JOINT PETITION FOR WAIVER

Pursuant to Section 1.3 of the rules of the Federal Communications Commission (“FCC” or “Commission”),¹ Reservation Telephone Cooperative (“RTC”) and Qwest Corporation d/b/a CenturyLink QC (“CenturyLink”) (collectively, “Petitioners”) hereby request a waiver of the Commission’s study area boundary freeze codified in the Appendix-Glossary of Part 36 of FCC rules.² Petitioners seek waiver to expand the RTC Alexander exchange in the state of North Dakota to include North Dakota portions of the CenturyLink Fairview and Sidney exchanges. Petitioners also request waiver of Section 69.3(e)(11) of the Commission’s rules in order that RTC may participate in the National Exchange Carrier Association, Inc. (“NECA”) tariff pool upon closing of the transaction.

² 47 C.F.R. Part 36 Appendix (“Study Area. Study area boundaries shall be frozen as they are on November 15, 1984.”)

I. INTRODUCTION AND SUMMARY

RTC is a rate-of-return cost incumbent local exchange carrier (“ILEC”) that owns and operates approximately 8,610 access lines and 4,035 data only lines in 20 exchanges throughout northwestern North Dakota, Study Area Code 381632. CenturyLink is a price cap ILEC that operates in 26 North Dakota exchanges, Study Area Code 385144, including rural North Dakota portions of the Fairview and Sidney exchanges that are adjacent to the RTC Alexander exchange. RTC has received six (6) requests for service in the rural North Dakota Sidney exchange, and CenturyLink has agreed to release to RTC the requesting customers as well as the portions of the Fairview and Sidney exchanges identified on the map provided at Exhibit A. In addition, RTC anticipates up to 34 additional requests for service in the coming weeks. The new RTC study area boundary will extend approximately six (6) miles west, and approximately 16 miles north and south, to be incorporated into the existing RTC Alexander exchange.

The six (6) requesting customers, four (4) residential households and two (2) school locations, currently receive voice service from CenturyLink. However, no CenturyLink network assets will be transferred to RTC. Instead, RTC will overbuild facilities to serve customers in the expanded Alexander exchange areas with voice and broadband services.

II. WAIVER STANDARD

In general, the FCC’s rules may be waived for good cause shown.³ Waiver is appropriate where the “particular facts would make strict compliance inconsistent with the public interest.”⁴ The FCC may grant a waiver of its rules where the requested relief would not undermine the policy objective of the rule in question, special circumstances warrant a deviation from the general rule, and such deviation will serve the public interest.⁵

Part 36 of the Commission’s rules which freezes study area boundaries effective November 15, 1984 is intended to prevent ILECs from establishing separate study areas made up only of high-cost exchanges to maximize their receipt of high-cost universal service support. The Commission adopted a two-prong standard for evaluating petitions for study area waiver: (1) the state commission having regulatory authority over the transferred exchanges does not object to the transfer and (2) the transfer must be in the public interest.⁶

III. WAIVER IS JUSTIFIED

A. State Commission Does Not Object to Transfer of Exchange

On November 20, 2018, the North Dakota Public Service Commission (“ND PSC”) approved Petitioners’ joint application to modify serving territories whereby the ND PSC approved the change in exchange boundaries between RTC’s Alexander exchange and CenturyLink’s Sidney and Fairview exchanges (see Exhibit B, ND PSC Motion and Amended Certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity).

B. Expansion of the RTC Study Area is in the Public Interest

1. Number of Lines at Issue

The existing CenturyLink access lines in the expanded RTC Alexander exchange total approximately 40 lines. These customers receive voice service only from CenturyLink over aging facilities that require frequent maintenance, with virtually no broadband service available. RTC is prepared to construct new facilities which will provide reliable advanced telecommunications voice and will more than meet the Commission's benchmark of 25/3 Mbps for broadband service. RTC will offer a minimum of 100/100 Mbps service, with up to 1/1 Gbps service available. Service will be provided initially to the requesting customers in the acquired portion of the Sidney exchange, and RTC is committed to prudent investment to provide voice and broadband services anywhere within the expanded study area upon reasonable request.

2. Projected Universal Service Fund Cost Per Line

CenturyLink receives no CAF Phase I or II support in the areas acquired by RTC. The census blocks in the expanded RTC Alexander exchange are extremely high cost blocks that were not claimed in CAF Phase II Auction 903. See Exhibit C list of census blocks of the locations impacted by the requested waiver. As RTC will overbuild facilities and no CenturyLink network assets are being transferred, customers in the expanded area will be treated as new customers for purposes of CAF-ICC. It is anticipated that additional access and Access Recovery Charge revenue will result in reduced CAF-ICC support.

RTC will incur costs associated with the addition of the approximately 40 additional customers. To build out to these additional customers RTC estimates it will cost $336,250. They will be constructing fiber facilities to each of the locations out of the Alexander exchange. With this additional cost, we estimate that it will increase total USF by approximately $9,718 per year in additional funding.

C. Waiver of Section 69.3(e)(11) of the Commission's Rules is Warranted

RTC also requests waiver of Section 69.3(e)(11) in order to allow it to include the expanded Alexander exchange area access lines, revenues and investment in the National Exchange Carrier Association ("NECA") tariff process. The inclusion of the small number of additional access lines in the NECA carrier common line tariff would represent a minimal increase in NECA common line pool participation and would remove a significant burden in administrative costs to separately file an interstate ILEC tariff until the next annual access tariff filing effective following grant of the Petition.

IV. Conclusion

As demonstrated herein, "good cause" exists for grant of this waiver. The locations within the expanded RTC Alexander exchange areas are unserved to the extent that there is no broadband service available over CenturyLink facilities. The public interest will be served in the transfer of the identified portions of the CenturyLink Fairview and Sidney exchanges to RTC in order that reliable voice and robust broadband services may be available in 2019 to the six (6) requesting customers, as well as to the entirety of the expanded Alexander exchange going forward. Petitioners' requested modification of study area boundaries will not unduly burden the universal service fund. It will, however, provide for advanced telecommunications services in the expanded RTC Alexander exchange.
