

Comments on Net Neutrality

The Internet was started with Government funds and has been supported and expanded through Government action and funding as a public service that is open to all regardless of income. This must continue.

Throttling or high-speed lanes sold to specific providers will diminish competition and increase existing monopolies.

I stand in support of Net Neutrality.