Re: CC Docket No 99-68

I keep hearing that the FCC is considering seriously allowing a per minute charge for internet use. If this happens I will have to severely limit my access to the net which has provided me with information and opinion I can not get otherwise - at least not in such a convenient format.

I also know that schools who are connecting their students with the valuable educational resource that is the net will have to limit usage. As a retired teacher who realizes the value of the net — and school finance problems — I think a per minute charge would cause great hardship and limit the net's educational use by very many.

Please no tax on internet use

Sincerely,

John H Moe
