

I am writing to express my objections to Chairman Pai's attempts to roll back Net Neutrality.

A free and open internet is integral to our nation. It has helped small business grow, opened up access to information (and cat videos) to millions, and leveled the playing field to many regardless of their financial situation.

Rolling back Net Neutrality would limit the freedom of the internet by only showing what your ISP wants you to see and putting a paywall on others. Freedom of speech (and internet content) should not be controlled by the likes of Verizon and Comcast just like it should not be controlled by a single political or religious ideology.

Though voters are not typically swayed by a single issue, I can promise my husband and I will be watching the outcome of the December vote and will be very hesitant to re-elect anyone who votes to eliminate Net Neutrality.

Thank you for your time and happy holidays.
