

Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

May 8, 2017

Received & Inspected

MAY 15 2017

FCC Mail Room

To Whom It May Concern

I'm writing in support of maintaining Net Neutrality. Net Neutrality is fundamentally about freedom of speech. We need to ensure that we have a completely open and competitive landscape on the Internet. The Internet must continue to be a level playing field. It drives innovation and allows information to be freely shared without discrimination or censorship.

Without net neutrality, internet providers will be free to block content and thus limit our free speech. They would be able to divide the internet into slow lanes and fast lanes. This means that only those with enough money will be able to get their content to reach audiences. Net Neutrality is critical so that all Internet users have access to the same content, communities, entertainment, commerce, and more online. Essential communications networks deserve basic protections.

DOCKET FILE COPY ORIGINAL

Sincerely,

Jill Weckerly
San Diego, CA

Jill Weckerly
5001 Mansfield St.
San Diego, CA 92116-1939

DOCKET FILE COPY ORIGINAL