There are so many very well written comments in support of Net Neutrality, and arguing against plans abandon the policy. I fear anything I write in support of Net Neutrality will pale in comparison, and be lost in the noise. Ironically, that is also my fear should Net Neutrality be abandoned; my ISP will certainly resume shaping traffic, and the non-mainstream Net content I prefer will once again be lost in the noise of the Netflix/Amazon/YouTube internet superhighway. Please don't drop Net Neutrality.
