Dear Commissioner Carr,

The City of Pleasanton has a long history of land and economic development that dates back to 1900 when the City was considered frontier territory. This legacy remains central to our deliberate efforts to grow our local economy and to create opportunities for the residents of our community. We are a small town that doesn't hesitate to embrace big ideas that will make Pleasanton the best place to live and work.

Communications infrastructure is a critical component to our ability to achieve and maintain growth here. That's why we appreciate the new infrastructure rules you authored that promote investment in next generation communications infrastructure in towns like Pleasanton. We know firsthand the benefits of communications infrastructure like small cells, which expand wireless network capacity. This technology helps to improve wireless experiences and more importantly, makes a small town like ours more competitive as a place to live, work and set up a business.

We know how important it is to not only address our community's communications needs today, but to plan ahead for tomorrow. Small cells are an important part of being ready for the future. With your leadership, we are confident other cities will have access to the communications infrastructure they'll need to grow their economies.

Sincerely,

Juan Huizar
City of Pleasanton
