Net neutrality is important as it allows people to freely access whatever sites they want. This is what makes the internet so great, as everyone has access to it! The internet should not be some pay-to-play scam, and quite frankly, internet companies dont need more money! Creating a paywall for internet companies to profit off of is sickening and its not like people already have to pay for modems and internet services at home and at work already. The internet is a tool everyone should have access to.
