

Marlene H Dortch
Federal Communications Commission
Office of the Secretary
445 12th Street, SW
Romm TW B204
WEashington

Hello,

I am writing to respectfully request that the FCC maintain a free and open internet. As a public health professional I know that many people rely heavily on access to health services and health insurance information via the internet. If the FCC were to restrict internet access, many people would lose access to their health information and health insurance information and this would have devastating impact on their health. I also know as a citizen that tax dollars paid for the development of the internet. All tax payers must be given free and independent access to all its contents.

Sincerely,

Peggy Rose

Protest selling the internet