OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY
FCC MAIL ROOM

Dear Sir or Madam:

I am writing to voice my opinion on the political advertisements showing aborted fetuses. I do not feel that these ads should be censored on the grounds of their offensiveness. In our twisted society, abortion has become known as a "safe surgical procedure," just like removing a cyst or any other unwanted blemish on our bodies. Unfortunately, these ads seem to be the only effective means of reminding people of the horrible reality of abortion and the brutal murder that it really is. The ads are no more offensive than the deed, and most people are in favor of murdering the innocent, so they should not be shocked to see what their beliefs and opinions bring about. You can't just close your eyes and make it go away.

Scenes of surgical procedures are shown almost daily on television. By censoring abortion ads, the FCC would be admitting that abortion is far more than a "safe surgical procedure," and doing so would definitely not be politically correct.

Sincerely,

Roger Brian Scherer
