

As a resident of New York City and a proud American, I write in support of the 2015 network neutrality rules and its legal footing (Title II of the Communications Act of 1934.) Supporting Federal Communications Commission (FCC) Chairman Ajit V. Pai's desire to end it would leave consumers, small businesses, artists, students, hospital patients, low-income families, startups and entrepreneurs unprotected and at the mercy of broadband providers. Do not cave into broadband Internet Service Providers as Verizon Communications, a business for which FCC Chairman Pai was employed with. The mere fact that he'd want to take an aim at repealing Title II "internet neutrality" strikes at a direct conflict of interest. This December 14th, 2017 please vote in supporting Title II - vote in support of Net Neutrality Rules!
