

Vladimir Boshernitsan
1463 27th Avenue
San Francisco CA 94122

Aug 30th 2018

Via ECFS
Marlene H. Dortch, Secretary
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20554

Re: In the Matter of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

I am a resident of the Sunset district of San Francisco, living on 27th Avenue for 22 years. A few years ago, I left AT&T phone service due to constantly rising prices and expensive long distance and international calls. I bundled with SONIC. I have also switched my internet service from DSLextreme to SONIC due to rising prices for relatively low speed connection.

At these days I was using the copper line connection, but even though it was better than AT&T and DSLextreme.

After Sonic offered me 1 Gbt F/O connection for relatively small price increase my internet speed has bloomed. I was able to work from home twice a week instead of commuting to Hayward where I employed in HSQ Technology - small SCADA system integrator, branch of Railworks Corporation.

I cannot pay high price for 1 Gbt internet, like many companies, I completely rely on Sonic and their competitive low price. Sonic offering excellent customer service capable to reply on text messages in minutes. No one else can do it, so far.

I am getting offers from AT&T almost every week for switching connection to them. They are offering almost same price as Sonic, BUT good for the next 12 months. I already tried AT&T before. Their appetite to rob customers unlimited. The only competition can keep them leashed.

Please, let equal competition continue, don't destroy the Sonic Gigabit Service. There are many low-income customers rely on your decision.

Sincerely,
Vladimir Boshernitsan,
bosh@nitsan.org; (415)-517-3209 - cell, 415-566-6005 - home

Vladimir Boshernitsan