47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

California seems to be trying its hardest to re-regulate what your agency should have never repealed in the first place.

It's the American Dream, become one of the thousands who attempt to come up with the next "widget" and be able to dictate terms...instead of such derisive measures as Preferred Traffic, and one internet for the big guys, and one for the rest of the world.

I'm currently doing penetration testing and security implementation in my small business. The problem I have is that I only have two "real" choices; AT&T or Comcast. AT&T is ridiculously slow, or I can go with Comcast and put up with daily "maintenance" issues, and system outages - you can even go to their website to see the various problems and outages in their system.

Please, please, please give me some alternatives!
