

Let me first remind you of some of your stated goals quoted directly from your website:

“Promoting competition, innovation and investment in broadband services and facilities

- Supporting the nation's economy by ensuring an appropriate competitive framework for the unfolding of the communications revolution
- Encouraging the highest and best use of spectrum domestically and internationally
- Revising media regulations so that new technologies flourish alongside diversity and localism
- Providing leadership in strengthening the defense of the nation's communications infrastructure “

About Net Neutrality—to my way of thinking, revoking Net Neutrality is yet another attempt at muzzling the free flow of information. It is a threat to our First Amendment rights and needs to be stopped.

Corporations are focused, for the most part, on operating in such a way as to benefit their stockholders and their bottom line rather than the public.

By giving corporations the ability to choose what internet users are able to access and how fast they can access what is available to them, these corporations would be able to restrict the free flow of information and, of course, foster misinformation.

Restricting the free flow of information is a step along the way that is favored by dictatorships and oligarchs and has no place in our democratic society.

When you consider that Trump has already censored Government websites such as the National Parks, NOAA, EPA etc., it's safe to say that, if net neutrality is revoked, more censorship is on the way.

The Commission is under the oversight of Congress. Trump is not the boss of the FCC.

Revoking Net Neutrality would allow the violation of the free speech components of our constitutional protections. You must actively fight this affront to our freedoms.

The Federal Communication Commission is a consumer protection organization. If the Commission is truly doing its job, revoking Net Neutrality is not something it should be willing to entertain. It certainly does not fulfill your mission of providing the best possible communication systems for the public.

It is important that the FCC maintain net neutrality as one of the freedoms under this democracy. It is not the commissions job to restrict freedoms.
