Re: In the Matter of Petition of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

I am a resident of San Francisco and used several ISPs from AT&T to Comcast to Sonic.net. I have chose to stuck with Sonic.net because of their excellent customer service and outstanding internet service. I switched to Sonic in 2013 and never went back to a large ISP.

I strongly support this small business that appreciates their customers and does their best to do right to everyone. Competitive pricing policies in America allows these types of companies to exist and compete in a oligopoly market.

When I was a customer of AT&T, year-after-year, the price of my internet subscription would increase. Sonic.net has never engaged in this sort of price-gouging business practice. I was previously using AT&T's DSL services for a much greater price with lesser service quality than I am now with Sonic's fiber optics connection.

It would be incredibly unfortunate if the existing regulations that allow small ISPs all over the country to exist, compete, and thrive were to be removed because it would inevitably harm the already non-competitive landscape of internet service providers.

Thank you for your time.
