

The open sharing of information is critical to an informed democracy. No company or organization should have the power to filter or give preference to information posted on the Internet. To remove net neutrality would undermine our democratic values. I vehemently opposed removing net neutrality standards.

Sincerely,

Kirsten Moline