
Amanda Linch

1668 Kempsville Rd.
Virginia Beach, VA 23464
757.648.5700

7th December 2017

To whom it may concern,
I am writing this letter to implore you to keep Net Neutrality.

The repeal of Net Neutrality would limit the human rights of freedom of expression and access to information, both of which are extremely important in today's society. The Internet allows people to network and chat with people all over the globe and allows small companies to grow bigger via social media platforms¹. Repealing Net Neutrality would allow internet providers to make people pay more money for faster internet and access to certain sites. This would split the internet into two tiers, the wealthy and big businesses and the smaller, less wealthy businesses who are trying to get started.

In conclusion, the Internet is extremely important for both small and big businesses and for people to be able to network throughout the globe as a part of our basic human rights, and a repeal of Net Neutrality threatens all of that.

Sincerely,

Amanda Linch

¹

“Defend Net Neutrality and Access to Information in US.” Human Rights Watch, 11 Aug. 2017, www.hrw.org/news/2017/08/10/defend-net-neutrality-and-access-information-us.

Engelhart, Ken. “Why Concerns About Net Neutrality Are Overblown.” The New York Times, The New York Times, 4 Dec. 2017, www.nytimes.com/2017/12/04/opinion/net-neutrality-overblown-concerns.html?module=ArrowsNav.

Press, Free. “Net Neutrality: What You Need to Know Now.” Free PreNet Neutrality: What You Need to Know . Accessed December 05, 2017.k