4163 ¶ 427. Nevertheless, CLECs have captured a significant share of the market in each of the application states. See Teitzel Decl. at notes 66-69 and accompanying charts. Qwest estimates CLEC market share in each state, as of April 30, 2002, as follows: Montana – between 5.9 and 10.1 percent; Utah – between 20.7 and 24.8 percent; Washington – between 20.2 and 20.9 percent; and Wyoming – between 11.6 and 15.1 percent. Id.

Because these estimates were calculated, in part, using the same methodology used by SBC, they can be compared to the market shares that existed in Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma when the FCC granted SBC's Section 271 applications for those states. In each of the application states, there has been comparable or greater entry than existed in Oklahoma

Note: Qwest maintains information regarding each ported number but does not have tracking information in any retail or wholesale service database identifying ported numbers as being used for business or residential purposes. In an effort to determine the business/residential split of the ported numbers in service, Qwest has compared each of the ported numbers (as of April 30, 2002) with the listings in the white pages database (as of June 19, 2002) to determine whether these listings are in the business or residential sections of the white pages database. It is important to note that only a subset of all ported numbers will appear in the white pages database, since many telephone numbers are not listed.
