

The free exchange of ideas is a principle of democracy in our country. The internet has become the new age platform for the exchange of these ideas and should be protected by the First Amendment. Monetizing the internet for corporate gain is not something that a government agency looking out for the interests of the people should allow to happen. Do not allow the privatization and corporation takeover of the main platform for free speech! We need ISPs to be regulated under Title II to make sure the internet remains neutral.
