

As a citizen, the Internet has not only provided me with community and employment, it is my primary way to interact with my governing officials and representatives. Even today, I tried to call and was unable to get through, so I must instead contact in writing. This platform for discussion, engagement, and community is too central to our society to allow it be upcharged and rate-limited. To remain competitive economically, it is in the United States' interest to not only preserve net neutrality but in fact ensure high speed, reliable free and open internet access to all of our citizens.

Please stand up for free speech on our era's most important "common ground." Please defend net neutrality and protect the open internet!

Thank you.
