TeleGuam Holdings, LLC

Summary Report of Customer Complaints Regarding Release of CPNI for 2017

Pursuant to 47 C.F.R. § 64.2009(e), TeleGuam Holdings, LLC (“GTA”), a provider of voice, broadband and video, hereby submits the following summary of an incident which involved the inadvertent unauthorized release of customer information to individuals that were not the account holder which GTA believed might be considered a CPNI breach, and the actions that GTA took to resolve the situation.

Customers of GTA were sent notices via a third-party vendor who used customer mailing address information provided by GTA. Notices were to advise customers of rate increases for Internet and TV services effective January 1, 2018. Due to an inadvertent error by the vendor, the name on envelopes did not match the name on letter. Accordingly, customer information related to the customers’ broadband and video services was inadvertently released to individuals that were not the account holder. Approximately 1,300 customers were affected. GTA via vendor sent out notices to affected customers advising them of error. Out of an abundance of caution that a CPNI breach had occurred, GTA filed a notice of customer breach in the Data Breach Reporting Portal maintained by law enforcement. The response provided by law enforcement was that the information had been received and reviewed and “no further action is being taken.”
