

I disagree with the actions of Ajit Pai on the topic net neutrality and believe that its Title II classification should be maintained. The Internet is a free space that connects us all and is currently the center of world dialog which should continue to be treated as an open forum unmolested by people who if released from these regulations would use this power to create exclusion, and bias in the name of profit.