Dear FCC

My name is Robert R. Schmitz. I come from a small town named Kingman Arizona. In my town we use the internet greatly, my friends use it to gather information for classes like: Calculus, Physics, ~~DOCKET FILE COPY ORIGINAL~~ and history, and even philosophy. We need to gather information from the internet in order to do well in these classes and get good grades which leads to a better GPA, which then leads to us getting into better colleges. However if Net Neutrality is gone we will not be able to access this information because many of us will not be able to afford it if Net Neutrality is gone. This is only part of the problem though, if Net Neutrality is taken away then we will not be able to communicate with others over the internet and that is a very big problem, for almost every American it is the only way to communicate.

long distance. If Net Neutrality is gone then we will not be able to access precious information from around the world, this will greatly stop innovation both online and off which will make america one of the least progressive countries in the world. So please when the time comes keep Net Neutrality alive so that we may keep our freedom of speech and so that america can continue to be a country where innovation thrives.

Sincerely:
Robert Schmitz
