Re: In the Matter of Petition of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

The choices in my antiquated apartment building are twisted-pair copper service with AT&T or Sonic, or Comcast cable.

I chose to switch from AT&T to Sonic to receive my DSL service.

Sonic gives me better internet speed, telephone service, customer service, privacy practices, and net neutrality stance, all for less money.

To be even more clear, I do have AT&T as my wireless service provider, and every time I have to call in with a problem, they inevitably try to sell me ISP service at the end of the call. When I tell the representative that I have Sonic, they also inevitably tell me that they can't compete with Sonic, and understand my choice.

So, leave well enough alone. I rely on twisted-pair copper service to my building and want to continue with Sonic for my needs.

Thank you.

Sincerely.
