In the Matter of: Nomination for Universal Service Administrative Company Board of Directors,
CC Docket 97-21 and 96-45

Dear Chairman Pai:

On behalf the Association of Educational Service Agencies (AESAs), we write today to urge you to appoint Joan H. Wade, Ed.D. to the Universal Service Administrative Company (USAC) Board of Directors as the representative for schools that are eligible to receive discounts, a position being vacated by Brian Talbott and pursuant to § 54.501. We greatly appreciate the opportunity to submit this nomination. As the elected officers of AESA, representing our national membership organization, we are proud to support the nomination of our executive director and all that she has to offer USAC and the Universal Service Fund programs, especially E-Rate and the millions of school children it serves across the county.

Dr. Wade currently serves as the Executive Director for the Association of Educational Service Agencies, a professional organization serving educational service agencies (ESAs) in 45 states. AESA's regional agencies support more than 80 percent of the nation's schools, both public and private; more than 80 percent of certified teachers; more than 80 percent of all students. Dr. Wade came to AESA after a career in education spanning more than three decades, including service as a classroom teacher, library media specialist, district technology coordinator, and administrator. She has a proven track record in education, leadership and public service, a unique combination that would be a tremendous asset to the Board and the entire Universal Service Program. Her direct link to the nation's school systems—public and private—are a critical continuity when it comes to ensuring the voice of our nation's schools and the students they serve are appropriately represented.

In her work with us at AESA, Dr. Wade is committed the belief that lifelong learning, founded on evidence based practices, leads to continuous improvement for all learners. Our nation's success and growth depends on that of our students, and a key element of lifelong learning in today's increasingly connected world is adequate, affordable and appropriate internet access, especially in the school and library setting. E-Rate is the federal program that single handedly led the way in helping to transform telecommunications connectivity in schools and libraries across the nation.

Prior to her work at AESA and in addition to her work as an educator, Dr. Wade has extensive committee service experience that will be relevant to and supportive of her role on USAC. She has served on various statewide committees, including the first statewide broadband committee (it eventually became the TEACH board); the Wisconsin Association of Distance Education Networks; and the Wisconsin Education Technology Board (WETB). During her time as an elected State Representative, she served on the committee that set policies in place for legislators to have access to technology (laptops) on the floor of the state assembly and on the committee that recommended and approved live streaming during legislative floor periods (now known as WisconsinEye). As the administrator for CESA 6, she was appointed to the BadgerNet Converged Network (BCN) Advisory Committee and served as the Chairperson for that committee in 2005, a committee membership she retained for more than ten years.
