Re: In the Matter of Petition of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

I cancelled my AT&T because the quality of the signal was too low and cost too high, and customer service was nearly null. I searched for other home internet providers that could at least give me a consistent internet signal without breaking the bank. Thru my search for days and days, I found Sonic. I read the reviews, history of Sonic and was happy to find that they are home based in Northern California. What I wasn't too happy was that they (Sonic) are in the control of At&T, meaning Sonic couldn't do anything without AT&T's approval. I am happy to be still a Sonic customer and know that I have a choice or option to go with another company that offers the same service and competitive price.

I am a freelancer and therefore, need good to great and consistent internet service. If Sonic was not around, I would therefore look for other means (cell phone hotspot, wifi cafe) than to go back to At&T.

Competition is the forefront of future and usually better innovations.

Thank you for time and understanding,

Rhona Rubio
