

To whom it may concern:

An alternate option would be converting the internet into a public utility under the law and making sure every citizen has equal access to it.

Also please do your job and make sure large corporations do not abuse of their job and hurt small businesses. My dad is a small business owner, so my future lies in your hands. My siblings futures and his employees futures lie in your hands.

Before you make the wrong decision I implore you to take into consideration small businesses as well as the many people that may be affected by your decision.

Should the internet be open to be controlled by the rich and powerful?

Should the internet that has shaped my life be threatened?

The internet is this beautiful place where there are virtually no rules or limits to what you can do. Your background, race, color, financial capability, nor your gender determine what you can do on the internet. There are a million different options for the one thing you need. Denuetralizing the web will make the internet a monopoly and make your job harder. You will have to not only continue what you are currently doing but on top of that add monitoring internet service providers even more extensively.

I will not permit my tax payer dollars to go to oppress my own family.

Thanks,

Jose Torres
