Chairman Powell

Dear Sir

We are writing to urge you to vote against any effort to allow passengers on airplanes to use cellular phones.

It is bad enough to be crammed into an uncomfortable seat in the "main cabin" for 3 or 4 hours with babies crying. But, add to this the steady chattering of passengers talking on their cellular phones it will be bedlam

Please take pity on those of us who are traveling for "pleasure" not business

Respectfully,

Mr & Jeanne Dittman

Dear Sir:

I am a frequent flyer. I have heard there will be cell phones allowed on planes.

I hate this idea - I don't want to have my thoughts & relaxation interferred with while on a flight. This is a significant problem and shouldn't be imitated.

Thank you -

Dorothy M. Stevens

Re: cell phone use on Airline

Last year we had to put up a sign banning cell-phone use where I work..... too many people telling other people to stop talking so loud, stop personal + business conversations that those around you don't care about. We thought people would come to blows on a number of occasions. There is enough stress and yes, rage, for people who are flying! Do you want more in such a cramped environment? Please, no cellphones on airplane. Thank you - Susan Travers
