Re: In the Matter of Petition of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

Competition is good for consumers. Here in San Francisco, we have only a few players in the cable internet access business, AT&T & Comcast primarily, then there are a few smaller independent providers that don't really compete at the access speeds of the aforementioned, until Sonic.net came around. Because of the ability to compete, I and many SF residents now enjoy faster upload and download speeds with gigabit fiber, better pricing, AND better service. This is further proof that competition in the broadband and access realm ultimately benefits end consumers. I urge the FCC to keep the consumers at the forefront of their considerations, and keep our ability to have choices.
