Re: Request for Potential Boundary Change to Serve Individuals Requesting Service from West River Telephone Cooperative

West River Telecommunications Cooperative (WRT) has received requests for broadband service from eight individuals (ten locations) residing close, but just outside of our exchange boundaries in North Dakota. These individuals are currently in areas served by CenturyLink but do not receive broadband access from CenturyLink. WRT is ready to proceed with constructing facilities and provide service to these individuals conditioned upon approval by both the North Dakota Commission and the FCC, and adequate cost recovery for those facilities.

Given the high cost to serve these locations, a business case to do so cannot be made without federal high cost universal service support. In order to receive federal high cost universal service support, WRT must file and the FCC must grant a petition for a study area waiver.

One of the FCC standards for evaluating petitions for a study area waiver is that the state commission having regulatory authority over the transferred exchanges does not object to the transfer. WRT provides the information on the attached for the Commission's consideration.

Sincerely,

Troy Schilling

West River Telecommunication Cooperative (WRT) has received requests for service at the locations identified on the attached maps. CenturyLink has agreed to release these areas to WRT if an exchange boundary change is approved by the Commission and by the FCC. The exchange boundaries that would be modified are Mandan (CenturyLink)/St. Anthony (WRT) and Morristown (CenturyLink)/Elgin (WRT) as set forth on the attached map.

The following individuals have requested services from WRT at the locations identified on the map: [REDACTED]

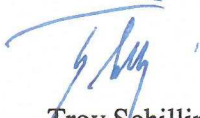

A major consideration for WRT is whether we will receive adequate cost recovery for the transferred lines. It is also important to note there could likely be two separate paths at the FCC in determining whether an exchange area boundary is granted. There is likely to be a separate process for those locations in CAF II auction census blocks and one for those locations outside of CAF II census blocks.

In order to serve locations within the CAF Phase II census blocks, the FCC could require WRT to participate in the CAF Phase II auction. If WRT participates in the CAF Phase II auction and wins, WRT would be required to serve additional locations beyond those identified above. The cost of participating in the auction and serving additional locations may cause WRT to reconsider serving those locations. The locations not in the CAF Phase II census blocks will be subject to the FCC's study area waiver process.

WRT requests conditional approval to serve the locations identified above.

Please call me to discuss any questions you may have.

Sincerely,

Troy Schilling CEO/GM
West River Telecommunications Cooperative

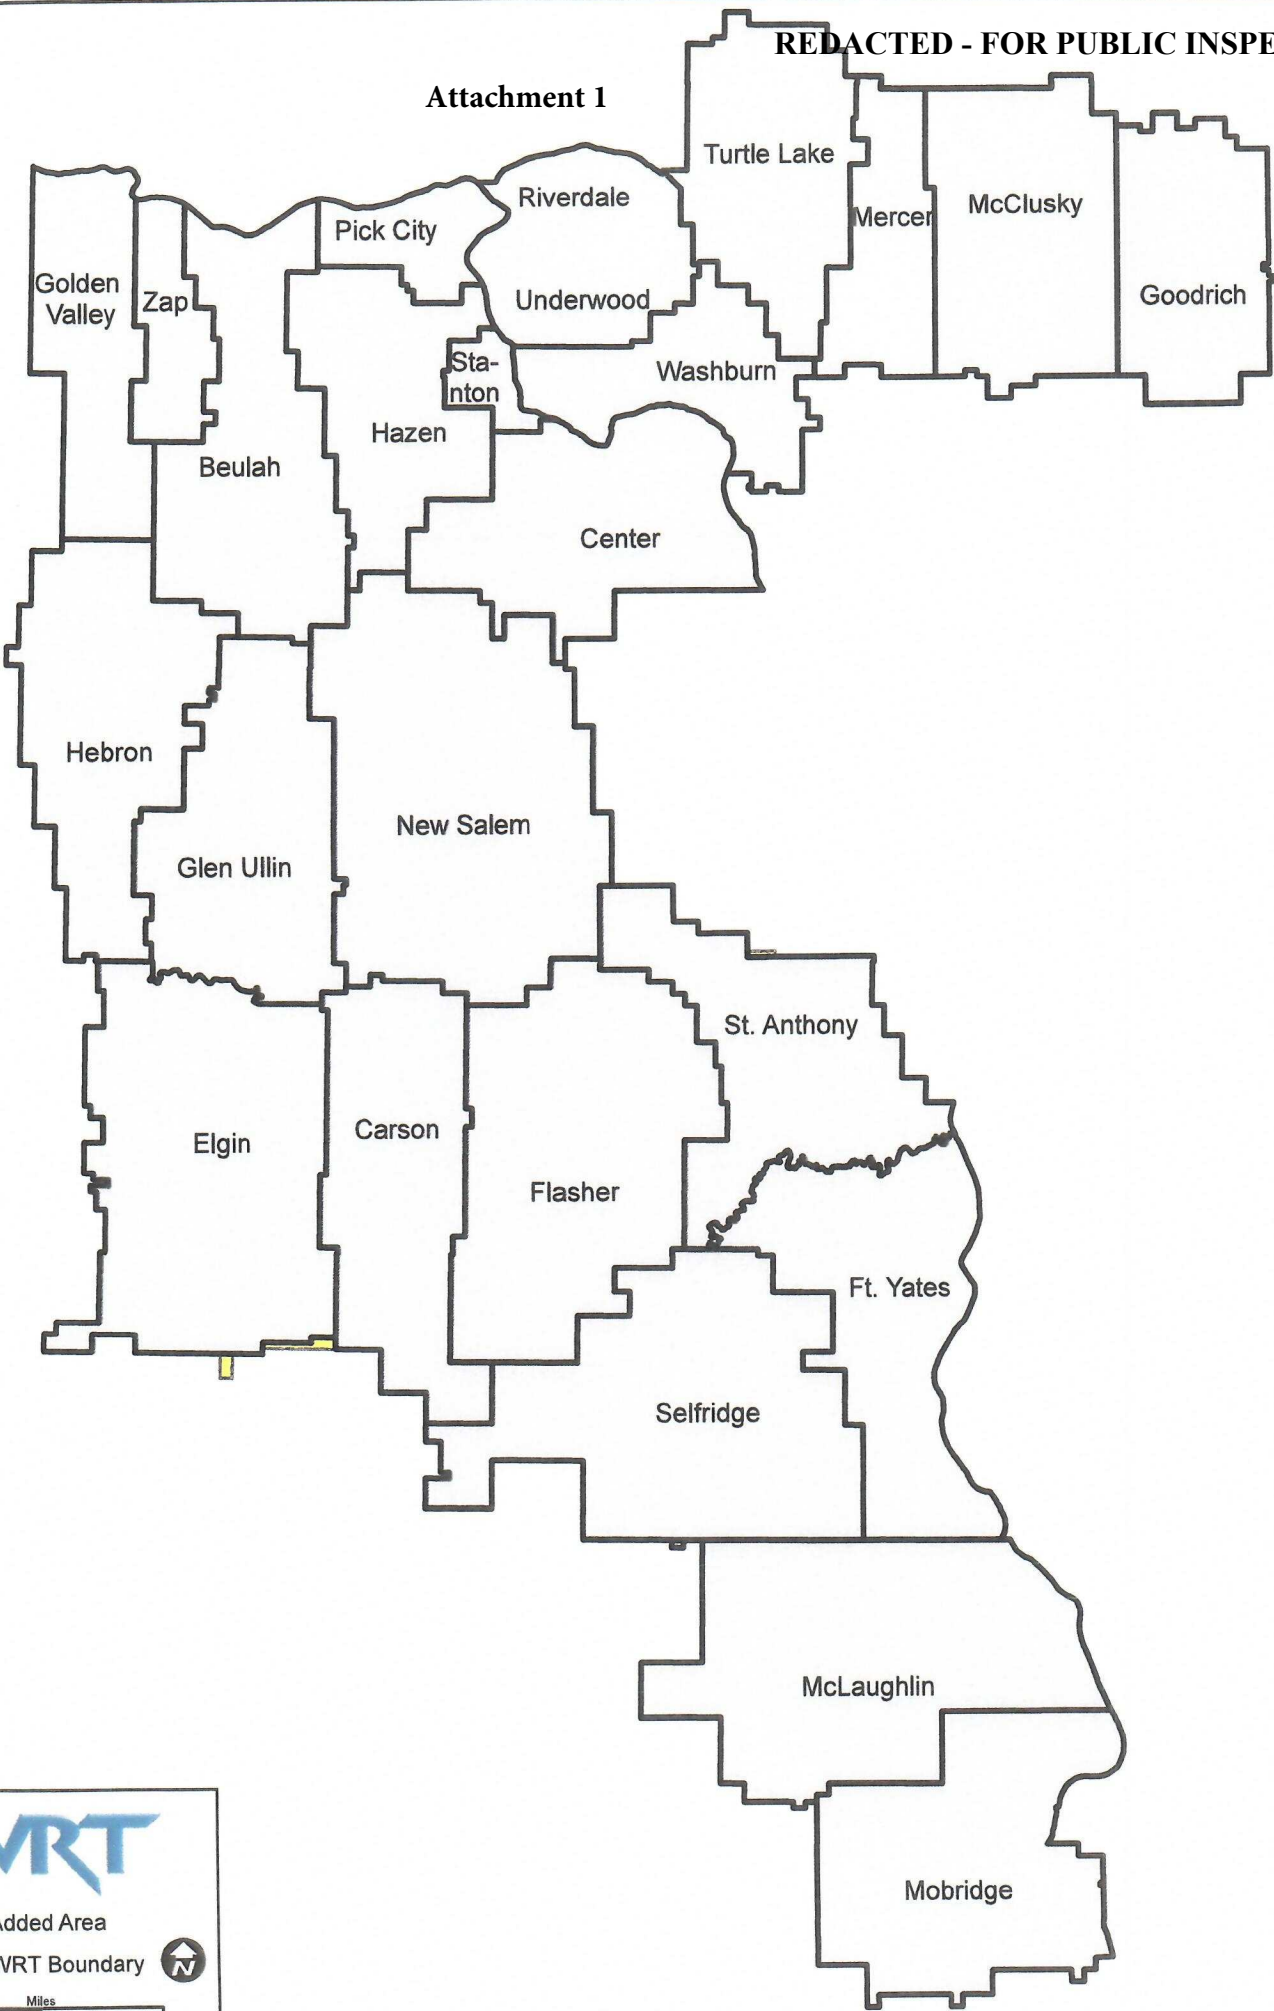

CenturyLink hereby concurs with the boundary change as indicated above.

Sincerely,

Exchange Boundary Agreement

Request for Potential Boundary Change to Serve Individuals Requesting Service from West River Telephone Cooperative

Dear Mr. Schilling:

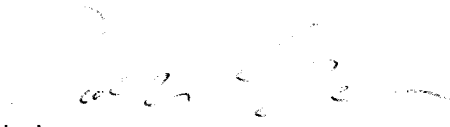

The North Dakota Public Service Commission (Commission) received a March 14, 2018 letter from West River Telecommunications Cooperative (WRT) requesting conditional approval to modify the Mandan (CenturyLink)/St. Anthony (WRT) and Morristown (CenturyLink)/Elgin (WRT) exchange boundaries. CenturyLink concurred with the boundary changes in the letter and identified with the attached maps.

Enclosed is the Commission Motion to approve the boundary effective upon the receipt of written notification satisfying the following condition precedent: "[R]eceipt by the Commission of written notification from West River Telecommunications Cooperative that Federal Universal support to West River Telecommunications will be adequate for the added service area and end user subscribers."

If WRT consents to Commission approval of the motion, please sign and return the Consent form attached below. Please feel free to contact the Commission with any questions.
