

I support Title II rules and would be very disappointed if already too powerful and inefficient companies had less incentive to innovate and improve.