

I oppose the action of the FCC to deregulate the Net Neutrality Act. I believe that the Internet is one of the most beautiful things our species has created and a firm mark on our path of evolution. It allows instant access to, ability for, all human knowledge, action, political motivation, inspiration, thoughts, ideas, and media. If Net Neutrality is 'gutted' then companies, not human reason, will become the gatekeepers of this amazing resource. Companies, by definition, crave only more business, profit, and growth and therefore the things that are opposed, either seemingly or in earnest, to a given company's aims will be prohibited directly or indirectly. This limits human freedom of choice, American Freedom of Speech, and everything the internet was made to employ.

I beg of you to hear me out. Keep the internet what it is. Allow us free communication to make the world a better place, to allow us to keep evolving.
