

I strongly encourage the FCC and the powers at be to decline the proposed changes and maintain the Net Neutrality previously established. The internet was primarily developed by the United States Government, and therefore should be maintained under the control of the United States Government. This should not be a choice given to companies.