Rebuke _nailed_ to a door.

by CurtisNeeley, Jan 29, 2013, 3:15:53 PM
Journals / Personal

Google Inc and Microsoft Personnel through the respective counselors,
United States and FCC, through respective counselors,

The Copy[rite] Act of 1790 was ruled not to protect human rights in 1843. The Copy[rite] Act has NEVER protected civil rights for humans in the United States. The Copy[rite] Act of 1976 was considered an entirely new Copy[rite] regime by most and attempted to make the US ritual or HOAX more closely emulate the fundamental human rights the rest of the developing nations on Earth were accepting. 1976 was when 47 USC §107 was passed though immediately unconstitutional due to vagueness. The entire HOAX called copy[rite] in the United States has been unconstitutional on its face since created and remains unconstitutional now.

The Copy[rite] Act of 1790 was created to protect a subclass of the population and affected only this subclass. This HOAX gave those with higher intellectual abilities special government protection for their creative genius and remains a HOAX to this
