

Net Neutrality should be supported and protected, and defined as the utility it is. It is in the public interest to treat internet access as a utility to be regulated and protected as such. To ignore the public in this regard is criminal, and the product of collusion with a monopolized few corporations.