Re: In the Matter of Petition of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

My name is Frederick Yan and I am an independent ISP consumer. I am writing in hopes that you will reject the USTelecom forbearance petition. I live in San Francisco and my family had ATT DSL for approximately 5 years. After the introductory pricing ended, we started paying a high monthly bill ($40-$50) with very slow speeds (1.5mbps). We wanted faster speeds so we started looking at other plans from ATT and Comcast, the plans werent bad but after the introductory pricing is over, the plans would be too expensive for our family. So we were stuck with ATT. Then one day, my coworker introduced me to Raw Bandwidth, an independent ISP company in San Francisco. I signed up and havent looked back since! The price is good, the speed is fast, the customer service is excellent. I am truly happy with the service I am getting from my independent ISP. This wouldnt have been possible without the existence of competitive providers. Please reject the USTelecom petition. Thank you for your time.
