Dear Sir:

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

I am writing to express my opinion about political candidates' right to present graphic pro-life pictures on television. I believe they should be able to continue to exercise this right. If people are wanting abortions to be legal, they should be willing to view the realities of it. I am strongly supportive of the pro-life cause, and I hope the political candidate will be allowed to continue this practice. I really believe that many "pro-choice" people do not really know what is at stake. An informed choice involves knowing exactly what you are doing. Maybe these graphic displays will open eyes.

Thank you,
Wendy Byrd

Dear Sirs:

I am writing to ask that the FCC not give more power to television station managers to restrict political advertising they deem unsuitable for children.

I am especially concerned that explicit anti-abortion ads would be targeted. This is censorship, pure and simple. It would result in the erosion of our free speech rights to protect the unborn.

Sincerely,

Jeannie Rhodes
