

I believe it would be a breach of the First Amendment to limit the Internet by revoking the Net Neutrality Act, as proposed by the Commission Chair. The Internet needs to be treated as the Commons of the United States and its citizens, just like cell phones and telephony in general are already handled. The same as the Postal Service.

The current President has ALREADY THREATENED TO CENSOR THE INTERNET in his campaign speeches. I heard him many times. This is scary and unconstitutional, if any of that means anything to you commissioners anymore.

The free exchange of ideas around the world must not be filtered or made only available for 'certain customers'. We need to share this resource equally. That is how I expect you to rule. Thank you.
