

As a Web Developer and server administrator, I can not think of a larger threat to internet consumers than the rolling back of the current broadband regulations. This proposal will do nothing but harm consumers, as well as innovators and developers, while not increasing broadband competition.

Like the VAST majority of those in the tech industry, I am firmly AGAINST this proposal.