To Commissioner Ajit Pai:

As a teacher, I am outraged at your transparent attempt to increase prices for internet access and limit content. Your actions are going to hurt students and other consumers. STOP lying and stop trying to turn the internet into one more corporate conglomerate that will tell people what they can access and when.

The internet is a utility and should be treated as such.

Show some intellect, and some interest in justice and equity, please. You are not fooling any of the smart people.
