

Edi Kramer
945 Marvin Gardens Way
Rocklin CA 95765

Aug 31st 2018

Via ECFS
Marlene H. Dortch, Secretary
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20554

Re: In the Matter of Petition of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

From what I have been reading, it seems like the bigger companies- you know, the ones who drown out the smaller competitors- are trying to kill their access to the Internet so they can be the only ones left to "rule" the access to internet and manage what you are searching, reading and sending. Isn't America built on small business providing options? Isn't the ability to compete the benefit of a strong business effort? I have avoided large companies because once I tried them, they- after a year- raised the prices and repeatedly failed in providing a stable access to the internet. I returned to a smaller competitor who could not, by the way, be beat in their pricing. I have been with a smaller business for over 17 years. I have had 1 price increase which is still lower than AT&T.

Causing price hikes will limit many families who cannot afford the constant price hikes or families with fixed income. It will make it only available for those who can afford this. This is NOT the competitive environment we need to offer choices.

This change will severely change my options which in life there is so much taken away now, can't you leave something that we can all rely on? A competitive internet provide market to keep prices low enough to afford.

Please rethink this change that the big companies are trying to squash the small businesses out.

I hope, at least for once someone will listen to a voice who needs this change NOT to happen.

Thank you.

Edi Kramer