This is to express my opposition to the proposed FCC policy by which Internet bandwidth will be allocated on a preferential basis, such that some domains will be allocated more bandwidth while others are consigned to less.

Although, as I understand it, implementation of this policy is imminent, I earnestly hope that the FCC will reconsider, and decide not to implement the new policy.

Truly, as I hope will be discerned in time, the essential vitality of our American libertarian orientation and tradition - the very basis of any and all American greatness since the birth of this republic - is threatened by the imminent policy.

Again please reconsider. Please do not implement the new policy.

Regards,

(Robert S. Hummel)
