

G. David Carter | Member
david.carter@innovistalaw.com
RICHMOND: 804.729.0052
WASHINGTON: 202.869.1502

October 1, 2018

VIA ECFS

Marlene H. Dortch
Office of the Secretary
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20554

Re: Notice of Ex Parte
In the Matter of Updating the Intercarrier Compensation Regime to Eliminate Access Arbitrage, WC Docket No. 18-155

Dear Ms. Dortch:

On October 1, 2018, Ronald Laudner and Jeff Roiland, the CEOs of OmniTel Communications and BTC, Inc. d/b/a Western Iowa Networks, respectively (collectively the “CLECs”), and Gary Blosser, co-founder of the Amish and Mennonite Conference Line, met with Commissioner Michael O’Rielly to discuss matters related to the above-referenced proceeding. Myself and my colleague, John Nelson, also attended as the CLECs’ counsel. The presentation attached as Exhibit A was used during the discussion.

During the meeting we focused primarily on the developments in the Access Stimulation NPRM Docket that have occurred since our prior meeting with the Commissioner on August 15, 2018. Those developments include: (1) the findings and conclusions reached in the Expert Report of Dr. Daniel E. Ingberman; (2) the 750-plus comments filed by consumers thus far supporting access stimulation and free conferencing services; and (3) the benefits free conference calls provide to discreet, minority groups like the Amish and Mennonite communities spread across the United States.

In summarizing the Expert Report of Dr. Daniel E. Ingberman (attached hereto as Exhibit B), I noted Dr. Ingberman’s important economic analysis regarding the access stimulation regime, including his conclusion that the current regime: (1) does not harm consumers; (2) is efficient; and (3) will not become more efficient by imposing new regulations or reallocating access stimulation traffic away from the access-stimulating CLECs. I also reiterated that Dr. Ingberman and the CLECs would be happy to conduct further economic analyses if the Commission requests from the IXC and CEA providers the data and evidence that we have recommended the Commission seek.

We then discussed a few of the 750-plus comments filed by consumers in the Docket thus far, which collectively show that free conference calls provide numerous benefits to citizens nationwide, including Veterans, minority communities, and those involved in twelve-step addiction support programs. Mr. Laudner reiterated this point, explaining how OmniTel

Communications has developed Veteran support conference lines that allow Veterans to talk to each other, doctors, and mental health professionals about post-service-related issues and how free conference lines are also an important mode of communication during and after national emergencies, such as pandemics or terrorist attacks. Mr. Blosser provided Commissioner O'Rielly with an overview of how free conferencing services support minority groups like America's Amish and Mennonite populations, who use free conferencing services to not only relay daily news updates, healthcare services, natural disaster updates, and religious services, but also as a way to retain and pass on the Amish and Mennonite history and the Pennsylvania German language. In making these points, Mr. Blosser referenced sections of German Language: Cradle of Our Heritage, by Amos B. Hoover (attached hereto as Exhibit C), wherein the Amish and Mennonite Conference Line and the effect the service has on preserving the Amish and Mennonite history and language is discussed.

I again expressed the CLECs' concern about the fact that many allegations were made in the NPRM that are not supported by current evidence contained in the record and that the Commission has not yet issued any data requests to the long-distance carriers or CEA providers. I reminded Commissioner O'Rielly about the IXC and CEA provider data requests proposed by the CLECs (attached hereto as Exhibit D) and reiterated the CLECs' request that the Commission issue those or similar data requests.

Pursuant to Section 1.1206 of the Commission's rules,¹ a copy of this letter is being filed via the Commission's electronic comment filing system ("ECFS"). If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

G. David Carter

cc: Commissioner O'Rielly
John C. Nelson, Jr., Esq.

¹ 47 C.F.R. § 1.1206.