

Net neutrality needs to be preserved for the benefit of the American people. I know I don't even have to explain to you why it's in public interest, and that the reason this is even in question is because of the money you accept on behalf of the corporations to kill the current state of utility-style regulations. ISPs are willing to pay you so they can freely throttle and kill their competition.

Your goal to "End the utility-style regulatory approach that gives government control of the Internet and to restore the market-based policies" will clearly allow ISP's to deny accessibility to all websites fairly, effectively silencing anything that they don't agree with. All information should be accessible to everyone to be able to make their own informed opinions and decisions and by selectively removing what you want, you can (like you're trying to do now) misinform the public.

Your statement, Chairman, is grossly misrepresenting the purpose of net neutrality and misleading the public.

I SUPPORT Net Neutrality
