggy	waot9h	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONROE	TX	77301
CherylMI	Rain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97206

Jerry	Ross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWTON	IL	62448
JOHNNIE	PARKER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	78250
Stacey	Hull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINDBER	PA	15963

John	OBrien	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOTHELL	WA	98012
Cheryl	Sikma	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARICOPA	AZ	85138
Tara	Southwell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOVI	MI	48374

Belinds	Parker	this is ridiculous having to pay over a hundred dollars\'s per month just to watch Tv without premium channels like HBO. Show Time etc I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75216
Juan	Llanos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30315

Daphne	WADE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANAL WINCHESTE	OH	43110
Eric	Beam	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97213
MANUEL	CUELLO	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OAKLAND	CA	94601

timothy	Bowers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT	MI	48166
Rich	Corder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COSHOCTON	OH	43812
Matthew	Montgomery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64134

Nori	Koenig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLESTON	WV	25314
Trinity	Steiner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97214
Lee Ann	Houseknecht	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOWARD	PA	16841

Shawn	Bennett	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA FOLLETTE	TN	37766
Mimi	Cagnetta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85032
Mel	Wehrman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEL AIR	MD	21015

Chris	Rostro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ANA	CA	92703
Jonathan	faria	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	RI	2809
Laurie	James	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOLIET	IL	60433

Gregg	Rock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHAKTOOLIK	AK	99771
Deb	Walin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAIFORD	FL	32083
Levander	Brunette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARKER HEIGHTS	TX	76548

Deeanne	Bennett	Initially, broadcast airwaves were GIVEN to networks in return for news broadcasts nightly. While the industry has grown there is no longer FREE available programming for the poorest in our nation! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COCOA BEACH	FL	32931
Patricia	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37203

Stephen	Pfaffenbach	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHENECTADY	NY	12308
Alison	Duignan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIDGEWOOD	NY	11385
Bill	Batzer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	63366

Shane	Gaffney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DARIEN	IL	60561
Matt	Troiani	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBURG	PA	15601
Melody	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32807

Jere	rosen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	1997
Pam	Musho	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT	RI	2840
Davi	Kladakis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH KINGSTOW	RI	2852

misty	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73135
Francisco	Gerena	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ORANGE	FL	32129
David	Chaplain	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEESBURG	VA	20176

Dustin	Ma	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIMI VALLEY	CA	93063
Keith	Stefanec	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THIENSVILLE	WI	53092
Tami	Meredith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KELSO	WA	98626

Robert	Lever	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EVERETT	WA	98208
Ashle	Motley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40228
Suzanne	Finello	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITCHFIELD	CT	6759

Michelle	FRanklin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEDALIA	MO	65301
matthew	krol	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOETZVILLE	MI	49736
John	Ferguson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	NC	28409

Larry	Wallenhorst	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRANDON	WI	53919
Rico	Pico	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99207
Francisco	Pina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLIFTON	NJ	7013

Haris	Lakaca	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60645
Pat	McMurtray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LENEXA	KS	66215
Andrew	Olson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOLINE	IL	61265

Juan	Flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	CA	93534
Chad	McVeigh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98661
S.	McFarlane	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	93533

Loretta	Rockwell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALINA	KS	67401
Dawn	McNutt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORMAN	OK	73071
Frank	Fliszar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAGUNA NIGUEL	CA	92677

Ralph	Muir	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEGRAM	TN	37143
Lauren	Croom	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA PUENTE	CA	91744
Tiara	Diggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYNESBORO	VA	22980

tracey	lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUGUSTA	ME	4330
Connie	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUMITON	AL	35148
Karry	Braddock	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT MOHAVE	AZ	86426

Pat	Faram	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	TX	76010
Michael	Montgomery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENE	IA	50636
Jeff	Burger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL CAJON	CA	92021

Diane	Reid	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHENEY	WA	99004
Debra A.	Spratley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOWIE	MD	20716
Joel	Dendler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTHROP	NY	13697

Roxanne	King	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORONA	CA	92880
Celeste	Jean-Roy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKLAHOMA CITY	OK	73170
Joe	Bonafede	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMS RIVER	NJ	8753

Jamie	Gordon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SILVER SPRING	MD	20904
Kelly	McNamara	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHESTERTON	IN	46304
Joan	Dougherty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWTOWN SQUAF	PA	19073

Corey	Arms	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIXTON	WI	54635
Rebecca	Shiflett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DULUTH	GA	30096
Brad	Settlemeyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIEGELWOOD	NC	28456

Justine	Crespo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERVIEW	FL	33579
Austin	O\'Keefe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERVIEW	FL	33569
Julie	Christopher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	TX	76017

Julie	Pittman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH TONAWAN	NY	14120
Ethan	Knapik	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33637
Darryl	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11236

mark	delmedico	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UTICA	NY	13502
Jesus	Benavides	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30340
mark	Delmedico	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UTICA	NY	13502

Joanna	Brailer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GAINESVILLE	FL	32653
Kevin	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARPER WOODS	MI	48225
Khristy	Bower	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUYALLUP	WA	98372

Don	Knieriem	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly is simply a cheap way for cable companies to extort customers for more fees. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	DE	19810
Greg	Mcintyre	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUDD LAKE	NJ	7828
Marcia	LeMere	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREEN BAY	WI	54304

Terry	Coenen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LODI	CA	95242
Ethel	Moricette	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KISSIMMEE	FL	34747
Matthew	Morillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PASO ROBLES	CA	93446

Richard	Westrich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33702
Kim	Anderson	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALLSTON SPA	NY	12020
valerie	barr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUNCANVILLE	AL	35456

Allison	Borders	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHALIMAR	FL	32579
Charles	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45409
Danielle	Mcguire	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOLDEN	CO	80401

Deb	Robley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEENAH	WI	54956
Blanca	RodriguezTellez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CARMICHAEL	CA	95608
Robyn	Tobias	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44333

Donald	Perkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORKTOWN	VA	23693
eric	bryant	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48091
Donald	Comeau	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	MA	2155

Lynne	Stevens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAVERHILL	MA	1835
Rebecca	Stringer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DESTIN	FL	32541
Mee	Moonei	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HATBORO	PA	19040

Mary	Simmons	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENTON	NC	27239
David	Pistey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32503
Tiffany	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JONESBORO	GA	30238

Susan	Reedman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAKE FOREST	NC	27587
Anthony	Rademaker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT	KY	41071
Robert	Geiger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45410

Cary	Ryan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10024
Tristan	Walker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OH	45504
Tia	Cunningham	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28212

CANDICE	HERNANDEZ	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHLAND	WA	99352
Colleen	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44121
Adonis	Hamad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDEN CITY	ID	83714

Kacey	Trygstad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUND	MN	55364
Elizabeth	Ross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMHERST	OH	44001
Morgan	Brodeur	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST SPRINGFIELD	MA	1089

Stasia	Ananson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEWATER	NJ	8807
John	Myers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	CO	80011
Sharo,	Douglas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSBORO	TN	37757

Jahmar	Gathright Sr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	3069
amber	young	I personally pay over $100 a month just to use the internet, because the tv cable channels I get are bare minimum. I don\'t think that any company should be allowed to charge these prices to access something that should be free for everyone to get to. At this point it is like charging people just to walk into the library. The service is horrible too. A tech for comcast told me that they pile up entire neighborhoods one one server to cut costs, which causes problems in internet service, and for the transformers to blow. Its highway robbery. So even if you lose service as a result, you still have to pay the full cost. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUINCY	MA	2170

michael	scamacca	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TONAWANDA	NY	14150
Brent	Rollings	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASTLE ROCK	CO	80104
Molly	Ulvin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOZEMAN	MT	59715

Joshua	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALDWINSVILLE	NY	13027
bj	thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEND	OR	97702
Mary	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROYAL OAK	MI	48067

Anna	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARMINSTER	PA	18974
Donna	Baybusky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10308
Elizabeth	Franklin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEWES	DE	19958

Malcolm	Rush	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTESVILLE	VA	22901
Peggy	Marley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37920
Lewis	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WAYNE	IN	46805

Steven	Lualdi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMINGTON	IN	47402
Joshua	Barnett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSOULA	MT	59802
Christy	Glancy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PANAMA CITY	FL	32404

Melinda	Renken	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROY	WA	98580
Matthew	Sutton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VILLA PARK	IL	60181
Frances	Dent	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPE	AZ	85282

Danny	Schmale	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLFLOWER	CA	90706
David	Wells	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEIRTON	WV	26062
B	McClure	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COPEMISH	MI	49625

Michaelyn	Pappert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASEVILLE	MI	48725
Carolyn	Foster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONROE	TX	77384
Karen	Villeneuve	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMBRIA	CA	93428

Jeani	Roth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10028
hikmet	uysaler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLMES	PA	19043
Andrea	McArdle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FINLEYVILLE	PA	15332

Sandy	Demski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48092
Marjorie	Cochran	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARANAC LAKE	NY	12983
Lelisia	Hall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64133

Maida K	Latvis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHUA	NH	3064
Victor	Modesto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20005
Tari	Tielke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YANKTON	SD	57078

Hollie	Felisianog	Comast is evil. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLACKAMAS	OR	97015
Mary	Corry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT GEORGE	UT	84770
Ethel	Stokes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYTLE	TX	78052

Nicholas	Armstrong	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCEBURG	IN	47025
Trish	Aragon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87110
Christin	Wasson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOPEKA	KS	66605

Brandon	Mullins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROBINSON	IL	62454
Michele	Samuels	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILL VALLEY	CA	94942
Emmette	Salyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45414

Romeo	LeBlanc	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33305
Dawne	Ciambrone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRANSTON	RI	2920
kent	more	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	askus@ac

kevin	meyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. It is a rip off to pay that price each month	PARK HILLS	MO	63601
Melissa	west	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGANTON	NC	28655
Patrick	Kenyon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST BLOOMFIELD	MI	48322

Hunter	Hickok	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CATONSVILLE	MD	21228
Frederick	Malcuit	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33305
LouAnne	Lord	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55417

brant	Zimny	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VENTURA	CA	93004
Tony	Shinaberry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOOSE CREEK	SC	29445
Amanda	Centers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LATONIA	KY	41015

Patti	Lowery	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAPE CANAVERAL	FL	32920
Mary	Cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALACHUA	FL	32615
Javier	Lluch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33133

Orlando	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAGINAW	MI	48601
Amanda	Moncada	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARADISE	CA	95969
Jonathan	Saucedo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10451

denise	castrejon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53215
Mathew	Barbosa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRHAVEN	MA	2719
Savannah	Luciano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KAMRAR	IA	50132

Randy	Premo	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEMIDJI	MN	56601
Fred	Latz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYLVANIA	OH	43560
kimberly	wood	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	OH	44703

Joshua	Sabedra	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDMOND	OK	73012
Wayne	Darby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53227
Kristin	Noel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICHESTER	NH	3258

Melody	McNulty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLERSVILLE	MD	21108
William	Little	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSCLE SHOALS	AL	35661
Jim	Webber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OTSEGO	MI	49078

Marguerite	Cambria	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTHROP	MA	2152
Josh	Maizel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RED BANK	NJ	7701
Cindy	Stettler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEVERNA PARK	MD	21146

Jose	Colon-Collazo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERTOWN	MA	2472
Ben	STefan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOND DU LAC	WI	54935
Barry	Christiansen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84117

Kristina	Alviene	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENVILLE	SC	29607
Ben	STefan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOND DU LAC	WI	54935
Kyle	Kinney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLAIR	NE	68008

Craig	Cassman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	MN	55906
Davor	Tomasevic	Quit ripping us off . I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLE CHASSE	LA	70037
Robert	Flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARAMOUNT	CA	90723

Michael	Nobles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	NC	27889
Kathryn	Norton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	NY	12182
Shelly	Estes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23517

Adrienne	Meyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BULVERDE	TX	78163
Laura	Manning	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44126
Cecil	Hammond	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHELBYVILLE	IN	46176

Brendan	Gwynn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THE COLONY	TX	75056
Bridget	Dutcher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LINCOLN	NE	68522
Steven	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLAT ROCK	MI	48134

Tiffany	Hooker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUREKA	CA	95503
penny	walk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80525
michael	Theriot	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RACELAND	LA	70394

Robin	Mygrant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVUE	OH	44811
thomas	cheek	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97206
Scott	Plachter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST PALM BEACH	FL	33411

Tom	Silva	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADAMSVILLE	RI	2801
Kimber	Daniel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33611
J	Ditzian	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10306

Susan	Vickers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEABODY	MA	1960
Michael	Hoff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLENTOWN	PA	18102
Katherine	Comini-Sherrod	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LATROBE	PA	15650

Kevin	Rippey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITCHFIELD PARK	AZ	85340
margie	dallas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAGINAW	MI	48601
Kate	Tracy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELLICOTT CITY	MD	21043

Sarah	Luft	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ISSAQUAH	WA	98027
Robert	McKamey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	TN	37716
Lisa	Newitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ANGELES	WA	98362

Valerie	Amo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	MI	49202
Sean	Matthews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN FRANCISCO	CA	94109
Jon	Thompson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUBURN	AL	36830

Kathleen	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23518
Kim	Vierra	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KALISPELL	MT	59901
Charles	Pierson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19139

Elizabeth	Nolan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60629
Elvin	Kamoku	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KULA	HI	96790
Jessie	Pink man	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Bitches!!	LOUISVILLE	KY	40222

Jeremy	Lockhart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NIAGARA FALLS	NY	14305
Dawn	Collins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTPORT	CT	6880
C.	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHAWNEE	KS	66203

Rick	Depoalo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTTOWN	NY	10998
Jodi	Lockhart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NIAGARA FALLS	NY	14305
Christine	W	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STEVENS POINT	WI	54481

Anisa	Noor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90049
John	Gauld	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PONTIAC	MI	48340
Deborah	Swan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LACEY	WA	98503

Donald	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DESERT HOT SPRIN	CA	92240
Karisa	Keahey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRESNO	CA	93711
shelly	greenburg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85032

Iain M.	Guthrie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORKTOWN	VA	23692
Teresa	Alger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CLAIR	MI	48079
Dave	Lipton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOMERSET	NJ	8873

kim	troy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HILLSBORO	OH	45133
Damian	Boros	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST MIFFLIN	PA	15122
Lynn	Engelbretson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SURPRISE	AZ	85378

Renee	Banson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NARBERTH	PA	19072
Paul	Hattersley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PINOLE	CA	94564
Robert	Sedlacko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORIDA	NY	10921

Karen	Mathews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMITHFIELD	NC	27577
Henry	Wentzel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUPERIOR	WI	54880
Alicia	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLNEY	MD	20832

Eric	French	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALLSTON SPA	NY	12020
Sandra	Rondina	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	RI	2842
Jim & Margai	Gowan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JASPER	AL	35501

Richard	Reed	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT MORRIS	MI	48458
Martin	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKRIDGE	MD	21075
Benjamin	Weintraub	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBANY	OR	97321

Wes	Monger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUINTON	VA	23141
Kristin	Britt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STONY BROOK	NY	11790
Stacey	Shepherd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER HAVEN	FL	33880

Kyle	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOWNERS GROVE	IL	60516
Caroline	CHAMBERLAIN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	6489
Franklin	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFAX	CA	94930

Eddie	McDonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VENETA	OR	97487
TJ	Haslett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15216
David	Cooley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALPENA	MI	49707

Timothy	Brigham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98104
Jen	Strutz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55117
Anthony	Badessa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHAMPTON	PA	18966

James	Spencer	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	IN	47905
shannon	simpson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON	WV	25701
sandy	daigle	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOBILE	AL	36609

Ashley	Strobridge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FALLS CHURCH	VA	22042
Caleb	Uptergrove	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90025
Patt	Watkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONCLOVA	OH	43542

Richard	Corso	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROVIDENCE	RI	2908
Tom	Haskett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33024
Delane	Wood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46224

Crystal	Novik	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSFIELD	MA	1201
Dan	Bauman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HADDON HEIGHTS	NJ	8035
Allegra	Morell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEBARY	FL	32713 alejandro	ruberto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JERSEY CITY	NJ	7305

J C	Clifton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW IBERIA	LA	70563
Barry	Benoit	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORTLAND	OH	44410

Christy	Church	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	NC	28207
charles	goecke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75248
Joe	Atkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIETTA	GA	30060

Donna	Pucilowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEVILLE	CA	95678
Jason	Knickerbocker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHWENKSVILLE	PA	19473
Kathy	Wheeler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE CITY	FL	32763

Mary	McDonald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARLINGTON	MA	2476
VANESSA	NOBLE	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78247
Veronica	Stovall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63118

Carol	Tierney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANTENO	IL	60950
Linda	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53718
Nadine	Cobos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONTARIO	CA	91764

Gregory	Texidor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10029
Jeremy	Kase	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60657
Matt	Otto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLINTON	IA	52732

Jack	Richards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BACLIFF	TX	77518
Nichole	Harasen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALTON	NH	3809
Kaylynn	Nevil	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOUISVILLE	KY	40272

Melissa	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARITON	AL	36311
Bismarck	Mcknight	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30354
alyson	grossman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIDGE	NY	11961

Katrina	Figueroa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89102
Jack	Mills	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67213
Jennifer	Shields	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98198

twyla	south	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67219
Dan	Leiker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80229
Cecil	Prescod	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97230

Wes	Willis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRANKFORT	KY	40601
Beverly	M	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10456
Brent	Lammers	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIGHLAND	NY	12528

Sally	Hampton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90043
Shayla	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90805
Michael	Scheerer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEAFORD	DE	19973

Charlene	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERFORD	MI	48327
Carolyn	Spears	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEMPHIS	TN	38128
Robert	Pearce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOMER GLEN	IL	60491

Waleed	Isa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENSBORO	NC	27407
Julie	Meyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53714
Cami	Trusty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVINGTON	GA	30014

Dwight	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ALAMITOS	CA	90720
Jennifer	Pruitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUIR	MI	48860
Troy	Dauenbaugh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARVADA	CO	80004

Alice	Muller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA CRUZ	CA	95060
Cesar	Resendiz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	TX	77407
Steven	Joseph	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARSHFIELD	MA	2050

Carol	Brost	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	WI	54451
David	Grundberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OLYMPIA	WA	98512
Clifford	Padilla	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11223

Sandra	Cash	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	TN	37087
Luke	Duke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ARMONK	NY	10504
Carole	Cobb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ONALASKA	WA	98570

Kevin	Roberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CAMPBELL	CA	95008
Yousef	Kassem	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CINCINNATI	OH	45212
Patricia	Laning-Meade	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MASSILLON	OH	44646

Teddy	Fisk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGWOOD	TX	77339
Michael	Gray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14624

Ilyse	Halter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. I am sick amd tried of the monopoly these companies hold on the consumers! We are being held hostage and their services are aweful yet we have no choices and these companies can do whatever they choose witbout consequences from the consumers because we are at their mercy! When we have a choice these companies will have no other choice but to change the way they operate!	POINT PLEASANT B	NJ	8742
Monica	Baez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAVANNAH	GA	31401

Joanna	Briggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85742
Suzanne	Heffron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHERBORN	MA	1770
Regina	Cornish	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95864

PAUL	HENDRY	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORTON	WA	98356
Lisa	Torrice	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22401
Elizabeth	McGuire	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80204

Robert	Faber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONWAY	AR	72034
billy	yeldell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ABILENE	TX	79603
Lisa	Torrice	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22401

Jennifer	Brasel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PRATTVILLE	AL	36067
Amy	Koch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILAN	IL	61264
James	Krance	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIGHTON	CO	80601

Ruben	Delagarza	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78218
Lorene	France	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENSACOLA	FL	32534
Justin	Bowe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSDALE	PA	19446

nicholas	castro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11214
Alkia	Jeffreys	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENNSBURG	PA	18073
sean	march	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15227

Stephanie	Deter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSONVILLE	TN	37075
Harry	Seaboldt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ESCONDIDO	CA	92027
Sam	Haid	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60647

Pedro	Ortega	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11214
Paula	Rooney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARWICH	MA	2645
janie	fox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARION	IN	46952

Sharon	Walls	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DETROIT	MI	48227
Lori	Gini	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95973
J	B	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERLIN	MD	21811

ARTURO	ROSADO	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANASSAS	VA	20109
JACKIE	JACKSON	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH TONAWAN	NY	14120
Matthew	Morin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDWAY	MA	2053

Michael	Creasy	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. The fees for boxes are ridiculous Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROANOKE	VA	24013
Denise	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77043
Diane	Michelle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85705

Thomas	Steele	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW CITY	NY	10956
Leon	Vaughn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COPENHAGEN	NY	13626
Gail	Cragg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TURTLETOWN	TN	37391

charlie	collins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCKFORD	IL	61103
Wayne	Briggs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BEDFORD	MA	2744
Jax	Elliott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46226

Jamaal	Best	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92115
Robert	Bidgood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WACONIA	MN	55387
mamadou	dembele	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19143

Anthony	Antich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KEY WEST	FL	33040 jaclyn	sterner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORKED RIVER	NJ	8731
Bethany	Fields	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONGS	SC	29568

Joseph	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LABELLE	FL	33935
walter	hard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREELAND	MI	48623
Calvin	Jennings	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77070

Warren	Sweatt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HYDE PARK	NY	12538
Daniel	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW MILFORD	CT	6776
Carolynn	ni Lochlainn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON	NY	11743

Jacqueline	Eden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33020
Gary	Steffenhagen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14624
Kenneth	Knox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GENESEE	PA	16923

Sharon	Pantenburg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGLESBY	IL	61348
Gerald	Simpkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEEKSKILL	NY	10566
Gerald	Carle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUAKERTOWN	PA	18951

Ben	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EPHRATA	PA	17522
Debbie	Mitchell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTSVILLE	AL	35805
Kat	Ramsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANITE CITY	IL	62040

Edward	Cosgrove	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GERMANTOWN	MD	20874
John	Castillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS BANOS	CA	93635
Vera	Seijo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	GA	31907

Belle	Kenoyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NH	3824
Penney	Snyder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BINGHAMTON	NY	13903
Robert	Bernier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MONROE	CT	6468

Richard	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33461
Markus	Wehrmeister	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHELSEA	MA	2150
Sandra	Tran	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANAHEIM	CA	92804

Maria	Marchan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33179
Michael	Hogan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHANDLER	AZ	85226
Arijan	Ramku	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10309

Stacey	harper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32217
Jeff	Hertz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30338
Clint	Carpenter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROYAL OAK	MI	48067

William	Schrier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DICKSON	TN	37055
Karl	Kelly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10307
robert	deitz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15214

Xavier	Morales	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77015
Kt	Truesdale	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTSMOUTH	NH	3801
Javier	De los Santos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSVILLE	TX	78521

Terrence	Kelleher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREWSTER	MA	2631
Marta	Andersen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRAVERSE CITY	MI	49696
Kimberly	Adams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23456

Joe	Nagek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARION	IL	62959
Andrew	Luce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VESTAL	NY	13850
Marcus	Sutphin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LYNCHBURG	VA	24504

Daniel	Bubenik	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVENPORT	FL	33837
Melissa	Losos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63124
Toni	Campbell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	DE	19805

Natalie	McCarthy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TYRONE	PA	16686
William	Underwood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPARKS	NV	89436
Lois	Garraty	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND JUNCTION	CO	81501

Teress	Skocik	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMISON	PA	18929
Jennifer	Fodaski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AMSTON	CT	6231
Christian	Lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMHURST	NY	11373

Kathryn	Robertson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALM BEACH	FL	33480
Ernest	Pruneda	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78237
Santiago	Grullon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10463

Evonne	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VENICE	FL	34293
Michael	Kessler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARSIPPANY	NJ	7054
margaret	plummer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDINER	ME	4345

Vicki	Wyant	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUNEDIN	FL	34698
Kelli	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLERSBURG	OH	44654
Katrina	Moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98168

Katherine	Ruiz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLIFTON	NJ	7011
Tara	Jett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35226
Sue	Usher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANDOVER	MN	55304

Lorenzo	Rea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE	CA	92866
Florence	Quinn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SILVERDALE	WA	98383
TJ	McGraw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35226

Renee	Jett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35226
Robert	West	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINOOSKI	VT	5404
David	Tadros	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAYONNE	NJ	7002

Michelle	Rohloff	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SYRACUSE	NY	13210
Dianne	Whitehair	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78745
Marquita	Garcia	Yu ppppPpppupport efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA CRUZ	CA	95061

Julie	Holder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BERKELEY	CA	94707
Eduardo	Herbut	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33193
Pablo A	Salinas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROWNSVILLE	TX	78520

ken	almond	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AVON	MA	2322
Paula	Brocaille	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HANNIBAL	MO	63401
Patrick	Cignarale	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPENCERPORT	NY	14559

Cheryl	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE STEVENS	WA	98258
Dionne	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHREVEPORT	LA	71105
Francis J.	Knight	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MASTIC	NY	11950

Lisa	Herrera	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOLLYWOOD	FL	33023
Hauley	Farish	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85016

Frederick	Denker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Oh, and the right to pick the channels I want to see without having to buy another package of channels I don\'t want.	WHITEFORD	MD	21160
Ronald	Galena	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT LAUDERDALE	FL	33306

Shirley	Sites	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRFIELD	PA	17320
John	Hagan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREMERTON	WA	98312
chad	law	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARIS	TN	38242

Vince	Verrico	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	NJ	8016
Donna	Morridon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33463
Warren	Guss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	IN	46926

CESAY	REZA	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87105
Pamela	Freed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUMA	LA	70364
Michael	Manelslk	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92109

Martin	Strohmeyer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAVEEN	AZ	85339
Jamie	Jablonski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53214
wendy	Magree	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	OH	44202

Mark	Cooper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45424
Emily	Carrillo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSEVILLE	CA	95678
Kathleen	Sunderland	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19127

Scott	Bell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAMPA	ID	83686
Raymond	Holder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CEDAR RAPIDS	IA	52406
Regina	Stanley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OKEECHOBEE	FL	34974

Carrie	Savage-Zimmermar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46208
Travis	Svatek	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREEN BAY	WI	54311
Tory	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARASOTA	FL	34238

Nichole	Linville Krause	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Nichole Linville Krause	LANSING	MI	48911
Sandy	Turnbull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT JERVIS	NY	12771
Neil	ferguson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VACAVILLE	CA	95688

Marci	Maleski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15204
Larry\'s	Merrix	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESA	AZ	85204
Linzi	A\'Fortieri	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74105

BRIAN	Unverzagt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROMEOVILLE	IL	60446
Jane	Hayes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	MA	2155
Shaun	Richards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND JUNCTION	CO	81504

Bonnie	Malzi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINDBER	PA	15963
Josh	Brinkley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DECATUR	IL	62526
Dave	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80233

Nancy	Bisson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GORHAM	NH	3581
Robert	DeVries	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUSKEGON	MI	49442
Deborah	Kee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VAN BUREN	AR	72956

Joanne	Lattanzio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STATEN ISLAND	NY	10310
Daniel	McGowan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILDWOOD	NJ	8260
Eric	Conklin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	NC	28411

Roxanne	Robertson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OVERLAND PARK	KS	66213
Brooks	Springer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PICKERINGTON	OH	43147
Gerald	Jarvis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHESTER	NY	10918

Catherine	Brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLYMOUTH	PA	18651
Michael	Alberts	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87120
Jessica	Etheridge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92122

Theresa	Cruz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDEN	UT	84403
Joyce	Bergin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST CHESTER	PA	19382
J A	Mossbarger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING	TX	77379

Fred	Kendall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT AUSTIN	MI	48467
Rita	Monaghan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YELLOW SPRINGS	OH	45387
LindaSue	Hope	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENO	NV	89509

Meredith	Buice	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONYERS	GA	30013
James	Pendell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTRAL SQUARE	NY	13036
Kent	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60608

Debbie	Mavrich	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTEREACH	NY	11720
Shelly	Arbogast	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80221
Paul	Yahl	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSAGE BEACH	MO	65065

Cheryl	Hurlstone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33809
Matthew	Craig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85021
Enrico	Gabuzzi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77042

B.	Manderscheid	John McCain said not to regulate cable television because it would self-regulate through competition. It didn\'t work. a few big corporations bought up the small companies, the prices are outrageous. You pay huge sums for movie reruns, the same movies for over a year, or loser movies that never made it to the theater, plus reality shows, one after the other, as though all of America wants to voyuer their way through life, and then there are all of the channels selling you something. We\'re paying $125 per month to see commercials. In the beginning we had two or three free boxes, now all of them charge, premium channels are beyond the affordable range and it doesn\'t really matter because they too run the same movies month after month, year after year. They are far beyond out of control. News is no longer news, but tabloid biased, disgusting and without an ounce of real content,. It\'s time to stop it. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85715

Steven	Lonergan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33703
Shelley	Mack	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONCORD	CA	94518
Jerel	Patterson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEY VILLAGE	CA	91607

Donald	Manes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44306
Amilee	Kincaid	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BOSTON	TX	75570
Van	Ailwoof	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MELROSE	MA	2176

B.	Manderscheid	Since, theoretically, I have your ear I also want to talk to you about the internet. Why do I suddenly have ads popping up in the middle of the page, videos with voices overwhelming me when I can\'t even find how to turn them off. Am I paying for these ads? Why don\'t I have a choice to turn them off. Come on FCC, get off the rich man ride and help us out here with total saturation of trivia that little kids watch and believe. We need to regain some semblance of intelligence. Average IQ in America 100, 10 points below a chimpanzee and the ads encouraging more of the same. I support taking these unwanted ads off my computer screen. I support the ability to choose what I watch and what I can turn off. I support a free America, not being held captive by trash and junk. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85715

Tony	Hamby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34471
Bobbie	Feiring	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLISTON	ND	58801
A	L	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78214

Karen	Morris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29229
Caroline	Avila	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOMALL	PA	19008
Peyer	Daigle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHELBURNE	VT	5482

Daniel	Cueva	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLEASANT HILL	CA	94523
PATTY	DUFFY	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER PARK	FL	32792
Kelley	soliz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	MO	63379 sharon	Lefebvre	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRISTOL	VT	5443

Corey	Sheehan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEDFORD	MA	1730
Dawn	Gavila	I should be able to pick the channels that I want to watch. American consulding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RANCHOS DE TAOS	NM	87557

Dana	kisala	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30338
joann	santos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11215
amy	brown	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEHACHAPI	CA	93561

Megan		22556	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STAFFORD	VA	22556
Steve	Griffeth		I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUEBLO	CO	81004
Sandra	Quest		I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANYON LAKE	TX	78133

Tana	Franco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AKRON	OH	44310
Bryan	Lanting	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAFAYETTE	IN	47905
Ronald	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMYRNA	DE	19977

Julie	Appleby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DULUTH	MN	55812
Terry	Land	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MC DONALD	TN	37353
Angela	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAYETTEVILLE	NC	28311

William	Morrison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78250
Teresa	Bauch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH SAINT PAU	MN	55075
kurt	boylstein	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17110

debi	biendara	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH SAINT PAU	MN	55075
Susan	Melke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YPSILANTI	MI	48197
cory	Wojtanowicz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICE	MN	56367

SUSAN	STUART	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUYALLUP	WA	98375
Mike	Traupman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74129
Dennice	Proctor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEBANON	IL	62254

charles	circle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FOWLERTON	IN	46930
Keely	Dennis	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBUS	OH	43211
Joel	Bushart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCEVILLE	GA	30043

bernard	randall-jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARKVILLE	MD	21234
Michelle	Varni	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERCED	CA	95340
Nick	Sammataro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUKESHA	WI	53188

Lamonte	Cook	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEMENTON	NJ	8021
Wanda	Sissle	We\'ve had to submit to way too many big businesses charging top dollar for services that should be lots less. It\'s frustrating how this has been allowed to continue and even get worse with cable, internet, phone, health care.... Even housing. Needs to stop. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ROSA	CA	95403

STEVEN	LONG II	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33809
Desiree	Berrigan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNTAIN VIEW	HI	96771

Michael	Sprague	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. Let my zeros and ones go! Please help make the marketplace competitive, allow the pricing to get lower by increasing the specificity of selection consumers can opt for, instead of supporting the one, two or three tier-sizes fit all, because they do not fit all. We are sick and tire of being force fed the channels that TWC and other providers benefit from. Look for the disruption you are seeing in the current Presidential election season to come after every other market sector next, if change is not forthcoming from you. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FEDERAL WAY	WA	98003
STEVEN	LONG II	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33815

Danika	Kohler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALLEY VILLAGE	CA	91607
Jason	Newman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLE ROCK	AR	72205
Jake	Hines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KING GEORGE	VA	22485

Roxanne	Thayer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98105
Tiffany	Ches	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSSEO	MN	55311
susan	mares	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTELL	GA	30106

FRANCES	DICUS	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MCALLEN	TX	78504
michael	still	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHERRY HILL	NJ	8003
Rita	Crampton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74133

Joseph	Kilbane	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING CITY	TN	37381
rusty	booker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RUSSELLS POINT	OH	43348
Kenn F	Ambroz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KITTANNING	PA	16201

Karen	Ambroz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KITTANNING	PA	16201
Laura	Kagel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10034
Barbara	Kielbania	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOYLESTOWN	PA	18901

Jennifer	Hero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78727
Pamela	McAllister	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15206
Tiffany	Hatin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHELBURNE	VT	5482

Colin	Onita	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TWINSBURG	OH	44087
Christina	Pierson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YUBA CITY	CA	95991
Rich	Glowacki	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STURTEVANT	WI	53177

Josh	Kussmann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNION CITY	TN	38261
Adrian	Alston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SILER CITY	NC	27344
andres	perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32824

Calvin	Keen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49507
Anali	Henriquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77041
Bernadine	Owen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11225

Sarah	Corrie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILLISTON	ND	58801
Isairis	Diaz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33126
Jody	Seitz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANCHORAGE	AK	99504

jamie	toenges	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63114
Janette	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEDERLAND	CO	80466
Clay	Grayum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MURFREESBORO	TN	37130

Donna	Pinto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTVILLE	NJ	8093
Tim	Au	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60641
Kenneth	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACON	GA	31201

Clay	Grayum	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MURFREESBORO	TN	37130
Jacqueline	Coyne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	TN	37323
Debra	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALT LAKE CITY	UT	84118

David	Knibbs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRINGFIELD	OR	97478
Chris	Sorrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUN VALLEY	NV	89433
Tom	Burgess	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KEAAU	HI	96749

Christene	Kilgore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA VERGNE	TN	37086
Mark	White	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TANEYTOWN	MD	21787
Andrea	Andersen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MINNEAPOLIS	MN	55434

Jeff	Urquhart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98682
Vernon	Andrus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROGUE RIVER	OR	97537
Laurie	Mounce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONDONDERRY	NH	3053

Steve	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27615
John	Robledo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MISSION	TX	78572
Lori	Mcclure-Wade	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MURFREESBORO	TN	37127

David	Rebd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HUNTINGTON BEA	CA	92646
Pamela	McGowan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PINETOWN	NC	27865
L	Gereau	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE WORTH	FL	33460

jeremy	Berg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLENTON	WI	53002
Latasha	Jester	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30349
Joshua	Holder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MODESTO	CA	95350

patricia	zirkles	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOMERVILLE	OH	44235
Chere	Cunningham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19139
Sharon	Daudelin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	3835

marsha	ashe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	MI	48307
Kenneth	Needham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63116
Beth	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINDER	GA	30680

joann	Kenney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	85088
Carla	Westerfeld	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Also, I thought it was now illegal for stations to run commercials at a higher audio volume? It still happens in my area! I\'ve tried to report it, however the website for the FCC is asking for info that I don\'t have or know how to get access to in order to turn them in for violating the "rules."	EVERETT	WA	98208

Carneilyes	McLeod	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOLEDO	OH	43615
Kathryn	Jarrell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ROSA	CA	95403
Barry	Casey II	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98133

Keith	Patterson	STOP exploiting American consumers!!! Enough is enough already!!! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90808
Bruce	Vandermeulen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33063
isabel	ledezma	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	20994

Pamela	Hendee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRAND RAPIDS	MI	49505
Joaquin	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDEN GROVE	CA	92840
Alicia	Haskins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACOMB	IL	61455

Bella	Blue	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	APEX	NC	27539
Joyll	Cambridge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10001

john	Barrett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. Needs to be known above all else charter spectrum is the worst cable internet provider ive ever had the signal cuts out constantly and they constantly try to hit you with hidden fees .American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KIMBALL	NE	69145
Karl	Lugmeier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89104

Mario	Juves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98165
Amir	Khan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	UNION CITY	NJ	7087
Judy	Bean	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAVANNAH	GA	31404

Walter	Howard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTONA BEACH	FL	32114
Jeannah	Haber	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARASOTA	FL	34237
Robin	Bridges	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIETTA	GA	30062

Ivonne	Royal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEARWATER	FL	33756
Michael	Tilghman	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ESSEX	MD	21221
Angel	Abascal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIALEAH	FL	33015

Leslie	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT STEWART	GA	31315
Thomas	Ware	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADAMS	TN	37010
alicia	moherman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. This cost should be included in the services. Not seperate!	ASHLAND	OH	44805

John	Evans	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCRANTON	PA	18505
Laurice	Forstmann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORSICANA	TX	75110
C	D	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HATBORO	PA	19040

Peter	Crouch	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLEISCHMANNS	NY	12430
Julie	Alvarez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box 2 years ago my family started watching TV commercial free online, but would entertain going back if there was a better option.	ANCHORAGE	AK	99507

Marc	Nichols	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14215
Molly	Adam	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EASTON	PA	18042
christina	williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISONVILLE	KY	42431

Beverly	Wells	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLADEWATER	TX	75647
Kimberly	Navarro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SARASOTA	FL	34232
Garnet	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THE VILLAGES	FL	32162

Lindbergh	Askew III	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60616
Ira	Culver	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHARLOTTE	VT	5445
Megan	Mishou	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BALTIMORE	MD	21217

Elaine	Pechilis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VENICE	FL	34285
Cyndie	Tozzo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOCKPORT	NY	14094
Nick	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CRESTVIEW	FL	32539

Erika	Henderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENDALE	KY	42740
wende	walsh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14222
Patricia	Kauffmann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT	VT	5855

Joel	Price	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHANY	OK	73008
Luke	Lauder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. What happened to the free market guys?	AURORA	CO	80017
Charlie	Naimo	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUNENBURG	MA	1462

Michael	Slavin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78729
Jacob	Desio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUCSON	AZ	85716
Greg	Saucier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH BERWICK	ME	3906

Erin	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	VA	24153
Jordan	Baczynski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENTON	WA	98057
Karen	Fraser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OGDENSBURG	NY	13669

Karen	Mayberry	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST SPRINGFIELD	PA	16411
Zulu	Kedar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORFOLK	VA	23513
john	kozlowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH TONAWAN	NY	14120

tamra	harvey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANCHESTER	NH	3103
Nancy	Graziano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOWELL	NJ	7731
Tyhessia	Blanchard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10029

Linda	Ridge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHAUMBURG	IL	60193
Marc	Cramer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	CO	80013
Zoe	Manadier	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60636

Stacey	Owens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MERIDEN	CT	6451
Asif	Manzoor	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	L5M 7J6
Percival	Dionisio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRACY	CA	95376

Bill	Weiss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODRUFF	WI	54568
Jan	Longtine	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE PARK	MN	56554
Karen	Groce	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHEVILLE	NC	28803

David	Watkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RAVENNA	OH	44266
Dorenda	Bainbridge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BREEZY POINT	NY	11697
sherry	moore	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	IMPERIAL	MO	63052

John	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUPPER LAKE	NY	12986
Marcus	McClary	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14619
Erin	Cleere	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	VT	5408

Marcus	McClary	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14619
Marcia	Jackson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60636
Marcus	McClary	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROCHESTER	NY	14619

Leroy	Beaulier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEEDS	ME	4263
ROBERT	HARRIS	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAMPA	ID	83651
michael	paquin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19128

Matthew	Lee	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT ROBERT	MO	65584
Sura	Reyes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78727
Therese	Gritzmacher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MUKWONAGO	WI	53149

Aaron	Batt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOONE	IA	50036
Aaron	McCarthy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUFFALO	NY	14215
sue	matthews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TERREBONNE	OR	97760

Orlando	Acevedo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53704
Madeline	Steadham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68122
Joe	Kelley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAYLAND	MA	1778

Dotty	Laverdiere	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VIRGINIA BEACH	VA	23452
Christine	difalco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHWICK	MA	1077
Edwina	Cauley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20020

Anita	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EATON	OH	45320
Gabriela	Poteet	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKESIDE	CA	92040
Sara	Vasey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DOYLESTOWN	PA	18901

Benjamin	Linus	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SMITH RIVER	CA	95567
Scott	Sellers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRONT ROYAL	VA	22630
Ebone	Samson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRISBURG	PA	17109

Christiaan	McPherson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TULSA	OK	74119
Rafael	Albarran	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDLOTHIAN	IL	60445
Phil	Gorden	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESQUITE	TX	75150

Le Roy	Rind	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHANUTE	KS	66720
Chris	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST DUBUQUE	IL	61025
Michael	Bennet	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRADENTON	FL	34208

Russell	Dempsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98121
Jennifer	Fry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	OH	45373
Jon	Skocik	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANONSBURG	PA	15317

Tina	Trimble	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HARRODSBURG	KY	40330
Quinton	Bowens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHREVEPORT	LA	71118
Kevin	Hyde	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TALLAHASSEE	FL	32303

Deborah	Lennon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEWPORT	RI	2840
Greg	Gati	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT JEFFERSON	NY	11777
Jannyna	Flores	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90804

James	Sutter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIDGE FARM	IL	61870
Michael	Blevins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10025
michelle	botticelli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOSTON	MA	2128

Dina	Ã guilar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLLEGE STATION	TX	77845
Brian	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JUSTIN	TX	76247
Luis	Rosado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10013

Bruce	Brooks	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTMINSTER	MD	21157
Kathreen	LaFavor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALLENTOWN	PA	18109
susan	handel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST YARMOUTH	MA	2673

Lisa	Beckmann	Im on disability, have no rwal life, T V is more important to me than average people. I can barely afford my meds, let alone the outragious costs of television!!!! Its become ridiculous!!!!!!I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	O FALLON	MO	63368
George	W	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BURLINGTON	NC	27215
Mark	Cline	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVINGTON	IN	47932

Roger	Newport	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALDIE	VA	20105
coco	laura	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMESTOWN	KY	42629
joseph	colella	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KITTERY	ME	3904

Brandon	Bases	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COCKEYSVILLE	MD	21030
Rosemary	Kisting	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STOUGHTON	WI	53589
Randy	Norton sr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46203

Elizabeth	reyes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAREDO	TX	78041
Marisa	Gaines	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FRAMINGHAM	MA	1702
Lindsey	Dergosits	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNOXVILLE	TN	37920

Bill	Marsh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAVIS	CA	95618
Paul	Nieves	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33803
Dorothy	Petrie	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEBSTER	NY	14580

Molly	Pace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ZIRCONIA	NC	28790
louis	bartolo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLORAL PARK	NY	11001

Stephen	Hulet	This is ridiculous. There should be a national standard for cable boxes instead of this mess of proprietary junk. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ORCHARD	WA	98367
Carol	Gayer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMWOOD PARK	IL	60707

Shawn	Orlopp	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEBSTER	NY	14580
Robert	Vandewrburgh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HENDERSONVILLE	NC	28739
diahann	pate	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32244

Domingo	Corona	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCE	MA	1841
Jacob	Plumb	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68105
Barbara	Fulmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRANT	NY	14027

Marcia	Deschler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORLANDO	FL	32821
Susan	Hodge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CONNEAUT	OH	44030
SERGIO	RODRIGUEZ	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33176

susan	candelora	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ORANGE	MA	1364
Jeannie	Jacobsen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT EDWARD	NY	12828
Christine	DeBerry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGEPORT	CT	6606

Tracy	Olson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILWAUKEE	WI	53212
Angel	Ayers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RICHMOND	VA	23227
Donna	Hanko	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDGEWATER	MD	21037

Jennifer	Quinn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON	WI	53704
Tina	Greco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WAUCONDA	IL	60084
Kathye	Holcombe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSON	GA	30233

Connie	Sode	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PERRY	MI	48872
Thomas	Christensen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELAWARE	OH	43015
Phyllis	Scivoletto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORGANVILLE	NJ	7751

Judith	Caron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDNER	MA	1440
Michael	Owings	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CUNNINGHAM	KY	42035
Sheri	Winkel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90066

Jesse	Frank	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10013
Veronica	Villalobos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KULA	HI	96790

Dennis	Scheibe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Comcast has been raising their rates year after year as their service gets more pricey for the same or even less than the same. Their bills are uninterpretable and even when pointing out services that have long been cancelled, they continue to put them in the monthly bill. It\'s time to drop the box and give us the programming that we\'ve paid for. Let us purchase the hardware once, not over and over again and again.	SPRINGFIELD	IL	62704
MICHELLE	BROWNER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PATUXENT RIVER	MD	20670

Cathy	Cole	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DURHAM	NC	27701
Debbie	Spensley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLOOMINGTON	IL	61704
Chris	Crowley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PAWCATUCK	CT	6379

Paul	Condarcuri Jr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTFIELD	MA	1085
Valerie	Stone	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARTINEZ	CA	94553
Pat	Howard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEQUIM	WA	98382

Louis	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60620
Traci	Edgell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VANCOUVER	WA	98682
Sara	T	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch the shows that they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90041

Melonie	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60639
David	Morse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OSSINING	NY	10562
Brenda	McCorkle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASTLE ROCK	WA	98611

Nicholas	Prendergast	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARNERVILLE	NY	10923
Llovana	Guerrero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL PASO	TX	79927
Peter	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH JUDSON	IN	46366

Rebecca	Thomas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERLOO	IA	50701
Mauro	Labuto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOCA RATON	FL	33428
Patrice	Palmer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89128

Joannah	Whitney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENFIELD	MA	1301
Calviette	Dukes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EAST SAINT LOUIS	IL	62204
Jenny	Miles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONGMONT	CO	80501

Rob	Todd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDLAND	MI	48640
Lori	MILLER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHTABULA	OH	44004
Joshua	Willis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DES MOINES	IA	50317

Sean	Osborn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19154
Jose daniel	barranco	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MECCA	CA	92254
Ben	Kent	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRAINERD	MN	56401

Tony	Howell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RALEIGH	NC	27606
Heather	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78261
Scott	Charlton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	THOMASTON	ME	4861

Michael	Freiwald	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GOLDEN	CO	80401
Heather	Baum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 or MORE per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BETHLEHEM	PA	16242
Rebecca	Orme	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELMIRA	NY	14904

Sally	Biddle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT VERNON	OH	43050
Jessica	McNeil	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STAFFORD	VA	22554
Cliff	Thrift	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORMAN	OK	73072

Patricia	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERLOO	IA	50703
Missy	Houghtlin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77018
william	perry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEVERLY	WV	26253

Gretchen	Alston	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILADELPHIA	PA	19147
John	Sharpe	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78254
Deb	Clawson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	STEVENSVILLE	MI	49127

Ron	Oshea	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIXVILLE	PA	19460
Deane	Widgren	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRAVERSE CITY	MI	49686
Deane	Widgren	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TRAVERSE CITY	MI	49686

bill	Callaway	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Why is it if we want their service we gotta pay for their equipment? I mean if they want us to have the service shouldn\'t it come with it and be ripped off by renting something we never actually own!	PEKIN	IL	61554
Ashley	Elkington	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIVERTON	UT	84065

Joseph	Razak	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLEASANT VALLEY	NY	12569
Jesus	Diaz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AURORA	IL	60505
Jason	Romer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAWTHORNE	NJ	7506

Rolando	Moreira	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROADVIEW	IL	60155
Danielle	Nobles	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLANO	TX	75074
Craig	Dixon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ADA	OK	74820

Joel	ramos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAR ROCKAWAY	NY	11691
Lynn	Gipe	I am the widow of a veteran, not that that would make any difference. The cable monotony with the continuing price increases have forced me to only carry internet. My wages haven\'t kept up with the frequent price increases. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what we want. I don\'t want or need 148 channels, but I would like to watch the local news and maybe PBS, History or Discovery for less than $100 a month. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHILLIPS	NE	68865

Kimberlain	Marrero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10464
Yolanda	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32277
Cameron	Woods	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDMOND	OK	73034

JeniLou	Lambert	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34470
Ian	Horahan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOMS RIVER	NJ	8753
Tina	Wallace	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55110

Vicki	Trottier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WOODBURY	VT	5681
Dillon	Wu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOBOKEN	NJ	7030
Sheryl	Treder	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCONOMOWOC	WI	53066

Adam	Shafer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW HAVEN	VT	5472
Brian	Lamm	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANKATO	MN	56003
Richard	Powell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCALA	FL	34470

Robert	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MESA	AZ	85213
Margaret	Carleton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ITHACA	NY	14850
Margaret	Carleton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ITHACA	NY	14850

Abid	Ghafoor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUGAR LAND	TX	77479
Georgette	Curbelo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44109

Robert	Garcia	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. If you don\'t comply, we\'re skipping all of you and going directly to the source ie: HBONow, Shotime, Netflix.... Yeah it\'s happening.	MESA	AZ	85213
John	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EDMOND	OK	73012

anthony	benasutti	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DAYTON	OH	45431
Aaron	Bennett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89101
Shanelle	Boluyt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHELSEA	MI	48118

Robin	Wuillamey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIDGECREST	CA	93555
Charles	Malin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37211
Thomas	Belcher	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OXNARD	CA	93030

Charles	Malin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NASHVILLE	TN	37211
Tim	Coyle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUSTIN	TX	78741
Glenn	Frazier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUR LAKE	TX	77659

mary	Schneider	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWENSBORO	KY	42303
Richard	Sexton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JONESBOROUGH	TN	37659
Brandon	Gchachu	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ANCHORAGE	AK	99504

Robert	Schroeter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DULUTH	GA	30096
Amber	Elftmann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JOSHUA TREE	CA	92252
Jack	Stout	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78233

Amy	Nowak	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH HOLLYWO(	CA	91602
Erik	Vogel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALENCIA	CA	91354
Randy	Sellnow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANKATO	MN	56001

Selena	Zupsic	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15224
Robert	Wesoloski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85085
Rebecca	Rubin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FELTON	CA	95018

William	Fuellner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN	CO	80909
Annette	Foster	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HASLETT	MI	48840
missy	mahar	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTFIELD	MA	1085

Douglas	Walsh	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BISMARCK	ND	58501
Phil	Matthews	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	9i301
Robin	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING	TX	77386

scottie	pickering	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENEVILLE	TN	37743
Kathryn	Diaz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST GROVE	PA	19390
Chanell	Voss	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WASHINGTO	MD	20744

Shari	Crimmins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98405
Patrick	Bell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	TN	38401
Gina	DeFeo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PROVIDENCE	RI	2909

David	Mazo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63125
Nikki	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIGH POINT	NC	27265
Chuck	Riggins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	QUINTON	OK	74561

Shane	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOBERLY	MO	65270
Amber	Guy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30349
Paul	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46236

gloria	powell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPARTANBURG	SC	29301
andre	moten	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOLINGBROOK	IL	60440
Pamela	Irvin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HIAWATHA	KS	66434

Mason	Perryman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA PINE	OR	97739
Trish	Roudebush	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERSBUR(	FL	33714
Teri	Kimmons-Struck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98109

Daniel	Bryan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIALANTIC	FL	32903
Sam	Berry	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT HOLLY	NJ	8060
Rebecca J	Turnage	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OCEAN SPRINGS	MS	39566

Daniel	Bloxsom	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN MATEO	CA	94404
Michael	Stutzman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANISTEE	MI	49660
Chad	Coffman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	TN	37323

Travis	Phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LUMMI ISLAND	WA	98262
dori	myers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78229
Sunshine	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVENTRY	RI	2816

Jean	Conway	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENFIELD	MA	1301
Max	Pekarsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67226
SARAH	Woodward	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELYRIA	OH	44035

John	Edwards	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COVENTRY	RI	2816
Lucia	Stakkestad	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98116
George	Gainer, Jr.	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEESVILLE	LA	71446

Pamela	Wilson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MI	48880
Evan	Helseth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DIAMOND BAR	CA	91765
Daniel	Locurto	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BAY SHORE	NY	11706

LANITA	WALKER	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60620
RICKY	Wright	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT SIMONS ISL/	GA	31522
joy	dirienzo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENO	NV	89502

Raime	Gannon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95815
Susy	Lundquist	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PAUL	MN	55110
Julia	Wagner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	PA	17603

Marquita	Robinson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW ORLEANS	LA	70125
Marc	Wartenberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MEDFORD	NJ	8055
Tammy	Galpin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUEBLO	CO	81007

Margaret	Anderson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICO	CA	95928
Lena	Heflin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAYSVILLE	KS	67060
Fred	Sweeney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOYERTOWN	PA	19512

tanya	claydon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WESTLAND	MI	48186
Nathan	Rolofson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEVUE	NE	68147
Angela	George	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DARIEN	GA	31305

Luca	Barton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92131
Kimberly	Storey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUYALLUP	WA	98375
Brandon	Steffy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YOUNGWOOD	PA	15697

Michele Jaye	Solomon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT PROSPECT	IL	60056
Thomas	Poplaski	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINCHESTER	VA	22601
Tomas	Nava	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVERTON	OR	97008

Ramon	Moya	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHEYENNE	WY	82007
Rachael	Phipps	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	MO	63379
Mike	Graham	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COPPERAS COVE	TX	76522

Isaac	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YUMA	AZ	85364
Paul	Hood	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98146
Colleen	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GEORGETOWN	CO	80444

Isaac	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YUMA	AZ	85364
Andrea	Clark	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98121
Steven	Herron	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ASHLAND	OH	44805

Juliette	Gaitan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BETHESDA	MD	20814
Bruce	Cayes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FT MITCHELL	KY	41017
Pamela	Zarzeck	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	IL	62294

Yolon	Fourreaux	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPRING	TX	77379
Rocky	Davis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CROWN POINT	IN	46307
cris	Phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97230

Rosa	Bautista	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLAINFIELD	IL	60586
Christopher	Richardson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CLEVELAND	OH	44102
Robert	Hill	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SIERRA VISTA	AZ	85635

Marc	Cooper	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTHFIELD	MI	48034
Susan	Keil	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64152
Mara	Pandolfo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11201

Beth	McCalister	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YOUNGSTOWN	NY	14174
Carras	Villa	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PALMYRA	VA	22963
Farzana	Ahmed	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAMTRAMCK	MI	48212

Wesley	Heuermann	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PEORIA HEIGHTS	IL	61616
Lisa	Bondy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIALANTIC	FL	32903
Sue	Kartman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FIFIELD	WI	54524

Jason	Roy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	NC	28409
Taylor	Aslin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CROWLEY	TX	76036
Ann	Mulvey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BLAINE	WA	98230

Benjamin	Potser	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSDALE	PA	19446
Kory	Brandon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRIDGE CITY	TX	77611
Todd	Hurst	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENWOOD SPRIN	CO	81601

Summer	Hepworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST JORDAN	UT	84081
Anna	Fowler	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT COLLINS	CO	80521
James	Denton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89128

WENDY	VAZ	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OVIEDO	FL	32765
Betty	Beard	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT LOUIS	MO	63123
Daniel	Critchfield	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	.

Kenon	Krapf	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT AIRY	MD	21771
Erin	Crouse	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	YORK SPRINGS	PA	17372
Kacie	Cornelison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHERMAN	TX	75092

Emily	McAllister	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLYMOUTH	MI	48170
Kathleen	Cox	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	AUGUSTA	GA	30907
Dannie	Perdomo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ERIE	PA	16509

Michelle	Ponist	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FAIRLESS HILLS	PA	19030
Joseph	Arrigo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PANAMA CITY BEA	FL	32413
Robert	Busby	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CASSELBERRY	FL	32707

Adrian	Simo	Cable boxes and packages are bogus. We should also be able to pay for the channels we do/don\'t want. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33175
Christina	Cortez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78204

Rick	Holzworth	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JACKSONVILLE	FL	32246
Lydia	Parris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW BRITAIN	CT	6053
Linda	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98115

Jamie Lynn	Guy-Ostrowski	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA PLACE	LA	70068
leticia	huerta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALINAS	CA	93906
Sarah	Norton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOTSYLVANIA	VA	22551

leticia	huerta	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALINAS	CA	93906
konoa	Wills	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELAWARE	OH	43015
Jeanne	Kennedy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLANO	TX	75074

Cory	Turcotte	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GARDENA	CA	90248
Tea	Vandi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOS ANGELES	CA	90046
Christina	Wills	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELAWARE	OH	43015

Tim	Kelly	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Unlock the box and give us a\'la carter ordering!!!!	DAVENPORT	IA	52806
FLORENTINO	PASCUAL	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ENGLEWOOD	NJ	7631
David	McLure	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHREWSBURY	MA	1545

KENNA	NICHOLS	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANDUSKY	OH	44870
Karla	Ball	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHINGTON	DC	20020
Frank	Misla	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10475

konoa	Wills	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DELAWARE	OH	43015
Robert	Chavez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELEN	NM	87002
Melanie	Munro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97303

Todd	Gallen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ELKTON	MD	21921
Robert	Chavez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELEN	NM	87002
Debra	Payne	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL DORADO	KS	67042

		American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts upcablemprofits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.
Jordan	Barrett	Stop ripping us off	NOBLESVILLE	IN	46062
Jami	Backer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREENE	IA	50636
Andrew	Eisenberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOYNTON BEACH	FL	33473

Jennifer	Lemke	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT SCOTT	KS	66701
Glauco	De Freitas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI BEACH	FL	33139
Krista	Carter	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT VERNON	WA	98273

Diane	Denney	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NOBLESVILLE	IN	46062
John	Parker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOVELAND	CO	80538
k	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10027

MARK	OFFERMAN	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	10038
Paula	Gooding	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98102
Hyang Eun	Shoenberger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TOPANGA	CA	90290

Amanda	Gordon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	INDIANAPOLIS	IN	46234
Jeff	Neal	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANITE BAY	CA	95746
Miriam	Nagle	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PENNSYLVANIA FU	PA	16865

Jasey	DePriest	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT PETERS	MO	63376
Ron	Shedd	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALPENA	MI	49707
Renee	Brennan	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FARMINGTON	MI	48336

Sheryl	Ellis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SALEM	OR	97305
Tomasita	Battiato	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80230
Brad	Silverlight	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TAMPA	FL	33624

Keith	Thornton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FORT WORTH	TX	76137
Danny	Smith	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KANSAS CITY	MO	64133
jenny	slocum	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WALNUT CREEK	CA	94596

Allison	Hofstedt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	5.5E+07
Mike	Thomson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREEN BAY	WI	54303
Mary	Lamaak	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PUEBLO	CO	81004

Tina	Osburn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VACAVILLE	CA	95687
Jesse	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HICKORY HILLS	IL	60457
Jodie	Delgado	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PONTIAC	MI	48340

Bobbie	Beall	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEDFORD	PA	15522
Heidi	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EL CAJON	CA	92019
Vaughan	Gendelman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SHERMAN OAKS	CA	91423

Ben	Shapiro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	JAMESVILLE	NY	13078
Tim	Nordman	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAINT CHARLES	MO	63301
Kim	Riccitiello	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN JOSE	CA	95126

Daniel	Munoz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WINTER SPRINGS	FL	32708
Angela	Paradis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GRANBY	MA	1033
Ann	Remy	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANGHORNE	PA	19047

Sharon	Farr	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SCHUYLKILL HAVEN	PA	17972
Jidy	Tengberg	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BILLINGS	MT	59105
Kyle	Harvey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WICHITA	KS	67218

Ellen	Tieszen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PLANO	TX	75025
Emmanuel	Echem	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA VERGNE	TN	37086
Cheryl	Mendiola	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOISE	ID	83702

Eric	Hazen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONGVIEW	WA	98632
david	altimier	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	19818
Ed	Dye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATHENS	GA	30606

Diana	Gonzalez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DALLAS	TX	75228
John	Dye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATHENS	GA	30606
Dana	Damiano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DENVER	CO	80210

Carolyne	Krull	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MILLVILLE	NJ	8332
Ashley	Combs	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LEANDER	TX	78641
Elizabeth	Dye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATHENS	GA	30606

Raymond	Romero	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87102
Ej	Dye	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATHENS	GA	30606
Joshua	Perez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN ANTONIO	TX	78252

Scott	Allen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30354
Terry	Lough	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BICKNELL	UT	84715
Shardy	Quinones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT MORRIS	NY	14510

Mark	Riley	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LITTLE ROCK	AR	72202
Katherine	Stewart	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH CLARENDO	VT	5759
Renee	Turner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEWEY	OK	74029

Kristie	Cahoon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST JORDAN	UT	84081
Nick	Mimikopoulos	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22408
Lisa	Leszcz	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKPARK	OH	44142

Elise	Gross	This is a brilliant proposal & should be enacted straight away!! Imagine the innovation this will create! I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EULESS	TX	76039
Ra\'sheen	Turpin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GLENDALE	AZ	85303

Julio	Torres	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	DE	19805
Julie	Carico	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEAVERTON	OR	97007
Phil	Rodriguez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HAUPPAUGE	NY	11788

Chandra	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ATLANTA	GA	30350
Nee	Willis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	93706
Jason	DeGraw	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUREKA	KS	67045

kimberly	tignor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	25232
Klinton	Cruse	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PARSONS	KS	67357
Donald	Adkins	I use Directv because of this and they all only screw people over Sucking Their Wallets Dry. Like Paul Harvey always said, Wake Up America. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OWASSO	OK	74055

Jamie	Phillips	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANCASTER	KY	40444
Lorraine	Chavies	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LANSDOWNE	PA	19050
Ashley	Rogers	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLORADO SPRIN(	CO	80911

Ellen	Slater	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	REDMOND	OR	97756
Tala	Ghadimi	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GAITHERSBURG	MD	20878
Barbara	Bunker	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	53103

Tallie	Jones	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHUGIAK	AK	99567
Regina	Nichols	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GENESEE DEPOT	WI	53127
Sharon	Harris	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	EUCLID	OH	44123

Summer	Guillory	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORT ARTHUR	TX	77642
Robert	Nels	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	POMPANO BEACH	FL	33060
Tiffany	Owen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TEMPE	AZ	85282

Sara	Santos	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BROOKLYN	NY	11215
teresa	hutchison	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GREAT FALLS	MT	59401
Jamie	Wiggins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KNIGHTDALE	NC	27545

Sandra	Fuentes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TUSTIN	CA	92782
Michelle	Zellner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANTA ANA	CA	92703
Jordan	Davidson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAS VEGAS	NV	89146

Petet	Zahorodny	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cab	YUKON	OK	73099
Deborah	DiLuzio	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RIDLEY PARK	PA	19078
Beth	Bunting	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85045

Adrienne	Lewis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60645
Terry	Fields	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIRMINGHAM	AL	35207
Sarah	Segura	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGMAN	AZ	86401

Abel	Del hierro	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDLAND	TX	79703
Deron	Wells	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HACIENDA HEIGHT	CA	91745
Alicia	Arroyo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92105

Ruth	Ridge	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWTON	OK	73505
Juan	Reyes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MACOMB	IL	61455
Cathy	Dapo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALBUQUERQUE	NM	87110

Alisa	Capelli	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RUNNEMEDE	NJ	8078
Jacob	Barrios	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CORONA	NY	11368
Kevin	Wang	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MORENO VALLEY	CA	92555

Charles	DeCurtis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARIETTA	GA	30062
kathy	pederson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT VERNON	WA	98274
Ronald	Burgin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARION	NC	28752

Ron	Hahn	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DUNBAR	WV	25064
Nathan	Scott	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BENTON CITY	WA	99320
Michelle	Martinez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77087

Belinda	Ray	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WASHOUGAL	WA	98671
Michelle	Ver Wey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97224
Mahlon	Lovell	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PHOENIX	AZ	85012

Johanna	Porter	I watch 20 of the 200 channels in the package I have. Why do I have to pay for channels I do not watch? My bill has gone from $84.00 to $130.00 without any explaination. The amount of commercials to programming is about 50/50. In other words, it\'s just about unwatchable... I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLINGHAM	WA	98226
KR	Pierson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99206

Rochele	Gardner	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TACOMA	WA	98422
michael	fuller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW YORK	NY	10014
William	Eklund	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OMAHA	NE	68104

Evelin	Ballinger	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WARREN	MI	48088
Charles	Lynch	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ROSENBERG	TX	77471
Sonia	Fails	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CULPEPER	VA	22701

Christopher	McVay	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WEST LAFAYETTE	OH	43845
Brenda	Vazquez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	OXNARD	CA	93030
Noah	Oyen	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PORTLAND	OR	97232

Christopher	zino	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CANTON	OH	44705
Mike	Dziak	Advertising used to support TV and programs. I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FEDERAL WAY	WA	98023
anthony	ferrer	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LONG BEACH	CA	90810

Christine	Feliciano	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PANORAMA CITY	CA	91402
Nydia	Narvaez	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CROOKSTON	MN	56716
Jeremy	Johnson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LOVELAND	CO	80537

Christene	Kilgore	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LA VERGNE	TN	37086 nikita	Krishnan	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKE IN THE HILLS	IL	60156
Tosca	Hawkins	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	GUERNEVILLE	CA	95446

Valerie	Koelling	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SUMTER	SC	29154
sekyma	sargent	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN BERNARDINO	CA	92407
Glenn	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CALHAN	CO	80808

Rosemarie	Dickel	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIDDLETOWN	NY	10941
Jessie	lopez	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	HOUSTON	TX	77089
Kim	Collings	Please help bring down the cable prices they are aT to high....thank you....I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MOUNT MORRIS	NY	14510

Apryl	Dionne	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SPOKANE	WA	99206
James	cause	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BEVERLY	MA	1915
Sarah	Bailey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NAPLES	FL	34117

Allen	Nesbitt	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MIAMI	FL	33189
Morayma	Yes	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NORTH PORT	FL	34287
Lizbeth	cosme	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKELAND	FL	33801

David	reffruschinni	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MARQUETTE	MI	49855
Maryellen	Miller	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SOUTH PLAINFIELD	NJ	7080
Alex	Chapin	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	PITTSBURGH	PA	15237

David	Snow	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WILMINGTON	NC	28409
Monica	Caouette	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SANFORD	ME	4073
Liz	Olson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BIGFORK	MN	56628

Gloria	DeSimone	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WATERBORO	ME	4087
bryan	brisbin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BUCKNER	MO	64016
Randell	Jesup	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MALVERN	PA	19355

Amie	Luna	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	VALPARAISO	IN	46385
Donna	Collis	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FREDERICKSBURG	VA	22406
Stephanie	Vesey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	COLUMBIA	SC	29205

Stephanie	Twine Haig	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	WORCESTER	MA	1602
Coreen	hutcherson	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAGUNA BEACH	CA	92651
Jeff	Herndon	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHATSWORTH	GA	30705

Amy	Laird	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LIVERMORE	CA	94551
Joelle	Craft	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SEATTLE	WA	98106
Elizabeth	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92104

Michael	Ross	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	#N/A	#N/A	80918
Josep	Barton	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	TROY	NY	12180
Latisha	Taylor	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAWRENCEVILLE	GA	30043

cheryl	Leandri	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	KINGSTON	PA	18704
Renee	Owens	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BELLEFONTE	PA	16823
William	Godsey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92116

Karl	Kline	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box. Locally, COX cable announced they are going "all digital" and touted this as a great improvement. Turns out, it\'s a great improvement that will cost me an additional $7 to $21 a month to access channels I used to get for free. This isn\'t improvement. It\'s extortion.	SAN DIEGO	CA	92116
Terry	Bailey	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	DEBARY	FL	32713

T	Beltram	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	SACRAMENTO	CA	95831
julee	bennett	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	FLETCHER	NC	28732
Karen	Martin	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	RENO	NV	89503

Ralph	Castronuovo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MANASQUAN	NJ	8736
Mary	Weydener	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	MADISON HEIGHTS	MI	48071
Carson	Clayton	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOWLING GREEN	KY	42101

Carson	Clayton	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOWLING GREEN	KY	42101
Carson	Clayton	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BOWLING GREEN	KY	42101
Cynthia	Wegner	EndI support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch what they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	ALEXANDRIA	VA	22315

Craig	Bohling	American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to rent a set top box from the cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits. Consumers should have the power to choose their own device. Competition will lowers prices and increase access to new streaming content and diverse voices. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	NEW HARTFORD	NY	13413
William	Shiminsky	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CENTER MORICHES	NY	11934
Carlos	Collazo	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	BRONX	NY	10456

Christopher	Villegas	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	LAKEWOOD	CA	90715
John	Williams	I support efforts to #UnlockTheBox and cut costs for consumers. The cable box monopoly hurts innovation and makes it harder for Americans to watch they want. American consumers pay an average of $231 per year to lease a cable box from cable monopolies. This hurts competition, limits consumer choice, and lifts up cable profits while holding back the future from American living rooms. Cable companies shouldn\'t be able to block what consumers see on their TV. We need more innovation and more diverse voices, and we urge the FCC and Congress to Unlock The Box.	CHICAGO	IL	60621