

Oppose:

To allow broadband providers to control access to content at their own discretion is as American as Communism was during the Cold War. Ending Net Neutrality is something I'd expect from North Korea or China.

To offer that we would be restoring the internet to that of 20 years ago is insured and misleading. The internet is far from what it was 20 years ago.