

Please note my concern with the current net neutrality regulations being repealed.

I fear that without the rules, Internet providers could begin charging some websites or services an outrageous amount to their customers — regular Internet users, and we will ultimately bear the cost.

Please please please do not repeal them. As it is I can barely afford internet services.

Thank you.